MILLBROOK MEN HAD VISIONS

Of Carrying Home Sea Lion Club Bags in Tankard Competition Held Here.

Two rinks of Peterborough Bowlers came on Thursday last for a friendly game here, and gave our chaps a trimming, yet it was not a bad one and a good game resulted. On Monday two of our rinks shipped, by J. Dawson and S. B. Eakins went to Peterborough to take in the Tankard competition, and we had visions of them returning with the trophy on their shoulders or at least with those Sea Lion club bags, well filled with the necessaries for celebration, but alas and alck, no such luck. But they had a splendid time, and the buttermilk touched the stop as well as could be expected—Millbrook Reporter.

LIFT LOCK WAS ILLUMINATED

Handsome Array of Nernst Lamps Above and Below It

The lift lock illumination last night was certainly a revelation to the hundreds of Peterborough people who made the weary climb of the hill across the river, and down the stony road on the other side. It was like a holiday night in its gala apperance, with the Bessie Butler and the Stoney Lake coming up the canal over the lift lock, and the 57th band discoursing the usual sweet music aboard the government yacht.

The party on board the Bessie Butler, organized by J. H. McClellan, superintendent of the canal, was composed of the prominent citizens of Peterborough. It left the Wolfe street wharf about half-past eight, and tied up at the foot of the lock while the Stoney Lake, loaded with a crowd of sightseers, went over the lock. The Bessie Butler then went over the lock, and made the return trip.

The illumination consists of five double lamp standards on each side of the canal, both above the below the lock. The Nernst lamps are very powerful, and provide a brilliant illumination. Other two lamp standards are placed at the sides of the lock. There are about fifty lights in all, and the lighting arrangement is certainly handsome. The current is supplied by the Peterborough Light and Power company. About five hundred or seven hundred people walked out to the lock to see the illumination and were rewarded by a most handsome spectacle.

INVERLEA BRIDGE GIVEN FINE TEST

Fifteen-ton Roller Went Across Twice Without Affecting it Unfavorably

For the purpose of demonstrating to the public, and to prove beyond the shadow of doubt, the solidity and substantial construction of the new Smith street bridge, the fifteen ton steam roller, under full steam, was rolled across the bridge yesterday afternoon and agin this morning. When the roller is under full steam it is equivalent to a pressure double its weight, and yet this mighty tonnage failed to leave the slightest unfavorable mark or effect on the structure. This demonstration should effectually silence and contradict any rumors of the non-safety of the bridge.

REGATTA WILL BE HELD ON MONDAY

Peterboro Craft Should Go up in Flotillas

The Juniper Island regatta being on Monday, it is probable that the usual large number of Peterborough people will spend the day at Stony Lake. It is usual for a large number of small craft to go up to Stony Lake for the regatta, and it is to be hoped that the trips will be made in flotillas, so as to save a great deal of work in locking the small boats through, as well as for the sake of cheerful company. The small boats are locked through at 8 o'clock and at 12 o'clock in the afternoon, and the small craft motor boats, etc., that will be taken to Stony Lake to-morrow should go in a bunch.

Remember that a little combination and co-operation in making the trip will be a great help to everyone. If the weather is nice, it is likely that there will be a good crowd at the regatta.

ACCUSED OF LIBEL

Editor of Vankleek "Review" Committed For Trial—Is Out On Bail

H. C. Jones, editor of the Vankleek Hill (Ontario) Review, has been committed for trial on a charge of publishing a criminal libel concerning Judge Albert Constantineau. Bail was granted in $500 personal and two sureties of $250 each.

The case arose out of comments made by Jones in the Review on a speech delivered by the judge.

BONNER-WORTH CO.'S PLANT COMMENCES MANUFACTURING

Building is Substantially Constructed and Splendidly Equipped—Work Will be in Full Swing in a Week—Up-to-date Machinery Installed—Will Employ Fifty Hands

A large majority of the citizens of Peterborough are unaware of the rapid progress which has taken place in the erection and completion of the splendidly planned and substantially constructed, up-to-date new building of the Bonner-Worth company on McDonnel street. A Review reporter, who visited the plant yesterday, was most courteously taken over the entire plant by the proprietor, and the working system of the new manufacturing establishment explained thoroughly.

The plant is partly in operation now, and is so rapidly and smoothly getting into shape that the expectations are that inside of a week everything will be in full swing.

SPLENDIDLY LOCATED.

The location of the building, away from other manufacturing sections, and with pleasant surroundings, and yet conveniently situated for business purposes, renders it an almost ideal place for a manufacturing site. The building itself is a two storey affair, with a basement, a total floor space 1,800 square feet is available. The basement is concrete floored and its dimensions are the full area of the building. The first floor is used as the drawing room and the upper floor as the spinning and twisting room. A boiler room at the rear of the building will be equipped with the most modern boilers. An Otis-Fensom elevator is being placed, capable of carrying 2,000 lbs. and also two C.G.E motors, giving 110 h.p. with an overload of 25 h.p., or 135 h.p.

GOOD FIRE PROTECTION.

The building is excellently equipped with incandescent lights and the most sanitary conditions possible, placed in convenient location for the employes. For fire protection, the immersed pail system has been adopted, a plan which is most generally approved of by the insurance companies. The city has also provided a two-way hydrant to the building.

The machinery equipment is rather complicated, and requires the services of skilled and trained operators. At present the machines in operation are in charge of help imported from Gotenburg, Sweden, many of them girls. The machinery is brand new and has been all brought from Bradford, England, representing the most modern production in machinery of its kind. The materials used is the very best that money can command.

The whole system of manufacturing is the process of drawing out the wool from the thick, oily condition in which it first enters the gill box, until it is brought to any fineness required. The wool is first fed into the first and second gill boxes, then into the rover, then on to the fourth, sixth and eighth spindles, and finally up to the spinning and twisting room, where there are 1,600 spindles with the necessary drawing and twisting machinery to bring them to the finest ply possible.

YARNS ARE IMPORTED

The product manufactured comprises worsted yarns made of pure wool, all of which is imported from Bradford England, and is composed of wools obtained in various parts of the world. The products when manufactured will be sold entirely to the knitted and woven goods manufacturerers of Canada. The daily capacity, when in full operation, will be about 1,500 per day, and to affect this about fifty hands will be employed.

The building operations were directed by Wm. Langford, the local contractor, and Alexander & Miller had the lighting contract.

ITALIAN WAS FINED HEAVILY FOR INTERFERING WITH POLICE

Razor Was Thrown at Officer While Making an Arrest—Fine of $33.30 Imposed—Prisoner Had Drank 23 Glasses of Lager.

"Tony" Rose, an Italian who figured in the Elm Street fight last Sunday night by obstucting P.C. Brown in arresting Frank Carneau, was fined $23.30 by Magistrate Dumble at police court this morning. A razor which was used by the prisoner during the fight and which P.C. Brown said was thrown at him, was produced in court. A fellow Italian in court produced the necessary money to give "Tony" his liberty, otherwise it would have been a three months sojourn on the hill for the Italian.

Constable Brown gave the story of his connection with the fight, having been summoned by phone to quell a disturbance on Elm Street. The razor went past him whilst making the arrest of Carneau.

BLOOD ON HIS FINGERS

Several witnesses of the fight gave evidence in court regarding the razor One little girl stated that it fell at her feet and she picked it up and gave it to another Italian. She saw blood on the fingers of Tony Rose, the man who owned the razor.

Through Mr. Thomas Minicolo, who interpreted, Tony Rose said he was drunk at the time, else he would not have tried to pull Carneau away from the constable. When he saw that he himself was going to be arrested, he suddenly remembered that he had a razor in his pocket, and he threw it away fearing it would go against him if it was found in his possession when searched at the police station.

His Worship felt that the possession of the razor by the prisoner, and its appearance at such a ticklish time as the fight, was strongly against him. The admittance alone that he interfered with the officer in making the arrest was sufficient to bring him under the penalty of the law for such offences, namely a $100 fine or three months in jail. He made the fine only $10.00 however with costs of $13.30 or $23.30 in all.

The prisoner admitted to Newhall that he had had 23 glasses of lager, the day of the fight

AID FOR VETS OF 1866 RAIDS

Resolution of Thanks To Mr. Middlebro for Efforts

At a representative meeting of the Veterans of 1866, held at the Armories on Tuesday evening, August 1st, it was unanimously carried that the thanks of the Veterans be tendered to Mr. Middleboro, and the other friends, for their kindly interest in trying to secure for them some recognition of their services to their country in the dark days of 1866, and hope that our friends in the House may continue to press upon the Government the justice of the prayer of our petition.

The men of 1866 gave up their employment and all they held dear, sacrificing their time willingly for their country, and now one by one, they are answering the last call, and we think it would be a graceful thing for the Government to do something, for the few that are left of the old guard of 1866.

TO THE ELECTORS

— OF —

EAST PETERBOROUGH

Fellow Electors:

At the Convention of the Liberal-Conservative party of East Peterborough, held in the village of Norwood on July 27th, 1911, my friends, unsolicited, again conferred on me the honor of again selecting me as a candidate for the House of Commons.

During the past three years you have had opportunities of judging of my fitness and worthiness for the position.

The arduous duties of a member of Parliament I have honestly and faithfully, and to the utmost of my ability, endeavored to fulfil.

Both in the House and out of the House I have been unceasing in my efforts to promote the best interests of that Riding which I had the honor to represent.

Many questions of vital importance have come before the House during the last Parliament, some of which have been of particular interest to the agricultural classes of the country.

Being a practical farmer myself and representing a riding mostly rural, I have studied and watched closely any legislation affecting agriculturists, believing as I do that anything that is of benefit to the farmers and laboring classes will work out to the great advancement of the country at large.

On the great subject now agitating the minds of the people over the whole Dominion, viz., that of reciprocal trade with the United States, you are acquainted with my views.

After months of laborious study on the subject — After a trip to the United States in order to satisfy myself as to farming conditions in that country, I here repeat that neither statistics nor actual conditions warrant me in thinking that the Canadian farmer will gain anything by such a pact.

On this subject I hope to have an opportunity of addressing you at a public meeting.

I now appeal to all my friends, and all those who desire honest administration of public affairs, and who are in sympathy with the Liberal-Conservative platform, to rally to my support and promote an active campaign in my behalf and thus for better government.

Thanking you for past support, I am,

Your Obedient Servant

BARACCAS AND C.G.E. PLAY IN ONTARIO FINALS TO-MORROW

At 2.15 p.m. at Riverside Park—Visitors Have Fast Aggregation—P. D. Fitzgerald to Referee.

The C.G.E. footballers have been practising faithfully for the coming game with the Barracas of Toronto, to-morrow in the Ontario finals. The Barracas have four men on their team who were on the winning team in Toronto which beat the Corinthians, the Old Country team which is touring Canada. The Toronto team was the first Canadian aggregation to defeat the fast Corinthians, and each of the players on the winning team received a medal for his performance.

The C.G.E. team has an enviable record for this season's work, and will give the visitors a battle royal when they meet to-morrow. They held their final practice on Wednesday night and are in the best of shape for the encounter.

P. D. Fitzgerald will handle the game and that is sufficient guarantee that it will be football all the way.

The Barracas are expected on the 11.26 C.P.R. train, and the game is called for 2.15 p.m. at Riverside Park.

The C.G.E. line-up will be as follows:—

Goal—Jones.
Backs—W. Hull, R. Evans.
Halves—Allen, Padgett, Hooper.
Forwards — Corless, W. Dawson, Miller, French, E. Dawson.
First Spare—Simmonite, of St. Johns

PETERBORO' RINK ENTERED FOR DOMINION TOURNEY

Record Entry List for Annual Tournament, Which Opens in Toronto Monday at 2 p.m.

The Peterborough Bowling club has entered a rink in the Dominion Lawn Bowling tournament which will be held on Monday next at 2 p.m. on the lawn of the Granite, Canada and Queen city clubs, Toronto.

All records for number of entries were smashed as 122 rinks are entered, which is twenty more than last year and also is the largest entry ever received for a lawn bowling tournament.

The local bowlers will be represented by Messrs. C. J. Seymour, C. H. Moore, J. H. Renwick and R. M. Waddell, (skip).

Mr. Waddell will also act as umpire on the Canada Club lawn.

The Peterboro rink is drawn against a St. Simons rink, skipped by Mr. F. H. Lightbourn, on the Canada Club lawn.

CUBS REGAIN FIRST PLACE

Leafs Left Yesterday on Last Eastern Trip — Open Four Game Series With Orioles To-day

Toronto, Aug 10—The Leafs left here to-night for Baltimore, where they play an important four-game series and incidentally start their last Eastern trip, the result of which will have an important bearing on the championship so far as the Kelleyites are concerned.

Chicago, Aug. 10—By defeating St. Louis to-day the Cubs boosted themselves into the lead again. The feature of the game was the number of pitchers who participated, three being used by each team.

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—The Dominion immigration branch was notified yesterday of the arrival of the members of the British Press Association at Rimouski. They will spend two months in Canada as guests of the Government and under the guidance of J. Obed Smith, assistant superintendent of immigration for Canada in London. All the provinces will be visited. They will be in the Maritime Provinces until the 19th, Quebec until the 22nd, Ottawa the 23rd and 24th, and thence go to Toronto and Western Ontario, being due in Winnipeg September 3rd. A month will be spent in the West and they will sail from Quebec on October 7th.

A BAD BARGAIN

Reciprocity Would Deal a Heavy Blow to the Cheese Industry of the Dominion.

Trade in Canadian cheese, even to a greater extent than in butter, is dependent upon the great export demand from Britain. Canada ships more cheese into the British market than any other country in the world, and it is because of that great output that prices remain so high and firm in the dairying districts of our eastern provinces.

The advocates of Reciprocity with the United States would turn from the splendid British market and send our cheese across the border to New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, and other large American centres. They argue that prices are higher in the United States than in Canada, and that Canadian cheese makers will be able to hold their present enviable position on the British markets and supply the States too.

Canada, in the year ending 1909, shipped 176,408,960 pounds of cheese, worth $22,106,108, to Great Britain. The average value per pound was 12-53/100 cents. But, had Canada received for her cheese an average price equal to that received by the cheese-makers of the United States for their exports to Great Britain, she would have realized a total return of only $21,753,118, or a loss of $352,990.

How, then, can Canada benefit in the matter of prices by adopting the Reciprocity Agreement with the United States?

The following statement of cheese imports into Great Britain in 1909 is sufficient to show Canada's excellent position in the motherland:

Belgium	$ 981,129
France	790,152
Netherlands	3,265,426
United States	636,443
Other Foreign Countries	30,504
New Zealand	5,420,075
Canada	22,106,108
Other British Possessions	8,828
	$33,238,665

What is still more important than prices, is Canada's reputation for quality in the cheese markets of Britain. The above statement is conclusive evidence of the reputable standing of Canadian cheese. Free trade with the United States in this article would undoubtedly tend to lower the standard of our cheese abroad. The retrogression would result in two ways.

First, cheese from the United States and also from France and New Zealand would mingle freely with the home-made article on the Canadian market, and dealers would be only too liable to ship foreign cheese to Britain as Canadian cheese. Thus, Canada's reputation would be imperilled. Under the present protective tariff no such injury could be worked against the dairy industry.

Secondly, Canadian cheese would be imported largely by United States dealers and exported by them to the Old Country as American cheese. Slowly but surely Canada's position would be stolen by her astute neighbor.

One would be safe in saying that very little of the Canadian cheese imported by the States would be consumed in the United States. The dealers across the line would use our cheese to help their own export trade, and for nothing else. It is well-known that the American market for home consumption, demands a soft variety of cheese, that is not made in Canada. From 100 pounds of milk the cheese maker in the States makes about 11 pounds of cheese, whereas in Canada, only 9 pounds of cheese are produced from 100 pounds of milk. In other words, the American cheese contains about 42 per cent of water, while there is only 36 per cent in the Canadian, harder product. Thus, it may be seen that the United States dealer would have no other use for Canadian cheese than to export it.

The unfairness to Canada, of the entire proposition is still more manifest when the positions of France and New Zealand are considered. As stated above, France and New Zealand would have free access to the Canadian cheese market in the same way as the United States. This would be so owing to the provision in the Reciprocity Agreement that all tariff advantages granted to the United States by Canada must also be granted to all British possessions, and to France with regard to certain articles (including cheese) covered by the French Treaty.

As has been shown in the statement above, New Zealand is the second largest exporter of cheese to the British markets, and it is well known that dairying is the New Zealander's chief industry. France is also famous for her dainty makes of cheese, such as Rocquefort. These two countries, while not yet as celebrated exporters of cheese as Canada, are very large producers, and under Reciprocity they would remain protected against Canada, as against the open market tendered to them by this country. Canadian cheese would still be subject to the following duties in France and New Zealand:

France.

Hard Cheese	220 lbs.	$2.31½
Soft (ripened)	200 "	3.66
Semi-hard & other	200 "	2.89½

New Zealand . . . 20 p.c. ad valorem

In view of the facts, what would be the results if Canada decides to change her present fiscal policy?

(1) The theft of Canada's export trade by the United States.

(2) The unfair competition of foreign makes of cheese on Canada's own home market, and the degradation of the Canadian cheese industry through the intrusion of the inferior products of other countries.

(3) The very great loss of Canada's supreme position on the British market would result through the lowering of the standard of Canadian cheese, and with the fall would come a decided recession in prices. The steady, firm market, which prevails in Canada to-day would be made weak and unstable.

FEAR OF DEATH

A Well-Known Magistrate Doubts its Deterrent Effect on the Criminal

The well-known magistrate, Mr. Plowden, contributes an interesting study in criminal psychology to the discussion on the death penalty which has been carried on for the past fortnight in the columns of the "Times." Incidentally Mr. Plowden pleads for a saner judgment of the character and motives of the murderer. He says:—

It is a popular fallacy to regard a murderer as the worst of criminals. The real truth is that in many cases it is hardly fair to describe him as a criminal at all.

No one who has not been through the fire can tell what may be the effect on his self-control of a long course of studied insults and provocation on the part of a worthless wife against her husband persevered in day by day, for months and even years at a stretch.

Sir Henry Smith, in his virtuous indignation with Crippen, makes no allowance for desperate circumstances like these.

He is angry with Crippen on account of his coolness in the witness-box, which he calls an outrage, and he apparently regards it as a distinct aggravation of his conduct that he should have sworn to love and cherish at the altar the wife whom he subsequently put to death.

It is somewhat amazing to me that considerations such as these should weigh for a moment in any just appreciation of Crippen's character. They were to me absolutely irrelevant.

What Crippen actually did, and for which he suffered death, was to kill a wife whom he hated for the sake of a woman whom he loved. Probably of all the murders that are committed under the sun, in one country or another, there is no more common type of murder than this.

It was the irony of Crippen's fate that he did not meet No. 2 until after he had met No. 1. Had such been his good fortune he would probably have lived a life not better nor worse than his neighbors, and have enjoyed with the best of them the reputation of a contented, law-abiding citizen. I am convinced, from such experience as I have had of criminal courts, extending over many years, that what a man murderously inclined really dreads is not death, but pain.

The spectre of death, though it can always be conjured up, is too remote and shadowy to have much effect on the nerves of a man in the enjoyment of full and vigorous health. Not so with pain. There is no imagination so dull that it cannot take in the terrors of the "cat"; and I believe if such punishment could be made part of the sentence, even without abolishing capital punishment, the deterrent effect would be unmistakable.

I think even Crippen's courage, wonderful as it was, would have quailed on that dark and wintry morning, had he known that he would have to endure a flogging before he was hung.

And had he been asked which he feared most—the physical pain of the lash or the death to follow—can any one doubt what his answer would have been?

KAISER AS A DOCTOR

Many of His Subjects Desire to Consult Him

It was recently stated by "The London Globe" that the Kaiser had received the degree of M.D. "honoris causa" from the University of Prague. In Germany, we are told by a Paris paper, people take things in earnest but the writer, who does not add that his confreres frequently draw upon their imagination, proceeds to relate an amusing incident relative to the Kaiser's honor. The other morning the Kaiser was inspecting one of his many regiments of which he is colonel in-chief. One soldier fell out of the ranks, approached his Majesty, saluted, went back to his place, and put out his tongue. "What has he to say?" demanded the Emperor. "The man is wanting in respect." "No, sire," replied the soldier, "I am unwell, and respectfully ask your Majesty to prescribe for me. The fame of the new doctor of Prague University, who, by the irony of events, had to sign his name in the album immediately after that of the great—in every sense—opponent of Bismarchian policy, Virchow, has spread beyond the army. Outside the Palace at Potsdam, as soon as it was known that the Kaiser had become a doctor, crowds of the maimed, the halt, and the blind lined up, reminding one of the scenes outside a dispensary. Some even offered to pay a fee for the Kaiser's diagnosis. The Emperor was not only embarrassed, but annoyed, so he ordered the following notice to be put up: "The doctorate in medicine conferred upon the Kaiser is simply an honorary distinction, so his Majesty does not undertake the care of the sick either gratuitously or otherwise."

IRISH MIGRATION

A Parliamentary return of the migration of Irish agricultural laborers states that it is estimated that approximately 20,500 laborers went for temporary employment to England and Scotland in 1909. The estimated number in 1908 was 22,500, and that figure showed a decrease compared with the years immediately preceding. Of the total of 20,500, at least 500 or 600 were women.

ROYAL NICKNAMES IN MANY VARIETIES

Pet Appellations of Those Who Move in Regal Circles in England and Elsewhere.

Royal personages, like folk in less exalted ranks of life, often possess a pet name or nickname, though a Royalty is seldom called by such a name except by members of the Royal Family, and rarely even by his or her most intimate friends who are not of Royal rank.

King George has not had a pet name for very many years. When quite a little boy he was styled "Archer," from his great liking for playing with bows and arrows. The name was dropped when his Majesty was about twelve. He was called "Georgie" until he was about sixteen; but since he has always been called "George" by members of the Royal Family.

The Prince of Wales, when quite a little boy, was known as Eddy among the Royal Family, and Eddy he might still have been called but for Queen Alexandra, who greatly disliked this particular contraction of Edward, and it was chiefly owing to her Majesty's influence that the pet name was dropped.

Prince "Marcus."

The Prince is now sometimes called "David" by his brothers and sister, but is usually styled "Edward" by his older relatives. Arthur of Connaught has been called "Marcus" for many years by his relatives. In this connection a rather amusing incident may be related, which occurred some years ago when Prince Arthur went to Japan to convey the Insignia of the Order of the Garter to the Mikado on behalf of the late King.

One of the officials of the Japanese Court, whose duty it was to enter the names of the visitors from the English Court in the roll of the Royal visitors, heard the Prince called "Marcus" by a member of his suite, and, much to the Prince's amusement, his name was entered in the roll-book as "His Royal Highness Prince Arthur Marcus of Connaught."

Queen Alexandra has always been known as "Alix" by members of the Royal Family, and among her Majesty's most treasured possessions is a photograph of the late King, given her shortly after her engagement, on which is written "To Alix from Edward."

Miss Charlotte Knollys, in private life, has for many years called Queen Alexandra "Alix," and is the only person outside of Royal rank who has been privileged to do so.

The nurses who have the care of the little Princes and Princesses of English Royal Family are never allowed to call their charges by any pet name other than that of "Baby."

"Jack"—King of Spain.

From the age of three years a Royal Prince is styled "Sir," and a Princess "Madam," by their nurses and this rule was in the case of the Queen of Norway, who was known in the days of her infancy as "Harry," and the pet name has always stuck to her, for her Majesty is still called "Harry" by her relatives.

The King of Spain is one of the very few foreign Royalties who has a nickname, and he is never styled by it except in this country, where it was given him. Among the younger members of the Royal Family, and by a very few intimate friends, the King of Spain has been known as "Jack" for some years past.

It is a grave offence against the etiquette of the German or Russian Courts to call any member of the reigning Royal Family by any pet name, and it is not done even by Royalties themselves.

RECIPROCITY SIXTY YEARS AGO

Why Lord Elgin's Treaty was Made and Why it Came to an End.

Ever since the American Republic was founded, the Canadian provinces have had a standing invitation to amalgamate their fortunes with their neighbours to the South. The articles of Confederation of 1777 expressed this invitation in formal terms; and since that day, although the suggestion has never been officially reiterated by any American Government, the path has always been left open for the Canadian provinces to become States of the American Union. The history of these provinces, in their attitude towards the Republic, shows periods of alternating attraction and repulsion. The American Revolution of 1776 found Canada (at that time almost entirely French and guided by the landowning gentry and the clergy) strongly averse from union. The same temper was shown again during the second war with England in 1812. But in the troubled days of error and adversity that preceeded the rebellion of Papineau and Mackensie in 1837, the very existence of the separate British communities appeared doubtful and uncertain. The poverty of Canada stood in contrast at once with the rising prosperity of the new nation to the South, and with the immense resources of its own unbroken hinterland. The Canadian settlers seemed to be starving in the midst of plenty; and the will-o-the-wisp of Republican liberty shed a false but alluring light before the eys of a depressed and discontented people.

The union of the Canadas in 1840 and even the institution of responsible government did not entirely alter the prospect or remove the grievance. In the abrogation of the British preference in 1846 the troubles of Canada seemed to reach their climax and to render a separate economic existence no longer either possible or desirable. It is perhaps hardly to be wondered at that in those days the idea of annexation to the United States was welcomed by many people in Canada as the proper means of achieving commercial union and the prosperity which it would bring. The annexation petition signed in 1849 by hundreds of leading citizens in Montreal is evidence of the close connection between matters of trade and the development of political institutions.

It was in order to counteract these political tendencies by applying an economic palliative that the first steps were taken towards initiating closer trade relations between Canada and the United States. The Reciprocity Treaty of 1854, negotiated by Lord Elgin, was the direct result of hard times and of the commercial necessities of a community made to stand by itself. The relation of this treaty to the present movement should be carefully explained. Reciprocity was advocated in 1854, not as leading towards annexation, but as the only means of salvation against it. Lord Elgin's arrangement was adopted by means of an executive treaty which was afterwards ratified by the legislature of the two countries. Its schedules referred only to natural products, which were henceforth to move free of duty in either direction across the frontier; and it contained no express reference (whatever may have been the expectations of either nations as to its future development) to articles in manufactured form. It was concerned, moreover, with other matters besides trade.

Nor can we draw any sound inference as to the probable economic results of hte present Reciprocity arrangement from the history of the treaty of 1854. The adoption of that measure was followed indeed by notable increase of trade between the United States and the Britisn provinces. In the year 1854 the imports from the latter into the United States were valued at $8,784,412, and the imports into British North America from the United States at $26,115,132. In the first year of the operation of the treaty these imports had increased respectively to $15,118,289 and $34,362,188. From that time until the expiration of the arrangement in 1866 there was a very great and almost continuous increase of mutual trade. It has, moreover, been a subject of frequent comment that the balance of trade, which until about 1860 had stood strongly in favour of the United Stats, was gradually deflected until, in the last three years of the operation of the treaty, it was in favour of the Canadian provinces. But the circumstances of the case were such that we can draw from these figures no definite conclusion as to the probabilities of the present situation. Even before the advent of the treaty, trade between the two countries had been steadily growing; and after the expiration of the treaty, it rapidly recovered from the shock. In 1873 the value of Canadian imports from the United States amounted to $45,193,042, a figure never reached before.

Th operation of the treaty was complicated and its economic bearing radically disturbed by the outbreak of the American Civil War, which naturally created an enormous demand for the products of Canada to supply the gap occasioned by the diminishing production of the United States. The treaty had been drawn for a period of ten years (1855-1865) after which its might be terminated on a year's notice from either party. The termination of the treaty, when it came, was due less to economic than to political reasons. Both sides were dissatisfied with the details of its operation; but the main reason was found in the international ill-feeling engendered by the Civil War, in as much as the people of the Northern States considered that Canada had been made the basis of sympathetic support and of active intrigue in favour of the Southern Confederacy.

A woman may have a past, but she usually denies a few years of it.

HOMELY WISDOM

Pull together, said Abraham Lincoln, or Upset the Boat.

A recent biographer of Abraham Lincoln has some interesting things to say of "Honest Old Abe's" views on the dependence of the different classes on socity on one another. "The farmer and the manufacturer" the president once said, with his characteristic shrewdness, "are both in the same boat and I reckon they've got to learn to navigate the craft together or they'll upset." "He compared the case of a Pennsylvania farmer", continues the historian in question, "and a Pennsylvania iron implement maker whose properties adjoined. Under a protective policy the farmer supplied the ironmaker with bread, meat, vegetables, fruit, fodder for horses, etc., and the ironmaker supplied the farmer with all the iron, iron implements, etc., which he needed. Assuming that a change is made and the Protective policy abandoned, the farmer then discovers that he can buy his iron implements cheaper from Europe than from his neighbor, assuming that he sells a sufficient quantity of flour in Europe to enable him to effect the purchase of the iron. He ultimately discovers that the cost of carriage to the coast, transportation by sea to England, insurance and cartage on arrival, does not enable him to receive such a good reward for his labor as he formerly did when selling his flour to his neighbor, the ironmaker. He, therefore, determines to sell his flour as before to his neighbor. But meantime the farmer discovers that while he has been purchasing his iron implements from Europe his neighbor, the ironmaker, has been compelled to stop his works and dismiss his employees, not having sufficient work for them. The farmer, therefore, now finds that he has more wheat than he knows what to do with, also, that he is no longer able to sell his fruit, vegetables fodder meat, horses, etc., to his neighbor, the ironmaker, as he has gone out of business. In fact, he finds that through buying abroad in the cheapest market he has destroyed the home market for his own products and thrown a number of his fellow-countrymen out of employment."

NEED OF THE HOUR.

Major George Washington Stephens Talks on Canadian Transportation

Not long ago Major Stephens, the President of the Harbor Commissioners of Montreal, delivered a masterly address before the Empire Club of Toronto on the development of the St. Lawrence route. "In the possession of this great national asset, the St. Lawrence waterway," said Mr. Stephens, "into which has gone the genius, the courage and the money of the Canadian people, Canada unquestionably has within her midst the cheapest and most efficient national trade route on the Continent.

"The St. Lawrence River to-day carries to and from the port of Montreal one-third of the country's national trade.

"In this enterprise there are just 6,000,000 Canadian shareholders, all equally interested.

"At her present rate of increase Cdnada will, during the twentieth century, contribute to the Empire a population exceeding that now occupying the British Isles, and will produce from one-quarter of her available areas in the West more wheat than now comprises the total wheat crop of the United States.

"There are two methods of providing for the handling of this new business, not to mention the concurrent industrial production of the country. First, by increasing transportation and terminal facilities on Canadian soil; second, by allowing business to be taken care of by transportation routes and sea terminals not within the limits of this Dominion.

"I like to regard this system extending from Fort William to the sea, a distance of 2,500 miles, as a great national undertaking, into which are going the money, the genius and the patriotism of the Canadian people, and out of which are coming year by year privileges and powers to the transportation interests of Canada, instead of diversity of control and authority."

FINE THING FOR GLOUCESTER

But Where Do the Nova Scotia Towns Come In?

General William Stopford, of Beverly, Mass, who has been all his life in the fish business, has recently been telling the Boston Herald about the consequences that will follow from the possible adoption of Reciprocity in fish. His arguments were considered worthy of being reproduced and printed in the report of the hearings before the Committee of Ways and Means of the House of Representatives. They were certainly excellent arguments,—from the point of view of our neighbors.

"With free fish," said the General, "Gloucester has a chance to boom its business as a distributing point, and to make it the biggest salt-fish port in the country, if not in the world. It will mean that firms who engage in business in that city can secure the green fish, cured, handled, and put into shape for distribution. It will mean that more firms will engage in business there; and instead of a few combinations, the city will have many independent firms. Since 1882 the fleet from Gloucester has gradually dwindled, until to-day it is not more than a third as large as during the years of free trade. There will be no Gloucester firms going to Nova Scotia to do business. The business will come to Gloucester; and Gloucester is in a position to take advantage of it."

The General's patriotic words deserve a little circulation in Canada, too.

Robert Saunders, teamster, of Hamilton was thrown from a loaded lorry and run over, both legs being broken.

A PRACTICAL EXAMPLE

Example of the Effect of Competition with Australia.

On March 18th last, 750 carcasse of frozen lamb from Australia were landed at St. John, N. B. 250 carcasses were sent to the William Davies Co., Limited, Toronto. The greater part of the remainder were shipped to Montreal. This lamb was purchased at nine cents per pound delivered in bond at Toronto.

Under existing conditions the duty was three cents per pound. This made the lamb cost twelve cents per pound laid down in Toronto.

Fresh dressed lambs were selling in Toronto at that time at 12 1-2c. to 13c. per pound.

Hence, after paying this duty there was not much difference between the prices of the Australian and Canadian lamb.

The duty protected the Canadian farmer against the Australian product.

But under Reciprocity the duty on this frozen lamb will be only 1 1-4c per pound, so that similar shipments could be laid down in Toronto at 10 1-4c. per pound, two or three cents per pound chaper than the price for the home raised products.

Referring to the lambs which were sent to Montreal. When they reached Montreal Canadian lamb was selling at 10 1-2c. The Australian lambs were sold at 9 1-2c. delivered ex car Montreal duty paid, the owners apparently being contented to undersell the Canadian market by one cent per pound.

Now, if you wish to see the effect upon the live stock market of the receipt of this Australian lamb in Montreal, turn up the Montreal papers of March 20th, in one of which, for example, the headline was "Sheep Sold Lower in Local Markets."

If, with the three cent duty on every pound, frozen lamb can be profitably imported from Australia, it seems almost conclusive that reducing the duty will also reduce the price of Canadian lamb accordingly.

And not only does Australia export frozen meat, but it exports butter as well. It exports annually between fifty and seventy-five million pounds of butter.

Australian butter can be laid down now in bond at Montreal at 23c. per pound. A duty of four cents per pound keeps it out of competition with the Eastern Townships butter now selling at 26c. per pound.

Under Reciprocity, which would do away with the duty of four cents per pound, the Eastern Townships butter would have to compete during the winter months with Australian butter which cost only 23c. per pound in Montreal.

THE VANISHING FORESTS Timber Resources of the United States Showing Signs of Exhaustion.

Commissioners and commissions have been appointed in various parts of the United States to make reports on what should and could be done to stem the destruction and prepare for the restoration of timber supplies but wherever actually a response to the recommendations was secured the means employed were too feeble to prevent the former and too inefficient to secure adequate results in the latter direction. For instance the latest State to move in the matter of taking care of its important timber interest, Alabama (whose annual lumber output is valued at $5,000,000), appropriates $500 for carrying out the provisions of the act providing a commission with various duties. The great State of Minnesota whose forest products in one year approach in value $45,000,000, devotes less than $12,000 to its forest interests, and $20,000 on prairie planting. The State of Maine, which still cuts around one billion feet, and is indebted to the forest for a product of $18,000,000 in value, keeps within the modest sum of $25,000 to pay for the protection against fire and the support of a commissioner. Examples of such picayune and inadequate measures are found in many other States.

The only two States which have not hesitated to spend money for forestry purposes are New York and Pennsylvania. The former, in purchasing forest lands for a preserve, which now comprises about one and a half million acres only, has expended millions of dollars, and is annually appropriating money for further purchase, besides liberal provision for its Forest, Fish and Game Commission. But, alas! the policy of forest reservation which had begun on economic grounds, has degenerated into providing a pleasure ground—a park—for the wealthy, and there is little consideration to economic forest questions given by the State or the Commission.

Pennsylvania is the only State which can be said to have started on a true policy of recuperation, buying up waste lands, protecting them, and in a small way beginning to reforest them, an appropriation of about $500,000 being at the disposal of the Forest Commission.

Rossini's Reception of Wagner.

Wagner and some companions called upon Rossini. Hearing them on the stairs, Rossini hastily placed the score of "Lohengrin" on the piano, and when the German composer entered he said, pointing to it, "You see, illustrious maestro, I am studying your work."

"But the score is upside down!" exclaimed the other, seeing how the book was placed.

"Yes," returned Rossini calmly; "the fact is I have had it the right way up for some time, but could make nothing of it," and then all present began to laugh, including Wagner himself.

All of the ten thousand harvesters who have so far arrived at Winnipeg have been placed in positions.

TWO ALLEGED HORSE-THIEVES CAUGHT HERE

Owners of Stolen Property Recognized Outfits on Their Arrival Here

The local police were successful in rounding up here yesterday two alleged horse thieves, one of whom is thought to have committed a theft in Campbellford and the other in Lindsay.

The Campbellford man, whose name is Wm. Kinburgher, alias Bassil, alias Jacob, is said to have stolen a horse and rig out of a shed in Campbellford and driven to Peterborough. He was arrested here in the afternoon on information furnished to the authorities. The Lindsay theft is reported to have been committed by a man named Albert Harrod, who represented himself to be a chauffeur. He said his home was in Ottawa. Chief Thompson received a wire from Chief Chilton, of Lindsay, regarding the theft.

Chief Linn of Campbellford, and Chief Chilton, of Lindsay, accompanied by the owners of the stolen outfits, came to the city and identified the stolen property, and took the alleged thieves back for trial.

The visit of the King and Queen to India for the Durbar will cost over $600,000.

Havelock Youth Broke in Shoe Store—Admitted Theft and Remanded for Sentence

Lyman Reid, of town, is in the county jail at Peterborough as a result of breaking into Mr. Edw. Fernell's boot and shoe store on Wednesday morning of last week, and stealing $26 in cash and cheques to the value of about $30. Reid obtained an entrance to the store by removing the putty from a pane of glass in the rear of the store. After abstracting the money and cheques he purchased some clothing and then walked to Norwood, where Chief Bennett located him in the afternoon and arrested him near the C.P.R. station. When Reid saw he was going to be caught he threw away the wad and cheques, which were recovered later, however, by the constable. He admitted the theft when arrested and was taken to Peterborough, where he was remanded for a week by Magistrate Edmison. The unfortunate youth is under suspended sentence now for past offences, and is said to be incorrigible, his parents having done everything in their power to turn him away from his evil habits.—Havelock Standard.

NOT IN TIME FOR LIFT LOCK

It was planned that the steamer Otonabee should take part in last last night's celebration at the opening of the electric light service at the Lift Lock, but the steamer carrying the large excursion of All Saints' church, ran to Gore's Landing where supper was had. While this met the wishes of the excursionists it delayed the arrival home and those on board did not participate in the event, although it was expected that the steamer might arrive in time.

To-day the Otonabee has taken out a large excursion from Havelock and to-morrow, Saturday, carries the Piccolo Band, of Downer's Corners, and friends on their annual trip. The sail down the river is at its best just now and it affords a very agreeable and inexpensive outing.

LEAVES $600,000 TO NOVA SCOTIA

Poor People to Get Benefit of a Fortune

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 10.—The will of the late James Cosman of Meteghan, Digby, N.S., leaves an estate estimated at $600,000. After making a number of small bequests he bequeathes all his property to three trustees to be appointed by the Archbishop of Halifax, to be sold and invested in securities, but directs that no government bonds shall be bought where the funds may be used by such government for wars of conquest. When these annuties shall cease, through death or otherwise, the accumulated funds of the estate shall be divided into two equal parts, one of which shall be handed over to three trustees to be appointed by the Bishop of Rapahoe, Ireland. The remaining half shall be kept invested in Nova Scotia, and be used by the Nova Scotia trustees for the benefit of the poor of Nova Scotia as the trustees deem best. The other half of the income shall be invested in trust securities, and allowed to accumulate for one hundred years, or longer, if necessary, to provide an amount to establish hospitals or homes in Nova Scotia for the needy, where they may end their days in comfort. The county of Digby shall first be provided for.

Coronation Scouts Return.

London, Aug. 11.—The coronation detachment of Canadian boy scouts is returning by the Royal George, and sent the following wireless message:

"Canadian scouts, homeward bound, send heartiest thanks for kindness extended us. We had a glorious time, and assembled on deck have just given three cheers for the King, Queen and Royal Family; also for chief scout, Capt. Grenfell."

Flour Prices Go Up.

Winnipeg, Aug. 11.—All prominent milling companies have raised the price of flour 10 cents per sack of 100 pounds, and 20 cents a barrel of 196 pounds. The new price went into effect Wednesday at noon, but all of Wednesday's billings were made at the old rate. The increase is due to the rise in the price of wheat, October option being particularly responsible.

Drowned In the Congo.

Brussels, Aug. 11.—Advices received from the Congo Free State, say that two Americans, Messrs. Delforge and Black, managers of the American Boma Co., were accidentally drowned while traveling on the River Boch off Lisps. Their bodies were not recovered.

Man Thrown Overboard.

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 11.—Capt. E. McMullen of the British tug Bermuda, which arrived here yesterday from Texada Island, reported that at six o'clock Tuesday evening, in the vicinity of Active Pass, in the Straits of Juan de Fuca, there was a man thrown overboard from a tramp steamer flying a foreign flag, which was passing out to sea from Victoria or Vancouver.

"I was looking at the vessel through the binoculars," said Capt. McMullen, "when I observed a commotion on the forward deck, and from the struggling mass of sailors a man was seen hoisted over the bulwarks, with a rope around his neck. He was lowered to within a few feet of the water, and then the rope broke or was cut."

The Canadian authorities have been notified.

Borden Stands for British Connection; Canadian Fiscal Independence; No Dictation from Washington; Preservation of Canada's Natural Resources for Canadians; Clean Government, in the Interests of Farmer and Workingman. Let Borden have his turn.

WHERE THE WORKER COMES IN

Where does the workingman come in? In what way does he stand to lose by the reciprocity pact? The farmer has been told, and is being told, with much emphasis that the American market does not mean higher prices to him, but that the invasion of the Canadian market by the Americans may prove injurious to the prices he can get. If the prices are lower here with reciprocity, it does not look at first sight as if the workingman would object. The cost of living is high enough for the man on a small wage, and becoming increasingly burdensome on him. The raising of a family these days is an expensive affair, and housewife knows only too well what making ends meet on the same old income means.

Stating the case thus fairly and squarely, why should the workingman oppose reciprocity? They are all opposed, or nearly so; but why? The workingman knows, whether he has been told to the contrary or not, that the government which starts in on a program of even partial free trade, is sapping at the roots of the industrial prosperity of the Dominion. In Peterborough we have a fine sample of this in the Cordage works. The Cordage works started out to manufacture binder twine, but binder twine was put on the free list, and the Plymouth mills got control of the market, and practically shut up this branch of what looked under the old days to be a promising industry. The Cordage works was also manufacturing rope, and this enabled it to hang on for two or three years before finally submitting to the inevitable.

It has been shown that the Canadian industry cannot stand up in straight competition with the big American industries, with a bigger capitalisation, more resources, more specialising, and entrenched against Canadian invasion by the American antipathy to buying Canadian made goods.

Any Canadian who has traveled in the United States knows how many Americans would buy Canadian manufactures. How many? Yet Canadians willingly buy American manufactures, and some Canadians are unpatriotic enough to want to buy them in free competition with the Canadian product, to the destruction and extinguishment of Canadian industrial life. The farmer is dependent on his home market's prosperity, and the workingman is dependent on the farmers prosperity. So why expose the farmer in the first place to a competition which may displace him in his market and the workingman to probable business dullness and reverses that make his job insecure?

The workingman may, under reciprocity, buy a few luxuries a few cents less at certain times of the year. He may buy his California strawberries or his Georgia watermelons more cheaply, but if the factory runs half time, if it has lessened production, owing to more American goods being bought, how does he fare?

Reciprocity in natural products is but the beginning. President Taft wanted free trade in manufactures, as well as natural products. He says he wants to introduce as near free trade as possible. With the Liberal party in power, what guarantee is there, that having gone half way toward continental free trade—and the abolition of Canadian industrial prosperity—the Laurier government may not yield further to American pressure, and take the whole step? Laurier tried it in 1891, when he fought for unrestricted reciprocity.

Mr. Borden is opposed to reciprocity. He has promised tariff stability, ensuring the even progress and prosperity of the industrial community and the farmer. He has promised to deal fairly and justly with the business men, neither permitting them the undue advantage of a protective tariff that is more than sufficient to keep out the death-dealing American competition; nor subjecting them to its pressure, and lessening the prosperity of hundreds of thousands of honest, hard working men, whose only crime is not to have been born with the proverbial silver spoon in their mouths.

Borden stands for stability and general prosperity. Laurier stands for an EXPERIMENT of CONTINENTALISM that certainly in the long run must prove injurious to distinctive Canadian development.

WAITERS ARE IN TROUBLE

Fifty-Seven Arrested In Montreal

Montreal, Aug. 12.—Fifty-seven men, comprising the entire contingent of first and second-class stewards on board the Allan liner Victorian, were arrested and driven to jail on the arrival of that vessel from Liverpool yesterday afternoon. Their arrest was due to the fact that they had refused to perform their duties at Rimouski, and during the voyage up the river from that point. The entire fifty-seven were taken into custody without a blow being struck and without any signs of trouble, and seemed somewhat surprised that the company should have called in shore law to settle the difficulty.

The trouble started when the vessel arrived at Rimouski yesterday morning and the stewards refused to put the mail ashore. This has been a grievance for some time and was the cause of some little trouble last year, but since the spring, when the Allan liners took to putting all the mail, except that for the Maritime Provinces ashore at Quebec, the amount handled at Rimouski has been so small as not to cause trouble.

The mail was put ashore with some little delay, but both at breakfast and at lunch time, the stewards refused to serve meals to the passengers and watched them in scornful silence. The chief steward, the second steward, and four stewardesses did their best to satisfy the passengers. The cooks and the third-class stewards did not take part in the movement.

The officers of the ship sent word ahead and when the vessel arrived here at 6.30 p.m., five police patrols, loaded with constables, were at the docks. The stewards were taken into custody without trouble. The only sign that anything unusual had taken place was the fact that the passengers carried their own hand baggage, while sailors handled the heavier stuff.

The authorities of the Allan line office say they cannot understand what caused the men to act as they did, as their wages were raised only two months ago and at that time they expressed themselves as satisfied.

"It must be an echo of the dock strike on the other side," said one official.

Three Canadians Named.

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—The Canadian section of the International Waterways Commission has been appointed under the new treaty. It consists of Sir George Gibbons, London, Aime Geoffrion, K.C., Montreal, and A. P. Barnhill, St. John, N.B. The United States will also appoint three members. The commission will have jurisdiction over all matters relating to the International waterways of the two countries. Sir George Gibbons is the only reappointed member of the old commission.

BIG STRIKE IN LONDON IS ENDED; MEN ARE RETURNING

Lightermen Get a Ten-Hour Day and an Increase of 25 Per Cent In Pay and Now That Dockers and Carters Have Been Settled With the Handling of Goods Will Be Resumed—Men Have Won Signal Victory.

London, Aug. 12—The strike of dockmen, lightermen, coal porters and carmen, which for several days has seriously disturbed all business in London and resulted in a shortage of foodstuffs, coal, petrol and other necessities, was ended last night with the settlement of the lightermen's dispute. The men were conceded a ten-hour day and an increase of about 25 per cent. in wages. The situation had become so critical that troops were held in readiness at Aldershot and other places to proceed to the capital and intervene.

Last night the strike committee issued a manifesto congratulating the men on the signal victory obtained and declaring the strike ended.

The dispute of the carters and dockers already had been settled and yesterday there only remained a compromise with the lightermen to bring about a return to normal conditions. Until a late hour last night it was doubtful whether an agreement would be reached and both Home Secretary Churchill and Sydney Buxton, president of the Board of Trade, cancelled their week-end engagement in order to remain at the Board of Trade where conferences looking to the ending of the strike had been in progress. It is now expected that all the men will resume work on Monday.

The evening in London passed quietly. There were no street disturbances and owing to police protection the transfer of meat and other foodstuffs by the circuitous underground railway connections from the depots to the markets had been effected. With the supplies thus secured it is expected that the people will feel less inconvenience to-day.

The Home Office last night issued a circular to the chief constables throughout the country calling attention to the provisions of the law dealing with intimidation and molestation in trade disputes and instructing them how to act.

City's Trade at Standstill.

Liverpool, Aug. 12.—The strike situation here continues critical. The attempts of the Lord Mayor and others to arrange a settlement of the trouble failed, and the trade of the city is at a standstill. The coaling of the steamer Teutonic was stopped by the strikers. A conference later took place between the managers of the White Star Line and the leaders of the strike in an endeavor to effect a compromise, but it was without result.

Conflicts between the police and strikers occurred in various quarters of the city Thursday night.

CROPS LOOK VERY WELL

Official Bulletin Evidences a High Average.

All Crops In All Provinces Promise to Be Exceptionally Successful, According to the Record Issued at Ottawa — Hard Winter In Ontario Hurt the Fall Wheat, But Did No Harm In Alberta.

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—The condition of field crops in Canada is presented in a bulletin of the census and statistics office issued yesterday for July 31, and shows good averages for all provinces as well as for all crops. Fall wheat was hurt by the hard winter in Ontario, but fared better in Alberta. The estimated yield is 23.94 bushels for the former province, and 27.89 bushels for the latter. The total estimated yield is 17,705,000 bushels.

The condition of spring wheat at the end of July was 90, for the whole of Canada, being 85 to 96 in the Maritime Provinces, 80 to 89 in Ontario and Quebec, 90 to 96 in the Northwest provinces and 85 in British Columbia.

Oats and barley have an average condition of 88 for Canada, 85 to 95 in the Maritime Provinces, 85 to 90 in Ontario and Quebec, 88 to 100 in the Northwest provinces, and 87 to 89 in British Columbia. Rye, pease and beans range from 78 to 84 in Canada, and buckwheat 81.85.

Mixed grains have a condtion of 88, which is 14 per cent. less than last year, and flax is 91, which is nearly 20 better. The average of corn for husking is 86, and of potatoes 85.64—being in each case a little higher than last year.

Potatoes, turnips, and mangolds range from 81 to 86, or about the same as a year ago.

Hay and clover, and alfalfa are 80 to 83, which is a little lower in each case than last year. Corn for fodder has an average condition of 87, sugar beets of 79, and pasture of 79. The eastern provinces are lower than the figures quoted for the whole of Canada, and the western provinces are higher. The highest averages are given for Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Sugar beets have a condition of 81 in Ontario and Alberta, where they are grown to supply the sugar factories.

Still Hot In Germany.

Berlin, Aug. 12.—The heated term continues unabated throughout Germany, and during the past few days the temperature has been higher than before. Deaths from sunstroke are reported from all sections. A water famine threatens some districts where the brooks are drying up. The thermometer in the side streets of Berlin yesterday registered 99 in the shade.

ITALIANS ARE ROUNDED UP

Toronto Police Capture Black Hand Suspects.

Frank Griro Is Arraigned In Court Charged With the Murder of Frank Tarro and Is Committed For Trial —Raid on Resorts In Italian Quarter of City Results In Eight Men Being Arrested.

Toronto, Aug. 12.—Following upon the information given to Inspector of Detectives Duncan by Frank Griro, self-confessed murderer of Frank Sciarone or Tarro, eight Italians were arrested in a raid on three York street resorts by pretty much the whole detective force yesterday afternoon.

The prisoners up to date are: Joseph Rapola, a barber, 174 York street; Joseph Muselino, boarding-house keeper, said to be an influential member of the Black Hand; Jim Vecari, roomer at 160 York street; Mrs. Mary Clark, lives at 160 York street; Ruffino Raffale, 146 Christie street; Salvatore Sciarone, or Tarro, brother of murdered man; Sam Carollo, and Joseph Dolsini.

Griro, who was committed for trial upon the murder charge in the Police Court yesterday, at the request of W. A. Henderson, counsel for the defence, made a long statement regarding the killing of Tarro, and the workings of the Black Hand in Toronto, to the inspector after his surrender Thursday night, and it was upon this and other information given that the arrests were made yesterday. All the prisoners but Joseph Rapola are charged with vagrancy.

Rapola, who is an Italian barber, with a shop at 174 York street, is charged with selling the gun which killed Tarro to the murderer on the morning of the killing. He says that he received $10 for it and that Griro came to his shop, saying that his own gun was out of order and that he wanted to buy Rapolo's because it would be sure not to fail. Rapola says that Griro was always telling him that he intended to shoot someone, but that he did not say so on the morning that he bought the revlover. The penalty for selling such a weapon when the purchaser exhibits no permits from the police, is a fine of from $25 to $200, or six months imprisonment, or both. The seller may also be deported.

The other eight are believed to be connected with the Black Hand more or less closely and are charged with vagrancy.

Joseph Muselino is 32 years of age. He has been in this country for several years and is a naturalized citizen. When the police descended upon his fruit store and boarding-house at 160 York street, they found him and several others there. A number of vicious looking knives and stilettos made of filed were found, which Muselino says belonged to his boarders. In the fruit store were found only three bunches of bananas and a box of macaroni. The police believe that this store is not a real one. Muselino declared that if not wanted he would go to the States or to Italy. He said that he made his living from his boarders' fees.

Jim Vecari, who lives at this house, is a sickly looking lad. He says that he has an order from the city for admission to the hospital and that he has not worked recently through ill-health.

Ruffino Raffaele was picked up at the same place, but says he lives at 146 Christie street. He is believed to have been engaged in the white slave trade. He is 22 years and single.

Mrs. Mary Clarke says that she lives with her husband at the Muselino house.

Coming to Canada.

London, Eng., Aug. 12.—It is expected that the House of Commons will rise about Aug. 16, necessitating an autumn session, beginning about Nov. 1. Hamar Greenwood, M.P., and his wife will sail for Canada and the Far East on Aug. [illegible]

FEARS LOSS OF CHILDREN; TAKES LEGAL STEP.

JOHN A. MIDDLETON.
JOHN A MIDDLETON JR.
JEAN MIDDLETON.
HELEN MIDDLETON.

Fearing an effort would be made to take her three children from her as the result of a written separation agreement which she entered into with her husband two months ago, Mrs. John A. Middleton, wife of the first vice president of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, has engaged counsel to enter suit in New York to test the legality of the agreement she signed, surrendering the custody of the three children to her husband for ten months in each year.

Mrs. Middleton says that she and her husband have been living apart for nearly a year. Mr. Middleton, who is a member of the directorate of ten railroads, four banks and half a dozen large corporations, makes his home at the Waldorf-Astoria. Mrs. Middleton before her marriage sixteen years ago was the widow of Lieutenant Molyneux Seel, of the British Royal Artillery. She said last night she and Mr. Middleton have not lived in harmony for ten years.

BOURASSA AND LEMIEUX WILL TEAR IT UP TO-MORROW

Ross Ford Is Dead From a Knife Wound In His Throat and Arthur Sheridan, His Chum, Is a Fugitive From Justice—The Pair Had Quarrelled at a Previous Party Over a Girl, It Is Said.

Montreal, Aug. 12.—Everywhere there is plenty of comment preparatory to the selection of candidates. Beyond that, however, the surface is calm as neither side is divulging anything of real importance.

The joint meeting Sunday next at St. Hyacinthe, when Henry Bourassa, the Nationalist leader, will reply to Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux on the naval policy and reciprocity programs of the Government, promises to be a big affair. It will be a keen battle of wits, as both men are able speakers. So great is the interest, that special trains will leave Montreal to accommodate the crowds who like to listen to wit and repartee.

Le Devoir, Mr. Bourassa's paper, announces it hears a gang of toughs will endeavor to break up the meeting, and recalls certain past gatherings wherein stones were hurled on the platform. The meeting will most likely be lively enough, but as to violence it is not expected it will go beyond words.

Half a dozen speakers will be heard before Mr. Lemieux is to make his long-expected attack on Henry Bourassa, and the Nationalist leader, will, it is promised, be in fighting form and so will the Minister of Marine.

Lemieux Nominated.

Perce, Quebec, Aug. 12.—At the Liberal convention held here Thursday, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux was unanimously chosen as the Liberal candidate. Mr. Perron made a strong speech on reciprocity and the marine bill.

The Conservative convention, held at Grand River, nominated W. A. E. Flynn, advocate, of Perce, as Conservative candidate in Gaspe County.

Sin of Hon. Charles Murphy.

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—Rev. Father Forget, of Embrium, Russell County, yesterday declared that the reason that the French people of that constituency could not support Hon. Chas. Murphy was that the Secretary of State had in 1909 signed the petition presented by leading Irishmen of Ottawa to Rome, calling for the conversion of Ottawa University into an English-speaking institution. Father Forget said he spoke not only for himself but for the whole body of the French-Canadian Educational Association of Ontario. Officers of the latter, however, declare it is taking no part in politics. Alleged copies of the petition to Rome are in circulation in Russell.

THE STRIKERS ARE RETURNING

Special to the Review.

London, Aug. 12— Thousands of strikers are returning to work, as the result of settlement, and steps are being taken to relieve the food situation. One entire cargo of thirty-five thousand mutton carcasses been found to be spoiled.

Hold Twelfth In Montreal.

Montreal, Aug. 12.—There was a preliminary meeting Thursday of the members of the Orange Order to consider the holding of a procession and demonstration next year on July 12th. It is a good many years since there was an Orange demonstration on the streets here, and the meeting Thursday night merely talked of the scheme indefinitely.

Woman Stonebreaker Pardoned.

Iola, Kansas, Aug. 12.—Upsetting the decree of Judge Smeltzer of the Iola Municipal Court that Mrs. Reese should work out a fine imposed on her last Monday on the rock pile, like a man, Mayor Boltinger pardoned the woman at noon yesterday. He ordered her release yesterday afternoon, thus ending a controversy of four days' standing between the judge, the street commissioners, the police, the public of Iola and some of the public outside as to whether it was indelicate to compel a woman to don bloomers and break rocks.

Those Who Lack Energy and are Unsuccessful Should Read This Closely.

"I am only thirty years old, yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night and in the morning feel so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should begin to brood over the chance that I should soon be unfit to do my work, and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicine and mixtures Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first gleam of hope. From the very first I could see they were different in action from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged up system. My spirits rose, I felt much better, the sluggish action of the system gave way to normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color, and ambition to work returned and have remained. I am like a new man and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

This was the experience of J. E. Parkhurst, a well-known grocery dealer in Jefferson. Follow his advice, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills for your stomach, kidneys, and liver, and you'll enjoy long life and robust good health. The Daily Review

FRIDAY, AUG. 11, 1911.

BORDEN AND LOYALTY

The Examiner objects to the statement made by the Review that "Borden stands for British connection," as being quite superfluous, for it argues that some seven million odd people in Canada do the same. The Examiner says:

> It is idle and mischief-working for any party to arrogate to itself all loyalty, and denounce its equally loyal opponents as traitors. Loyalty is something that should be little talked about, but much lived and practised. Mr. Borden and the party for whom he stands have never done anything conspicuous, except talk loudly, as if by necessity of convincing themselves and others, to show their fealty to British connection."

It was quite true that Mr. Borden has not a monopoly of loyalty to the British connection, and neither have the Conservatives as a party. The Liberals as a party we believe to be quite loyal. In fact, that Canadian who is not, is anything but a true Canadian. We do not believe the late Golwin Smith to have been a good Canadian, because he was an annexationist yet he was a leader in the free trade thought that seems to find such favor with the Liberal party.

But there is a sharp contrast between the policy of Mr. Borden, in desiring to keep Canada to the path that lies toward the goal of closer imperial union and the policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier which leads to closer relations with Washington.

Is it not true that "Canada is at the parting of the ways?" If Mr. Borden stands for the maintenance, WITHOUT ENTANGLING ALLIANCES, of the British connection, has he not a right to consider himself a truer Britisher than the man who introduces, and would "ram down the people's throats" an agreement that that President Taft declares is equivalent to commercial union with the United States!

Mr. Borden practically forced Sir Wilfrid Laurier to go to the imperial conference because the empire needed the premier of Canada, the most important of the self-governing Dominions. But, while there Sir Wilfrid Laurier secured the adoption of the doctrine that while Britain might war, Canada should remain neutral. He was as anti-imperialistic as you please, because he feared the Nationalist criticism in Quebec.

Mr. Borden is an out-and-out Britisher, who stands far close and harmonious working of Canada with the parts of the empire, and who will not consent to make agreements with a foreign nation that will encourage the Americanization of Canada; that will hasten the day when Canadians must finally decide whether to forswear the old Union Jack, and adopt old Glory.

Thousands of Liberals of the Blake and the Mowat stamp see eye to eye with Mr Borden on this matter. Sir Wilfrid's power in parliament was sufficient to at least cause silent acquiescence among his supporters, except a courageous and self-convicted half dozen like Sifton, but his mistaken policy has not the hearty support of the good and loyal Liberals of Canada.

ONE SAFE COURSE

The Hamilton Spectator says: Sir Wilfrid Laurier is responsible for the policy that Canada shall be free to act as she chooses in case of war between Great Britain and some foreign country. This policy, coming from Sir Wilfrid is nothing more or less than an election appeal to the French vote in Quebec.

British Canadians in all parts of Canada have never had any doubt as to the justice of Great Britain's cause in any difference with a foreign power. With Great Britain it is a case of holding supremacy as a world power, and British Canadians, no matter how they may differ as to the wisdom of the internal policy of the homeland, are a unit in defending its foreign policy.

Certainly they are no less loyal than the Unionist party in opposition in Great Britain to-day, and the leader of that party served notice on a foreign power the other day that in the matter of the Moroccan dispute all Great Britain was as one man.

If the policy of Canada's premier is to prevail it will happen that if the home land should find itself drawn into conflict with certain foreign powers, political expediency would dictate for Canada a policy of quiescence. Then would come the exhibition of Great Britain's chief colony hanging back and refusing support to the mother land, while other dependencies were rushing to her assistance. To British-Canadians the very thought of such a situation is unconceivable.

This condition is not a dream; it is a certainty if the Canadian electorate returns to power the Laurier government and certain possible situations arise of an international sort. Aside altogether from the vital question of reciprocity, is such a condition a desirable one? Sir Wilfrid has grandiloquently declared that when Great Britain was at war Canada was also at war, but to Sir Wilfrid what seriousness or reality is there in that phrase? It is meaningless to him under certain well known and understood circumstances. Just how meaningless it is may be imagined when he declares himself willing to consummate a tariff arrangement which is undeniably antagonistic to the aim of those who have hoped and longed for a closer relationship between Canada and the mother land in trade affairs.

The Spectator is not an alarmist in this matter. It is merely pointing out the unsafe state of the pathway along which Sir Wilfrid and his followers would have Canadians follow in the matter of this country's foreign relationships and in its relationship with the mother land. We have no doubt that if the occasion should at some future time arise when in justification of their loyalty it was necessary for British-Canadians to assert their dominance, Sir Wilfrid would again bow to the inevitable, just as he did on the occasion of the South African trouble. But why should we place ourselves in a position where it becomes necessary to force government to do the thing that an overwhelming majority of the electors demand?

There is but one really safe course for British-Canadians of this country to pursue at this time, if they wish to avoid a situation which was fardited to their shame during the South African trouble. That course is to return to power a Conservative government under R. L. Borden. There can be, and is, no question as to the loyalty and integrity of Mr. Borden; there is serious question as to what is in the heart of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The choice between these two is before the electorate, and it is for them to decide.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The cabinet changes at Ottawa have been made and the Canadian supreme court bench is enabled to take a Brodeur view of things.

We wonder if Bob Beary will vote for his party or his pocket. Reciprocity will damage the horse-shipping business as it will few of our baby industries.

The Review is indebted to someone for a couple of squibs in regard to Candidate Kerr at the C.P.R. station. But we think that Mr. Kerr is old enough to be allowed to travel on railroad trains, without a guard. So the squibs do not appear in print.

The regularity and persistency with which the Toronto Globe finds many Conservatives in favor of the reciprocity pact has at last a parallel. It is in the number of good Liberals in West Peterborough who will vote for Burnham and Borden and British government. But the difference is here: The Globe's Conservatives are discovered with a fine-toothed comb search all over the Dominion, while the Liberals who will vote against the government in Peterborough this time can be found on every side.

The English peers decided that they would submit to the curtailment of their powers rather than be swamped by the creation of enough new peers to put the veto bill through. It was the ignominious end of a losing fight. The men who advised the peers in the first place try resist the wave of democracy that is sweeping over the old-countries were ill-advised. There is a serious danger in giving to the house of commons the absolute power it now possesses. It has no "cooling chamber," as Sir John Macdonald was wont to term the senate of Canada. It might pass legislation abolishing the monarch of England. It could put the measure through into law, and the lords would be powerless if the commons persisted. This single chamber absolutism carries its dangers, but the lords deserve the position they are now in "Dragons always get the worst of it in the story books; fire, smoke and all," I returned with a touch of sarcasm. But Bruce seemed very much in earnest.

"Well, you won't find this one any fairy tale beast that you can chop up with a tin sword. He is an up-to-date, high-geared, sixty horse power, mile-a-minute juggernaut, and you had better keep out of his way or you'll get smashed."

"And the dragon is who?"

"Richard Mackay, boodler prince and political boss, who was indicted by the grand jury in connection with that thirty-million dollar franchise grab from the city; and who by some means, unknown to me, escaped the cell that he ought to garnish," he shot over his shoulder as he turned away.

"Thank you, ever so much," I retorted.

CHAPTER V.

The love of a man for a woman is a strange disease. Its methods of attacking its victims are varied; its affects manifold. It may be spasmodic or insidious, acute or chronic, violent as the toothache or unsuspected as a slow fever. Its subjects may be melancholic, exhilarated, tormented, soothed or affected in any one of a dozen other different ways. In my case, to start with, it was both insidious and exhilarating. I was somewhat like a man who has been shot through some soft part by a modern high-power rifle. He perhaps does not feel it at the time, and may run on for a considerable distance before a sharp pang notifies him that he is badly hit, indeed. Then he sits down in considerable astonishment and wonders just when he got it. I had felt no shock as yet, and had no doubt of my ability to run out of danger at any time. I made an engagement td call upon Mrs. Dace, and then dressed myself with particularity as to details. That done, I squared myself before the mirror for a view of the general effect.

I could not help but feel that Bruce had spoken only the truth regarding my personal appearance. I am six feet tall, and when I was in college was a scintillating athletic star of the first magnitude. Nor do I believe that I am any vainer than the average man, but if any woman whom I happened to be with was ever displeased with my physical personage, I never became aware of it. Mrs. Dace had evidently approved of it, for she paid me the round-about compliment of confessing in a general way her admiration of tall, well-set-up men. Assuring myself by a last sweeping glance in the glass that I could do nothing more to improve my toilet, I departed.

The Arcadia was one of the modern palace apartments that are springing up so magically in our greater cities. Its entrance was castle like; its outer court a bower. Its height was great, and its general effect imposing. There were private garages on each floor for the cars of its tenants. I went in at the entrance where I had left her, took the elevator to the fifth floor, and rang the bell of her suite. The door was opened by an inscrutable-faced mulatto maid, who surveyed me up and down with a quick keenness that made me feel that she would never forget me. I inquired for her mistress, and was immediately shown into a handsomely furnished reception parlor. Promptly Mrs. Dace came floating from between the portieres.

I viewed her with refreshed admiration. Her gown, though of angelic simplicity, was yet a triumph of artfulness. The cunning of a master hand was revealed in each smooth curve and the delicate tracery of lacework through which the white flesh gleamed. Her figure was exquisite, and seemed to have been moulded within this creation of a genius. She approached me with hand extended, her smile a witching thing.

"You have come at last. I was growing impatient. I was lonesome to-night and wanted someone to talk to me—preferably you. Do you know, I had been thinking of you just before you called me up. Perhaps it was thought transmission that made you ring me a moment later. Who knows?" She laughed musically as I took her fingers and bent my lips to them.

"Mrs. Dace, thought transmission to remind me of you would be grossly superfluous. I am going to be perfectly plain with you. It is barely possible that I have thought of something else since I saw you last, but if I have I do not now remember what it was. However, you flatter me." She withdrew her hand with a sudden averting of her eyes, smiling again.

"No, it was not flattery. I also am a plain person and do not speak in parables. Besides, what harm to think of one's friends?" She half turned an easy chair for me, and I seated myself in it, my eyes running over the room. The quiet richness of its furnishings was a revelation. Exquisite taste was in the very air. Several of the darkly rich pictures were either original masterpieces or copies so cleverly executed that I could not detect the difference. The oriental vases were magnificent tokens of barbaric art, and were overflowing with great clusters of blood-red roses. The furniture was of the handsomest and the tapestries heavy and rich. As to Mrs. Dace's income I had no knowledge, but at least her apartments were high of rental and equipped with extravagance. For some reason Richard Mackay's name came creeping through my mind like an evil thing, and I squirmed inwardly at the thought. I had never seen the man's face outside of the papers, but that in itself was enough. While it was not unhandsome in a strong animal way, the stamp of vice was indelible upon it. It seemed a sacrilege to even mention his name in connection with that of this exquisite woman, for his reputation was as contaminating as his personality was poisonous. Furthermore, he was married.

It is not my intention to go further into the particulars of my private affairs with Mrs. Dace than is necessary for a complete understanding of the circumstances which surrounded the mysterious crime against my uncle. Briefly, I will say that in the next month we were much together, and most of the time alone. She seemed to prefer it that way; I certainly did, and under those auspicious surroundings our friendship rapidly thickened. It was a delirious time to me, wherein during the days I walked like one in a trance when apart from her; dreamed rapturously of her by night, and was in a chafing fever of discontent when not by her side. Of Bruce's dragon I saw nothing, while as for other would-be suitors, she tactfully kept them at bay. Having occasion to notice this, and of course being secretly delighted by it, I nevertheless one day asked her why she shunned those who wished to pay her attentions. She stifled a yawn behind her handkerchief.

"Most men bore me," she answered, quietly. I leaned closer.

"I wish you to tell me frankly—And do I?"

She swayed away from me slightly, not answering, her cheeks swept by her falling lashes and her bosom swelling to its round fullness. I drew so close that her soft hair brushed my face. "Matie—tell me," I pleaded.

Her eyes, in whose fathomless depths the soul of any man might well have been drowned, looked up at me. She smiled, and one hand fell featherlight upon my own, setting every nerve tingling as a harp vibrates when swept broadcast by a hand. And as an earthwork is annihilated by a cloudburst, so was all my restraint swept away by the flood of passion that arose within me; my blood leaping like a mountain torrent and my heart fighting its way to my throat. Not stopping to think what I said or did, scarcely realising; only knowing that I loved this creature with a passion that would no longer be controlled, I crushed her to me and held her helpless as I rained kisses upon her eyes and lips and cried out my love for her in broken, half-coherent sentences. She did not resist, and I doubt if I would have known it had she done so, such was the intensity of my fervor. Nor did she respond in the least, and when my first ardor had exhausted itself and my arms relaxed she quietly broke away from me. Her face was flushed and her hair disordered, but her voice was as calm as the first time she ever spoke to me, and she told me that I was forgetting myself and must leave her at once. Uncertain as to whether she had submitted to my outburst with more or less indifference as the best way of extricating herself from an embarrassing situation, or whether she was secretly angry, yet worried greatly over the consequences of my impetuosity, I held out my hand appealingly as I begged her forgiveness that in my great love for her I had taken advantage of my superior strength. My hand she eluded by a step backward, and her perfectly modulated voice once more bade me a noncommittal good-night.

I threw my overcoat over my arm and turned to the door. "But at least you may tell me if I am forgiven," I pleaded, as heavy of heart, I paused upon the threshold. Her expression remained changeless.

"I have not fully decided. You will know later."

"Then I may hope that I have not sinned beyond redemption and that I may see you again?"

"You may call me up in a few days when you have recovered your balance."

"And until then I must wait for my answer?"

"Until then you must wait. Good night."

I bowed, passed into the hallway and left her, hope and fear battling in my bosom.

CHAPTER VI.

When I called her up three days later she seemed to have forgotten that any such incident had ever happened. She passed the usual pleasantries of the day over the wire, laughed as softly and musically as ever, and ended by telling me that I might call that evening. When I did so she received me with neither more nor less than her customary friendliness. I was mystified. As to what was going on in the wonderland that lay behind her eyes I had no conception further than the evident fact that she had not been seriously offended. And that was solace enough for the present. Of course I would renew the assault-at-arms when the opportunity seemed propitious, but for the time being I would resort to steady siege. I renewed my devotions.

As had been the case before, I again haunted her. Necessarily this soon became bruited around the circle of our acquaintances, and occasionally echoes of the gossip reached my ears. Bruce spoke of it once or twice quizzically, but as I ignored his remarks he soon quit bothering me with them. Clare, as usual, had her little say.

"I hear that you and Mrs. Dace are exceedingly good friends these days, and that you are with her nearly everywhere," she began sweetly. "I wish you would tell me about it." Now, as a matter of fact, I was secretly proud to be recognized as the accepted suitor of so beautiful a woman, and Clare was an entirely different proposition from Bruce to confide in. So I admitted nonchalantly that we were on excellent terms. She frowned a little.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

Coughs, Colds

Bronchitis

If there is an ailment in the throat or chest, it is surely essential that the remedy be conveyed direct to the affected part. It's because the healing vapor of Catarrhozone is breathed into the sore, irritated throat and bronchial tubes, because its balsamic fumes kill the germs and destroy the cause of the trouble. These are the reasons why Catarrhozone never yet failed to cure a genuine case of Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis, or Throat Trouble.

The wonderfully soothing vapor of Catarrhozone instantly reaches the furthest recesses of the lungs, produces a healing curative effect that is impossible with a tablet or liquid, which goes merely to the stomach, and fails entirely to help the throat or lungs.

To permanently cure your winter ills, your coughs, sneezing and Catarrh, by all means use a tried and proven remedy like Catarrhozone. But beware of the substitutor and imitator. Look for Catarrhozone only. 50c and $1, at all dealers. 10

Just Breathe It, Cure is Sure

SLEEP AND FRESH AIR

Keep the Window Open, But Avoid the Draught

Many objections are raised against sleeping with bedroom windows open at night. The most common of these are made with reference to the night air, draughts, cold and dampness. It is a scientific truth that air is much purer at night than it is in the daytime, because at night it contains a smaller percentage of fire combustion than it does during the day. This, of course, is particularly the case in cities. Draughts can be avoided by the use of screens or by placing the bed so that the draught does not reach it. A person need not be cold with plenty of warm bed clothes. The moisture in the night air is of no great consequence when we consider that most of the moisture on the window pane of a living room is due to the exhalations of the lungs of those present in the room.

SUMMER MONTHS FATAL TO SMALL CHILDREN

The summer months are the hardest of the year on small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentry and stomach troubles are all common at this time and many a precious life is snuffed out after only a few hours' illness. As a safeguard mothers should keep Baby's Own Tablets in the house. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes on suddenly will bring the little one through safely. Mrs. Larry DeGrace, Mizonette, N.B., writes: "Last summer my baby suffered greatly from her stomach and bowels and nothing helped her till I began giving her Baby's Own Tablets. They regulated her bowels, sweetened her stomach, and now she is a big, healthy, happy child. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ECONOMY IN GAS

Some Information that Will Stop All Waste

Much gas is unconsciously wasted in many homes. There is the prevalent habit, almost too trifling to mention, of lighting the burner and filling the kettle afterwards, and also the continued boiling of water after it is already hot enough. There is also the mistaken method of leaving a flame high after the meat or vegetables have begun to boil. A correct theory is the use of a high flame until boiling point is reached, followed by just flame enough to keep the kettle or pots boiling. A great deal of waste heat goes on with the oven. Once heated, it will roast or bake sufficiently after some of the flames have been turned off. If our readers will study these small economies, they will find a great reduction in their gas-bill.

Cobwebs in the Morning.

Cobwebs in the head on rising in the morning is the result of a Lazy Liver, one or two mornings in succession and sick headache follows.

Father Morriscy's Liver Pills will clear the Brain.

These Pills are a purely vegetable compound prepared with great care, and are without doubt the very best pills for general use, on the market. The greatest care has been given to selecting the ingredients, and being entirely vegetable, they act upon the liver and bowels in such a manner as not to disturb the other functions of the body as many pills do.

As a Liver Invigorator, Blood Purifier and General System Renovator, they are unequalled. Sick headache is invariably brought on by a sluggish liver, constipation or irregular bowels; these pills are a cure for sick headache in any form.

Pimples, eruptions and yellow skin are often caused by a lazy liver; one pill three times a week, will soon clear the complexion.—Price 25c. per box.

BATHTUBS IN MEXICO.

Made of Cement, They Are a Real Luxury in a Hot Climate.

"Unless you have been in the tropics," remarked the man who had just returned from a trip to Mexico, "you can't possibly realize how great a luxury a cold bath can be. It's not that the climate is necessarily warmer than a New York summer, but the natives have worked out the problem of bathing to its ultimate conclusions. They have invented the ideal tub.

"On the great private estates in Mexico baths are in use today which were hewn out of the solid rock centuries ago by slave labor. They are located for the most part in the vicinity of running water and are fed by bamboo pipes, but in many cases they have to be filled by the old fashioned method of carrying a bucket to and from the spring.

"In the cities the so called stone baths are made of cement. The residences of all well to do people are provided with them, and they are a feature of the native hotels. They are usually about ten feet long by four deep—baby swimming tanks, in fact.

"The tropical custom is to fill the baths late at night. By the following morning the water will have acquired a limpid coolness that acts like a tonic upon the body. When one remembers that near the equator it is almost as warm in the morning as it is at noon and that water taken direct from the city mains is always tepid the advantage of the stone or cement bath is evident."—New York Sun.

Artificial Camphor

There is now in operation in New York State an artificial camphor factory, the product of which is intended to compete in the market with the natural substance. It is maintained that it does not differ, except in the manner of its origin, from that extracted from the camphor trees of Formosa.

Cause and Cure of Headache

The cause of headache as you know, is the stoppage of the circulation resulting in pressure on the delicate nerves of the head. In time nature will start the blood going again, but meanwhile we suffer and are unfit for duty.

Assisted by two ZUTOO Tablets, which by the way are as harmless as the soda they contain, nature will remove the pressure and stop the headache in twenty minutes. Why continue to suffer? Why be unfit?

It is really remarkable how many people now use ZUTOO to cure their headaches. Do you? If not, why not?

COURT CHEMONG I.O.F.

The semi-monthly meeting of Court Chemong, 530, I.O.F., was held in the S.O.E. hall, Hunter street, on Thursday evening, being presided over by Bro. F. C. Rooke, C.R. The court was favored with a visit from Bro. G. N. Brown, D.H.C.R., who received a hearty welcome from the members, he having been absent from the city for about a year. Bro. Brown addressed the court in the interests of the order, and gave an interesting account of the progress and prosperity of the order under the management of E. G. Stevenson, B.C.R. The court made further arrangements for the annual excursion on Labor day, Monday, Sept. 4th, to Idyl Wyld, and a number of prizes were announced for the various races, tugs of war and sports. Bro. Brown, to make things still more lively, stated he would give a first and second prize for the prettiest baby under two years of age. Further announcements will be given when full arrangements have been made. The excursion will be open to the public.

ITALIAN MET TERRIBLE DEATH

Was Struck by C.P.R. Express Body Was Badly Mangled

A fatal accident occurred to-day shortly before 12 o'clock, when a young Italian met a terrible death at the Pottery Corners, being struck by C.P.R. express No. 603.

The unfortunate man in company with Nicholas Lorenzo, cook at the railway camp at Fleming's crossing near Reaboro, was on his way to the camp with a load of provisions. When near the middle line crossing at the Pottery Corners, the train was seen approaching. Those who witnessed the affair state that they had plenty of time to cross the track, but the horse appeared to balk on the crossing. The C.P.R. section men who were putting in a culvert at the crossing shouted to the occupants to jump. Lorenzo did so, and escaped unhurt, but his companion seemed to have been dazed, and the train bore down upon him. The poor fellow was thrown a considerable distance, and was terribly mangled.

The train was brought to a standstill, and the crew found the Italian who was in an unconscious condition, on the West side of the track. He was placed in the baggage car and brought to the station. He passed away, however, shortly after being placed on board.

The rig was completely wrecked, and the provisions were scattered in all directions. Strange to say, the horse escaped unhurt.

It has been learned that the dead man's name is Giuseppe Fracassi.

They are having a great display, to-morrow, Saturday, and expect many of the parents and visitors to witness the display. There will be regular service conducted on Sunday, by Mr. W. McLaren of St. James' church, and all are looking forward to a good time spiritually and physically.

HUSBAND WAS IN LINDSAY

When Family Arrived From the Old Country This Morning

To-day there is an English lady very thankful to the St. George's Society of Peterboro. The president of the Society happened to be at the 5.25 C.P.R. train this morning, when a lady got off with two small children. She looked in vain for friends whom she expected to meet her, but they did not show up. The St. George's Society man came to her rescue. He learned that her husband had been working in Peterboro and she had telegraphed to him about the time of her arrival.

She and her children were taken and given a breakfast while the friend in need set out to look for the friends of the stranded ones.

He found the husband's brother and learned from him that the husband had come to Lindsay and they had

By the time the 7.10 train pulled in, the woman and her children were ready to go to Lindsay to meet the husband.

The above is but an instance of the good work being done by the St. George's Society right along.

The Senate at Washington has passed the new Mexico-Arizona Statehood Bill.

WOMEN'S GUILD HELD AN OUTING

All Saint's Ladies Held Outing To Gore's Landing

A successful outing to Gore's Landing was held yesterday by the Women's Guild of All Saints' church per steamer "Otonabee." The excursion was splendidly patronized and the event was a success in every way.

A stay of about one hour was made at Gore's Landing, and the return trip commenced, the boat arriving at the wharf about 10 o'clock.

NEW FIRE ALARM BOX INSTALLED

At Brinton Carpet Co. Factory—How to Send In An Alarm of Fire

A new fire alarm signal box has been installed for the convenience of the residents of the west ward. The box was placed on an electric pole at the corner of Gilmour and St. Joseph's street. The residents in that section of the city sent a largely signed petition to the Fire, Water and Light committee, in the early part of the year requesting that fire alarm boxes be placed in the west ward. A short time ago, the Brinton Carpet Co. installed what is known as a factory alarm box in place of box Nos. 12 and No. 12 box was placed in the west ward, but the number will be changed to 34. As soon as the attachments arrive from Montreal. The box is now in operation and can be used by the citizens in case of fire. Chief Howard has asked the Review to again explain how to send in an alarm as there are so many people who would not know how to operate these street boxes if their house did get on fire.

To send in an alarm of fire break the glass in the little door, turn the key in the big door, open big door and leave it wide open, pull down the hook once and let it go.

There is an extra fire alarm box kept at the station which is used when repairs are being made, and citizens are invited to call at the Fire Station at any time, and the firemen will be pleased to explain and demonstrate how these boxes are operated.

It is the intention of the Fire, Water and Light committee, to have four more fire alarm boxes installed in the city as soon as Ald. Morgan, and Chief Howard return from the Fire Chief's convention at Milwaukee. The object of delaying the purchase of these additional boxes, is to give the Alderman and the chief an opportunity to see all the different makes and latest designs of fire alarm boxes before recommending the purchase of new ones.

PROGRAM FOR THE CIVIC HOLIDAY

Two Features Are The Regatta and Printer's Picnic

The only events for Civic Holiday around Peterborough are the Stony Lake Regatta and the PRINTER'S PICNIC, both of which draw large crowds. There is nothing of special interest in the city for the day, and it is likely that most of the people will be holidaying outside of its limits.

The excursions by boat are:—

Court Peterborough No. 23, C.O.F. to lake points and regatta per steamer Empress leaves Wolfe street wharf at at 8 a.m.

S.O.E excursion by steamer Geneva to regatta and lake points, leaving Wolfe street wharf at 7.30 a.m.

Printers' Picnic to Idyl Wyld, leaving at eight o'clock Wolfe street wharf per steamer Otonabee and Monarch. There is one hundred dollars worth of prizes to be given away at the Printers' Picnic. Everybody should get in on this picnic.

In the city there will be the moving pictures, but no baseball or football.

TEAM FRIGHTENED AT AUTOMOBILE

And Ran Away—Man Injured About Back and Head

A team of horses belonging to Mr. J. Morrison, Springville, attached to a milk wagon, which was loaded with empty cans, became frightened and ran from Fraserville to Springville this morning, and a man named Cummings, who was riding on the wagon, was thrown off and injured about the head, face and back, the driver, Valentine, by name, having run into Mr. Reynolds' store for a few moments.

STRANGER GETS ON.

Mr Valentine was returning from the cheese factory where he takes a milk route for Mr. Morrison and when he got to Kendry station a stranger, named Cumming, who has been working north of Peterborough, got on for a ride.

WAS IN STORE.

Leaving the team in front of Reynolds store and Cummings on the wagon he went into the store. An autoist came along in his car and the horses took fright and ran away. Cummings was tossed off and a wheel went over him, hurting his back, also making a cut about two inches long on his head and bruising his face.

The frightened animals ran to Springville and, being in the habit of going into the church shed, they broke through the gate and went to their usual stand.

The horses were not injured beyond a few scratches and the only damage to the wagon was a broken pole.

Mr. Reynolds, of Fraserville, is now looking after the injured man.

NO BLAME.

There is no blame, whatever, attached to the autoist.

HORSE AND RIG STRUCK BY AUTO

Medical Man's Auto Smashed Mr. George Ruth's Buggy

A local medical man while driving his auto car last evening, on Water street, struck the horse and rig owned by Mr. George Ruth, which was tied to a post outside of the latter's office. The vehicle was badly damaged and the loss will be considerable.

The doctor was turning the car in towards the pavement and it is thought, turned too sharply, thus causing the collision. The affair was purely accidental.

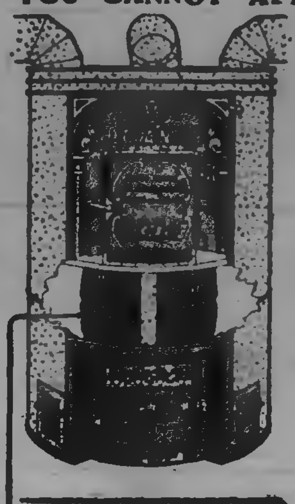
A FURNACE THAT WILL GIVE YOU AS MUCH HEAT FROM SIX TONS OF COAL, AS YOU EVER GOT FROM SEVEN, IS ONE YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO OVERLOOK.



STEEL RIBBED FIRE POT

Constructed to save Fuel

Flanges of steel plate—97 in number—are fused into the Fire Pot casting, increasing the radiating surface three times. This gives the air better access to the source of heat so that the heat is conducted away from the coal as rapidly as it is created and without waste.

The "Hecla" will do this: It is built to save coal at every point, but the big coal-saving feature is the Steel Ribbed Fire Pot. By adding Steel Ribs to the Fire Pot the surface which radiates heat is increased three times.

Every Furnace has flanges or projections of some sort on the fire pot to get more radiating surface, because the heating capacity of the fire pot increases as you increase the radiating surface. But the "Hecla" is the only Furnace that has attained the greatest possible radiating surface and the reason is that where other Furnaces have clumsy cast-iron Flanges, the flanges on the "Hecla" are made of steel plate and fused to the fire pot casting by our patent process.

"Hecla" Furnace

A test extending over three years, demonstrated that this ribbed fire pot made a saving in coal—12½%.

Isn't that worth looking into?

Ask someone who owns a "Hecla."

You will find the "Hecla" the best warm air Furnace you ever saw. You will find that it gives an even distribution of heat—heat that is moist and free from gas or dust.

You will find the "Hecla" a Furnace easy to run. One that does not waste live coals when you shake it down. You will find a Furnace that burns wood or coal equally well.

PILSENER LAGER

"The Beer With A Reputation"
Is Better Than Any Imported Lager

"Imported" does not mean "better". It simply means "higher prices" because of the excessive duty.

It is a Government regulation that all Canadian lagers must be brewed only from barley malt, hops and water,—which cannot be said of any American lager.

O'Keefe's "Pilsener" costs about half as much as imported brands—and is their superior in every respect—in purity, in flavor, in wholesomeness.

Are you going to pay a higher price for a poorer lager —or are you going to insist on having O'Keefe's?

Leading dealers, hotels and cafes have O'Keefe's.

SPORT TALK

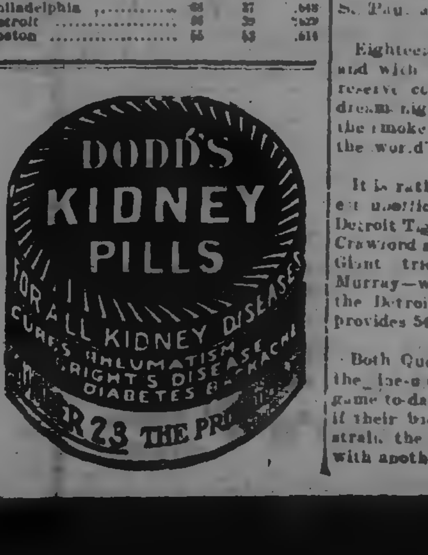
The St. Paul Club sold catcher William Kelly to the Pittsburg National League team for $12,500.

Kelly will join the Pittsburg team in September. Pittsburg now owns the famous O'Toole-Kelly battery of St. Paul at a total expense of $35,000.

Eighteen wins out of twenty games, and with the mighty O'Toole still in reserve compels Barney Dreyfuss to dream nightly of a pennant flying in the smoke this fall, and a big slice of the world's championship receipts.

It is rather interesting that the latest unofficial figures show that the Detroit Tigers' outfield regulars—Cobb, Crawford and Jones—are tied with the Giant trio—Devore, Snodgrass and Murray—with 108 stolen bases; but in the Detroit aggregate Cobb alone provides 54.

Both Querrie and Green will be in the line-up of the Tecumsehs in the game to-day against the Nationals and if their bad under-pinning stands the strain the Habitants will come out with another defeat under their belts.



Niobe Enquiry.

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—Deputy Minister Desbarats issued a further statement yesterday afternoon in which he characterized as false stories said to have emanated from Halifax, one to the effect that Commander McDonald, of the Niobe had surrendered his sword to Admiral Kingsmill, and the other, that officers of the Niobe had been to a ball in Yarmouth the night of the accident.

"If Commander McDonald left his sword behind him it was because he found it inconvenient to carry it," said the deputy.

An enquiry into the accident is being conducted, but pending its outcome there will be no action against anyone. "I have yet to receive evidence that any officers of the Niobe were to blame."

Met Terrible Death.

Montreal, Aug. 12.—Orville Larose, a carpenter, living at 737 Aylmer street, met with a terrible death at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, when working on a gallery at the back of the residence of Mr. L. Fortin, 91 Fifth avenue, Viaville.

Larose lost his balance and fell from the gallery, which was on the third storey, to the court below. When picked up he was in a dying condition, as his skull had been fractured. He died in the ambulance on the way to the hospital. Larose leaves a widow and four young children.

Montreal, Aug. 11.—Corinne Legault, a domestic who was badly burned in the explosion of a methylated spirit lamp at Riviere Des Prairies Wednesday night, when C. E. Beaudry, aged 9, was burned to death, succumbed to her injuries yesterday. The girl suffered excruciating agony before the end came.

Indemnity Was Paid.

London, Aug. 12.—The indemnity of £184,637 (approximately $900,000) awarded by King George as arbitrator, to the United States in settlement of the Alsop claim against Chile, was paid at the American Embassy yesterday by Augustin Edwards, the Chilean Minister to Great Britain. The money was tendered last Wednesday, but some question as to the rate of exchange was raised and the transaction was not completed. The differences were subsequently settled.

DAIRYING IN ARGENTINA

How the Argentine Republic Is Coming to the Front in the Export of Dairy Products.

The first cream separators or centrifugals were imported into Argentina in 1890-1891 and in the last mentioned year the first Argentine butter, 3,042 pounds, was exported. Previous to that date salted butter in tins had been an article of import. The butter exported (little more than 100 tons in 1892) was 400 tons in 1895, 1,500 tons in 1901, 4,000 tons in 1902 and in 1905 more than 8,000 tons.

It is estimated that there are at present, including large and small, more than 200 creameries using centrifugals at work in the Argentine Republic for the most part in the provinces of Buenos Ayres, Santa Fe, Cordoba, and Entre Rios, and so great is the demand for this class of machinery that the importing houses find it difficult to execute their orders with sufficient expedition. In the matter of machinery it may be said that the Argentine dairy farmers are well up to date.

One of the new Argentine industries, phenomenal in the rapid advance as compared with the progress of the same industry in Australia, deals with milk, and its products. All, it is true, has been prepared by the lavish hand of nature, the pastures varied and abundant, the stocks multiplied and refined, the mild climate; and indeed every element was present but the initiative of capital.

The Argentines were always breeders of cattle and sheep, producers of meat and hides and wool. Only within the last fifteen years did they commence to be agriculturists and they had never paid attention to those secondary industries based on accessory products in the exploitation of which modern methods obtain such lucrative returns. The dairy industry existed in a primitive condition. The milk for daily consumption was brought to town in the traditional manner, in tins, on horseback, and the jolting on the journey churned the butter, but the real business of dairy farming as it is carried on in Europe, Australia, and North America was unknown in the country seventeen years ago.

Strength for Bad Backs

You May Cure Your Lame Back by Giving Your Kidneys Attention—Booth's Kidney Pills Will Help You.

Most men, women and children have bad backs when the kidneys are sick. Older folks suffer with bad kidneys, for the kidneys are the hardest-worked organs of the body and an active life often wears them out before there are any other signs of advancing age.

You should learn the early warnings of sick kidneys, and then it will be easy to take any trouble in the beginning and with the aid of Booth's Kidney Pills make a quick and lasting cure.

Some of the early signs of sick kidneys are backache, lame back, rheumatic pains, neuralgia, sharp pains when stooping or lifting, nervousness, irritability, failing eyesight, sallow drawn features, dark circles around the eyes, dizzy spells, tiredout state despondency.

And there are usually disturbances of the urine—too frequent passages, scanty passages with scalding or burning pain, dark-colored, heavy urine, having to get up at night. This condition is speedily relieved by Booth's Kidney Pills. A trial is sufficient to prove the claim that they are without equal as a remedy for weak and sick kidneys and are fully guaranteed by the proprietors.

BACK WEAK AND TENDER

George Gould, of 27 Dalhousie St., Toronto, Ont., says—"My back was weak and tender and if I would sit for any length of time a heavy, dull pain would catch me across the small of it and in the region of the kidneys, leaving me unable to draw a breath for many seconds. The urine plainly told of the disordered state of the kidneys, as it was highly colored and scalding. The kidney secretions were frequent and irregular. Nothing benefited me until I procured Booth's Kidney Pills and commenced treatment. In less than a week I began to improve. The kidney secretions gradually became normal. The urine cleared to its natural color and the pains entirely left em. Thanks to Booth's Kidney Pills I am now quite well."

TEST AT OUR EXPENSE

The proprietors are willing to let any sufferer test Booth's Kidney Pills free of cost. Write the R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont., stating your case and they will mail you a box free. Booth's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists, 50c a box, or sent post-paid from the above address on receipt of price.

AN ERA OF PROGRESS

A Few Facts of Which We Are Entitled to Feel Proud.

Canada's trade in 1868 was $116,600,000; in 1910, $649,000,000, an increase in forty-two years of 459 per cent.

The exports then were $49,000,000. Last year they were $279,000,000, an increase of 470 per cent.

The imports then were $67,000,000. Last year they were $370,000,000, an increase of 450 per cent.

It might be interesting to make a comparison between some of our exports then and now.

Take, for instance, animals and their products. In 1868 we exported to the value of $7,000,000; in 1910, $54,000,000.

Our agricultural exports in 1868 were $13,000,000. Last year they were $90,000,000.

The value of the total field crops of Canada last year was $533,000,000.

In 1868 we had $33,000,000 in our banks. Last year we had $925,000,000.

In 1868 the area of Canada was 337,524 square miles. Now it is 3,215,649 square miles.

We have only to consider these things for a moment to realise how far from the truth was the belief of Americans generally and the statements of some of their public men in 1866 to the effect that Canada could not prosper without the markets of the United States.

Golden Anklets for Bathers.

A curio shop at Atlantic City is offering for sale as a novelty anklets made of various materials, from gold to hard rubber. Some time ago, a well known lady was reported to have introduced the anklet style by wearing one of solid gold with bangles and the question "will the anklet become popular" was a subject for much discussion in sea side society. The Atlantic City dealer seems to have solved the question, for his circular reads in part: "The anklet will be the correct thing with all well dressed bathers this season. Call and see those of filagree silver, with or without extra ornamentation and made to fit any person."

Hats were first made by a Swiss in Paris in 1404.

Spain has 11,597,048 acres of unproductive land.

rowed. Of these the last has the greatest yield and the highest protein value. It is the sort the American brewer prefers. In England, on the contrary, a barley low in protien is used. Thus for export trade, if there was any demand, it would for the six-rowed from the United States which could not be shipped to England. So by going in for this extensively to the crowding out of wheat, our best soil would rapidly be exhausted, and a link between England and ourselves severed.

The great use of barley to ourselves is as a food for livestock. For this purpose it is indeed a splendid crop to raise. If the grain fed to cattle, the land receives its natural return. As our livestock increase so will our barley. Ontario is the best proof; in spite of the Dingley tariff the market value of her barley crop has incrased from $4,812,194 to $12,900,689 during the last ten years.

Failed to Cure Rheumatism

Miss Flora Chapman Vividly Describes Her Sufferings and Ultimate Cure With "Nerviline."

"After being an enthusiastic user of Nerviline for years, I feel it my duty to tell you personally what your wonderful preparation has done for me.

"I suffered torture from rheumatism and heart trouble, tried scores of so-called remedies, consulted for weeks and months with Toronto's most eminent physicians, but derived only slight benefit.

CURED 3 YEARS

"A friend insisted on my using Nerviline, and to my surprise a vigorous rubbing of this powerful liniment eased the pains and reduced the stiffness in my joints. I continued to use Nerviline and was permanently cured. I am now perfectly well, and for three years have had no rheumatism at all. I know many families where no other medicine but Nerviline is kept—it is so useful in minor ailments like earache, toothache, neuralgia, coughs, colds, lumbago, and sciatica. I call Nerviline my "Life Guard," and urge all to try its merit."

SHEEP AND SWINE

Canadian and American Prices Compared.

Prices of sheep are much lower in the United States than in Canada, due to the fact that Ontario specializes on pedigreed flocks, as appears later on. In the United States they range from $2.90 per head in Texas to $5.30 in Illinois and Iowa, while in Canada the range is from $4 in Nova Scotia to $7 in Ontario, Manitoba, and Saskatchewan.

Prices of swine are slightly higher in Canada than in the United States. In the eastern border States, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and New York, they range from $10 to $11.50 a head; and in the central border States the range is about the same. In the western border States the range of prices is from $10.40 to $11.10. In the great agricultural States of Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa, prices of swine vary little from those already quoted. In eastern Canada the range of swine prices is from $10 to $13 and in western Canada, from $12 to $13. The highest American price is $11.80 a head in Wisconsin, as against the highest Canadian price of $13 a head, which is quoted for Quebec, Manitoba, and Saskatchewan.

The federal government of Canada has expended $427,000,000 on railways and canals to develop trade in our own country. The provincial governments have expended $36,000,000 more, and the municipalities $18,000,000 more. Furthermore, the federal and provincial governments have guaranteed bonds for railway construction in Canada amounting to $127,000,000 more.

In 1910 Great Britain took of our animals and their products $42,000,000 out of $54,000,000 which were exported, equal to 77 per cent. Of our agricultural products she took $71,000,000 out of $91,000,000, equal to nearly 80 per cent. In the same year the United States took of the first 20 per cent. and of the second 9 per cent.

DANGER AHEAD

"President Taft's policy must receive an impetus, and numerous other offers will be made to Canada and the other Dominions by foreign countries. The Crown will become a party to an extensive and complicated network of commercial treaties inimical to British unity, reducing the preference enjoyed by British producers in their most promising markets, namely, the Dominions, and setting of the King's Dominions could not up an extensive series of discriminations by foreign countries in favour of different States of the Empire and against the United Kingdom. The unity long survive such disruptive conditions. (Report of the British Tariff Commission 1911.)

BEAUTIFUL EYES

are made beautiful by long, silky lashes, and well defined, lustrous brows. Eyes, like diamonds, depend on their setting. The beauties of the face are lost if the eye brows are thin and scanty; and the lashes are short and lifeless. Parisian Lash Lustre grows beautiful, soft, silky lashes. It has done so for society women throughout Europe, and it comes here well recommended to do the same for you. Parisian Lash Lustre is not a dye or colorator, but a scientific preparation for beautifying the eye lashes and brows. Our guarantee goes with every box of Parisian Lash Lustre. A two weeks' treatment will bring beauty to your eyes that you have never before possessed. By mail, prepaid, in opal boxes, on receipt of price, fifty cents. B. V. NAPOLEONIC IDEALS

Prince Victor's Manifesto to the French Nation

In view of the crisis among French Royalists particular interest attaches to an account in the "Figaro" of a conversation which a representative of that paper had with Prince Victor Napoleon. The Prince begins by saying frankly that men were mistaken when they credited him with a blind and systematic species of opposition. He would never join in intrigues which would compromise the nation's interests and paralyze the action of the French Government abroad. Yet it must be admitted that trouble was rife in many quarters, and that authority was lacking.

He thinks, and many politicians, he says are of the same opinion, that Parliamentarism has reached its last phase. The Prince recalls the situation with which the first Napoleon dealt, and of the attitude of the Second Empire towards the social crisis, when it allowed to the working class the right of coalition, which the Republic of 1848 had refused. What France now needed, Prince Victor continued, was a Government of concord and of action, with no more quarrels of parties and coteries.

It was such a Government that the Party of Appeal to the People wished to give to France. It was much keener for reform of institutions than for a change of the personnel. He had not a staff around him anxious for places and favors; he had no cupidity to satisfy. Reaction was never a solution, and the very name of Napoleon was a programme.

"I claim no dynastic right. I am a son of modern France. I remain faithful to the traditions of the French Revolution—sovereignty of the nation, civic equality, liberty of conscience, social progress. I have as little to do with Jacobinism on the Right as with Jacobinism on the Left. I should like to see all the persecutions cease, and never be followed by others. France, who would reject a master, awaits a leader, and it is for her alone to select him freely. The party of the plebiscite is not for revolution, but for evolution. Whatever conception one may have of it, the Republic ought to have at its head a Government that governs."

The Prince concluded by saying that he firmly believed that France would soon return to the great principles represented by the name of Napoleon, which alone could assure order and progress.

SHE GOT WHAT SHE WANTED

This Woman Had to Insist Strongly, but it Paid

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered from a female weakness and stomach trouble, and I went to the store to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but the clerk did not want to let me have it—he said it was no good and wanted me to try something else, but knowing all about it I insisted and finally got it, and I am so glad I did, for it has cured me.

"I know of so many cases where women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I can say to every suffering woman if that medicine does not help her, there is nothing that will."—Mrs. JANETZKI, 2963 Arch St., Chicago, Ill.

This is the age of substitution, and women who want a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did, and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

THE PARTING OF THE WAYS

British Tariff Commission Gives Its Opinion of Reciprocity.

An important document has just been issued by the British Tariff Commission dealing with the problems of the Imperial Conference and in particular with the present Trade policy of the various parts of the British Empire. The commissioners evidently share the opinion of the American president to the effect, that Canada is now at the "parting of the ways!" They express the conviction that the reciprocity agreement, if it should be carried, would very seriously impair the commercial integrity of the British Empire and prejudice its future consolidation. But the following passage in which the commissioners summaries the situation may be quoted:

"The reciprocity agreement for the first time in history, would establish a discrimination in a foreign country in favour of one State of the Empire against the United Kingdom and the rest of the Empire. Such discrimination has always been declared to be incompatible with Imperial unity.

In view of the Reciprocly Agreement with the United States it is clear that, unless the United Kingdom takes action on the lines of Colonial policy, Canada will be compelled to adapt herself to American Continental rather than the British Imperial ends. This would make inevitable the acceptance of the American rather than the British interpretation of most-favoured-nation-treatment, and compel her withdrawal from the imperial system of commercial treaties under which she must extend to a large number of foreign countries the concessions granted to the United States. On the other hand, under a system of Imperial co-operation in trade, Canada would be able to maintain the national and Imperial policy which she has pursued for thirty years, and which has brought her unexampled prosperity. This co-operation would lead naturally to a system of joint negotiation with foreign countries in which Canada and other Dominions would greatly increase their bargaining power, and as full partners in the Imperial treaty system raise their status among the nations of the world. But a system of joint negotiation requires the adoption of a tariff and preference by the Mother Country."

BRITISH PREFERENCE ON WHEAT

Will It Be Possible Under Reciprocity for Great Britain to Give Favored Treatment to Canada?

At one point the proposed Reciprocity compact bears closely upon inter-imperial relations. It is quite open to question whether, if free trade in wheat is established between the United States and Canada, an Imperial preference in favor of Colonial wheat entering the ports of Great Britain would not prove impossible, or, at any rate, too complicated and expensive to be practical. It is evident that any such preference could only be granted where proof of the origin of the grain was forthcoming. If all the grain that was shipped through the Canadian ports were considered for the purpose of preference of Canadian grain, it is quite evident that all the American wheat that was sent over to England would be shipped by this route. This would be an excellent thing for the Canadian Transportation Companies, but it would defeat the aim of the preference itself. On the other hand, if American wheat shipped from Canadian ports is to be distinguished from Canadian wheat, then it is necessary for it to be so stored and handled in the Canadian elevators that its identity is never lost.

The question is, how far this process is, in the commercial sense, possible. Now, it must be admitted that, so far as the terminal elevators of the Canadian ports are concerned, it would be quite possible to keep separate Canadian and American consignments of grain. The simple proof of this is that the thing is done now. At the port of Montreal, during the navigation season of 1908, there were received 20,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat and 11,000,000 of American; during the season of 1909, 14,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat and 11,000,000 of American: during the season 1910, 17,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat and 40,000,000 of American. The whole of this grain came in separately, was stored separately, and shipped again without its distinctive origin having ever been lost from record. Evidently, then, the preference can be granted as far as the grain sent through the terminal elevators is concerned. But the case is altered when one considers the vast number of smaller elevators scattered across the Western provinces, into which the grain is received from the farmers' hands. A great many of these are within reach of the American frontier, and it would be perfectly possible, therefore, for large quantities of American wheat to be hauled across the boundary and delivered into the Canadian elevators in which, owing to lack of space and general facilities, all trace of the origin of the American consignments would be entirely lost. The terminal elevators can afford the expenditure necessitated by keeping the grain separate. The small elevators could not. It is, therefore, hard to see how to combine the present arrangement with a working system of preference, to be granted by Great Britain to Canadian over American wheat which would escape the very serious difficulty thus indicated.

Must Have Canadian Grain.

If we were to admit Canadian grain free from tariff charges, much of it would stay with us for home consumption; a portion of it would go through our ports to foreign lands—New York, Portland and Boston are the natural outlets for the foreign trade of Eastern Canada. The elevators for storing and handling Canadian grain should be on this side of the line, and the steamers of the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk Pacific should in the winter time at least find their home in the ports of Boston, New York and Portland.—H. M. Whitney, in the Atlantic Monthly.

FAMOUS WOMEN LINGUIST.

Speaks Fluently Thirteen Languages.

Marteina Kramers of Rotterdam ranks among the first of women linguists. She can read and speak 13 languages, and there are few men in the world who can equal that record. Besides, she has sufficient knowledge of seven other languages to converse in them, and she has planned to have a new language to her list every six months for several years. Miss Kramers also ranks as one of the most influential suffragettes in Europe. She is editor of Jus Suffragii, the official organ of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance, which has several branches in this country. Miss Kramers is one of the most optimistic of the workers. She believes that within ten years America and all the countries in Europe will extend suffrage to women on equality with men.

THAT "BLUE FEELING.

A Real Meaning in the Word.

The use of the word "blue" to denote melancholy or terror, as in the phrases to "feel blue," "blue devils," a "blue funk," and so on, is not entirely figurative, if we are to credit a recent medical writer. The class of phenomena that includes fainting, vertigo, nausea, etc., is controlled by certain brain centers that also bring about a sort of cramp of the external muscles of the eye. The resulting compression of the organ causes objects to look gray or bluish, and ultimately produces apparent darkness. The use of the word, having a physiological basis, is common to many languages. The French say, for instance: "I see blue." A writer says that the French word eblouissement giddiness should be spelled ebleuissement and has the same origin.

BLACKLISTER UP IN POLICE COURT

Case Enlarged Till Wednesday—Was Lost In West End

A blacklister told a funny story in Police Court this morning, when he was being tried for violating the Indian list pledge, by being arrested this morning at 5 o'clock on a charge of intoxication. He was reluctant to tell where he was last night, and his case was enlarged until Wednesday morning for witnesses to be secured.

Constable Mebarry stated that he arrested the prisoner at five o'clock this morning, apparently in an intoxicated state. He brought him to the police station, and Sergt. Adams, who was there at the time, thought he was drunk.

"You could smell his breath across the room," said the latter.

The prisoner said he was not drunk at any time last night, or this morning. When asked where he spent the night, he stated that he was walking all night and got tangled up in the west end of the city by losing his way. He explained the odor that came off him as emanating from some balm that he used for neuralgia curative purposes.

MARKET PRICES

Butter Was Scarce This Morning and Sold at 23c per lb.

The upstair market was rather dull this morning. There were lots of eggs for everybody, but very little butter, only one basket being left at 11.30 o'clock.

The following were the prevailing prices:

Eggs—17 and 18 cents.
Butter—23 cents.
Chickens—65 cents per pair.
Ducks—75 cents per pair.
Apples—20 cents per peck.
Tomatoes—50 cents per peck basket.
Potatoes—35 cents per peck.
Huckleberries—Two quarts for 25 cents; $1.00 per pail.

I WONDER WHY?

Dear reader,—It has just been tipped off to us by Captain Hounsel, of the 57th regiment, that he is very sorry to announce—as in former years—he will be unable to go down to Idlywild with the Printers this year. While we are not surprised at the 11th hour announcement of the Captain, still we are sorry he will be unable to accompany us. But there is one redeeming feature about it, and mark you; the Captain said he would keep his eye on the town, while everybody was away on Civic Holiday.

Sheridan is Captured.

Orillia, Aug. 12.—Arthur Sheridan, charged with the murder of Ross H. Ford at a country dance in North Orillia on Wednesday night, was lodged in jail here at noon yesterday. Sheridan was captured near Washago by two farmers who detained him and telephoned to Orillia for help.

Chief Reid brought the prisoner to town, and he will come up for examination before Police Magistrate Clark. At the inquest held yesterday afternoon a post-mortem was ordered to be made, and an order for the burial of the body this afternoon was issued. The only witnesses examined were the chief of police and the undertaker, who testified to bringing the body to Orillia. The inquest will be resumed on Monday.

There was intense excitement when Sheridan was brought into town.

Search For an Heiress.

Paris, Aug. 12.—A search is being made in France for an Englishwoman who is an heiress to considerable property.

Twenty-five years ago an English girl of fifteen, named Crosskill, came to Paris to live with an uncle whose name is unknown. Her mother had just been killed in a railway accident, and the girl's father, Walter Crosskill, a carpenter by trade, went to Canada, where he lately died intestate.

It is his daughter who is now being sought for to receive the estate. Nothing was ever heard of Miss Crosskill after she came to Paris, and the search, which has extended over two continents, has so far proved fruitless. She would now be a woman of about forty.

Peace Delegates Meet.

Berne, Switzerland, Aug. 12.—Yesterday's meeting of the peace delegates representing the Carnegie endowment for international peace was occupied in organization work for the purpose of dividing the labor of investigation so that no effort will be wasted. The work of all will be directed from a central point.

Senator La Fountaine of Belgium will undertake to make up a catalogue of books on warfare, peace and international arbitartion from all the important libraries of the world. It is expected that a working program will be ready to-day. The delegates will go on an excursion Sunday and hold their final meeting on Monday.

Fierce Electric Storm.

Woodstock, Aug. 12.—A fierce electric storm visited this section between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock Thursday night and considerable damage to the crops was done.

During the storm, the fine barn belonging to A. W. Huntley of West Oxford, was struck by lightning, and despite the efforts of the owner and a party of the A.O.U.W. members who were returning from Woodstock to Ingersoll at the time, the building and contents, including the entire season's crop, were destroyed.

Several surrounding buildings were saved as a result of hard work by a bucket brigade. Mr. Huntley had just threshed on Thursday and lost everything. There was $500 insurance on the building, but none on the contents.

James Tully, a man 72 years of age, and well known in and around the Town of Ingersoll, was found dead in the barn of R. Crotty at an early hour yesterday morning. Heart failure is supposed to have been the cause of death and no inquest will be held.

Curlers Honor Earl Grey.

Montreal, Aug. 12.—The Canadian branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Society will make a unique presentation to Earl Grey as a souvenir of Canada and a token of appreciation for the interest he has taken in the game.

In former years these presentations have taken place in Montreal when the Governor-General passed through on his way back to the Old Country, but this will take place in Ottawa as soon as His Excellency sets the date.

The souvenir will be a jewelled curling stone in miniature, the stone part being made of a Canadian pearl weighing some thirty-six grains. An address by Rev. Mr. Barclay will accompany the jewel.

PEERS IN RECEIPT OF SALARIES.

Interesting List Supplied In British House of Commons.

London, Aug. 12.—Mr. Lloyd-George has furnished a list of those members of the British House of Lords who are in receipt of salaries or pensions out of public funds.

Under the head of salaries are included those of various Cabinet, judicial, and Household offices which are given in ordinary books of reference. The Duke of Argyll receives a salary of $5,500 as Governor of Windsor Castle, the Bishop of Oxford $505 as Chancellor of the Order of the Garter, the Bishop of Ripon $35 as Clerk of the Closet, Lord Mansfield $485 as Usher of the Order of the Thistle, and the Duke of Hamilton $225 as Hereditary Keeper of Holyrood Palace. Eleven peers receive army pay and allowances.

Under the head of pensions, Lord Knollys receives $6,500 a year, and Lord Suffield and Lord Stamfordham $2,500 a year. Six peers draw pensions amounting altogether to $80,000 for naval and military services. The political pensions are: Lord Cross, $10,000, and Lord Balfour $6,000. Six peers draw naval pensions, and 32 draw military pensions. Twelve peers have pensions for civil services.

Clifford at Montreal.

Montreal, Aug. 12.—Private W. J. Clifford of Toronto, the hero of the Bisley meet, winner of the King's and Prince of Wales' prizes, returned to Canada by the steamer Victorian last night. Private Clifford returns with over $2,000 in prize money and a cabin full of cups, medals and badges.

Commenting on his trip, he said that the only thing of which he had to complain was the interference of some of the inexperienced range officers, who had evidently not mastered the whole book of the somewhat complicated Bisley rules. He said that he had been somewhat handicapped in the King's, especially by range officers, who took objection to his using the low position.

In this match, he said, a range officer stood over him at every shot and timed him with a stop watch, which naturally proved somewhat disconcerting. Apart from this, however, he had a royal time.

Private Clifford will not proceed to Toronto until Monday night, as by doing so he would anticipate the big civic reception prepared for that date.

At a meeting held yesterday morning at the Point Aux Trembles ranges by the P.Q.R.A., it was decided to give a dinner this evening at Cooper's to Private Clifford.

Pope Much Better.

Rome, Aug. 12.—The condition of Pope Pius took a decided turn for the better yesterday afternoon. So well satisfied were the Vatican physicians with the improvement that they predicted a recovery within ten days, barring unforeseen complications.

Following this encouraging declaration, Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, who has remained constantly near the Pope since the latter's illness, definitely decided to go to his villa at Montemario next Sunday for the remainder of the summer.

Body Discovered on Beach.

Grimsby, Aug. 12.—The body of Charles Rossecal, who was drowned in Lake Ontario off Grimsby Beach on Friday evening, Aug. 4, came to the surface yesterday.

Coroner Alexander of Grimsby was notified and directed that an inquest was unnecessary. Rossecal's friends in Berlin has been notified and are expected here this morning.

Portuguese Troops Rebel.

Lisbon, Aug. 12.—In consequence of insubordination in the 17th infantry, quartered in this city, 18 sergeants were arrested and imprisoned in the fortress yesterday. A part of the 17th infantry at Beja planned a mutiny under the leadership of a sub-lieutenant, who, upon being denounced, committed suicide by cutting his throat.

Sir William at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Aug. 12.—Sir William Mackenzie has arrived in the city to negotiate with the city for the sale of the Winnipeg Electric Railway.

MR. BORDEN'S MANIEESTO TO THE PEOPLE ON RECIPROCITY

Crushing Condemnation of the Pact by the Conservative Leader ---A Summary of the Reasons for Opposition.

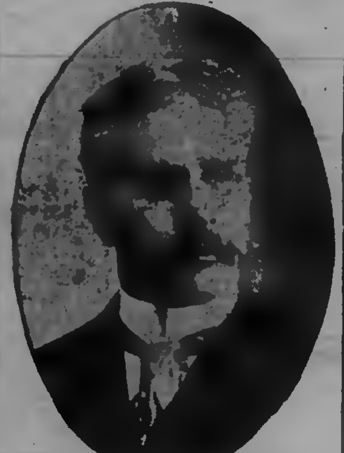
Ottawa, Aug. 15.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier and R. L. Borden left Ottawa last night for Simcoe and London, where they will open their campaigns to-night. The Prime Minister, who will have with him Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, the new Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and Alex. Smith, former Liberal organizer for Ontario, left by the Grank Trunk at 6 o'clock and goes straight through to Simcoe, where Hon. Geo. P. Graham and Hon. Mackenzie King will join him.

Mr. Borden left at 11.20 by C.P.R. for Toronto. He will have Hon. J. J. Foy, Attorney-General of Ontario, and a number of Western Ontario members with him in London. Mr. Borden stays in Ontario, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier leaves Simcoe for Three Rivers, where he speaks on Thursday.

Mr. Borden yesterday issued a manifesto to the electors of Canada, in which he voiced the position of the party and replied to the Premier's pronouncement of a few days ago. It says in part:

"The objections to that compact are profound and abiding. They may be thus summarized:

"It shatters the ideal and the hope of reciprocity within the Empire. The President of the United States has avowed that the main purpose with which he sought the treaty was to prevent the consolidation of the British Empire.



MR. R. L. BORDEN.

"It reverses the policy of Canadian nationhood, which sought to bring together the provinces of Canada by intercourse and commerce over east and west lines of transportation, and it stultifies the unexampled sacrifices of a half century which the Canadian people have cheerfully made for that high purpose.

"It is a direct and serious menace to our international lines of water communication and to our ocean shipping as well as to our Canadian Atlantic ports that have been constructed and equipped at such enonmous cost to the country.

"It abandons the policy of improved trade relations with the British people, our best customers, and centres our hopes on the American people, our strongest competitors in the markets of the world.

"It will destroy the distinctive character and reputation of our staple products, which will henceforth be merged in those of the United States, and will be known as American rather than Canadian products.

"It exposes our natural resources to the depredations of the gigantic trusts which have already secured control of those of the United States.

"It will encourage the export of our raw material and unfinished products for manufacture abroad instead of at home.

"It will establish conditions and relations from which it will be extremely difficult and even impossible to retreat, except with the consent of the United States or under terms dictated by her."

Will Oppose Pugsley.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 15.—The Conservative convention held here last night nominated Dr. J. W. Daniel and H. W. Powell, ex-M.P., to oppose Dr. Pugsley and James Lowell, M.P.P., respectively, for the City and County of St. John in the coming election.

At St. Stephens yesterday the Charlottetown Liberal convention unanimously nominated W. Todd.

The Kent County Conservatives yesterday nominated F. J. Robidoux.

Other Nominations.

Inverness, Que., Aug. 15.—At the Conservative convention for Megantic County yesterday afternoon, Dr. J. E. Beaudet of Thetford Mines was nominated.

Cookshire, Que., Aug. 15.—The Conservatives of this county yesterday nominated Fred. Dromwell.

Bury, Que., Aug. 15.—A. B. Hunt was chosen as candiate at the Liberal convention here yesterday afternoon.

Sherbrooke, Que., Aug. 15.—Frank McRae, who as a Conservative ran against Sir Wilfrid Laurier several years ago in Drummond, Arthabasca, was yesterday chosen as Liberal standard-bearer for this district.

Mr. Alex. Weatherston was nominated by East Northumberland Liberals.

A New Record.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—By flying the 286 miles from St. Louis to Chicago, and in an actual flying time of 5 hours 43 minutes, yesterday, Harry N Atwood of Boston believes he has set a pace which will result in his flight by aeroplane from St. Louis to New York and Boston.

Forest Fires In Nova Scotia.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 15.—Tremendous forest fires are raging on the southwestern shore of Nova Scotia, from Port Clyde, Shelburne, to within eight miles of the Town of Liverpool. The fire has been burning for two or three days, but Sunday and Monday burst out with greater virulance. At Port Clyde twenty-five buildings were destroyed.

Whites and Chinese Fight.

Fresno, Cal., Aug. 15.—Two persons were killed, two mortally wounded, and others sustained less serious injuries Sunday night in a fight between whites and Chinese at Hanford, California, according to advices received here from the King's county sheriff.

DESERTIONS FROM NAVY

Many Men Said to be Leaving Rainbow.

Ottawa, Aug. 15.—R. J. Lang, secretary of Naval Department, when seen regarding the statement that 46 men had deserted from the cruiser Rainbow on the Pacific coast, stated that these desertions had been going on ever since the cruiser went to Esquimalt station.

Higher pay elsewhere is given as the reason.

"It is not an uncommon thing for men to desert from warships on the Pacific coast, even in large numbers," said Mr. Lang.

"It has been done on imperial ships stationed there time and time again. You see, wages are high on the coast, and as the naval department is naturally unable to pay prevailing rate, the men desert and obtain work elsewhere at more money. I do not know off-hand the total number of men who have deserted from the Rainbow since she went to the Pacific coast, but would say that 45 or 50 was approximately correct."

CRESSMAN'S ANNUAL 99c WASH DRESS SALE

Once a year we get a factory lot of Wash Dresses that we sell for 99 cents each. Last year's lot (about 200) was sold Thursday morning and the lot lasted just 2 hours. This year we put them on sale in the "Bargain Annex" to-morrow, (Wednesday.) A fair representation of the entire lot is shown in our centre window, although there are many styles we have not room to display.

In addition to the samples we are offering about 50 from our regular stock so as not to disappoint anyone. Of course first choice is best. Every dress is worth two, three and four times the sale price. Sharp at 8.15 they go on sale in the Annex at only 99 cents each. Positively no telephone orders accepted for these dresses.

Thirty tourits, half of whom are said to be Europeans, are believed to be near the summit.

BEAT WIFE TO DEATH WITH FISTS

Toronto Man Charged With Murder.

Row in Home Started Over no Supper.

Toronto, Aug. 15.—Because there was a can of beer and a bottle of whisky on his table at 254 Claremont street, but no fire in the stove and no supper ready for him when he arrived home at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Edward Wilkie, 33 years of age, an American laborer, is in the cells at the Esther street station, charged with murder of his wife, whose body lies in the city morgue.

When Wilkie arrived home, he says he found his wife drunk and when he asked for his supper, she abused him. A quarrel ensued and the police came in to make peace. Later the quarrelling was resumed and about 11.20 last night, the woman was heard screaming for help. Policeman Smith (86) forced an entry and found Wilkie pinning his wife to the stairway by the throat. Blood was running from her nose and mouth.

The policeman separated them and the woman demanded that the husband be locked up and charged with assault. There was considerable discussion, and Smith was just about to leave with Wilkie when the woman collapsed. Dr. Webster of College street was called, but when he arrived life wass extinct. Wilkie admitted to the police that he had struck his wife with his fists, but said that he had used no weapon. There are two daughters, 14 and 16 years of age.

LARSEN TO MOTOR THROUGH WHIRLPOOL RAPIDS AGAIN

Has a New Motor Boat For the Daring Trip.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug 15.—Captain Klaus Larsen, Cleveland, who last September successfully navigated the whirlpool rapids in the motor boat Ferro, arrived here yesterday to arrange another trip through the torrent in his new boat, the Niagara. He told a reporter last night he felt confident of success. Larsen's new boat has five feet six inches beam, and with the exception of two circular hatches, is decked over. She measures four feet from the crown of her deck to the bottom of her keel, and is propelled by a 13 horse-power engine, with a speed of a little better than nine miles an hour. The after hatch is also used as a cockpit. When the Niagara starts on her perilous journey through the rapids her forward hatch will be hermetically sealed, while the after hatch will be fitted with a canvas hood with an opening for the navigator's head and arms.

Politics Hot In Spain.

Paris, Aug. 15.—Vague rumors of political troubles in Spain are afloat here. They cannot be confirmed and appear to be based chiefly on the absence of definite news to the contrary from Madrid, where the censorship of press despatches has been particuarly strict since the mutiny on board the Spanish battleship Numancia.

STRIKE MANIA IS SEIZING BRITAIN; TROUBLE SPREADING

Railway Men Threaten to go Out—Widespread Disaffec-of Labor—Tie-up in Some Lines Complete.

London, Aug. 15.—Last night there appeared little hope of averting a great railroad strike, which probably will be accompanied by a general labor revolt that will have a tremendous effect on the trade of the United Kingdom.

At a meeting held in London yesterday by the managers of all railroads having terminals here it was resolved that the time had arrived to resist the men's encroachments. The managers contend that the men by striking will violate the agreement arrived at after the railway troubles of 1907, under which all disputes were to be referred to conciliation boards or an arbitrator. This agreement, they say, was to run until 1914, unless either side gave notice of its termination, which has not been done.

Yesterday's meeting was unanimous that the only way to terminate constant dislocation of business would be to take a firm stand and refuse all concessions to the men. One manager in an interview after the meeting expressed the fear that there will be grave troubles on all the railway systems of the country before the present week is ended. He said the railroads were preparing to run the best services they could under the circumstances, with the aid of police protection for their employes who are still willing to work.

Sectional strikes of railway men were declared last night at Manchester, Liverpool, Sheffield, and other places. Some of the railway lines already have given notice of their inability adequately to handle freight traffic.

Declared General Strike.

Liverpool, Aug. 15.—The strike committee at 12 o'clock last night declared a general strike of all transport workers, including the railway men, who, up to the last, had refused to go out. The strike will be effective on all the local steamboats and the Mersey ferries. Seven thousand dockers struck last night at Birkenhead.

During the day the lockout threatened by the shipowners became effective, and 30,000 men were refused employment until they decided to abide by the terms of a recent agreement.

There has been much disorder in both Liverpool and Birkenhead throughout the day, and the police were constantly in conflict with disorderly crowds. Last night the plateau in front of St. George's Hall, where the rioting started Sunday, became impassable because of the great crush of workmen. There were frequent stampedes, following the efforts of the police to disperse the crowds.

Glasgow Tramway Strike.

Glasgow, Aug. 15.—The tramway strike situation has improved perceptibly, and is likely to collapse altogether. A majority of the men have agreed to return to work and submit their dispute with the municipality to the arbitration of the Board of Trade.

Fired on Mob.

Liverpool, Aug. 15.—The troops were compelled to fire on a mob of strikers here early yesterday morning. Bayonet charges also were made upon the disorderly element.

Germany Protests.

Berlin, Aug. 15.—The Berliner Tageblatt protests against the United States admitting duty free, certain Canadian products prior to the ratification of the reciprocity treaty by Canada, as a direct infraction of the German-American trade agreement.

TWO CHARGED IN THE WILKIE CASE

Neighbor Said to Have Assisted in Beating

Special to the Review.

Toronto, August 15.—Edward Wilkie and Frank Perie, an Italian, both were charged with the murder of Wilkie's wife in police court to-day, and were remanded until August 22. Perie is a neighbor, and the police allege that he helped Wilkie to kick and beat the woman to death.

It's Going to Be Hot Again.

Toronto, Aug. 15.—Get ready for another hot wave. Yesterday marked the beginning of it. At 8 o'clock yesterday morning the mercury was at 74. The maximum temperature on Sunday was 78. Thunderstorms occurred in the Maritime Provinces, Quebec and the Northwest, but Ontario remained dry. "The outlook is for more summer," says the observatory officials with a grin.

West and southwest winds will probably prevail for the next few days and with the atmospheric conditions as they are at present there will be some warm days in August.

McCURDY FELL FORTY FEET AND HIS PLANE CAUGHT FIRE

Aviator Wasn't Hurt--20,000 Spectators Scatter Before Live Wires.

Aviation Field, Grant Park, Chicago, Ill., Aug. 15.—J. A. D. McCurdy, the Canadian air-man, fell 40 feet when his biplane caught fire from contact with electric wires at the north end of the park.

The McCurdy accident left fifteen or twenty strands of high power electric wire to the Chicago Yacht Clubhouse dangling among 20,000 spectators in the free seats.

A heavy police guard immediately surrounded the wires and tried to drive the crowd away. Electricians declared that any of the wires carried sufficient power to cause death. McCurdy was not hurt.

Rene Simon in his monoplane sank to the waters outside the crib just off Harrison street. The hydroplane assisted him to arise and he got safely into the air. Again his motor refused to work and the monoplane dropped to the water again, this time overturning. Simon was uninjured and got free from the monoplane and held on to it. A motorboat went out for him.

Lee Hammond, an entrant in the water crib race, fell into the lake in the last lap. Two launches, which were patrolling the course, went out to his rescue.

Payment of Members.

London, Aug. 15.—By a vote of 241 to 128, the House of Commons yesterday passed a resolution appropriating $1,250,000 for the payment of members salaries for the coming year. This action was taken pursuant to the resolution passed Aug. 10, providing for an annual salary of $2,000 for each member of the House of Commons. This is a radical departure from the principle of gratuitous public service, which hitherto prevailed in the Commons.

Fire Volleys Over Heads of Crowds

Special to the Review.

Liverpool, Aug. 15.—Fighting between troops and the mob continued to-day. Six soldiers and two policemen were injured. Although volleys were fired over the heads of the crowd early this morning, no one was struck by bullets. In some places hoodlums are compelling the shopkeepers to hand over food without payment.

CURE THAT COLD

This is Quickly and Pleasantly Accomplished If You Use

Catarrhozone

Catarrhozone will relieve colds almost instantly and in a few hours will cure completely. If it is old-standing asthma or bronchitis its quick and curative results will astonish you.

Catarrhozone is little drops of healing medicine carried by air to the sore and diseased parts. You breathe them through the Catarrhozone Inhaler and they spread throughout all the air passages.

It is tense as well as healing, because Catarrhozone is a germ killer, a healer and restorer of weak tissues, because it is so prompt and certain in its results, better than any other remedy for diseases of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes, and it is neither alcohol, morphia or cocaine—all dangerous.

Tens of thousands have used Catarrhozone without reporting a single case of failure to cure diseases of the throat and lungs and nasal passages. Remember, CATARRHOZONE is taken in air, and is little drops of healing for the throat, nasal passages, or lungs. It always does cure—is guaranteed.

Price 25c., 50c., and $1.00 at all druggists or by mail, post paid, from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

MR. SEXSMITH'S MEETING

J. A. Sexsmith will open his campaign in East Peterborough on Wednesday, August 23, when Mr. Haughton Lennox, the member for Simcoe, James Thompson, M.L.A., and the candidate will deliver addresses at a meeting to be held in Warsaw town hall.

The support that is being tendered Mr. Sexsmith in his stand on the reciprocity question has been very warm, and there seems to be little doubt, but that Conservative victory is in the air in East Peterborough as in other ridings. This meeting will be full of interest, and in view of the great importance of reciprocity and other big questions involving the fate of the government, it is expected that there will be a large attendance.

DANGERS OF RECIPROCITY

The Calgary Herald prints a letter from an American reader in Alberta that is well worth while studying. The Herald thinks it so good that it reproduced it in its editorial columns, and undoubtedly one cannot consider the statements in the letter, without feeling that there are dangers in a closer commercial relationship with the United States that we are too apt to be careless about.

This American reader evidently is a student of social and economic conditions, and that he is more than satisfied with Canada as it is, may be read through the lines without special effort. He says:

"American reciprocity involves a great deal more than merely more friendly trade relations with the great republic just across the international line. It means a business partnership with a nation ten-fold stronger than Canada, in which the balance of power will be irrevocably handed over to the dominant partner. This would involve dangers enough to a nation with all its future before it, but the partnership strikes deeper than that even. A business partnership with America means for Canada, the wide open door to the 'American spirit.'

"The line which separates the American republic from Canada is for the most part neither a range of great mountains nor a great river; but no mountain range nor a great river ever separated two peoples of a common tongue more widely apart in their traditions, principles and ideals, than are the two great English-speaking nations of the American continent. And the hope of Canada to-day is something to which America has not yet come and which Canada is in danger 'Lest we Forget.' It is the foundation of sound, substantial and enduring morality which lies beneath every institution in this great Dominion.

"Centuries of the deepest experience with the fundamentals of human conduct have brought forth the British Empire of to-day. The onward march from the Magna Charta to the Canadian Federation has been but the gradual adoption of those principles that have proven their right to supremacy, by the way of 'The survival of the fittest,' and the traditions of the Empire, which underlie the Canadian nation, are but the net results of ten centuries of nation building.

"It may be said that Canada rests upon a threefold foundation: the supremacy of the law, the sanctity of the Sabbath, and sound business methods. And at the heart of these is the shrine which lies at the heart of the British empire. It is told in one word, made glorious by the many men of every generation and made divinely beautiful by the love and consecration of wives and mothers; the shrine of home. The Canadian nation is not living for to-day. The call of the coming generation, the laugh of childhood and the promise of youth hath hung out yonder on the frontier of endeavour an insignia of purity and ideals which no true Canadian would sacrifice for all the wealth of Araby.

"Who would exchange the universal respect for law which abides throughout the British empire to-day for corporation control at the national capital and liquor control in the great cities? Who would exchange the beautiful spirit of Sabbath observance, which means more to the boys and young men of Canada to-day than any but its mothers know, for the Parisian Sunday of Chicago and New York? Who would exchange the substantial business methods of Canada, which are so well expressed in its great banking institutions, its Dominion land laws, and the whole commercial organization of the Dominion, for "shoe-string methods of speculation and the fantastic dreams of J. Rufus Wallingford? And, finally, who would exchange the sacred atmosphere of the Canadian home for the spirit which so lightly regards the marriage vow and makes the divorce court its final confessional.

"It is much easier to tear down than to build up. And a single decade of "commercialising" Canada would destroy what it has taken a thousand years to make. The American nation is the product of but a single century. It is the most heterogeneous aggregation of humanity on earth. The democracy of Thomas Jefferson has become the individualism of to-day, which finds its expression all the way up or down from the ward-heeler to the trust magnate; the principles and methods are the same along the line. Every thoughtful American knows that the United States is sowing the wind to reap the whirlwind." And Canada owes an obligation to its sister nation across the line, and it is an obligation which the American nation needs a thousand times more than it needs added commercial opportunities. It is the obligation of good example.

"As for Canada, let her not sell her birthright for the hope of gold. Canada has greater needs than an American market for her products. And Canada had better pay duty on manufactured goods for ever than pay the price of the safety of her sons and daughters."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Where did the $60,000 come from?

Vote for Borden and an end to the Ottawa grafters.

Does it not seem absurd to say that 2,000,000 farmers will be able to beat 30,000,000 farmers at their own game, under equal conditions?

The Brantford Liberals cannot get a candidate, Lloyd Harris declining to run, owing to his opposition to reciprocity. Reciprocity may be a great and glorious thing for Canada, the system of all our dreams, but at least some good Liberals beg to dissent, thank'ee. Even J. R. Stratton is said to be opposed to it, if there weren't a senatorship possibility in sight.

Would it not be a good thing for the city trust to spend $15 or $20 in erecting a dressing shack at [illegible] for the kiddies who bathe and splash on the inner side of the retaining wall? At present half a dozen umbrellas are required as shields when half a dozen of the youngsters want to go in bathing. A dressing room, even of rough lumber, would be a great help and convenience.

The enthusiasm all over the country in the Conservative cause is manifest, while the Liberals are becoming apprehensive. The Toronto Star in a survey of the field says that at the outside Laurier cannot hope for a gain of more than two or three seats in the west. Which frank admission is very creditable to the Star. The Manitoba Free Press has said the same thing. With Quebec splitting, Laurier's last anchor is dragging, and a few extra efforts will sweep away the Liberal ship.

The workingmen of Peterborough are strongly opposed to reciprocity, because they know that the prosperity of Canada and of Peterborough lies in keeping out American competition, against both the farmer and the manufacturer. The old motto of Canada for the Canadians—of course "Canadians" include the Britishers — was never more in need of general adoption and observance. Let us keep our great natural resources out of the hands of the wasteful and extravagant Americans. Let us do more, and, better—let us keep them for our own commercial benefit.

First Car of New Wheat.

Winnipeg, Aug. 14.—The first car of new wheat was received on the Winnipeg market on Saturday. It is from Southern Manitoba, grade No. 1 hard, and averaged 27 bushels to the acre. The berry is firm and large, with no evidence of rust.

A farmer near Carman who shipped the car has 300 acres in wheat, and the whole of it is declared to be equally good. It weighs above the average and is considered a fair indication of the Manitoba crops.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—The grain markets sagged to-day and closed near the bottom; Sept. wheat, ¾ to 1c; Sept. corn, 1½c, and Sept. oats, ⅝c under Saturday, the selling coming mostly from tired holders. Provisions were steady.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ¼d to ⅜d higher than yesterday on wheat, and ½d to ¾d lower on corn. Budapest 2½c lower. Antwerp holiday.

Lambs ranged at from $6.90 to $7.50; sheep, $3.50 to $4 per cwt.

Hogs.

H. P. Kennedy quoted $7.50 for hogs, f.o.b. cars at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Aug. 14.—The cooler weather, coupled with a little better demand from the few buyers present, caused to-day's cattle market to be more active and slightly stronger in price. There is still demand from packers for supplies, as the effect of the cooler weather has not made itself felt in the way of much added demand from retailers as yet, and consequently there is very little buying from these sources.

Receipts of cattle at the West End Stock Yards to-day estimated at 700 head, northwest steers were 50c off, at $4.50 to $5, eastern steers steady, $5.85 to $6 for choice, good, $5.65 to $5.80, fair, $5.25 to $5.55; grass bulls for canning, $2.50 to $3.25.

Northwest cows and heifers were steady, with best at $4.75, and others at $4 to $4.50, eastern cows, best, were about 25c stronger, at $4.75 to $5 for best, $3.85 to $4 for good, and poor to medium at $2.75 to $3.25.

To-day's receipts of sheep estimated at 900; prices stronger, with old sheep selling at 4½c per pound, and lambs at 6c to 6½c per pound, according to size.

Hogs receipts estimated at 1150, with prices steady. Selects (long run), at $7.50; heavy fats (short run), $6.90, and sows, $5.00.

Estimated receipts of calves, 300; prices firm, at $3 to $10 each, according to size.

Last week's receipts at the West End Cattle Yards: 2800 cattle, 1615 sheep, 1225 hogs and 800 calves.

Plucky Italian.

Toronto, Aug. 15.—With the shreds of his right arm which had been torn away above the elbow hanging from his sleeve and the blood gushing from severed arteries, Joseph Steele, 24 years of age, an Italian employed at the Port Credit Brick Works, stepped up to his foreman and shamefacedly remarked that he was afraid he would have to quit work for a time. He was rushed to St. Michael's Hospital in A. W. Miles' motor ambulance, where it is thought that he will recover although very weak from loss of blood. His arm had been caught in the belting of some machinery at the plant.

The Lash of Circumstance

— BY —

Harry Irving Greene

Author of "Yesonde of the Wilderness"

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

"Well, I suppose, of course, that it is all right, and anyway it is none of my business. But she is such a mysterious woman. She lives like a duchess, and everybody says her husband left her scarcely anything. When that little is gone what will she do unless she marries a rich man? And how on earth could you get money enough to support a woman of her tastes, as she would demand to be supported You just answer me that, Tom Halliday?"

Now I had rather expected something like this from Clare, but nevertheless the question annoyed me somewhat. It was the identical one that had been making my sane moments a bugaboo for many nights and days past; still, I hated to be reminded of it by another person. Even now I was beginning to feel the drain of her upon my resources, although I had done nothing extravagant. I had taken her to the theatre, paid for carriages, and bought her luncheons and flowers, but beyond that had done practically nothing. And in a certain way there was much satisfaction in the thought that I had offered her so little in the way of allurement besides my own society. While there were men by the score who would have been overjoyed to squander money upon her, she had laughingly excused herself to them for the sake of inexpensive little evenings with me. As proof that she really preferred me it seemed conclusive, and was the thing that gave me the most hope. However I did not speak, and Clare went on:

"Some of her gowns cost more than you earn in a month, while as for supporting an establishment at the Arcadia—well, of course, the very idea is preposterous. Now, why don't you be sensible?" I smiled, scenting what was coming.

"And what is your idea of sense, Clare?" I inquired.

"Well, take up with a nice little girl like Mollie Osborn, for instance."

It was just as I had suspected, for Clare and Mollie are chums and devoted in advancing each other's interests. But the idea that any man, once knowing Mrs. Dace as I knew her, could be content with a girl like Mollie, struck me as so deliciously nonsensical, that I could not refrain from laughing.

"It is absurd, Clare. Certainly Mollie is strictly all right, but she would look like a mouse beside Mrs. Dace." She nodded spiritedly.

"Now you are talking sense. Like a nice little white mouse beside a leopardess, exactly." I did not like the comparison.

"Do you mean to say that Mrs. Dace is a leopardess?" I demanded, with some warmth. Clare was as cool as a cucumber.

"Oh, I don't know. Anyway she is as beautiful as one. And viewing her as I have only from a distance, I have somehow gained the impression that there are traits in common between them. She is so wonderfully smooth and soft and quiet moving, you know." She looked up at me sideways, saw the displeasure that rested upon my face, and broke into a laugh as she gave my cheek a pat.

"Of course you must not mind what I say, Tom, dear. I really know almost nothing about your charmer, and I trust to your level head to take care of you. Only please to be careful." So we laughed together and dropped the subject hard then and there.

Up to this time the course of no man's love ever ran smoother than had mine for Mrs. Dace. Yet it was only a few days after this conversation with Clare that there happened a thing so awful to me at the time that hades itself could have offered no torture more exquisite. I had never been jealous of Mrs. Dace, for the simple reason that I had seen no cause to be; yet I knew that the fires of that passion slumbered within me like those of a latent volcano. The mere thought of another making love to her was a torment. She had told me that few men interested her, and the frequency of my attendance upon her seemed to preclude the idea of a rival of consequence lurking in the background. That I was being publicly exhibited to attract attention and thus used as a sheep-skin to cloak a real wolf, had never entered my mind until the thought in all its hideousness was forced upon me purely by accident. I had spent the evening downtown, and was going home at about eleven, when a circumstance occurred to me. A few evenings before, when at Mrs. Dace's, she had requested me to open a bottle of wine, which I had done by means of a folding corkscrew I carried upon my key-ring. When I had reached my own door later in the evening I had discovered that my keys were missing, and remembered at the time that I had laid the ring containing them and the corkscrew upon the table after opening the bottle. I had forgotten to replace them in my pocket, but knowing they were perfectly safe, I felt no uneasiness; told myself that I would recover them upon my next visit, and ringing the bell, was admitted by Mrs. Tebbetts. I had not seen Mrs. Dace since, and now on my way home decided to stop off for a moment at the Arcadia, and if she or the maid were home I would claim the keys in order to avoid disturbing the housekeeper, who retired early. I therefore stepped from the car at the point where it crossed the boulevard upon which she resided, and hurried towards her building. I chanced to be upon the opposite side of the street from my destination, and as I was about to cross the way my steps were arrested by the warning honk of a motor car. Pausing at the curb I watched its swift approach, its lights glaring like the eyes of some speeding monster. By the street lamps I saw that it was a ponderous affair, and a pang of regret stabbed me that I was not able to possess its like. Almost as huge as a locomotive it looked as it rolled to a point opposite me, and then suddenly swinging in a close circle, stopped in front of the entrance across the way. Instinctively I paused in the shadow to watch it.

Its door swung open and out on to the pavement there stepped a great man with a massive bull-dog shaped head and neck, and mustaches that flowed from his lips like yellow fountains. By the gaslight I could see the bear-like power of his arm as he thrust out his hand to some one yet within the car, and a cold premonition of something wretched to come swept over me. To my ears there came a short, peculiar cough, and from this mannerism of which I had heard, as well as from pictures which I had seen in the newspapers, I instantly recognized him. The dragon had arrived in his juggernaut. Richard Mackay, the infamous, the moral leper, who, corrupt inof body and shrd leper, who, corrupt of soul and body, had long reigned as autocrat of the under world and prince of spoilsmen, loomed across the way. Fearless and able, powerful, yet subtle, always a dominant force for evil, he was one from whom any man might recoil with secret fear.

And an instant later the wretched thing came to pass. From out of the car and into his grasp there stepped the woman whom I loved with all my soul, and my heart seemed to stop.

With his arm around her waist, brazenly indifferent as to who might witness, he passed across the walk by her side and threw the door wide by a sweep of his free hand. For some reason—I learned later it was because of a weakened spring—the door failed to close promptly, and I distinctly saw them in the subdued light of the interior as they stood close together awaiting the descent of the elevator car. It was but a fleeting glimpse, yet had it lasted longer I believe I should have cried outright in my agony. For, as plainly as I ever saw anything in my life I saw him draw her close to him as impetuously as I had done in my outburst as he lifted her face and half buried it beneath his sweeping moustache. Then the door mercifully closed, shutting out the sight and leaving me with horror filling my breast and the coldness of death creeping over me. For an instant I was incapable of movement, then regaining partial control of myself, lurched away. Benumbed of brain, my knees turned to water, and with jealousy tearing at my vitals like a vulture, I staggered homeward.

Upon the night of horror that followed I do not care to dwell. Like one in a fever I tossed through the hours sleepless save for the fitful dream moments when I wandered far into the evil haunts of the nightmare. Morning creeping grayly into my room found me with head splitting and set eyes that stared at the ceiling. As one who is crippled with rheumatism in every joint, I arose stiffly, bathed myself and crawled out into the air. It was Sunday morning, and already the chime of distant bells mellowed in my ears. It was all plain to me now, her deceit and treachery; and had I been sentenced over night to the gibbet I could not have been more wretched. In the miserableness of it I stood soul sick before the utter hollowness of all things. There could be but one explanation of it. The hideous innuendoes that had haunted my ears like the whisperings of a sea shell had been less than the truth and I had been used as the false light to mislead the world; as a dummy the fool. Oh, the treachery and the wickedness and the black shame of it! And that this woman for whom I would have given my heart's blood could be guilty of such cruelty to me! Broken-heartedly, I sobbed beneath the oaks like a child.

Plainly there was but one thing I could do. I must renounce her unqualifiedly, even though it well-nigh killed me, for I could never share her with anybody—as well might a man be asked to cut his heart in twain. I must not even see her again, for I dared not trust myself in her presence. What I might do if I should meet her alone I did not know. Whether I would violently denounce her for her faithlessness, break down miserably as I was now doing, or commit some other scene, I could only conjecture. But, in any case, matters would not be mended. The injury was irreparable. I must cast her out of my life and pursue my way in wretchedness and silence. I returned to my rooms.

Uncle Abner was already puttering away somewhere, and I threw myself into a chair in what was nearly a physical collapse. I felt shrunken and hollow as though my vitals had been drawn from my body and I had fallen into myself. I was incapable of thinking logically, and the weight that oppressed me was stifling. Before me life stretched away as a void, hopeless and destitute of light and through which I must drift miserably until it merged into eternity.

I must have sat in a half stupor for a long time, for as the tinkle of the telephone bell sounded in my deadened ears like a death rattle I got upon my feet and saw that it was nearly ten o'clock. Mechanically I picked up the receiver and asked what was wanted. Over the wire there came to me a voice which at first set every nerve to tingling and then turned me sick and faint in the reaction. For it was the voice of Mrs. Dace, soft, musical, and filled with the cheerfulness of the morning, as she inquired for me. In tones that sounded far away to my own ears I told her it was I who spoke.

CURE SICK HEADACHE

"MY BACK IS KILLING ME"

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" WILL CURE

Backache means Congestion of the Kidneys. Dull ache in the back—sharp, shooting pains—headache and nervousness—mean that the Kidneys are overworked. The Bowels are constipated and the skin is inactive, so that the Kidneys are compelled to do the work of both bowels and skin in throwing off the waste of the body. The Kidneys thus become irritated and inflamed and backache results. The only possible way to relieve the congestion and cure the pain is to force the bowels and skin to do their share of the work.

"Fruit-a-tives", the great fruit medicine, is the best and most scientific Kidney Remedy in the world.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always cure Pain in the Back and Kidney Trouble. 50c. box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. Dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Clifford's Home Coming.

Toronto, Aug. 14. At eight o'clock to-night, Private Clifford, winner of the King's prize at Bisley, will arrive at the North Toronto station, where he will be received by the City Council, the militia and the citizens. Montreal gave him a great reception on Saturday. He was entertained at a banquet in his honor by the Montreal militia. Clifford's wife and mother went to Montreal to meet him.

The cavalry will be represented by the Governor-General's Body Guard and the Ninth Mississauga Horse. It is expected that the 48th Highlanders and the 10th Royal Grenadiers, to which Clifford belongs, will turn out in full force.

Clifford will be drawn in a carriage by a number of his comrades of the Grenadiers.

"BARGAIN" GLASSES ARE DANGEROUS GLASSES

This Editorial in the Ladie's Home Journal gives timely warning against these "Eye Destroyers" advertised as "Exceptional Values."

A woman who was hunting "bargain glasses" finally succeeded in "fitting" her eyes with what she enthusiastically declares was "just the thing." And immensely pleased with herself, this woman had brought about the gravest danger a woman could invest in, for she had bought two pieces of glass crudely ground, but magnifying strongly, and with them she can see 'better to read'—That seeing better will mean an intense strain upon the her eyes, but she will not realize what the trouble is, nor the injury the glasses are doing. Some day she will be under the care of a Specialist, probably for the removal of a cataract, which will cost considerable, to say nothing of the suffering entailed, and she will be fortunate indeed if she does not suffer partial or entire loss of sight for the remainder of her life.

We have every qualification for giving your eyes a thorough examination. We fit you with the finest ground lenses, and at a very reasonable cost. Thousands of our citizens can certify to the care, skill and thoroughness of the examination, and the good results they had in wearing the glasses we prescribed. ALL WORK GUARANTEED

LOOKING FOR THE FAMILY

Chief Thompson Receives Letter Inquiring for Family of Late William Blanchard

Chief Thompson is in receipt of the following letter from Montreal;—

Montreal, Aug. 11, 1911,
Chief of Police,
Peterborough, Ont.,

Dear Sir,—On the 8th and 10th inst., I wired you as per copies of messages enclosed herewith, and understand from your reply of Aug. 8th, that William Blanchard had no family or relatives in Peterborough. After wiring you on the 8th, I ascertained from an old note book of deceased that at some time or other he lived at Westwood, Ont. and would be pleased if you would be willing to locate relatives for us. The only information that I have been able to gather is that he has a sister residing somewhere near Peterborough on a farm which belonged to Blanchard and also that he had a young son, about six years old, the mother being dead.

If you should be fortunate enough to locate this family or any of his relatives, we would be pleased to have you advise then that we buried his body yesterday and as there is some of his personal property, in the shape of clothes as well as some wages, we would be pleased to receive their instructions as to disposition.

Trusting that we have not caused you any inconvenience by our persistent wiring and writing you, and hoping to receive some information shortly which will be of some use to us.

Yours faithfully,
Dominion Bridge Co., Ltd.,
per J. W. DOYLE,
Time-keeper.

The chief has ascertained that the man in question formerly worked in the city and boarded at Hogan's Hotel. He has not been able to trace the family as yet.

MR. SEXSMITH TO HOLD BIG MEETING

Will Have a Rally in Warsaw August 23

The first of Mr. Sexsmith's big meetings in East Peterborough will be held in Warsaw, in the town hall, on Wednesday evening, August 23, at half past seven. Addresses will be delivered by Mr. Haughton Lennox M.P., for Simcoe, James Thompson, M.L.A. and the candidate, Mr. Sexsmith.

In view of the great interest taken in the reciprocity question by the farmers and others, and the evidence that has been gathered by the Conservative leaders and speakers, there should be a good attendance at this meeting.

MATTHEWS CO. IN HULL IN MERGER

Report From Montreal of Business Combination

Montreal, Aug. 5.—That an important packing merger has taken place, the firms concerned being the Laing Packing and Provision Co., of Montreal, the George Matthews Co., of Hull, and the Blackwell Co., of Toronto, and that this arrangement will go into effect on Aug. 20, there seems to be every probability. A number of local packing and provision firms when consulted this morning stated that they were ignorant of such an amalgamation being consummated, but admitted that it was extremely probable, as the firms mentioned have always been friendly.

Officials of Matthews, Limited, a subsidiary concern to the big Hull company, state that an amalgamation between the Matthews and Blackwell companies had been locally talked of some time ago, while more recently rumor including the Laing company, has been spread, presumably by opposition firms. They had, however, no official information from their head office and could not say whether or not there was any truth in the rumor.

HE RESCUED HER JUST IN TIME

Little Girl Named Sims Fell Into River Near Inverlea

What was almost a drowning accident occurred yesterday in Inverlea park, when a little girl named Sims slipped into the river from the cement retaining wall and was rescued just in time by a gentleman who was picnicking in the park and heard the commotion. The little girl was in the park without any responsible people to look after her, and was engaged in running up and down this retaining wall which was covered by some inches of water, the river being higher than usual. In passing a boy on the wall, she slipped in, and the rescuer had to go in almost to his neck in the water to get her. She was supplied with dry clothing and sent home.

The folly of parents letting their children wander around the river, taking care of themselves has never received a more striking illustration. It is usually a wise precaution to have someone keeping an eye on them when in places, where a slip might result in a sad drowning.

DEATH OF FORMER LOCAL PHYSICIAN

At Lindsay Sunday — Practised in Bobcaygeon for Thirty-Five Years

Dr. William McCamus, of Lindsay; and formerly of this city, passed away Monday, after an illness of but a few days duration, at the age of 73 years.

The late physician was born in Cavan township and taught school there for a number of years before studying medicine. He also practised in Cavanville for a short time, coming to Peterboro where he remained two years. He was in Bobcaygeon for thirty-five years, where he practised his profession and kept a drug store.

Deceased was widely known. He was a clever physician, and patients came for miles to consult him.

He is survived by his widow; one son, William Edward, who is in the civil service at Manilla, Phillipine Islands; one brother, Thomas, New Liskeard; two sisters, Mrs. Minthorn Queenston; Miss Mary, New Liskeard.

The funeral will take place to-morrow morning from the late residence Lindsay, to the 10.30 G.T.R. train, thence to Bobcaygeon for interment.

300th BARGAIN ANNEX EVENT — The CRESSMAN Company Limited — TUESDAY AUG. 15th, 1911

300th Bargain Annex Event

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 16th

The Bargain Annex--A Unique Bargain Department, Open One Day in the Week Only, Wednesday

To think out and plan, a new and original bargain idea, as applied to the distributing of general merchandise, and to conduct it successfully for 300 consecutive weeks, and not experience one solitary failure, is an achievement of which we are somewhat proud. One day a week only (Wednesday) for nearly 6 years, the "Bargain Annex" has been open every week; and each and every week crowds have thronged this Unique Bargain Department. It has grown so rapidly that it now has its own separate buying Department, which is constantly feeding it with dependable and seasonable goods at less than they can be purchased elsewhere. This, in truth, is the "Bargain Annex" whose Three Hundredth Anniversary we celebrate on August 16th.

We offer a greater number of Bargains than usual and prices are marked low enough to be in keeping with this 300th Event of the "Bargain Annex."

FOUR PEOPLE INJURED WHEN FARMER'S TEAM RAN AWAY

Frightened at Automobile on Aylmer Street Saturday Afternoon.

Mrs. R. Jones in Hospital Severely Injured — Child Has Arm Broken — Mr. Jones Has Skull Fractured

Becoming frightened at a passing automobile, the spirited team of Mr. R. Jones, Cavan Township, became frightened on Aylmer street at 4.30 Saturday afternoon, and dashed along the street, upsetting the vehicle. The occupants were all more or less seriously injured. Mrs. R. Jones being badly bruised and injured internally, the doctors holding but little hope for her recovery; Ethel Jones, aged 6 years, sustained a fracture of a green bone in her left arm; and Mr. Robert Jones, received a fracture at the base of the skull; Mrs. Lelah Jones and Miss Lillian Jones were badly shaken up.

Richard Rourke, who was passing at the time, and who attempted to stop the team, was knocked down and his knee was hurt.

GIRL SCREAMED

It appears Mr. Jones was in the Peterboro Creamery getting an empty cream can and an automobile went by slowly and turned on to Simcoe st. The ladies were frightened when the horses became restless and when another car went by, Miss Lillian Jones screamed and the horses started off. Mr. Jones ran out and caught one of the bridles, but was thrown down and tramped upon. Mr. Rourke, who was near the corner at the time, attempted to stop them. He also fell and was run over by the wagon.

VEHICLE HIT POST

The wagon went against the obstruction on the corner, which was placed there to guard the underground cable belonging to the Bell Telephone Company, and a couple of the inmates were tossed out. The others went out when the vehicle hit a pole on the other side of the street.

FIREMEN TURNED OUT

The firemen removed the injured people to Dr. Greer's surgery and four men were detailed to keep the crowd from rushing in. The chief operator at the Bell Telephone office was notified that a serious accident had occurred in front of the Fire Hall, and that medical assistance was required and in less than five minutes, Drs. Marshall, McCullough and Young were on the scene. Belleghem's ambulance was also summoned and as soon as the medical men had decided the extent of the injuries, arrangements were made to send Mrs. Jones to the Nicholls Hospital, and the other patients to their homes.

Mr. Brightman very kindly volunteered to take the people to their home in Cavan in his automobile. The roads in that section of the country are very rough and hilly, and it took until 9 o'clock to get there.

HORSES CAPTURED

The horses were captured at the C.P.R. tracks, having left the wagon on Aylmer street, near Charlotte, and were brought back to the fire station where Chief Howard ordered them to be taken in and cared for, until such time as they could be returned. The wagon was badly damaged.

Mr. John Jones, brother of the injured man, came to the city yesterday to take the horses away, and said that the patients are doing as well as could be expected.

Upon inquiry at the Hospital regarding the condition of Mrs. R. Jones it was learned that she is doing nicely and may possibly recover.

BONDS OF BREAD COMPANY ATTRACT SMALL INVESTORS

Bonds Are Being Issued in Denominations of $100, and Carry Interest From August 1st.

Messrs. Cawthra Mulock &Co., of Toronto, are announcing elsewhere in this issue particulars of their offering of $1,250,000 of the 6 per cent. First Mortgage Sinking Fund Thirty Year Gold Bonds of Canada Bread Company Limited. These bonds are being offered at 98 1-2 and carry with them a bonus of 25 per cent of common stock, which would give the subscriber one share of common stock for every four bonds of $100 each subscribed for.

The offering has already proved very successful more particularly with small investors throughout the country who have in the present offering a special opportunity of subscribing inasmuch as Messrs. Cawthra Mulock & Co. have arranged to have the bonds of the company issued in denominations of $100 each, has well as of $500 and $1000. The bonds in addition to yielding at their price over 6 1-8 per cent. on the investment, exclusive of the common stock bonus, also bear interest which has been cumulative from August 1st.

Canada Bread Company, Limited, which starts out with large modern bread manufacturing plants in Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, will gradually establish its plants in all the larger cities of the Dominion.

PRINTERS HAD A GREAT DAY AT THEIR PICNIC YESTERDAY

Big Crowd Spent Civic Holiday at Idyl-Wyld—Heavy List of Events Were Run off—Names of the Winners

The all-important printers' picnic took place Saturday to Idyl Wyld, per steamer "Otonabee" and "Manita," and, as usual, there was something doing all the time. The popularity of the event was evidenced by the large crowd in attendance, and all enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

The excitement started at the C. P. R. tracks before the boat pulled out. The "banana man" was going over the track with his push cart trying to get to the wharf, and the wheels stuck fast in a hole. The C.P.R. express was coming over the bridge, and the owner of the cart was in a quandry. The jolly printers, who were near by, and are always ready to extend a helping hand, came forward and released the cart before the oncoming train had reached the crossing.

The time on the water was whiled away with dancing by those who indulged in the favorite pastime. The sail was a very pleasant one, and the weather man was very considerate. The ladies were out in strength with their children.

PROGRAM.

Probably the most important item on the program was the baseball match between the printers and the Mark street A.C., the latter taking the box of cigars by a 9—7 score. There were many brilliant plays in the weeds and trees and the game was exciting all the way.

THE PRIZE WINNERS.

Committee race, 100 years—E. Sherrard, box cigars; Fred Dobbin, calabash pipe.

Consolation race, ladies, 50 yards—Miss Ethel Kennedy, fancy box stationery, Miss Bessie Chrowe, prize value, $1; Miss Lillian Chrowe, bacon.

Consolation race, gentlemen, 100 yards—E. N. McWilliams, pipe in case; Bert Gillespie, pair running shoes.

Pie eating contest—M. Sherwood, value $1; J. Cassels, value 50 cents.

Tug-of-war—J. E. Sharpe's team beat Ernie Bartlett's in one pull—Prize, box of cigars.

The drawing contest for the set of dishes, presented by J. R. Stratton, M.P., was won by Charlie Hardwick, of the C.P.R. ticket office. The lucky number was 105.

Tucker's orchestra supplied the music for dancing during the day.

LOCAL BOWLERS WON TWICE AT TORONTO YESTERDAY

R. M. Waddell's Rink is Climbing up—Crack Rinks Falling by the Wayside

The Peterboro Bowlers won their two games in the nineteenth annual tournament of the Dominion Lawn Bowling Association, which opened yesterday at Toronto.

In the preliminary, R. M. Waddell's rink, beat the rink of F. J. Lightbourn, St. Simons', 18 to 8.

In the first round Dr. Paul's rink, of the Canada Club, fell before the locals 17 to 12.

A number of the crack rinks, who have made a name for themselves in former tournaments, are falling by the wayside. The locals are up against some of the best rinks in Canada and they have their work cut out if they are to be successful in getting near the top.

C.G.E. CHAMPS WALLOPED BY BARACCAS ON SATURDAY

Fast Toronto Eleven Were Too Much for Locals—Score Was 4 to 1.

When the C.G.E. team, Midland League champions, and the Baraccas of Toronto, were through Saturday afternoon the score stood 4 to 1, the C.G.E. team taking the one.

The game, which was played before a large and enthusiastic bunch of fans, was a fairly good exhibition of soccerism. The visitors are a fast aggregation of footballers, all hailing from the old land. They are good individual players but are not selfish, passing freely and at the right moment. Bingham, their captain, had the honor of being on the All Ontario team, which played the Corinthians, the fast Old Country eleven, which is now touring Canada and three of the Baraccas were also on the All Toronto line-up, which was the first team to beat the Corinthians on their present tour. It would be hard to praise individual stars as they all played good ball, no one doing better than another.

The C.G.E. boys, on the other hand, played the game of their lives, but could only connect with the goal once, though they got some good shots in the Toronto goal-keeper, who cleared nicely, the only one which beat him coming from Corless, when Attwood fumbled near the goal and the fast outside right of the Petes was right on top of him. Allen at right half gave stellar support to the forwards, as did all the back division. Though the count was against them, after the first half they were by no means a beaten team until the whistle blew for time. They rained shot after shot at Hardy, who was in goal for the visitors, but he was up and at it all the time and handled everything with lightning-like activity.

The game was practically free from roughness of any kind, although some of the players received slight injuries but that goes with football at any time. The crowd, which persisted in standing on the line, made no little trouble for the linesmen.

For Baraccas Scott scored twice and Grant and McGrath each once.

The line-ups were as follows:—

C. G. E.

Goal—Jones.

Backs—Hull, Evans.

Halves—Allen, Padgett, Hooper.

Forwards—Corless, W. Dawson, Miller, French, E. Dawson.

BARACCAS.

Goal—Hardy.

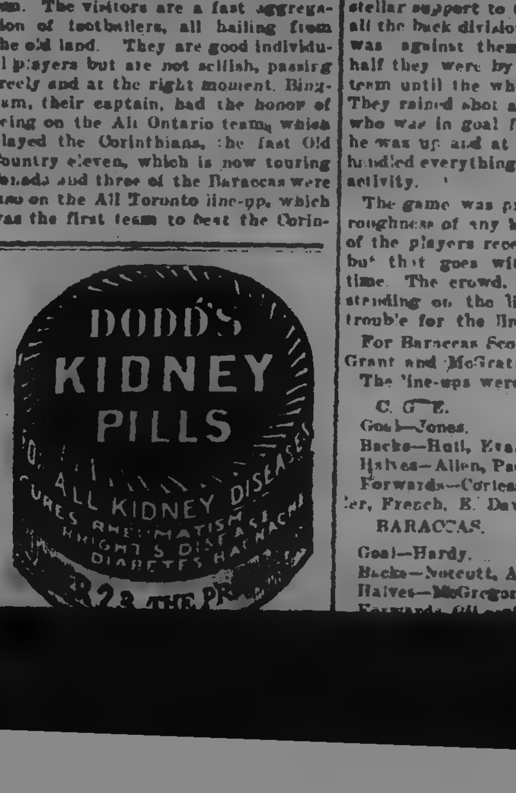
Backs—Norcott, Attwood.

Halves—McGregor, Bingham, Grant.

Forwards—Gillespie, McGrath,

Referee—P. D. Fitzgerald.

Linesmen — McCarroll, Peterboro', Blair, Baraccas.



LEAFS LOST FOURTH STRAIGHT

Cubs are Still in the Lead Orioles Great Fielding Was the Feature Yesterday

Baltimore, Aug 14—The Leafs lost their fourth straight game of the season with the Orioles this afternoon, being whitewashed 2 to 0. The sterling fielding of the Birds kept the Leafs down. Toronto plays at Providence to-day and every game counts. The leaders, Rochester and Baltimore, also play at Baltimore.

Chicago, Aug 14—The Cubs still maintain the leadership of the National League. They beat the Detroit Tigers to-day 2 to 0, Walsh holding the Tigers to one hit.

Put Out Fire With Feet.

Toronto, Aug. 15.—On Saturday night at 10 o'clock at Bathurst and Bloor streets there was some excitement when a Bathurst car caught fire with a crowd on board.

The passengers got off in a hurry, and it was found that the vestibule was badly damaged. The motorman and conductor stamped the flames out with their feet, and the car being disabled had to be pushed to the barns by another car.

Harvey Harbutt, a well-to-do farmer, aged about 40 years, who lived near Jennette's Creek, Kent County, committed suicide by throwing himself into the creek a mile above the iron bridge.

High Constable Green of Guelph arrested two men in Drayton, who had in their possession a complete set of burglars' tools and dynamite. They gave names of J. B. Austin and Bert Willard.

A Kingston youth, 18 years of age, tried to desert his 16-year-old bride by joining the Canadian navy. After he had passed as a single man, his wife appeared on the scene just in time to prevent his leaving.

A true bill charging murder in the first degree was returned by the grand jury of the Chesterfield (Va.) Circuit Court yesterday against Henry Clay Beattie, jr., of Richmond. He will be tried for his life as the alleged murderer of his wife.

Lemieux and Bourassa Meet in Joint Debate.

Thousands Turn Out to Hear New Minister of Marine and Fisheries Exchange Personalities With the National Leader—Crowds Are Noisy But Refrain From Violence—Stand Breaks Down.

Ste. Hyacinthe, Que., Aug. 14.—A political meeting, probably unprecedented in the province as regards the amount of invective and vituperation injected into the speeches and the amount of bad temper displayed, occurred here yesterday afternoon, when Messrs. Bourassa and Lemieux, together with lesser lights, met in joint debate.

From the very outset it was seen that the occasion would be an unusual one, the speakers spending scanty time in the usual words of appreciation, but coming down to pointed personalities at once.

The crowd seemed to take to this style of debate, and cheered wildly, surging around the improvised platform so that it was in imminent danger of collapse.

Mayor Payan presided over the gathering, and had a difficult time in preserving order, the 20,000 people who listened to the speeches proving a somewhat turbulent crowd.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux made a notable speech and attacked Mr. Bourassa with intense vigor. Mr. Bourassa responded in kind, while Mr. Armand Lavergne at times interrupted Mr. Lemieux, who spoke in caustic vein, and several that that gentleman informed him and his supporters that he could use his hands as well as his voice to reply to insults.

Fortunately the threat was not carried out, and the only mishap of the afternoon was the falling away of a portion of the stage, under pressure from the crowd, precipitating a number of newspaper men into the audience.

Sacrament at Sea.

New York, Aug. 14.—Altogether charmed by pretty ten-year-old Mathilde Sinclair, who was the life and the light of the steamship Bremen of the North German Lloyd Line, which arrived yeserday, Archbishop Bruchesi of Montreal, who made the little girl his companion and pet all the way over, conferred the extraordinary honor of personally giving the child her first communion aboard ship. The ceremony has few, if any, precedents.

Mathilda was taken abroad seven years ago by her mother, Mrs. Thos. I. Sinclair, the daughter of a judge, in Amsterdam, N.Y., to be educated. The mother brought her back for a six months' vacation. She is pretty, bright, and speaks several languages. She was easily the most popular passenger on the ship.

In talking with her one day the archbishop discovered she was a Catholic. He was delighted by the coincidence. That this was also the anniversary of the mother's birthday, and the captain added this fact as one of the motives for giving his special spread.

Boy Charged With Arson.

Montreal, Aug. 14.—Camille Ouimet, a boy nine years of age, living at 336 East Sherbrooke street, was arrested on Saturday as a result of statements made at an investigation held by Fire Commissioner Latulippe into the fire that destroyed the factory of Mr. Ledue in Berri lane on Monday last.

Four boys were summoned to attend the court, their names being Camille Ouimet and Alfred, his brother, aged 9 and 8 respectively, Henri Viau and Arthur Belisle, of 252 Berri lane, 12 and 10 years of age.

Belisle told a story of having given matches to Camille Ouimet, who first tried to light a gas jet but failed to do so owing to the meter being turned off. He then got hold of a barrel containing varnish and emptied the contents and threw a burning match on the liquid. The witness stated that Ouimet had twitted his mates for being afraid to join in the doings.

The boy comes up this afternoon for preliminary examination before Fire Commissioner Latulippe.

Jolted From Wagon.

Toronto, Aug. 14.—William Puttock, 13 years, 77 Frizell avenue, was killed Saturday afternoon by being run over by a lumber wagon upon which he, with two other lads, was playing at Bain and Pape avenues.

Howard Chapman, a driver for the York Lumber Co., was resting his horses at the corner when the boys climbed upon it. Chapman, who had not noticed them, started his team. Puttock was jolted from the heavy wagon, the rear wheel of which passed over his neck. He was carried into Dr. Chaffin's office, where he died a few moments later.

Thrown From Train.

Montreal, Aug. 14.—Harry Maynew, 19 Market street, Sherbrook, was found lying on the C.P.R. tracks a few hundred feet out of Windsor station at 9.30 Friday night, having evidently been run over by a passing train.

He suffered amputation of one of his legs and when taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital he was in a weak condition through loss of blood. The story told by the victim at the hospital indicates that he was coming to the city on one of the trains when he was thrown from the steps by a sudden jolt of the cars. His condition is critical.

Somnambulist Falls.

Toronto, Aug. 14.—Walking in his sleep early yesterday morning, John Reynolds, 20 years, fell from a third-storey window at Abraham Bornstein's rooming house, 133 York street. His escape from death was little short of miraculous.

He was removed to St. Michael's Hospital, where he is in a serious condition from shock, but it is said that no bones are broken.

Aldexander Japp, an aviator, narrowly escaped being crushed to death

UNCHARTED SHOAL.

H.M.S. Cornwall Said to Have Struck One.

Halifax, Aug. 14.—That H.M.S. Cornwall struck on a shoal that is uncharted when she went to the relief of the Niobe, is the report of Captain Bankhouse of the Canadian Government steamer Petrel, who was detailed to investigate. Captain Bankhouse has notified the authorities that he found a shoal within seventeen feet at low water not on the chart. That this is the shoal touched by the Cornwall is shown by the course given by Captain Ley of the warship as having been steered by him. The charts show no shallow water between Southwest Lead Buoy from which the Cornwall started in approaching the Niobe and Bon Portage Lodge, Whistling Buoy. This part of the Nova Scotia coast has not been surveyed for more than fifty years, and the work was then only partially done. No vessel drawing as much as the Cornwall or Niobe was ever in those waters before. The Cornwall draws 27 feet. Mariners here say the discovery by the Petrel should be a reason for the Canadian Government to ask that Captain Ley and his officers be exonerated. The Cornwall went into drydock on Saturday. She is found to be badly damaged.

The Pope is Better.

Rome, Aug. 14.—The condition of Pope Pius yesterday was almost stationary but with a tendency toward slow, though general, improvement. His temperature was 98.7, and while the pains in the gouty knee still prevailed, the pontiff suffered much less from pain than on the preceding days of his illness. He also took a greater amount of nourishment and his strength was well maintained.

Although the general condition of his holiness is not yet such as to justify absolute optimism for his recovery, his physicians believe that if there is no relapse he will be able next week to entirely abandon his bed. They say, however, that his convalescence will be a lengthy one, as it will be necessary for him to submit to a severe regimen with regard to both food and work.

Ontario's Crack Shots Gather.

Toronto, Aug. 14.—Entrants from all parts of Ontario will compete at the Ontario Rifle Association meeting which opened at 9 o'clock this morning at Long Branch.

The local battalion of Grenadiers will be represented by Sergt.-Major Hulks, Sergt. Mayo, Corpl. Robert, and Privates Whitborn and Mortimer.

The teams from Ottawa left that city on Saturday. The D.C.O.R. will be represented by Corpl. S. H. McConnell, Lt. W. M. Eastcott, Corpl. W. R. Latimer, Corpl. W. A. Sutherland, Sergt. A. E. Thornton, Corpl. W. J. Mason, Sergt. Wilson and Corpl. F. W. Mooser.

Capt. Willis O'Connor, Sergt. Smith, Sergt. R. McGregor, Sergt. S. Dawson, Pte. F. C. Baillie, Pte. J. H. Davidson, Col. Sergt. C. Hunt, and Pte. J. R. Boone will represent the G.G.F.G., and Lt. Foster will represent the Engineers.

The Coronation Cup will be contested first; then follows the City of Toronto, after which comes the Hamilton trophy, and the day will close with the match for the Osler cabinet.

CAN'T GET CANDIDATE

Lloyd Harris Refuses to Run in Brantford.

Young Liberal Who Opposed Reciprocity in the Commons Declines to Take Brantford Nomination on That Platform and Convention Breaks Up Without Naming a Man—Conservatives Jubilant.

Brantford, Aug. 14.—The hopes of the Liberal party to capture the riding of Brantford were shattered here on Saturday, when, after a fighting convention of several hours' duration, an adjournment for one week was taken without a candidate having been named. Lloyd Harris, the sitting member, who openly opposed the reciprocity pact, refused absolutely to again become a candidate, his refusal being based on the split existing in the party ranks over the reciprocity question. The result leaves the local Conservatives in a jubilant mood, as it is freely conceded by prominent Liberals that Brantford will be redeemed by the Conservatives.

Jacob Messecar presided at the convention, in which great interest centered. E. Sweet, T. H. Preston and John Muir, in addressing the gathering, declared that Mr. Harris had not broken faith with his constituents in opposing reciprocity. The issue was not in the air at the time of his election in 1908. Col. Spence, C. W. Gurney, J. G. Hanmer and others declared for an out and out reciprocity candidate, but it was admitted that there was no nominee in sight who would accept the nomination and who could be depended upon to carry the riding.

At this stage Mr. Harris was called and asked if he would support reciprocity if the Laurier Government were returned. Mr. Harris replied that he would not He asked that his name be dropped as a possible candidate.

Nominations were then called for, and T. H. Preston, C. B. Heyd, C. W. Gurney, M. W. McEwen, John Muir, J. A. Messecar and Mr. Harris were named, but all retired. An effort was made to get Mr. Harris to consent by an unanimous vote, but this failed, and the gathering was adjourned.

Brantford Conservatives, by an unanimous vote on Saturday, nominated W. F. Cockshutt as their standard-bearer in the approaching federal election.

Nominations In Nova Scotia.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 14.—Three Conservative nominations were made on Saturday in Nova Scotia. The Lunenburg convention was held at Mahone Bay, where Dr. Dugald Stewart was nominated. Dr. Stewart is an ex-mayor of Bridgewater, and for six years was in the Town Council.

Dr. J. J. Cameron was nominated by the Conservatives of Antigonish.

In Guysboro conventions were held in two districts of the county at the same time, St. Mary's and Sherbrooke. They both named G. A. R. Rowlings, who was the Conservative candidate at the last general election.

Again the Candidate.

Cobourg, Aug. 14.—As was expected at the West Northumberland Liberal convention, held here Saturday afternoon, the nomination was given to J. B. McColl, who has represented the riding in three Parliaments.

H. M. Mowat to Run.

Beaverton, Aug. 14.—H. M. Mowat of Toronto, president of the Ontario Reform Association, was chosen at the Liberal convention yesterday to contest North Ontario against Major Sam Sharpe.

McMillan for Glengarry.

Alexandria, Aug. 14.—At a well-attended Liberal convention here yesterday afternoon, A. A. McMillan, the former member, was unanimously chosen to contest Glengarry. He is an agent for the sale of agricultural implements.

Andrew McMaster, Montreal, was one of the speakers.

East Middlesex Conservatives.

London, Ont., Aug. 14.—The East Middlesex Conservatives yesterday afternoon nominated Peter Elson, M.P. of London Township, for the Commons, and the Liberals of the same riding named Dr. Reutledge of Lambeth. Mr. Elson defeated Dr. Reutledge at the general election before the last one.

Gordon Again Named.

North Bay, Aug. 14.—Nipissing Conservative delegates on Saturday nominated George Gordon, who represented the riding in the Parliament just dissolved. Hon. George E. Foster, Hon. Frank Cochrane, Harry Morel, M.P.P., R. T. Shillington, MP.P., and A. A. Aubin, M.P.P., were among the speakers.

Strikes Come Expensive.

London, Aug. 14.—London is almost its self again to-day. A few hours sufficed to release the flood of traffic which had been held up for several days, and supplies were rushed out to replenish the empty markets and stores shortly after the settlement of the strike was officially announced.

It is estimated that the week's strike of the dockmen and carriers has cost the metropolis at least $7,500,000. The carmen employed by two railroad companies claim to have private grievances, and refuse to return to work under the general settlement. They threatened to again paralyze the city traffic. It is generally recognized that the effect of the substantial increase in wages which has been conceded the strikers, will be to considerably enhance the already high cost of living in London.

RIOTS IN LIVERPOOL

Strike Results in Death of Policeman and Many Injuries.

Altercation Between Constable and Strikers Results In Fight and General Melee Occurs — Riot Act Is Read and Troops Are Called Out—Crowds Barricade Themselves In Narrow Slum Streets and Fight.

Liverpool, Aug. 14.—Serious rioting growing out of the strike which is in progress here occurred yesterday afternoon. One policeman was killed, by being struck on the head with a brick, and many persons were injured.

An altercation between a policeman and strikers during a transport workers' demonstration at St. George's Hall started the trouble, which culminated in a general melee. When after this disorder had been put down, and the strikers scattered, they gathered again in the Islington quarter and resumed their attacks upon the minions of the law and with serious results.

One hundred thousand men were gathered in groups about St. George's Hall listening to speeches by labor agitators, and the scenes of violence following the attack upon a policeman necessitated the calling out of the police reserves. When they arrived one party of fifteen policemen were surrounded and disarmed, the rioters attacking them with their own batons. In the fight the commanding officer of the police was dangerously wounded.

So great was the disorder that the Riot Act was read and the troops were called out to assist the police. The mob fought desperately with sticks and stones, and, in fact, with any handy missiles. Gradually, however, by the combined efforts of the troops and police, the crowds, which were surrounding seven speakers' platforms erected on the plateau fronting the hall, were cleared away. Many policemen and rioters were injured in the hand-to-hand fighting. The rioters have threatened to attack the newspaper offices, which are closely guarded. After the fight St. George's Hall was converted into a temporary hospital and the wounds of many persons were attended to by physicians.

Driven from the centre of the city the crowd sullenly repaired to the Islington quarter, one of the lowest and roughest in Liverpool. Here the police were baffled in the narrow streets, for the desperate rioters' barricaded themselves in the houses and volleyed down bricks, slates and chimney pots from the roofs upon their heads.

While the details as to casualties still are incomplete, Constable Cookson was killed by a blow on the head, and Superintendent of Police Bolton was taken to a hospital in a precarious condition. It is rumored that some houses were set on fire during the disturbances.

The outbreak, it is alleged, was largely due to the strikers' resentment of indiscreet conduct on the part of members of the police force brought here from Birmingham to assist in maintaining order. Tom Mann, who was one of the leaders of the demonstration, has lodged a formal protest with the chief constable against what he describes as a brutal attack by a Birmingham constable on one of the strikers.

Disorders at Glasgow.

London, Aug. 14.—While the strike troubles in London are ended, the situation in the provinces is rapidly growing worse. In addition to rioting yesterday at Liverpool, there were serious disorders at Glasgow, where the street car service had to be completely closed down. Thirty thousand workmen met on Glasgow Green, and the strike leaders threatened drastic measures if the non-union men continued to take the place of strikers. Scuffles with the police led to wild scenes of disorder, in which there was stone-throwing on the part of the workmen and baton charges by the police. Much damage was done to street cars by the strikers before the service was suspended. Cars were pulled off the tracks and their trolley poles removed, windows were smashed and timbers were laid on the rails or strikers sat on the tracks in a body in order to impede the progress of the cars. Many persons were injured.

The transport and railway workers of Manchester and Salford have resolved to strike this evening if the Liverpool and Manchester disputes are not settled in the meantime.

A labor demonstration was held in Trafalgar Square here yesterday afternoon to welcome a party of laborite members of the French Chamber of Deputies. The speakers included Ramsay Macdonald, Ben Tillett and J. K. Hardie, all of whom emphasized the importance of the triumph of the workmen in the London strike and the uniting of international workers, who would have a good deal to say in international politics. Mr. Tillett said that before long the railway workers would join the transport federation and then if soldiers were summoned to the scene of a strike they would have to walk in order to get there.

Scots Greys Guard Food.

Liverpool, Aug. 14.—Armed with sabres and carbines and furnished with ball cartridges, strong detachments of the Royal Scots Greys succeeded in effecting the removal on Saturday of goods, which had been tied up at the central depots by the striking dockmen and carriers.

Six hundred tons of foodstuffs were moved in one procession, which was accompanied by magistrates, who were mounted, and as they rode along carried in their hands copies of the Riot Act. The strikers looked on sullenly, but showed no disposition for a conflict with the well-armed soldiers.

Died Suddenly.

Gananoque, Aug. 14.—Edward A. Dorman, for twenty years agent for the G.T.R. at Gananoque Junction, died suddenly Saturday night. He was born in Whitby 82 years ago, his father having been an old newspaper man.

Three aeroplanes were wrecked at the international aviation meet being held at Chicago.

PURPOSES OF COMPANY

Canada Bread Company, Limited, has acquired as going concerns the plants and businesses of the Bredin Bread Company, Limited, of Toronto; Geo. Weston, (The Model Bakery), of Toronto; H. C. Tomlin, (Toronto Bakery), of Toronto; Stuarts, Limited, of Montreal, and W. J. Boyd, of Winnipeg. In the case of Boyd, the real properties are excluded, but a parcel of vacant land in the City of Winnipeg, about two acres in extent, is substituted. The first three companies have been in operation for almost thirty years, and the last two for close to twenty years. They have all grown from small beginnings till they are now among the largest in their respective fields in Canada. The combined output of the companies at present is, approximately, 600,000 loaves of bread per week. It is intended, by extensions to the present plants and the erection or aquisition of new plants, to forthwith increase the output of the Company to one million loaves per week. Modern plants will later be added in the other large cities. The sum of $1,000,000 cash is being placed in the treasury to provide for the erection of the proposed new plants and to supply ample working capital.

POSITION OF BONDS

For full particulars reference may be made to our prospectus, which is accompanied by a letter from Mr. Mark Bredin, the Vice-President and General Manager of the Company. We draw attention to the following points:—

1. The present $1,250,000 of 6 per cent. First Mortgage Sinking Fund thirty-year gold bonds are secured by trust deeds to Guardian Trust Company, Limited, Toronto, constituting a first mortgage on all the property, real, personal or mixed, now owned or hereafter acquired by the Company, as more fully described in said trust deeds. In the trust deeds it is specially stipulated that of the $1,000,000 cash being placed in the treasury, the sum of $500,000 shall be held by the Trustee, to be used only in the redemption of bonds or in investment in additional plants and real estate, thus increasing the fixed assets under the mortgage. A Sinking Fund of 1 per cent. is operative from August 1, 1911.

2. The assets of the companies already taken over stand in excess of all liabilities, and without any allowance for good will, trade marks, etc., at $841,428 70. There has also been placed in the treasury, $1,066,221.08 of cash, which, besides furnishing funds for the purchasing or construction of additional plants, will provide ample working capital.

3. The earnings of the present plants, as per certificate of Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., after allowing for depreciation, amounted from April 30th, 1910, to April 30th, 1911, to $107,016.14, to which may be added $35,000, being interest at the rate of 3½ per cent. on $1,000,000 cash in the treasury pending its employment on extensions. It is estimated that, with the economies to be effected, the earnings on these plants will shortly amount to $180,000 a year, or nearly two and one-half times the bond interest.

4. With the extensions that it is proposed to effect forthwith, the Company by the end of its first fiscal year should be in a position to show earnings of $260,000 a year, equal to three and one-half times the interest requirements on the bond issue, and with all the additional plants that will be provided with the cash now in the treasury, the earnings should steadily gain to over $530,000 a year, or more than seven times the bond interest requirements.

5. The Company, with its plants situated in the larger cities of the different Provinces of Canada, will be in an exceptionally favorable position to benefit by the marked economies that will be possible in manufacturing, and more especially in distribution, and all the time will be turning out a more uniform product under the most sanitary condition.

6. The practical men who have made the different companies particularly successful will be identified with the management and direction of the new Company. Mr. Mark Bredin, who is probably one of the most successful bread manufacturers in Canada, will occupy the position of Vice-President and General Manager, while the services of the heads of four of the different companies taken over, and of an efficient representative of the fifth, have been assured to the Company.

Incendiary Fire at Ann Arbor.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 14.—The western half of the medical building, one of the oldest structures on the University of Michigan grounds, was destroyed last night by a fire thought to be of incendiary origin.

The flames originated on the fourth floor, which was unoccupied at the time and where there were no live electric wires.

The eastern section of the building, which is to be equipped as a medical museum by funds now being raised by Michigan alumni in all parts of the world, was saved. No estimate of the loss has yet been made.

Bumper Crop of Apples.

Detroit, Aug. 14.—According to the official forecast of the International Apple Shippers' Association, which closed its annual convention here on Saturday, Canada and the United States will have a bumper apple crop this year, exceeding last year's crop by at least 35 per cent., or 5,500,000 barrels.

The eastern section of Canada shows an increase of at least 100 per cent. The crop is reported to be generally of good quality.

The 1912 convention will be held in Chicago.

Three Aeroplanes Wrecked.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 14.—A series of accidents that put three aeroplanes out of business without injuring their drivers, together with a downcast sky that threatened to develop into a downpour any minute did not serve to mar the score of the first day of the international aviation meet on Saturday.

A. L. Welsh and W. G. Beatty both broke the American records for elapsed time, with a passenger. Welsh remained up two hours and four minutes, and Beatty two hours and eleven minutes.

King George has sent a telegram to the president of the London Board of Trade congratulating him on the ending of the strike.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The British Commons has decided not to adjourn until strike troubles are ended.

Mr. Hugh Guthrie denies the report that he has any intention of retiring from politics.

Edward Jessop, arrested on a charge of receiving stolen goods, escaped from the lock-up at Port Stanley.

Three young people from Carleton Place were drowned in Mississippi Lake, their canoe capsizing while being towed behind a launch.

Rev. Hugh McGuire, of Chicago, reputed to be the premier Catholic educator of the American priesthood, is dead at Hamburg, Germany.

Fire at Chester Park, an amusement resort on the northern boundary of Cincinnati, destroyed many amusement building at a loss of $175,000.

The steam barge Mary Louise, loaded with a cargo of wooden boxes, was sunk near Brewer's Mills on the Rideau River, and is in bad shape. All the crew escaped.

Percy J. Potter, a Kingston mason, had a miraculous escape from death when he fell a distance of 25 feet off a scaffold at Odessa. He only suffered a severe shaking up.

The C.P.R. statement for the year ending June 30 shows a surplus of nearly twenty-eight million dollars. The usual quarterly dividend were declared by the director.

An important meeting was held at the old Methodist chapel at Hay Bay—which is described as the mother church of Methodism in Canada. It is to be taken over and preserved.

STONEY LAKE REGATTA ONE OF THE BEST IN THE HISTORY OF THE RESORT

Fine Weather and Large and Enthusiastic Crowd for the Event—Contests Were Well Filled and Very Keen—Presentation of Prizes and Dancing—A Splendid Regatta

Although it is saying quite a bit, yet it was the unanimous opinion of those who are competent to judge, that the annual regatta of the Stony Lake Cottagers' Association held yesterday to Juniper Island, eclipsed any similar event at Stony Lake. Not only was a record crowd present, but the splendid list of aquatic sports evoked the keenest and most spirited competition of many years. Stony Lake inhabitants turned out en masse and a splendid boat service from Peterborough contributed to swell the number of visitors. At one time twelve steamers and craft of various sizes were at the Juniper wharf.

The regatta sports were opened by the sailing events which commenced at 12.30 p.m., the three events in that class getting off together. Although the breeze earlier in the morning was not especially favorable for sailing, it increased considerably later and was of sufficient strength to make the races exciting. Getting off with a good start, the three entries, in the open sailing event buckled down. Mr. J. Aikens' speedy craft, the 'Independent," a new boat on the waters, came home a winner, and passed the judges' stand with an ample lead. The win seemed to be a general favorite with the crowd.

The canoe sailing was won by Mr. Rice, with Mr. Russel second. There were five entries for this event, which lent a bunch of excitement while it was in progress.

The dinghy race, 14 foot boats, was won by Mr. T. C. Elliott's boat by a big margin. Ross Cameron's craft landed second prize.

The judges' stand was occupied by Messrs. E. V. Moore, G. Henderson, J. S. Knapman, J. Clark-Acton, Mr. Piper and Ross Cameron. These gentlemen and others worked energetically and lent material aid towards making the regatta such a rattling success.

The splendid line of silverware in the way of cups, were each won after hard fights. The cup donated this year by Mr. Harry Stock for the best men's single canoe event, went to Harry Simpson, he winning out handily. Gordon Graham was second.

The cup for the open motor boat race was won by John Robinson, of Toronto, in his speedy boat 'Marko." His motor boat was a speed marvel and made the spectators open their eyes, when her class was shown.

The handicap motor boat event also travelled his way and Mr. Gollett in the "Lefroy" was a good second.

The ladies' championship cup this year went to Miss Genevieve Sanderson, and the gentleman's championship trophy to Mr. J. Clark-Acton. The Stratton trophy was not up for competition this year, it being in the possession of Mr. J. H. Knapman, who won it for three consecutive summers.

The motor boat open event was a particularly fine and spectacular event. Unfortunately the 'Beatrice" driven by Mr. Jack Castor, did not get away in this event, something going wrong with her just before the gun was fired for the start. The handicap was also well contested, but the "Marco" again showed up well and sped home an easy winner.

The following were the events and the names of the winners;—

Boys single canoe, under 15—Norman Peters, Morson Smith, G. McDonald.

Ladies' Single Canoe—1st, Genevieve Sanderson; 2nd Miss McCallum.

Ladies' Single Skiff—1st, Miss Eddice; 2nd Genevieve Sanderson.

Men's Single Canoe—1st Harry Simpson; 2nd, Gordon Graham.

Men's Tandem Skiff—1st Messrs. Adon, and Fraser; 2nd, Rice Bros.

Boys' Tandem Skiff, under 15—1st, C. McDonald and Morson Smith; 2nd, G. McDonald and A. Hardy.

Ladies' Tandem Skiff—1st, Genevieve Sanderson and Alma Knapman; 2nd, Leonore Sanderson and Frances Routley.

Men's Single Skiff—1st, J. Clark Acton; 2nd, Gordon Fraser.

Crab Race—1st, Heber Rogers; 2nd, Harold Lees.

Scouts' Race—1st, Slippery Dick, 2nd H. McKenzie.

Men's Single Canoe—1st, Mr. Cumberland; 2nd, Harry Simpson.

Men's Swimming Race—1st, Jack Davis; 2nd, Heber Rogers.

Boys' Swimming Race—1st, Morson Smith.

Mixed Tandem Canoe—1st, Percy Stock and Miss O. Cavanagh; 2nd, Mr. Wood and Miss Genevieve Sanderson.

Ladies Swimming Race—1st, Miss Gillette; 2nd, Miss Delafosse.

Men's Tandem Canoe—1st, Graham and Cumberland; 2nd, Routley and Wood.

Ladies' Tandem Canoe—1st, Misses Sanderson; 2nd, Miss Willoughbey and Miss M. Aitkens.

Tilting—1st, Harold Lees.

Mixed Tandem Skiff—1st, Clark Acton and Miss Minns; 2nd, Gordon Fraser and Miss G. Sanderson.

Men's Fours—1st, Rice Bros., and Russel Bros.; 2nd, Hatton, Matthews, Eastwood and Hull.

Tub Race—1st, H. Knapman; 2nd, Reg. Stratton. (swamped)

IN THE EVENING

In the evening the scene at Juniper was one of remarkable brilliancy and gaiety. The lace was literally thronged and the glittering multi-colored light flashing on the pretty costumes of the people, presented a scene at once picturesque and entrancing. The Peterboro Grand Opera House orchestra supplied delightful music, which floated out from the pavilion and over the water with delightful and appealing effect. The earlier portion of the evening was occupied by the prize presenting ceremonies. Mr. G. Henderson and J. S. Knapman officiated at this, most capably, and as the successful ones, both ladies and gentlemen came forward to accept their prizes, they were enthusiastically cheered. Mr. James Aiken, whose popular win in the open sailing was before noted, came in for an extra share of the applause.

This over, the orchestra again struck up, and to its suitable strains the light footed young folks commenced the tripping pastime. As the hour became late the merry-makers gradually dispersed and the regatta of 1911 passed into history, as one of the best and most largely attended in the annals of Stony Lake lore.

At Police Court this morning, a black listor was assessed $10. and Hector Davidson, a river driver, who was found drunk yesterday was allowed to go as it was his first offence.

Mr R. Pinchin, of the Peterboro' and Lake Simcoe Navigation Company received a telegram from the G.T.R. agent at Belleville this morning stating that about eight hundred excursionists would take in the trip to Peterborough to-morrow. The excursionists will have dinner in the city and in the afternoon any who wish may have a trip over the Peterborough Lift Lock on the steamer "Otonabee."

The members of St. James' Sunday school enjoyed an outing at Chemong Park yesterday.

The street car service on the Jackson Park line was tied up for a while on Saturday evening, when one of the open cars left the track. Another car was sent behind the repair car and the passengers were transferred.

BOATS BUSY

Crowds Spent Holiday on Water Trips

The navigation company's boats were busy as nailers yesterday, and the river and the lake presented an animated appearance. Of the Peterborough fleet, the Geneva, which took the S.O.E. excursion to Stony Lake, carried 215. The Otonabee and Monarch carried the Typos to Idyl Wyld, there being about 450 on the Otonabee, while the Manita made her regular trip to Rice Lake, carrying a capacity crowd. The Water Lily went up the canal to the lake, carrying a big crowd and the Empress with the C.O.F. excursion was also loaded.

St. Peter's Court, Catholic Order of Foresters, had a most pleasant excursion down the river to Jubilee and Gore's Landing on the steamer Rainbow and barge. It was a splendid day for water trips, and the outings were thoroughly enjoyed. The Stoney Lake made her regular trips.

Many people went out of town by train, so many, in fact, that two extra coaches were added to the C.P.R. train at Burketon Junction. The trains coming back last night were also crowded.

JUNIOR MATRIC RESULTS GIVEN

Successful Candidates in City and County are Announced

The junior matriculation examination results for Peterborough Collegiate Institute were announced on Saturday. The following obtained full matriculation standing:

Howard Armstrong, Clarence Armstrong, Harold Bonus, Estelle Cuffe, Joseph Collins, Vernon Craig, Kevin Corkery, Hubert Eastwood, Margaret Edwards, Sophie Elliott, Willie Hatrick, Meredith Huycke, Ernest Langford, Gordon Matthews, Alvin Morrow, Fossie Mitchell, Hazel Moffat, Sanfield Sheehy, Katie Skinner.

The following obtained partial matriculation standing:

Phyllis Denne, Willie Harstone, Harry Leahy, John Marsh, Robena Montgomery, Willie Stewart, Genevieve Sullivan.

Wallace Armstrong passed the examination for the School of Pharmacy.

Only three students from the local Collegiate Institute, who tried the junior matriculation examination in full or part, failed. This is a splendid showing.

Harold Lees and Ernest Porter, who were not in attendance at the Collegiate, completed their matriculation examination.

In the list from Toronto, combining both city and county pupils, the following county names are given—full standing:—K. O. Cumberland, R. Carter, J. Collins, T. S. Falkner, M. J. A. Frost, P. E. McNeely, D. J. Sheehan, B. Tudhope. Partial—G. F. Brewster, B. Malane.

C. O. F. EXCURSION HELD YESTERDAY

To Jubilee Point per Steamer "Rainbow" and The "Palace Barge"

The Catholic Order of Foresters excursion yesterday to Jubilee Point per steamer "Rainbow" and palace barge was largely attended.

The palace barge served as a dance hall and was well patronized. A pleasant time was spent by everyone and the return trip was made in good time, the boat arriving at the Wolfe street wharf about 8.15 o'clock.

SALVATION ARMY BAND RETURNS

After a Trip to Fenelon Falls and Lindsay—No Concert in the Victoria Park To-night

The Salvation Army band returned home on the Flyer last night, after a good week-end at Fenelon Falls, and Lindsay. They left on Saturday morning on the 11.30 arriving at Fenelon Falls at 1.30 p.m., where a good supper was awaiting them. At 7 o'clock they gave a good open air concert on the street, and at 8 o'clock rendered a good program in Dickson's Hall which was very much appreciated. Reeve Sams was chairman. The meetings on Sunday were conducted by the band, a concert being given in the park in the afternoon.

The band left at 8 a.m. yesterday morning for Lindsay where two concerts were rendered, one in the afternoon and one in the evening.

Owing to a number of the band being out of town and inclement weather there will be no concert held in Victoria park this evening.

ROUSING MEETING IN LONDON OPENS MR. BORDEN'S CAMPAIGN

CONSERVATIVE LEADER EXPOSES EVIL OF RECIPROCITY IN A MASTERLY FASHION

Will Disrupt the Imperial Tie—Not in Accord With With Laurier's Professed Platform of British Trade—A Sweeping Condemnation.

London, Aug. 16.—It was an alert, quickened apprehensive 3,000 that greeted R. L. Borden at the opening meeting of the general election campaign here last night. The reciprocity question filled the air. There was room for little else. London was eager to hear Mr. Borden and the message he gave left no mistaken impression.

Mr. Borden was convincing and at times warming. There was an absence of flambuoyant oratory, but a wealth of sound, earnest reasoning. There was no appeal to race prejudice or jingoism, but a successful entreaty to Canadians to preserve for themselves their fiscal freedom.

He assailed the Government condemning the attitude of Sir Wilfrid and his colleagues in acceding to President Taft's request. He contradicted the argument that reciprocity had been the hope of all parties in Canada for forty years. Reciprocity was a seduction and designed only to promote the interests of a political party in the United States.

He inveighed against secret diplomatic tariffs, and declared that the Canadian tariff policy should be worked out by Parliamentary control. "Then, and then only," he declared, "can we preserve and maintain the true fiscal independence and autonomy of the Canadian nation. And above that let us take no steps which may weaken or imperil the ties which unite us to our world-wide empire, dowered with the imperishable memories of a glorious past and crowned with the confidence and hope for a still more splendid future."

"Our strong determination," he declared, "is to preserve our freedom of action and thus to work out our destiny, which, affirmed here by our own voice and along our own lines, will most assuredly win the respect of our neighbors, who have given their own inspiring example." That the national appeal was stronger than the citation of figures regarding prices and profits, spurious speculations and the like, was manifested by the oft-recurring applause that greeted every reference to the development of a Canadian type.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier had in 1907 at the imperial conference made the following declarations, from which he had departed in 1911.

"If we are to follow the laws of nature and geography between Canada and the United States, the whole trade would flow south to north, and from north to south. We have done everything possible by building canals and subsidizing railways to bring the trade from west to east and east to west so as to bring trade into British channels. All this we have done, recognizing the principle of the great advantage of forcing trade within the British Empire. There is no boundary line except a purely conventional one over the whole territory of North America. Their habits are the same as ours, and therefore we are induced to trade and cannot help it by the force of nature. But so far as legislation can influence trade, we have done everything possible to push our trade towards the British people as against the American people.

"There was a time when we wanted reciprocity with the United States, but our efforts and our offers were put aside. We have said good-bye to that trade, and we now put all our hopes upon the British trade.

"Does the Prime Minister also realize that twelve foreign nations with an aggregate population of three hundred millions and an enormous production of agricultural and animal products will also have access to the free Canadian market. Canada will receive no reciprocal advantages from these countries; and the United States producer will not be exposed to the same competition.

"If Canada can be neutral when Great Britain is attacked," he said, discussing the navy, "why cannot Britain be neutral when Canada is attacked?"

Wm. Gray, president of the London Conservative Association, was in the chair. He spoke briefly, directing attention to the dominant move before the country. Major Beattie spoke briefly.

A warm reception was accorded to Hon. Adam Beck. Mr. Beck did not trespass at length upon the time of the audience, but he felt he would not be doing his duty as a Conservative and a representative of the City of London if he did not come forward and lend his hand to help Mr. Borden in the fight against reciprocity. The Conservative leader was able to rise above party bias and deal with such questions on a statesmanlike basis.

THE CONSERVATIVE PLATFORM

The Liberal-Conservative party, through its leader, Mr. R. L. Borden, gives its pledge to carry out the following policy if returned to power;—

"1 A thorough reorganization of the method by which public expenditure is supervised. The increase in what is known as ordinary controllable expenditure from $21,500,000 in 1896, to nearly $74,000,000 in 1911, is proof of extravagance beyond any possible denial.

"2. The granting of their natural resources to the Prairie Provinces.

"3. The construction of the Hudson Bay Railway, and its operation by independent commission.

"4 The control and operation by the State of the terminal elevators.

"5 The necessary encouragement for establishing and carrying on the chilled meat industry.

"6 The establishment of a permanent tariff commission.

"7 The granting of substantial assistance towards the improvement of our public highways.

"8 The extension of free rural mail delivery.

"9. The extension of civil service reform.

"10 The granting of liberal assistance to the provinces for the purpose of supplementing and extending the work of agricultural education and for the improvement of agriculture.

"And, lastly, it pledges itself to a course of policy and administration which will maintain independent and unimpaired the control of our own affairs by the Parliament of Canada; a policy which, while affording no just cause of complaint to any foreign nation, will find its highest ideal in the autonomous development of Canada as a nation within the British Empire."

LAURIER SAYS THAT HE DOES NOT FEAR ANNEXATION CRY

Premier Opens His Campaign by Simcoe Meeting—Belittles Cry of Assimilation by American Commerce—History of Reciprocity.

Simcoe, Aug. 16.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier fired the first shot in the general election campaign here yesterday. He made it plain that reciprocity with the United States in natural products was the issue.

He repudiated the suggestion that closer trade relations with the United States might lead to annexation, and with some bitterness said: "Let Mr. Borden answer for the Tories; I will answer for the Grits." Further on he said: "The talk of annexation is beneath the contempt of serious people."

He claimed that the leaders of public thought in Canada for the past forty years had favored reciprocity with the United States, hence it was natural that this policy should be adopted by him. The present Conservative leaders he called renegades.

He held that the agreement with the United States could be terminated on a day's notice, and that it would not interfere with the action of Canada should Great Britain make advances to us in the matter of mutual preferential trade. If it did, then so much the worse for the agreement with the United States. If the attitude of Great Britain regarding preference changed at any time, Canada would be ready to meet the change.

The effect of the favored-nations' treaties was very slight, he said, claiming that the countries that would be brought into competition with Canada were of little importance, and the goods they sold Canadians did not interfere with Canadian products.

The fact that John Carlton, who for 25 years represented Norfolk in the House of Commons, was the champion all his life of freer trade relations with the United States, and had his home in this town made Simcoe a fit place for Sir Wilfrid Laurier to utter his battle-cry in favor of reciprocity.

The issue of the campaign was reciprocity between Canada and the United States. He believed the agreement was a measure mutually beneficial to both countries, but he did not hesitate to say that it was more beneficial to Canada than to the United States.

If any man in public life in Canada had given his mind to this question of reciprocity with the United Sattes, that man was Sir John A. Macdonald. He was the Moses of the policy of reciprocity, but like Moses he was not destined to see the promised land. It might not be that he, Sir Wilfrid, would be the Joshua that would carry the people of Canada to that goal.

A voice: "Yes, you will."

He said that the United States was prepared to go further than Canada in the matter of letting down the bars. They were prepared to go all along the line. "We could not go that far. We stand for stability of tariff and no revision until after study. We were prepared at all times to have reciprocity in natural products."

It was said if this agreement was adopted it would lead to annexation. How would it? He would like to discuss this question frankly and with common sense. "How would it come about that the United States would annex us? There could be only two ways, either by violence or by persuasion. No one had ever heard that it was the intention of the U. S. to annex Canada, war had not been declared. Would the reciprocity agreement render so much benefit to Canada that we would be seduced from our allegiance?

"I will tell Mr. Borden this, if he will answer for the Tories, I will answer for the Grits."

Sir Wilfrid spoke in the open air to a gathering of 3,500 people, composed of towns folk and yeomen from the surrounding neighborhood. It was a well-ordered, attentive and appreciative audience; at no time was the applause prolonged or uproarious, but the patriotic and personal parts of Sir Wilfrid's address were thoroughly applauded and frequently cheered.

The meeting was called to order at two o'clock by Mr. H. M. Mowat, president of the Ontario Reform Association, Toronto. He spoke briefly, congratulating Simcoe and Norfolk on being chosen for the opening meeting in the campaign, and extending thanks for the honor done him, as president of the reform association by being chosen chairman.

The first speaker was Hon. W. A. Charlton, brother of the late John Charlton, and present Liberal candidate in Norfolk. He told of the reluctance with which he had accepted the nomination. His friends had reminded him that it was his duty to go into battle. He had met Hon. S. H. Blake on the train, and he had told him that it was his absolute duty to go into the campaign now and support Sir Wilfrid, and Mr. Fielding and prevent a change of Government that might be made in favor of Mr. Borden.

Stewards Acquitted.

Montreal, Aug 16.—The case against 57 stewards of the Allan liner Victorian charged with "disobedience to lawful commands" was yesterday dismissed by Judge Leet, who held that the men had been illegally arrested, as the police had no warrants. The men thereupon filed past the captain, saluting him, and reported for duty.

Liverpool, Aug. 16.—After numerous cavalry charges, several volleys were fired by the infantry here this morning in an effort to quell the threatening and rioting mobs. Two strikers were killed and order was finally restored.

RECEPTIONS SHOWERED ON ADMIRAL TOGO

① ADMIRAL TOGO, ② BARON UCHIDA, JAPANESE AMBASSADOR, AND ③ CAPTAIN T. M. POTTS, U.S.N. LEAVING NAVY DEPT.

Receptions continue to be showered on Admiral Togo. While in Washington the grizzled naval hero was honored by Cabinet officers of the United States. Admiral Togo has expressed amazement over the conditions he has found existing in the United States. He has read much and studied a good deal concerning the country, but literature, he says, cannot convey to the mind the wonders that the eye sees.

TWO AVIATORS ARE KILLED; BUT AIRMEN KEEP ON FLYING

Wealthy Young Man Dashed to Death Because of Flaw in Propeller—Johnstone Drowned in Lake.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Two aviators, William R. Badger of Pittsburg and St. Croix Johnstone of Chicago, both young men, lost their lives at the international aviation meet here yesterday. In dying, both revealed the frailty of the craft in which two-score more aviators were curving and gliding about the air, with scarcely a pause for the deaths of their contemporaries.

Death in both cases was due to unexplained accidents, probably the result of unsuspected defects in the mechanism of the machines, and was in no way caused by carelessness nor lack of responsibility of the drivers.

Badger, a wealthy youth, careened to his death in a pit in the aviation field. There had been a flaw in one of the wings of the propellor of the Baldwin machine which he drove. Centrifugal force broke the propeller, upset the delicate equilibrium of the machine, and Badger dashed 100 feet to the bottom of the pit, his neck being broken.

Johnstone fell 500 feet under his engine and was drowned as the result of an equally unsuspected defect. Caught under the heavy engine in the Moisant monoplane, he was carried deep into Lake Michigan, and his body was not brought to the surface until an hour later.

Badger lived for 45 minutes after he had been extricated from the remains of his engine. He did not recover consciousness and died almost at once after he had reached a hospital. His death was the first serious accident of the meet, although 35 flyers have dipped and glided here for three days.

St. Croix Johnstone's wife saw her husband fall, but she was told that he had been rescued and rushed to the hotel to meet him. His father, Dr. Stuart Johnstone, had left the grounds twenty minutes earlier.

LIVED IN TORONTO.

Special to the Review.

Toronto, August 16.—St. Croix Johnstone's mother resides at 841 Bloor street, Toronto. Friends of the family stated to-day that Johnstone told his mother the last time he saw her that he had a premonition he would shortly meet with a fatal or serious accident.

THE TROUBLE IN PORTUGAL

Republican Government is Rather Shaky

Lisbon, Aug. 16.—These are anxious weeks in Portugal. The men forming the Provisional Government are doing their constructive work upon the Republic in a singular confusion of distrust, extreme idealism, the hostility of old interests, the disappointed hopes of new elements, and the sober, determined disinterestedness of the few. The monarchists have a secret organization within the country, and are openly conspiring without. The nobility and many of the wealthy men of Portugal support the monarchical principle.

Something like $100,000,000 has been withdrawn from the country in capital or through the sale of properties since October of last year.

The monarchists have a military organization in Spain, with abundant funds, stores of arms, ammunition, artillery, and various equipment. It seems as though an attempted invasion and rising could not be indefinitely delayed. The monarchists have invested so largely and have raised such hopes that they must make an attempt even under great risks. They contend that they have the support of the Jesuits.

Restigouche and Kent.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 16.—Restigouche Conservatives yesterday nominated W. S. Montgomery, mayor of Dalhousie, as candidate in the coming elections and Kent County Conservatives selected F. J. Robidoux as their standard-bearer.

ASTOR'S BRIDE TO BE ECONOMICAL

Won't Spend More Than $1000 For Trousseau.

New York, Aug. 16.—It became the opinion of some Fifth avenue modistes to-day that Miss Madeleine Force, the young fiancee of Col. John Jacob Astor, is to be very economical in the arrangements for her wedding trousseau. It was learned on the avenue that she and Col. Astor drove in a taxicab to five shops Monday afternoon, where the young woman made it plain that $1,000 would be the limit of expenditure for her wedding finery.

In contrast to the $20,000 which a recent society girl is said to have spent on her trousseau, including $2,500 for a single gown, it was said that Miss Force objected to a $250 creation which one modiste showed her, and found one at a shop further on which pleased her just as well for $100.

SIXTEEN YEAR OLD GIRL MAY DIE

Shot by Woodstock Man at Lethbridge

Special to the Review.

Lethbridge, August 16.—George Southwick, a son of a former Woodstock physician, who was a member of the Ontario Legislature, is held here on the charge of shooting Rosa Reid, a sixteen-year-old girl. Southwick is believed to be insane. It is said the girl cannot recover.

TROOPS FIRE ON THE MOB

Liverpool Riots Have Fatal Ending.

Soldiers Cut and Bruised From Stones and Glass.

Liverpool, Aug. 16.—A reign of terror exists here, and troops are pouring into the city with the object of putting down disorder. A special guard has been detailed to protect the landing-stage of the transatlantic steamers, which, it is asserted, the rioters have planned to destroy by fire.

Five prison vans, escorted by fifty Hussars, which were carrying riot prisoners from the Police Court to Waltham Jail, were attacked yesterday afternoon by 3,000 members of the roughest class in Vauxhall street, who tried to rescue the prisoners. The mob attacked the soldiers with missiles of every description, and in defending themselves the Hussars fired. At first blank cartridges were used and then ball cartridges. In this affray two were killed and many persons severely wounded.

The troops then charged the mob with drawn sabres and cleared the street. So daring were the rioters that one of them tried to unhorse an officer, who was obliged to use his revolver, wounding a man severely in the head.

Another but less serious affray, in which the troops again were compelled to fire, took place in Bond street. Only a few persons were wounded here.

In each case, before the troops were ordered to fire, many of their number had their faces streaming with blood from injuries caused by stones and broken bottles thrown by the rioters.

Before enforcing the general strike order the strike leaders have decided to allow the railroad companies twenty-four hours in which to agree to meet the representatives of the employes and discuss their grievances.

GOT NEWS OF POPE'S STATE

Reporter Disguised as Gas Inspector, Found Out.

His Holiness is no Worse, if Not Any Better.

Rome, Aug. 16.—The cool air of the early morning helped to freshen the Pope, who when he was visited by his physicians appeared to be no worse than yesterday. Prof. Marchiafava, the consulting doctor at the Vatican, explained that the pontiff's restlessness during the night was due perhaps to the fact that he had slept longer than usual the afternoon before. Moreover the restlessness might be described as impatience at an invalid life, which is really a symptom of convalescence.

An incident amusing to some but annoying to the sisters of the Pope is related. The sisters, who have been besieged by newspaper men and photographers, have become unapproachable to those wishing information regarding the pontiff's condition for public uses. Late Tuesday a reporter disguised as an inspector for the Gas company, entered their home, and after examining the metre and the pipes, humbly inquired about the Holy Father. The sisters, mistaking the man for a devout individual anxious for the pontiff's health, answered candidly. A few hours later they were chagrined to see every word they had spoken published in the Giornale di Italia.

The next morning a genuine clerk from the Gas company's office, who had not read the Giornale di Italia, visited the home of the sisters, and was overwhelmed by a torrent of Venetian remonstrances. The unhappy clerk retired hastily, discomfited and at a loss to know how he had given offence.

WILL WORK THE ROADS BY TROOPS

British Cabinet Will Prevent Tie-up of Lines

Special to the Review.

London, Aug. 16.—It is unofficially stated that if the cabinet can find no means to avert the general railroad strike, the government will summon the royal engineers and army service corps to work the roads. The war office is said to be prepared for such an order. The Board of Trade has failed to bring the railroad managers and employes together.

Arrest of Laborer on Suspicion of Being Anarchist

Special to the Review.

Colon, Panama, Aug. 16.—Aquilo Lopez, a laborer, is under arrest here on the suspicion of being a Barcelona anarchist sent here to destroy the canal by blowing up Gatun dam. A priest to whom the prisoner made a confession is said to have laid the complaint.

SHOOTING PAINS IN SIDE, ARMS, BACK

Prove the Presence of Rheumatic Virus, Which Is Cured Quickest by Nerviline—Rub It In.

Pains in the muscles, in the sides, the back, the neck, or the chest—they always carry with them great discomfort. If the inflammation is severe the pain will be intense. If allowed to continue they are dangerous. Nothing so quickly cures local inflammation and drives away pain as Nerviline. Nerviline does this because it penetrates so deeply. Nerviline is not only powerful, but soothing. By relieving congestion it cures pain. It does this always. It cannot fail because it is a true antidote for pain. You can scarcely find anybody that will not tell you wonderful things about the pain-curing power of Nerviline. Remember that there is not an ache or pain that Nerviline will not cure immediately. Nerviline is an anchor of health in every household.

Refuse anything that may be offered you instead of Nerviline which is guaranteed for rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, lumbago and all muscular aches and pains.

NERVILINE CURES ALL PAIN

The Daily Review

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 16, 1911.

WAR ON THE "INTERESTS"

Sir Allen Aylesworth, in a speech at Newmarket, is reported to have said:

> For Canadian people — common everday people like you and me—have the battle before us. Our war is waged against the class of moneyed interests, gradually growing, under the discrimination of protective tariffs, into huge trusts and combines which threaten to crush the life of the nation.

Just what this has to do with free trade in food products isn't as clear as Sir Allen seems to imagine.

Perhaps he means that by the removal of the protective tariff on farm products—such as is proposed under reciprocity—he is waging war on the "moneyed interests"—that is the farmers. Perhaps he means by removing these obstructive and repressive protective tariffs to crush the huge farmers' combine and trust. That is the only conclusion we can reach, for he says that the Liberal war is against the moneyed class, and protection and the reciprocity pact removes the duties on farm produce.

The abolition of the duties on farm produce—on cabbages, and potatoes and turnips, butter and eggs—may be war against the "moneyed class" but it is queer sort of war. Perhaps the unfortunate plutocrats may be able to acquire a taste for Georgia watermelons, California peaches, Louisiana grapes, etc., which come in free. Then where would Sir Allen's merry war be?

To enable the farmers of the country to get higher prices and wider markets for their goods—as the Liberals claim reciprocity will do—and "leave the manufacturing interests alone"—as the Liberals claim they will do—is war on the moneyed class in a Pickwickian sense. Sir Allen's speech may have been intended to blind ignorant electors, or he may not have grasped the arguments of the Toronto Globe, but undoubtedly he and his reverend allies of the Globe ought to get together and reconcile their differences.

MR. BORDEN'S MANIFESTO

Mr. Borden has issued another manifesto on the eve of the political campaign, and in it he devotes himself specially to a consideration of the reciprocity pact. Mr. Borden is specifically clear and concise in stating his reasons for his opposition, and any reasonable, fair minded person cannot but be deeply impressed with the seriousness and soundness of his conclusions.

He says that "it makes Canada a commercial appanage of the United States, and virtually surrenders the control of her destinies. It interlocks our finance system with that of the United States and fetters the power of parliament to alter our tariff according to the just requirements of our people."

This statement will probably be attacked as far-fetched, an extreme view of the case. But is it? Raking up quotations from Sir John Thompson and Sir John Macdonald to prove that they favored, and even wanted reciprocity with the United States will not convince present day Canadians that under the circumstances of 1911 it is the best thing for Canada. Only a fool tries to be always consistent. Changing circumstances and changing conditions alter our needs and requirements, and what may have been good for us ten or twenty years ago, might be against our best interests now. The declaration that for forty years it was the policy of both great parties to get reciprocity with the United States is not true, for Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1907 declared himself against it. "The day is past and over," said he, "when Canada wants reciprocity with the United States."

It will require a large mentality and an understanding of the currents that ebb and flow in the tide of national affairs to truly appreciate the probable consequences of free trade with the United States. It cannot be measured by a statement that instead of getting $1 a bushel for your beans, you will get $1.10, or that your potatoes will taste better to the Americans than to the Canadians. Important as the economic aspect of reciprocity may be, there is still a more important phase of the matter—a phase that must appeal to the national patriotism of Canadians without party, when once they understand the true significance of the pact.

It is quite true that the reciprocity pact is merely a concurrent agreement, and not a treaty. It is terminable at six months' notice by either side. But suppose it goes into effect. A trial of less than four or five years would be inconclusive. It might be ten years before the evil results show themselves. And in the event of Canada finding that reciprocity was leading to too much Americanization; supposing that Canada found that it was getting the worst of the deal, and decided to try to withdraw? Would it not be a continent-shaking affair, this "slap in the face of the United States?" If to refuse reciprocity now is such a slap, what would be the rejection of a bargain profitable to the United States after it had become firmly established by time and habit? It would be doubly dangerous: so dangerous that every influence would be exerted to keep it in force. Once Canada's head is in the noose, it will be impossible to amicably withdraw. Canada becomes as Mr. Borden says, "an appanage of the United States." It is surrendering its destiny to the United States, inasmuch as it will be in a deal from which it is not free to withdraw, because of threats of ill-feeling. It will be in a position that will deprive it of autonomy, of the right to do as it pleases. Its policy will be guided and controlled from Washington. If such a condition were to happen in our relations with Britain Canadians would rise in protest, yet here we have a party earnestly advocating the adoption of an agreement that will make us a commercial backyard for the big republic.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Vote for Borden and the preservation of Canada's national interests.

Leader Borden stands for a progressive, clean administration. He has the cabinet material ready. Borden as premier would be an immense success.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux called Mr. Bourassa "liar," "fool," "idiot," "knave," etc., etc. The Examiner seems to have imbibed some of the Frenchmen's energetic spirit.

A railway freight trucker was given four months in jail in Hamilton for stealing four plums. And some frenzied financier will steal a million dollars or so from the public and be applauded for his cleverness.

Mr. Borden opened his Ontario tour last night in London. That Conservative city is in the heart of western Ontario, and gave him a great reception. A week from Thursday Leader Borden will be in Peterborough. Keep the date in mind. It will be a big affair.

The Liberals of West Peterborough were, once upon a time, going to get Sir Wilfrid Laurier here for a big meeting. But Sir Wilfrid's plans do not take Peterborough into account. Probably the Liberals have made up their minds that he would be better absent—in Quebec, for instance. And again, someone might ask him about that senatorship.

Gentlemen, the issue of the campaign is reciprocity. And—the Farmers' Bank, Laurier's anti-imperialism, his foolish navy policy, the grafting deals, the Quebec bridge scandal, sawdust wharf deals, Pugsley's $16,000,000 expenditure to buy New Brunswick and to fatten government contractors and the campaign fund, the Oliver $60,000 campaign fund, the Chinese immigration scandal, the extravagance of the administration, etc., etc.

Wood's Phosphodine, The Great English Remedy. Tones and invigorates the whole nervous system, makes new Blood in old Veins. Why I Am A Canadian

By ARTHUR HAWKES

Did it ever occur to you that there are two classes of Canadians?—those who couldn't help being Canadians and those who could. I would be very proud to belong to the couldn't-help-it class. But I belong to the other, and I would like to tell you why. I am a curiosity in patriotism. There are tens of thousands like me, most of them unrecognized. I want to find them, so that they may be encouraged to find themselves.

Patriotism? Yes, sir, Patriotism is "Home Sweet Home" on a grand scale. Listen:—

> "Breathes there a man with soul so dead
> Who never to himself hath said:
> This is my own, my native land!"

Listen again:—

The centurion told the chief captain, saying, Take heed what thou doest, for this man is a Roman.

Then the chief captain came and said unto him, Tell me, art thou a Roman? He said I am.

And the chief captain answered, With a great sum obtained I this freedom. And Paul said, BUT I WAS FREE BORN.

There is a glory of the native born—the thrill that passes through your heart and down your spine when the sacramental element of your nativity makes its subtle, compelling appeal to your mind. I know what it is; but not in Canada. If you have it, cherish it; be exceeding glad when it comes to you. Pass it on.

To us who enjoy only the blessing of adoption, who have given our native land a second place in our affections, is there even a glory for us in Canada? Can you—the native born—tell what it is? You can't, because you haven't had our experience.

We need not envy you, the native born; you need not envy us, the British-born. We are meet for one another, to conspire to make Canada as great in reputation as she is great in extent. And so it becomes you to inquire why I am a Canadian, and to think well upon my two answers.

One.—Because you asked me to be a Canadian.

I hope to be quite humble in expanding this answer, because I've had worthy people come to me and say, "We have found that British people are not welcomed here," and because I want to speak the truth in love. Personally I have never felt the slightest sense of not being welcome in Canada. Many years ago I moved from the South to the North of England, and I felt ever so much more a stranger north of the Trent than I have ever felt north of the St. Lawrence. Very thankfully I testify that never since I landed at Quebec, twenty-six years ago, have I said a word against conditions in Canada. Never a word has been said to me personally that I could resent. But there are others.

I know a man who has become as keen a Canadian as I have, who, with his wife, began life in Ontario on a farm. They are good people, who do good to others and who are already better off than they ever hoped to be in England. They left the farm because they were continually subjected to nagging about their nationality. For the sins of others they were called "chirpers" and other names.

You asked us to come. The Government has spent millions and millions of dollars in inducing British-born people to forsake friends and homes and traditions and places consecrated by sacred dust, and help to build up Canada. The Dominion has become prosperous because the immigrant, the chirper, as well as the capitalist, has arrived. Never forget, brother, that he was besought to come by you, through such people as Lord Strathcona and Sir Wilfrid Laurier. These great men have looked for assets for Canada; for an impetus to your prosperity. Be gentle in your attitude to the people who come from the same land that your ancestors came from. Let patience have her perfect work in you, in them. Ask yourself how you would get along if you were dumped into a Yorkshire manufacturing town and sent to work in a mill, and expected to become a Yorkshireman in five or six days.

Two.—I am a Canadian because I know Canada.

They know not England who only England know. They know not Canada who only their province know. The Englishman who finds himself, say, in Southern Saskatchewan, for a year or two, and who visits the Old Country, says, "In Canada they do this and that." He will describe an ox harness, for instance. He does not know that in Nova Scotia they strap a yoke tight to the oxen's horns; and they also shoe each ox with eight iron shoes. To him the little bit of Canada he has seen is the whole of Canada.

Will you forgive me if I state the simple truth that a great deal of Canadian pride is nourished on a little knowledge of Canada. We can't all know the country, because if everybody travelled all the time there would be a standstill to industries on which the country prospers. That means that there is something of a responsibility upon those who have seen much of the country to help the less fortunate to realize what a noble country it is, and what a wonderful future it may make its own.

It was by a fortune I never deserved that I went through the mill of pioneering in the West between 1885 and 1891, and that, after fourteen years' absence I came back, journeyed for three months all over the country, and finally settled in Toronto; and that in six years I have travelled a hundred and forty thousand miles between Halifax and Victoria.

Of deliberate choice, then, I brought my family to Canada. They do not want to go back to the land of their birth. We do not speak of England as "home." This is our home. We want no other. Our settlement has been consecrated by the advent of a little Canadian-born girl, who began life sturdier in body than either of her sisters. She will be able to sing of Canada as her native land. I am glad of it. You see, we combine the British-born and the Native-born.

And behold it is good—very good.

Counterfeits.

Read what one of the GREATEST NEWSPAPERS IN AMERICA has to say on this subject:

"The manufacturers of Castoria have been compelled to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars to familiarize the public with the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. This has been necessitated by reason of pirates counterfeiting the Castoria trade-mark. This counterfeiting is a crime not only against the proprietors of Castoria, but against the growing generation. All persons should be careful to see that Castoria bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, if they would guard the health of their children. Parents, and mothers in particular, ought to carefully examine the Castoria advertisements which have been appearing in this paper, and to remember that the wrapper of every bottle of genuine Castoria bears the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, under whose supervision it has been manufactured continuously for over thirty years.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Letters from Prominent Druggists addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Conger Bros. of St. Paul, Minn., say: "Fletcher's Castoria is certainly full of merit and worthy of recommendation."

C. G. A. Loder, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "For 20 years we have sold Fletcher's Castoria and are pleased to state that it has given universal satisfaction."

The Scholtz Drug Co., of Denver, Colo., says: "Fletcher's Castoria has surely become a household word. Seemingly every family where there are children uses it."

Hoagland & Mansfield, of Boston, Mass., say: "We have nothing but good to say about your Castoria and we do not hesitate to give it our unqualified endorsement."

Riker's Drug Stores, of New York City, say: "Fletcher's Castoria is one of the oldest and most popular preparations in our stores. We have nothing but good to say about it."

Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., of St. Louis, Mo., say: "Of the thousands of patent medicines for which we have demand there are a very few of them that we can conscientiously recommend and your Castoria is included in this few."

D. R. Dyche & Co., of Chicago, Ills., say: "The increasing demand for your Castoria shows that a discriminating public is not slow to seek out a remedy of merit and once convinced that it does all and even more than claimed they do not hesitate to recommend it to their friends."

The Owl Drug Co., of San Francisco, Cal., says: "We have always been a believer in the 'original man protection' and have been particular never to sell anything but the genuine and original Castoria (Fletcher's). We have many calls every day for this article from people who say they would not be without it in their homes."

The Lash of Circumstance

"I did not recognize your 'hello,'" she went on briskly. "Your voice does not sound at all natural this morning. I am afraid you dissipated last night. Anyway, it is such a lovely morning that I have been thinking perhaps you might wish to call and take me to church and afterwards for a little stroll along the boulevard. I have thought of lots of things over night that I wish to tell you. And when we come back, if you care to give me still more of your time, we will take luncheon here in my apartments. Will you come?"

My head swam, and I leaned against the wall for support. The day previous an invitation such as this would have brought me from a sick bed to her on crutches, but now I shuddered as though a toad had been dropped down my spine. That she whom I had adored, defended against the world, and given my heart, could be so vilely treacherous! And now, with the sweetness of an angel, she would lure me to her that she might resume her play of cat and mouse! Yes, Clare had been right. In stealth and cruelty she was all leopardess. And she would even have the scene of the next act in the sanctuary of the blessed disciple of love and truth!

Softly, full of music as a bell, I heard her voice calling to me and asking why I did not reply to her, and driven to immediate action my mind suddenly changed. I would go and see her. I would look upon her once more and then coldly tell her that our relations must at once cease. I would go no further, would give her no satisfaction at all, but making my forgotten keys the excuse for responding to her call, would claim them and bid farewell to her forever. In that way I would end the whole miserable business. Commanding my voice by an effort, I answered that I would come at once, and hung up the receiver without waiting for her to address me further. I went to the mirror and looked into it. My lips were tense and colorless, my eyes bloodshot, and I seemed to have grown pounds thinner and years older overnight. Once more I bathed my face in cold water and set out for the Arcadia.

She opened the door at the first sound of the bell, and royally beautiful in her cool morning gown, stood smiling before me. At first she seemed about to approach me even closer, but as her eyes sought my face she drew back and her smile vanished as the sunshine behind a driving cloud. "Ill?" she inquired, quick solicitude in her tones. I shook my head as I stepped within.

She closed the door behind me. "Oh, you men, you dissipate so," she said, with an attempt at bantering. "But I am really surprised at you, Tom. I had thought your morals almost too immaculate. However, a walk in the outer air will do you good. We will omit the church if you don't care to go inside. I only used that as a subterfuge to get you to come, you know. Can you forgive such deceit in me?" I looked at her helplessly, marveling at her duplicity. The shadow of a frown came to her brow.

"Why don't you say something? You only stand there and stare at me so unpleasantly," she went on, with a trace of impatience. Thoroughly sick at heart I addressed her as I changed my mind again into the determination to confront her with her heartlessness.

"Mrs. Dace, I have come to tell you that I cannot see you any more. That you made a fool of me for some purpose of your own it is of course not necessary that I should inform you. That you have wounded me greatly and caused me much suffering you may not know; but if it is any satisfaction for you to have that knowledge I now confess it to you. I do not think that I have anything more to say to you except to ask for the keys I inadvertently left here and bid you good bye."

Her eyes opened wide and she stood staring blankly into my face. "I don't understand—what have I done?—you look so strange—" she stammered. I did not answer.

Her mouth straightened a bit, and a chill came into her voice. "But I insist upon knowing. You have suddenly charged me with very unpleasant things and I have the right to demand an explanation in justice to myself. That right being given me, I may or may not wish to avail myself of my privilege to make a reply. But having had that opportunity you need not fear that I shall ask anything further of you. Still, I feel that there must be some mistake. You must explain yourself."

I turned my face from her as I answered bitterly:

"Had any one in the world told me what I now know I should have struck him down. When rumors came to my ears I always shut them out because of my faith in you. But what my own eyes see I cannot doubt. I had grown to trust you implicitly, and you yourself moulded and cemented my faith by your protestations. That I loved you better than my own life I have told you and I think convinced you. You have paid me back with heartless treachery."

"I demand that you tell me instantly why you say these things, sir," she cried, the hot crimson flaring in her cheeks. With the cold deliberation with which a gladiator might dispatch his crippled enemy I returned to the attack.

"Last night I happened to be passing this place. I had no intention of spying upon you—I never dishonored you by such acts—but fate ordained that I should be just in time to see you alight with Richard Mackay. The door of the lower entrance remained open for a few seconds after you had entered. I saw your scene with him before you entered the elevator."

Never in my life had I seen such a change come over a human countenance as swept hers at my words. The color fled in a flash, and her cheeks became ashy gray. Into her eyes, the instant before so soft, there leaped the glitter of a leopardess as she gathers herself for the leap. Tense and seeming to crouch, I saw the leopardess in every outline of her curved body. Then as suddenly she relaxed; the glitter faded and the heat of anger gave way to the coldness of scorn. She stepped backward with a mocking bow.

"You honor me greatly, my dear sir, and I assure you that I shall never forget it. Yesterday you told me that I was an angel exalted above your hope; to-day I am a fallen thing beneath your contempt. And all because of a miserable occurrence like that! And you would have left me with no opportunity to explain my guiltlessness had I not forced you to grant me that right."

"Your guiltlessness!" I returned as icily. "I have charged you with no guilt beyond treachery to me. You told me that no other man made love to you and I believed you. You had told me that Mackay was merely your financial agent, and I pinned my heart upon your naked word. You have crucified it. Yet I could forgive you were it not for the fact that this man is married and has a family, and you are well aware of it. I leave the question of your guiltlessness towards his wife to your own conscience."

Her bosom heaved and her hands tightened. "Listen," she said in a voice hard as steel. "You shall hear me out now, for there are things that you must know. Not that I care for your opinion, and not that I care to retain even your friendship after this, but because it is my duty to myself and to Mr. Mackay, who seems at least to respect me. I had told you much of my affairs, but not everything. Mr. Mackay made certain investments for my husband, and it was that fact principally that brought me back from the Orient. He has been kind enough now that I am alone in the world, to protect them for me and give me the benefit of his judgment and experience, that I might not have to exist on the charity of friends. That makes it necessary that I should sometimes see him. As to what the world says about me, I do not care the snap of my finger, for it has always maligned me, and I do not even take the pains to deny what it may say. As for that 'scene in the hall,' as your highness seems pleased to designate it, I have only to say this. I was taken ill last night at a late luncheon, at which he happened to be present with others, and he hurried me home in his car. I was very faint when we arrived here, and he supported me with his arm across the walk and into the building. Before the elevator came down I must have lost consciousness for a moment, for when I regained my senses he was holding me in his arms to prevent my falling, and bending over me as he asked me what he could do for me. In a moment I had recovered my strength and requested him to release me, which he immediately did. He escorted me as far as my door and left me there at my request after I had assured him that Janet would do all that was necessary for me. Mr. Mackay did no more than any other gentleman would have done under the circumstances."

The pride of her poise was magnificent, and the cold dignity of her tones that of an outraged empress. Never before had she seemed so beautiful, so pure, so womanly. And groping for something, no matter how slight, upon which to once more fasten my faith in her, my jealousy and black suspicions once more fled before her bearing and explanation, and in their place love and belief came surging back. The terrible smothering weight within me was lifted, and I could have cried aloud in the blessedness of my relief. I fell upon my knees before her as I brokenly begged her forgiveness; clutching her convulsively by the hand and pleading my heart out that she be merciful. She listened in silence to my appeals until they were exhausted, and then told me I must rise.

Fatal Heat in Germany.

Berlin, Aug. 15.—The hot wave has claimed many victims. Sunday was the hottest August 13 since the establishment of the weather bureau in 1848. The local observatory reported 89 degrees Fahrenheit in the shade but the shade temperature in the streets was about 97 degrees. At Frankforth-on-the-Main it was 95 degrees.

In this city 34 cases of sunstroke, four of them fatal, were reported. A cab-driver became insane because of the heat.

Several fires, due to spontaneous combustion, occurred. A number of forest fires broke out in the vicinity. A great conflagration is raging on the moors at the Belgo-German frontier. Soldiers of both countries are fighting the fire. Despite the intense heat railway traffic is enormously heavy owing to the fact that the schools will open to-morrow. It is estimated that 80,000 persons returned from Baltic and North Sea resorts on Sunday.

Suspect Cholera Cases.

Ottawa, Aug. 15—The health branch of the Department of Agriculture has received advices from Grosse Isle to the effect that there are 37 cases of suspected Asiatic cholera on the incoming steamer, Lake Erie, and a large number of suspected smallpox cases on the German vessel Wittinkind. Both vessels are now at Grosse Isle and will be held there till the medical officers of the department have an opportunity to investigate and report. Should the reports prove to be well founded, all the steerage passengers of both ships will be held in quarantine at Grosse Isle for an indefinite period.

OTTUMWA WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ottumwa, Iowa.—"For years I was almost a constant sufferer from female trouble in all its dreadful forms; shooting pains all over my body, sick headache, spinal weakness, dizziness, depression, and everything that was horrid. I tried many doctors in different parts of the United States, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors. I feel it my duty to tell you these facts. My heart is full of gratitude to you for my cure."—Mrs. HARRIET E. WAMPLER, 524 S. Ransom Street, Ottumwa, Iowa.

Consider This Advice.

No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous medicine, made only from roots and herbs, has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, confidential, and always helpful.

Fatal Wreck Near Berthier.

Berthier, Que., Aug. 16.—Two were killed and one seriously injured when two Canadian Pacific freight trains crashed together at St. Cuthbert's, sixty miles from Montreal, yesterday morning. The collision, which was head-on, occurred as two heavy freight trains were passing through Cuthbert Station. What the cause of the collision was is still unknown. The dead are: Fireman Lesueur, Brakeman Lefebvre of Three Rivers. Engineer Casse of Berthier was injured.

Jap Volcano Active.

Tokio, Aug. 16.—Asama-Yama, the volcano in the Island of Hondo, was in eruption yesterday, and it is feared that about thirty mountain climbers including several foreigners, have been killed.

WILL ACCEPT CALL TO CAMPBELLFORD

Rev. Chas. Carpenter Going to Christ Church

St. John's church is to lose Rev. Charles Carpenter, who has been assistant to Rev. Canon Davidson for the past twelve months. Rev. Mr. Carpenter has received two calls, one to far away Sante Fe, New Mexico, and the other to Christ Church, Campbellford, and he has decided to accept the latter invitation. Rev. A. J. Reid is the present rector. The change will not be made till the latter part of October.

The call to Sante Fe is a peculiarly flattering one, but Rev. Mr. Carpenter prefers to remain nearer Peterborough.

THEFT OF COPPER WIRE FROM CONSTRUCTION LINE

John Doig in Court and He Pleads Not Guilty to the Charge.

John Doig faced a serious charge at police court this morning, and pleaded not guilty to having unlawfully come in possession of a considerable quantity of copper wire, the property of the Canadian General Electric Co., whose employees were using the material on construction work.

Since July 6, the company has suffered from unknown thieves, and it is alleged that Doig bought the wire from boys who committed the thefts and disposed of it to Florence, the junk dealer. He asked for a jury trial this morning. Some evidence was taken and adjournment to August 21, decided on.

Some 400 lbs. of wire has disappeared and a number of tools were also missed by the company's employees.

Witnesses this morning were, Detective Newhall, John H. Allen and Thomas aWilders.

FACTORY PROPOSITIONS NOT WANTED HERE, BUSY AT GUELPH

Jules Motor Company to Start Operations Shortly —Tire Company in Good Shape

According to the Guelph Herald, the two factory propositions which Peterborough passed by and Guelph accepted, will soon materalize. The Herald says of the Jules Motor Company:

Having secured a good number of local subscribers the Jules Motor Co. is now in splendid financial condition, and is at work preparing for the erection of the machinery to start operations.

The deal by which the Jules Motor Co. offered $15,000 for the old Morlock lock building on Suffolk street, has now been closed, and work will be started on September 25th.

At first it was only decided to assemble the parts in Guelph, but now all parts will be made in Guelph. At the start 75 hands will be employed, but by the end of twelve months it is expected that 175 hands will be at work.

The industry will prove one of the best of the new ones secured, as the hands will be largely skilled ones.

Regarding the Independent Tire Co. the Herald has the following:

The contracts were signed Saturday afternoon for the construction of the Independent Tire Company's buildings which will be of reinforced concrete throughout. The stock is going nicely and everything is in good shape.

"BARGAIN" GLASSES ARE DANGEROUS GLASSES

This Editorial in the Ladie's Home Journal gives timely warning against these "Eye Destroyers" advertised as "Exceptional Values."

A woman who was hunting "bargain glasses" finally succeeded in "fitting" her eyes with what she enthusiastically declares was "just the thing." And immensly pleased with herself, this woman had brought about the gravest danger a woman could invest in, for she had bought two pieces of glass crudely ground, but magnifying strongly, and with them she can see 'better to read'—That seeing better will mean an intense strain upon the her eyes, but she will not realize what the trouble is, nor the injury the glasses are doing. Some day she will be under the care of a Specialist, probably for the removal of a cataract, which will cost considerable, to say nothing of the suffering entailed, and she will be fortunate indeed if she does not suffer partial or entire loss of sight for the remainder of her life.

We have every qualification for giving your eyes a thorough examination. We fit you with the finest ground lenses, and at a very reasonable cost. Thousands of our citizens can certify to the care, skill and thoroughness of the examination, and the good results they had in wearing the glasses we prescribed. ALL WORK GUARANTEED

VERDICT IN THE HARRISON CASE

Tell Tale Note Found in Work Box at Home

The adjourned inquest in the Harrison case was concluded in the Town Hall, Fraserville, on Monday evening last when the jury returned the following verdict:

"We your jurors on the inquest on the body of Emma Victoria Harrison do agree that the deceased came to her death on the 31st day of July, 1911, at her home in North Monaghan, and that her death was caused by strychnine poisoning, in what maner and by whom the poison was administered is unknown to this jury."

The following witnesses were examined, Mr. Thos. Harrison, husband of the deceased, Dr. Amys, Joseph Madill, Andrew Hogg and Mr. Barnard.

A note with Mrs. Harrison's signature was discovered in a work box, which had been used by her, by little Bobby Harrison during the period which elapsed since the last meeting in connection with the inquest. It was badly written but indicated Mrs. Harrison's intention of ending her life.

FAIR DIRECTORS MEETING TO-NIGHT

Called for County Council Chamber at Eight O'clock

The directors and other officers of the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition are down to real hard work in the interests of this year's Fair. An important meeting of the directors is called for to-night at the County Council chamber at eight o'clock.

Good progress is being made on the new steel grand-stand at the grounds and it will be in shape for the opening. Provision is being made for the accomodation this year of one thousand people.

HOTELS HAVE LARGE PATRONAGE

Officials Kept Busy With Heavy List of Guests

Local hotels are enjoying a large patronage in these vacation days, and in some cases, several of the hotels have been filled up, so that prospective guests have had to seek accomodation elsewhere. Last night, before the C.P.R. local arrived, and it is one of the best trains, one hotel man remarked that he had only one room vacant. Some time ago it was rumored that Peterboro was to have another large hotel, but nothing further in the way of an official statement is forth coming.

REGISTER! REGISTER!

If your name is not on the voters list, you cannot vote. Every man over 21 years of age, who has been a resident of Canada for one year, and of the municipality for three months, is entitled to a vote.

It is important that every Conservative shall be registered, for the election may decide on the number of few names added to the list. If you want any information as to whether you are entitled to vote, or whether your name is on the list, go to the Conservative committee rooms in various parts of the city, where you will get every assistance.

Registration will be conducted on August 23, 24, 25 and 26. The places will be:

No. 1 Ward—Spry's shop, 214 Stewart street.
No. 2—Council chamber.
No. 3—Police court.
No. 4—Mrs. Lee's shop.
No. 5—East city village hall.

BURNHAM—Suddenly at Fort Francis, Ontario, on Sunday, August 13, 1911, Thomas Henry Burnham, second son of Mr. L. Burnham, Otonabee. Funeral private from his father's residence, Otonabee, Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

BLACKLISTER TOOK TWENTY DAYS---COULD NOT PAY FINE

Another Lister Had $26.05 Marked up Against Him.

Joseph Anderson should have remained on the farm yesterday. He had a seat in the prisoners' quarters this morning at police court and it cost him $2.

His was a drunk charge.

TWENTY DAYS

James Wilson will join the merry throng at Castle Nesbitt and come out again after twenty days.

James is on the Indian list and (?)nubbed. The fine was $10, which amount he did not possess

$26.05 OR 30 DAYS

The court heard some evidence in another blacklist case. Two witnesses told of seeing a blacklister under the influence of liquor.

It is the third offence for the blacklister, but he was not in court, and it is believed that he has left the city. When he returns he will have to hand over $26.05 or go to jail for thirty days.

BIG CROWD TOOK IN THE EXCURSION TO THE WEST

Whole families, brothers, sisters, brides and sweethearts, the old veterans and many tenderfoots, boarded the C.P.R. special this afternoon and left for the west.

It was the first harvest excursion to be made up at Peterborough and everything was busy. The train will go right through to Winnipeg, and four of the coaches were reserved for local and Peterborough county people, which numbered over two hundred. Mr McIlroy, the local agent, who has been arranging for the comfort of the excursionists, stated at noon that seventy-five tickets were sold this morning.

LOCOMOTIVE BALKED WITH AMATEUR "CASEY JONES"

Demolished North Wall of G.T.R. Round House

As the result of a G.T.R. station porter opening the throttle by mistake last night, an engine standing outside the round house, backed into the building and demolished part of the north brick wall. It appears that the porter had occasion to dispose of some waste paper and took it to the engine to be burned. The fireman was throwing on coal and in the mixup which occurred when he endeavored to explain to "Casey Jones" how he should go about the work, the latter opened the throttle and the locomotive became active. The porter, however, closed the throttle again, but not in time to bring the engine to a stop before hitting the wall.

Had a rig been standing outside or had any person been standing nearby serious injury might have resulted.

Steamer Geneva will run regular Thursday afternoon trip, August 17, to Jubilee Point and Gores Landing, leaving Wolfe Street Wharf at 1.30 o'clock, calling at Street Railway Wharf at 2 o'clock. Return in cool of evening.

TORONTO LEAFS FELL AGAIN IN FIRST GAME WITH GREYS

Score Was 8-1 Because Lavender Pitched Great Ball.

Providence, R. I., Aug 15— After a disastrous series in Baltimore the Toronto team found no relief here today, for the Grays who have been playing in and out ball of the most chronic type, had one of their good days and owing to some very classy pitching by Lavender, who kept Toronto's hits well scattered and received errorless support, the Leafs went down to defeat by a score of 8 to 1.

NEWSY ITEMS OF FRASERVILLE

Special Correspondence

Fraserville, Aug. 15.—Miss Nellie Waterman, returned on Saturday after spending a few days with friends in South Monaghan.

Miss Luella Stewart of Peterboro is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Stewart.

Miss Lila Mcmariel is staying at Mr. A. Brown's this week.

Mr. Wren Pickup, lately employed by Mr. B. Seabrook, has taken Mr. E. McLean's position with the G.T.R. section gang until Mr. McLean recovers sufficiently to resume his labors.

Mr. E. Delehay of Peterboro spent Sunday in the village.

Miss Ethel Armstrong has secured a position at Public school teacher at Markdale, Grey county, and will leave in a few days to resume her duties.

What might have proved a serious accident occurred on Wednesday morning last when Mr. W. A. Kidd was unloading goods from a G.T.R. freight car, which was on the siding. Mr. Kidd had his horse and waggon on the tracks and did not notice the approach of a freight train until too late to remove them. The waggon was completely demolished, and the horse badly cut, however, it will recover. The outfit which was rented, belonged to Mr. Saunders. We understand Mr. Kidd paid the amount of the damage in full to Mr. Saunders.

Some of our young men have lively times in the village, Saturday evenings which sometimes proves serious for them. For instance Mr. Roland Atchison had his top buggy badly damaged. The buggy was a new one, having only been purchased about two months ago.

The third fatal switchback accident this season at Montreal occurred at Dominion Park, Saturday night, when E. J. Long was thrown from his seat and instantly killed.

Marconi, who arrived at Montreal yesterday, established a new wireless record on the trip by sending a message from near Quebec to Poldhu, a distance of 2,622 miles.

HONOR FOR MARKSMAN

Toronto Gives Pte. Clifford a Rousing Reception.

Crowds Surround Depot as Winner of King's and Prince of Wales' Prizes Arrives and He Is Presented With a Case of Silver From the City—Men of His Company In the Grenadiers Pull His Carriage.

Toronto, Aug. 15.—Private William J. Clifford of the 10th Royal Grenadiers, winner of the King's Prize and the Prince of Wales' Prize at Bisley, was accorded a typically Canadian welcome on his arrival home last night. Fully an hour before his train was due at North Toronto station, groups of people were beginning to congregate in Yonge street, and on the approaches to the station.

The train drew into the station at five minutes past eight, and Clifford alighted and shook hands with the principal officers present.

So soon as the greetings were over, Clifford was escorted to a decorated carriage which was drawn by men of his company; his wife, mother-in-law, and his son were accommodated in another decorated carriage, and then the procession was formed and marched to Queen's Park, via Yonge street, Queen street, and University avenue. Crowds lined the entire route and they stood quietly until the carriage containing Clifford came by. Then they broke into storms of cheers.

On reaching the band stand in Queen's Park, Clifford was carried up the steps by members of his corps, and then Ald. McCausland opened the proceedings with a brief speech paying high tribute to the skill and training of the man who had won both the King's Prize and the Prince of Wales' Prize.

Mayor Geary, then addressed the crowd. Speaking was made a little difficult by the enthusiastic cheering of the people and by the band playing "The British Grenadiers," and "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," at frequent intervals.

Before the presentation was made, Col. Stimson, who commanded the Canadian team at Bisley, gave a brief address. He said it was the first time on record, that one man had carried off both the King's Prize and the Prince of Wales' Prize. Clifford had competed with 1,158 entrants for the King's Prize, and had to shoot on three successive days under varying conditions.

Then followed the presentation. The city's gift consist of a handsome case of table silver, standing about four feet high. A plate on the case bears the following inscription: Presented by the Mayor and Council of the Corporation of Toronto to William J. Clifford, winner of the King's Prize and the Prince of Wales' Prize at Bisley.

In returning thanks for the gift and the reception given to him, Clifford, in a very brief speech, said that he had won with a Ross rifle. His last few words were lost in the cheers of the crowd.

Drowned While Bathing.

Barrie, Aug. 15.—Hezeska Gray, an Englishman, 27 years of age, came to his death by drowning while bathing in Kempenfeldt Bay at Fisherman's Point on Sunday morning about 11 o'clock. Gray was accompanied by Dalton Dunsmore, a young lad 14 years of age, and a son of his employer, who, being familiar with the water in that vicinity, warned Gray against going out too far, as there are some deep holes around there. They had not been in the water long before young Dunsmore heard a splash and on looking around saw his companion struggling to reach the shore. Being unable to swim himself, Dunsmore called to some campers along the shore for help, but before assistance could reach him Gray had gone down for the last time. His body was afterwards recovered in about ten feet of water.

The young man's only relatives are an aged mother and a brother, who live in England. He had been employed ever since coming to Canada by W. H. Dunsmore, a farmer, living a short distance from Barrie on the Penetang road.

Rather Burn $12,000 Boat.

Boston, Aug. 16.—Rather than pay the $500 annual tax imposed by the U. S. Government on all foreign built vessels, Lindsey Loring has directed that his boat, the Eelin, be burned at her dock in South Boston. Everything of value has been stripped from the boat, including her 20-ton lead keel, her masts and rigging.

The Eelin was built at Southampton in 1899, and was brought to this country as a racing boat. She was 90 feet long and valued at about $12,000.

Two Nominations.

Montreal, Aug. 16.—The Conservative convention for Beauharnois yesterday unanimously nominated J. G. H. Bergeron as candidate in the coming elections.

The Liberal convention for St. Antoine division last night nominated Dr. Milton Hersey to oppose Mr. H. B. Ames.

McCurdy Wins Speed Contest.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—J. A. D. McCurdy won the twelve-mile biplane speed contest in 14 minutes 41 seconds.

Little Progress Made.

Paris, Aug. 16.—In semi-official circles it is declared that Mr. Cambon, French ambassador to Germany, and the German Foreign Secretary, Alfred Von Kiderlen Waechter, have not made serious progress toward reaching an accord on the dispute between France and Germany over Morocco. While the bases of the discussion have not yet been defined, it is said that the slow progress toward an agreement is due to Germany's unwillingness to grant France sufficient compensation in return for part of the Congo, which she expects France to cede to her.

Insurance For Durbar.

London, Eng., Aug. 15.—During the past week or two a number of insurances have been effected in Lloyd's in connection with the Coronation Durbar at Delhi.

The uncertainty of the political situation at home and abroad has led to fears that the Durbar may have to be abandoned altogether. Against this risk underwriters in Lloyd's are issuing policies at 10gs. per cent., covering only the risk of abandonment. In a few instances policies have been issued at 30gs. per cent., covering against an alteration in the date, but very few insurers are willing to take this risk, as it is considered that by no means unlikely that local health conditions may make a temporary postponement of the Durbar advisable.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Very severe storms were reported at London, Ont.

Hon. Charles Murphy was nominated in Russell by a unanimous convention.

The troops fired on the mob in Liverpool, killing two and wounding many.

James Cooke, otherwise "King Cook," of McGill University, is dead, aged 85 years.

P. C. Larkin may be appointed a member of the royal commission to investigate trade.

Hon. Wm. Paterson was nominated by the Brant Liberals at a convention held at Paris, Ont.

Owing to drought and impending famine in India the Delhi durbar may not take place in December.

The Duke of Connaught will preside at a dinner given to the Canadian artillery in London on September 5.

Edward Wilkie and Frank Perry were charged with murder as a result of Mrs. Wilkie's death in Toronto.

Mrs. William Downing of Lucan, Ont., was so severely burned by the explosion of a gasoline stove yesterday that recovery is impossible.

One hundred and fifty delegates, representing nearly every part of Canada and the United States, attended the opening session of the biennial convention of the Order of Scottish Clans at Boston yesterday.

Western Harvesting.

Winnipeg, Aug. 16.—If the authenticity of the Canadian northern crop can be accepted, harvesting will be general throughout Western Canada within one week. The weekly crop report issued yesterday was most optimistic, predicting in some areas a yield in wheat of from thirty to forty bushels per acre. Generally speaking, the report forecasts general cutting earlier than other reliable sources. It claims that the yield, while not uniformly abnormal, is better than last year in all districts. Special press representatives in the western fields claim that it will be between two and three weeks before cutting is general in Saskatchewan and Alberta. It is estimated to-day that 15,000 harvesters have arrived and been placed since the first of the month.

Coal Results

¶ We sell the very best quality of hard coal, as good as we know how to buy.

¶ Are you getting results from the coal you are now using? Are you sure it is good? Are you burning it the right way?

¶ There is a deal of difference in how you handle the range or furnace. Our long experience tells us that fact, and we are ready to advise any in doubt as to the best way to make use of coal as fuel.

"FEEBLE STOMACH"

Causes Digestive Weakness and Poisons the Entire System.

"No one can have suffered more than I did with stomach trouble," writes Phil. E. Pascalar, well known at St. Andrews Corners. "My doctor told me my indigestion and sleeplessness were due to poisons in the blood. Certainly my condition was desperate, and it seemed from the despondent feelings that swept over me that I would lose my reason. I happened to read about Dr. Hamilton's Pills and bought five boxes from the druggist. Such body-cleansing pills I never used; they were mild and yet quite strong enough to drive all the humors out of the blood. My stomach gained strength rapidly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I improved so much that in eight weeks I could eat and digest all ordinary food. Depression and weariness passed away and I am, thanks to Dr. Hamilton's Pills, enjoying robust good health."

No remedy for biliousness, indigestion, headache, sick stomach, or constipation that compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse substitutes. Sold in 25c. boxes. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

BEAUTIFUL EYES

are made beautiful by long, silky lashes, and well defined, lustrous brows. Eyes, like diamonds, depend on their setting. The beauties of the face are lost if the eye brows are thin and scanty; and the lashes are short and lifeless. Parisian Lash Lustre grows beautiful, soft, silky lashes. It has done so for society women throughout Europe, and it comes here well recommended to do the same for you. Parisian Lash Lustre is not a dye or colorator, but a scientific preparation for beautifying the eye lashes and brows. Our guarantee goes with every box of Parisian Lash Lustre. A two weeks' treatment will bring beauty to your eyes that you have never before possessed. By mail, prepaid, in opal boxes, on receipt of price, fifty cents. B. V. TAFT AND RECIPROCITY

"William Howard Taft, President of the United States," in Leslie's Weekly for August 10, is the author of the following paper on reciprocity with Canada.

"Under reciprocity with Cuba, which reduced the duties on each side twenty per cent, our trade with that country has doubled, under complete reciprocity or free trade with Porto Rico, our trade with that island has increased nearly fifteen times; under reciprocal relations with the Phillipine Islands, our mutual trade has nearly doubled in less than a year, and yet in the case of each of these changes, there was vehement discussion, bitter opposition and wild prophesies of disastrous results.

One of the great objects of the treaty was the conservation of our natural resources. It is perfectly evident from the statistics that our general lumber supply and our supply of spruce wood for paper making are being rapidly exhausted, and that the effect of the diminution of supply and the increase of demand is to put too high price upon the rough lumber and wood pulp. Under the Payne tariff bill rough lumber is dutiable at $1.25. Under the reciprocity agreement that duty is removed. I submit that as lumber is essential to all classes, farmers and merchants; as the price has gone far beyond what it ever was in the past, and as our supply is being exhausted, we ought when we can to enlarge the sources from which our people may secure it at reasonable prices.

PAPER AND PULP ISSUE

It is of the highest importance not only to the consumers, but to the manufacturers of print paper, in order that they may secure their raw materiel at a reasonable price, to secure a letting down of the bars in Canada for the exportation of pulp wood. The provinces of Canada have control over the crown lands, in which nine-tenths of the pulp wood is grown and they have imposed restrictions and export duties of various kinds upon the pulp wood in the crown lands, in order to prevent the export of the wood except in the form of paper. In order to induce the Canadian provinces, over whom the Dominion can exercise no control to lift the restrictions upon the exportation of their pulp wood, it is provided in the agreement that when paper is made in Canada from wood grown on land not under export restrictions the paper may come into the United States free; and it is hoped that the difference of $5.75 between the duty on paper from restricted wood, and no duty on paper made from unrestricted wood will induce the provinces to lift their restrictions. It seems to me that this is treating the paper manufacturers of the United States fairly. It is a provision calculated to secure to them a source of supply where they can get their wood at five dollars less a ton than in this country with the disadvantage of a small competition of paper made in Canada from Canadian wood upon which there is no restriction.

CANADA'S FARM LIMITATIONS

Canada is so far north that her agricultural products are practically limited to wheat, rye, barley, oats, potatoes, live cattle, horses and dairy products. She cannot and does not raise more than one-sixth of one per cent. of the corn crop of the United States. She raises no cotton, she raises but few vegetables, she raises but few hogs, because she has not the corn to feed them with; she is at present a great importer of all fruits, citrous and otherwise, from the United States; she imports a large amount of cottonseed oil, which by the Canadian reciprocity treaty is now made free; she cannot fatten cattle as they are fattened in the United States, and therefore, it has become very profitable for American farmers to import young cattle from Canada, even with the duty on them, and to fatten them for the Chicago market. The United States exports to Canada a great many more horses than she imports from Canada. She sends to Canada a much larger amount of potatoes than she receives from her. The United States exports to Canada about fifteen times as much of meat and dairy products as Canada exports to the United States.

The only real importation of agricultural products that we may expect from Canada of any considerable amount will consist of wheat, barley, rye and oats. The world price of these four cereals is fixed abroad, where the surplus from the producing countries is disposed of, and is little affected by the place from which the supply is derived. Canadian wheat ne a perhaps ten cents less a bushel to the producer than wheat grown in the Dakotas or in Minnesota, due to the fact that the cost of exporting that wheat and warehousing it to Liverpool is considerably greater than the cost to the Dakota farmer of disposing of his wheat to the millers of Minneapolis or sending it abroad.

A MATTER OF MILLING.

If, now, the duty is to be taken off wheat and the Canadian wheat can come to the millers of Minneapolis and other places, it can and will be made into flour, because the capacity of the American mills is thirty-three per cent. greater than is needed to mill the wheat of this country, Canadian wheat can be imported and ground into flour without materially reducing the demand for or price of American wheat, and the surplus will be sent abroad as flour. The price of Canadian wheat will doubtless be increased a few cents by access to the market nearer market nearer at hand will not reduce the price of his wheat to the American farmer.

A very material benefit to all the farmers of the country, especially the stock and cattle raisers and the dairy farmers, will be the by-products of bran and shorts from the flour mills likely to follow the free export of wheat from Canada to those mills. These by-products are now so scarce that many farmers are unable to procure them.

What is true of wheat is true of the other cereals. The trade between Canada and the United States cannot but increase the sale of agricultural products across the border both ways to nearer markets than they now reach in many instances. The trade will be beneficial to both the seller and the buyer. It will not, in my judgment, reduce the price of wheat or other farming products for our people in any marked way. It will however, by enlarging the source of supply, prevent undue fluctuations and it will and ought to prevent an exorbitant increase in farm prices.

THE COST OF LIVING

The argument is made, however, that to give free trade to the Canadian farmer in farm products so as to permit him to enjoy the markets of the United States is to give him an advantage over our own farmers, who living behind a high tariff wall, have to pay a great deal more for the cost of living than do Canadian farmers whose protective system is not so prohibitive. This argument is not true. The average cost of living in the United States is not higher than it is in Canada. This is conclusively shown by two facts—first, that in spite of the preference given to English products imported into Canada, the duty being 33 1-3 per cent. less than that imposed on goods from other countries the United States exports into Canada $225,000,000 of goods of the widest variety of manufactures, all of them entering into the cost of living, while Canada with the preference in favor of England, imports from England goods to the value of only $93,000,000.

In our negotiations over this Canadian reciprocity treaty, I directed our commissioners to secure as great a cut in the duties on manufactures in Canada as they could; but they were unable to secure any more than appears in this treaty, for the reason that Canada would not expose her manufacturers to the competition of American farmers, which is a very conclusive proof that the manufactured products that enter into the cost of living are higher in Canada than they are in the United States. Otherwise the Canadian would not fear the competition of American manufacturers.

NEWS NOTES FROM NORWOOD

Norwood, Aug. 15—Miss Ellen T. Beavis of Peterboro, visited her sister, Mrs. E. J. Laing, a few days from Saturday till Thursday.

Mr. J. Kelly of the Union Bank staff is spending his holidays at Stony Lake.

Mr. Morton O. Porter of Winnipeg has purchased Mrs. Thos. Robson's farm adjoining Norwood on the Dummer road.

Mr. Kincaid of Dummer has sold his fine 200 acres farm and intends purchasing a smaller one.

The Trent Bridge cottagers regatta which was advertised for last Friday afternoon was postponed till Wednesday afternoon of this week. The Campbellford brass band will furnish the music and all are looking forward to a good time. A good program of sports will be run off.

Mr. J. T. Squire, who has been ailing for some time is going to Toronto this week, to undergo if necessary, an operation.

A party of Norwood fishermen journeyed to South Lake to-day to spend one short day in bass fishing. South Lake is situated among the mountains of Belmont and is, without doubt, unequalled in the county, as a spot for an ideal day's sport. The fish are very plentiful and of a good average size, and every inch game. If a person could form any estimate of the expected catch, from the amount of bait they took, well' the record will surely be smashed. However, we wish them all sorts of luck.

Miss Mabel Laing is the guest of friends in Lakefield.

Mr. Fred. Hendren of Winnipeg, is the guest of his brother, Mr. Stanley Hendren.

Miss Olive Stevenson of Montreal is the guest of friends here.

Mr. Earl Kidd of Peterboro is in town.

Mr. Walter Sedgwick is in Peterboro on business.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Christie and little daughter of Peterboro, are the guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Young.

Miss May Loughridge of Toronto is the guest of her cousin, Miss Annie Elliott.

Miss Jessie Young is in Toronto attending the Fall Millinery opening.

Miss Eva Patterson is spending a few weeks at Stony Lake.

Miss Rogers of Peterboro was the guest of Miss Jessie Young, last week.

Miss E. Beavis of Peterboro spent the week end in town, the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. J. Laing.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Kempt and C. A. Puffer, J. Kelley, Mary Johnston and "Dot" Moffat and Ledemia Johnston have returned after spending a jolly two weeks tenting at Stony Lake.

Miss Mabel Laing was the guest of her friend, Miss Pearl Brown, at "Blair Athol" cottage, Trent River last week.

Miss Weir of Madoc is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Wm. Sutton.

Mr. W. Andrews of Havelock was in town on Sunday.

NOVA SCOTIA RICH IN WOOD

The Province by the Sea Has a Splendid Heritage in its Forest Land.

The total land area of Nova Scotia is 14,483,000 acres, and of this 5,000,000 acres, or 7,812 square miles, is forest area. Less than this quantity is actually forested land, though more is suitable for forest production. Fifty-six per cent of the farms in Nova Scotia are composed of woodland.

The counties of Queen's and Lunenburg have yearly produced 50,000,000 feet of lumber for export, foreign and local, and the consumption of that district would likely take as much more for the last forty years, so that the forest has contributed very largely to the prosperity of the people. The shipbuilding industry has also consumed a very large amount of timber. The wood pulp industry has consumed 20,000 to 25,000 cords of wood yearly.

At a very early date in the settlement of the eastern part of the mainland of Nova Scotia large quantities of birch, spruce and pine timber were shipped from the port of Pictou. This lumber was all shipped at first in the form of hewn timber. Shipbuilding began first as an adjunct to this timber trade—ships very roughly built and loaded with timbr cargoes being sent to the old country, where both ship and cargo would find a ready market. Gradually the pine became exhausted and the timber shipped during the palmy days of wooden shipbuilding was largely birch, with a proportion of spruce battens cut in the old "up and down" sawmills.

When Dr. Patterson wrote his history of Pictou county thirty years ago he stated that a little birch was left in the remote portions of Pictou, but that the spruce was all exhausted. Since that day, with the advent of portable steam mills, there has been probably three times as much spruce cut even in Pictou county as in the century preceding.

The same would apply to both Cumberland and Colchester counties. Less than a score of years ago it was stated that the end of the lumber trade of Cumberland county was in sight, owing to the reckless and injudicious cutting of the lumbermen. However true this statement may have been of the character of their operations in the past neither the recuperative powers of the forest nor the reserves of standing timber were estimated at their real value. Timber lands have several times since then changed owners, and always at values above their original cost.

The forest products of Nova Scotia—the figures of the census of 1901 are given—were valued at $3,409,582. In 1907 their values were placed at $3,750,000. In square and flat timber, $109,102, consisting chiefly of birch $47,783, pine $12,923, maple $4,124 and oak $4,164. Logs for lumber, $1,938,936, of which spruce was the largest in value, 1,272,653; then hemlock, $237,814; pine, $144,907; oak, $15,207; bark for tanning, $12,103; firewood, $1,094,257; wood for pulp, 48,320, and other miscellaneous products of considerable value make up the total above given.

FARMERS DOING WELL.

The Farmers of the Eastern Townships Getting Good Prices for Their Stock.

Here are some interating figures from a report recently made to the United States Senate. They seem to show that our farmers understand their business and know how to make a bargain better than some of our Yankee friends.

It appears that for the year 1910, the average value per head of horses was, in the States of Vermont and New Hampshire, $106.00. In Quebec the average value was $139.00.

The average value of dairy cows in Vermont was $34.20, in New Hampshire, $36.26, in Quebec, $31.00.

The average value of other cattle in Vermont was $14.40, in New Hampshire, $20.30, in Quebec, $31.00.

The average value of sheep in Vermont was $4.00, in New Hampshire, $3.70. In Quebec it was $6.00.

The average value of swine in Vermont was $10.00, in New Hampshire, $11.60. In Quebec it was $13.00.

Well done, old Quebec! First, pretty nearly every time!

FOREST WEALTH OF CANADA.

The central line of the forest belt of the Dominion may be described as starting from the vicinity of the Straits of Belle Isle and following a west-southwesterly course till it passes to the south of James Bay; then turning northwest it follows this course all the way to the border of Alaska, opposite the mouth of the Mackenzie River, the total distance being 3,700 miles.

The average breadth of this belt, on the basis of measurements at ten almost equal intervals, is 700 miles, giving an approximate area of the northern forests, in which the black and white spruces are the prevailing trees, of 2,500,000 square miles. Bearing in mind that the great bulk of the paper consumed in the world is made from spruce wood, Canada has in the area mentioned the raw material to enable her to become the centre of the world's supply of paper. This subject will be reverted to later. For the moment some figures relative to the present values of Canada's forest crop are worthy of notice.

Two Tragedies.

Grimsby, Aug. 15.—Two tragedies occurred in this district yesterday. The first was the burning of the fine barns of Homer Carpenter of Fruitland. A spark from a threshing engine set fire to the straw. The loss will be in the neighborhood of $5,000, partially covered with insurance.

The second accident of the day was when the little three-year-old daughter of Harry and Mrs. Taylor, living one mile south of Beamsville, fell into a cistern at noon yesterday and was drowned. The child stepped on to a rotted board covering the cistern.

ROCHESTER VISITOR'S CANOE CAPSIZED NEAR MT. JULIAN

Launch Went to His Assistance and Rescued Him.

Staff Correspondence

Mount Julian, Aug 16—A boating accident occurred at Stony Lake on Tuesday afternoon in which Mr. A. K. Barnum, a Rochester young man, who is a guest at Mount Julian, had an exciting time for about fifteen minutes.

The stiff breeze which sprang up in the afternoon, tempted Mr. Barnum to go out in his canoe and hoist a sail for a short run around the lake in front of "Viamede" and Mt. Julian. He was enjoying himself immensely and got on first rate for some time, when, however, about half a mile out, he encountered a very stiff wind, rather choppy water and in some manner his canoe unexpectedly capsized, throwing him into the lake. No person save Mr. Fred. Tully at Mt. Julian noticed the accident. He immediately ran down to the bank, and seeing Mr. Graham's launch going into "Viamede" with a party, pointed out the man in the water. He was keeping himself afloat being able to swim.

Mr. Graham hurriedly landed his passengers and pointing his boat for the struggling swimmer, headed in his direction. Meanwhile the alarm had been given, and all eyes were focused on the spot where Mr. Barnum could be seen clinging to his canoe. He appeared to be in no immediate danger and after about five minutes of suspense, the rescuing launch took him on board, none the worse for his experience. His canoe was towed to shore.

While no harm was done, yet a drowning might easily have occurred and Mr. Barnum remarked himself when he landed at Mt. Julian that "he was glad the launch came out."

He took the affair very coolly, but was the recipient of a lot of jolly from his fellow boarders.

There is a jolly bunch here at present registered at Mt. Julian, who liven things up every evening with songs and music. Tuesday morning it rained, but cleared in the afternoon and the weather was ideal.

There is yet a big crowd of visitors at the Lakes, although quite a number, who remained for the regatta have gone to their homes.

CITY VISITED BY BIG EXCURSION

Over One Thousand People Came on Two Trains

The city is invaded to-day with a big crowd of excursionists from Napanee, Belleville and points along the line in this direction, and two trains were necessary to bring the visitors here. The first train brought 675 and the second 375. The excursion is under the auspices of the Methodist Sunday school at Belleville.

Many of the excursionists took the trip over the lift lock on the steamer Otonabee. The return will be made early this evening.

BARN ERECTED IN TWO WEEKS

Neighbors of Mr. Michael Perdue Ennismore, Helped Him Replace Barn Which Was Burned

Mr. Michael Perdue of Ennismore, whose barn was struck by lightning and burned on Tuesday, July 11, had a new barn erected and completed on Tuesday, Aug. 1.

On Tuesday, July 18, he started to get the timber and the following Tuesday the barn was erected and in another week it was completed.

Mr. Perdue's neighbors in Ennismore and East Emily turned out, and helped him. The timber, which was purchased at Kelley's and Bradley's mills, Smith township, was hauled in two days. The barn was built on the old foundation, and is a structure 30ft x 60 ft.

Mr. Perdue wishes to publicly thank the friends who so kindly came to his assistance.

ABOUT W. H. MELDRUM.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Will you kindly permit me to ask Mr. J. H. McClellan if W. H. Meldrum, who is busy stumping with Mr. Stratton, is still a canal employee, and working for the government?

ANXIOUS.

THE INDIAN SCHOOLS.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Would you be so kind as to allow me a small space in your valuable paper to say a little about school teachers that are sent to the poor Indians—Indians need their education as well as the white man.

Now I suppose you often wonder, which I am sure you have, how the poor Indians are so slow to learn. The Indian has as good a brain as any white man, quick to learn. All he wants is a good man to teach him, not those that are sent to teach the Indian children, without a certificate or permit. I have known superannuated teachers being sent to teach the Indian children and I say it is a shame that such are sent. Children will only be losing time. Now is the time while they are willing to go. When they are 13 or 14 years old it is not so easy to get them to go to school.

Hiawatha Indians are boasting of having a good teacher. Their children are learning fast. I told them that it was because they had a white man trustee to look after the schooling. The white man will not keep a teacher one day if the teacher is not qualified to teach school, and that is right too. But we here are looked on as a minor, and it will be as long as there is a little made by looking after the minor, for if the Indian got to be well educated and could do for himself, he would need no assistance and some one would lose his office, etc., etc.

I am sir,
One That Knows the Difference Between Right and Wrong.

P. S.—What are the school Inspectors for? Is it not their duty to find out if the school teachers are qualified to teach school?

RECIPROCITY AND WORKER.

To The Editor of The Review!

I understand the managers of the Cereal and Matthews Company, have already stated they would be affected by "Reciprocity."

Surely, managers of any large firms should be able to give advice, against all other outsiders.

If such is the case, there is no doubt whatever, that they may have to reduce their employees, both men and girls, perhaps to one half, more or less according to circumstances; best known to the managers themselves.

Now this is not a question of religion, for both Catholics and Protestants are employed by these firms. I know personally widows of both denominations, who are relying on their sons and daughters working at these firms; and who have no one else to support them.

According to the Liberal book, issued to the electors; it is stated these firms may be affected by "reciprocity."

Now, should the daughters, or sons, or even the men working at these firms, be laid off through "reciprocity" passing, where can they find employment for the winter.

These are two of the best factories in Peterboro, and employing men and girls all the year round.

Still, we are asked to vote for Mr. Stratton with the above circumstances in view.

We all know that during the winter months, there are from 20 to 50 men, at the least, standing outside the Canadian General Electric Works, looking for work, every day throughout the winter; these facts can be verified by C.G.E. employees, or Mr. E. G. Patterson, or Mr. Dobey. Will we have public? Perhaps, one or two, may find employment at the C.G.E. then, the remainder (mostly laboring class) move off like packs of wolves to the Cereal & Matthews Company, etc., and probably one, or two, find employment with those firms. They do not find employment every day, for, often, there are no men wanting for days, at any of the firms. Still the same numbers appear daily looking for work somehow, there seems to be no decrease in their numbers. If these firms are compelled to reduce their employees through "reciprocity" will it not make it much harder for the laboring class to find work in Peterboro.

We also know the farmers are prosperous, if not all rich. We also know that they are the richest men in the world taken as a body.

I firmly believe that every tradesman, mechanic, and laboring man, would vote for "reciprocity" if we thought for a moment that the farmer was handicapped from competing with the world, or that he could not sell his crops and they were going rotten, and had to rely on reciprocity to save him, even if it led to complications afterwards.

But as we know by the papers, both Liberal and Conservative from all over Canada, the farmers are not all of the same opinion, as a great many are for and a great many against "reciprocity," therefore, under the circumstances is it not against the laboring men we are voting, for in Peterboro, and in some cases relatives will be voting to put relatives out of work.

I know a case already, where one brother working at the C.G.E. is voting for Mr. Stratton, because he was always a Liberal, no other reason; the other brother is working at the Cereal he always voted Liberal too, but now he is afraid he will be voting against himself, so decided to vote for Mr. Burnham. I know that "reciprocity" is a hard nut for Canada to crack. Even the British Premier, Mr. Asquith, could only answer "wait and see" when asked his opinion in the House of Commons.

Sir,—Will the Hon. J. R. Stratton, kindly answer the undermentioned questions.

Should reciprocity pass, when it affects the Cereal and Matthews Co., so that they have to reduce their employees.

What prospects have the men and girls of finding work during the Winter, and will it not be against the city to vote for reciprocity.

By voting for him, are not tradesmen and mechanics voting against these two firms and against fellowmen and girls employed by them.

If you will kindly prove that I am wrong, or under a false impression, then I and many others will certainly vote for him.

I remain,
Yours, etc.,

Laurier would have Canada say on Sept. 21, "Not my will, but thine, O Taft, be done"

"IMPERIAL TIE WILL NEVER BE BROKEN, PLEASE GOD"—MR. BORDEN

Message to Taft on Sept. 21 Asked for by Conservative Leader—Great Chatham Meeting.

Chatham, Aug. 17.—If Mr. Borden's meeting at London on Tuesday night was a success, the meeting here last night was more so. The Conservative leader was in splendid form. He spoke for an hour and a quarter to an eager, appreciative audience. There were frequent interruptions by applause, and Mr. Borden's many cogent arguments were quickly taken up. At the outset he devoted some time to replying to Hon. George P. Graham's criticisms at Simcoe, and was loudly applauded when outlining his policy to grant aid for the construction of highways.

Mr. Borden handled the reciprocity pact without ceremony, and appealed to the young men of Canada "to preserve the national type of citizenship."

"Will you not tell Mr. Taft on Sept. 21 that the tie which binds Canada to the Empire is stronger than ever before, and please God it will never be broken," he declared.

Mr. Borden made it clear that the policy of the Conservative party with regard to the Hudson Bay Railway was for Government ownership and operation. His opposition to the Transcontinental Railway Commission was that the appointees were not men familiar with or competent to undertake such a work. The tariff commission, he said, would have only an advisory, but no legislative power whatever. The commission would merely report to Parliament, which was directly responsible to the people.

Ward Stanworth, Conservative candidate for West Kent, was the first speaker. He was glad that the country had a great issue before it—something more than acts of maladministration and corruption on the part of the Government. The reciprocity proposals, said Mr. Stanworth, brought before the country the well-known national policy inaugurated by Sir John A. Macdonald. It was most appropriately named. It stood for the benefit of all classes. It had resulted in the establishment of the large number of industries at Chatham, which represented large investments of American capital. He welcomed their investment and deplored the proposal to allow Canadian raw materials to be converted into manufactures in the United States. H. W. French, candidate for East Kent, spoke briefly.

On the platform were George Sulman, M.P.P., Phil. Boyer, M.P.P.; J. E. Armstrong, ex-M.P.; H. W. French, Conservative candidate for East Kent; Mr. Ritchie, president of West Kent Conservative Association, was in the chair. Mr. Armstrong followed Mr. Borden briefly with a vigorous speech against the Government.

COURT WILL SIT ON CLAIMS

Sir Charles Fitzpatrick Will Represent Canada.

Cayuga Indians Have Demand Against U.S.

Ottawa, Aug. 17.—Under the treaty concluded last year between Great Britain and the United States with regard to the settlement of pecuniary claims affecting the national treasuries of Great Britain or her dominions and of the American Federal or State Governments, an international court will shortly be established to deal with the first schedule of claims filed for adjudication. The court will consist of three members, one being selected by each Government concerned, with a third member chosen by consent as chairman. It is understood that Canada's representative on the court named to consider claims affecting this country and the United States will be Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

The principal claim to be considered, in so far as the Canadian Government is concerned, is that of the Cayuga Indians, who during the war of independence were, it is claimed unlawfully dispossessed of their lands in the Mohawk Valley by the State of New York. The Indians settled in Brant County, Ontario, where they were given land by the crown, and became the wards of the Indian Department. Their claim for compensation from the State of New York is considerably over a century old, and has been pressed from time to time in a desultory sort of way for generations. Nobody now knows the exact amount of the claim in view of accumulated interest and enormously enhanced values of the lands from which they were dispossessed. The Dominion Government, acting for the Indians, will now attempt to secure some fair and legal settlement.

There are a score or so of other cases which have been agreed upon for hearing by the court at its first assembling, which will be some time this autumn. Later on another schedule of cases for submission will be drafted.

"A DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR"

"I believe in a generous expenditure of public money, but I say investigation is necessary when men in public life spend public money in a manner which, were they trustees of private funds, would land them, not in House of Commons, but within the four walls of a prison. I say that the country should receive a dollar's return."—Mr. R. L. Borden, at Chatham.

REPLY TO MR. STRATTON

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Mr. Stratton has begun the campaign by making an issue of the papal decrees. I had not intended to refer to them on the political platform but now must, of necessity, do so. Three-fourths of the Examiner's report of Mr. Stratton's speech at 4th. line Smith, is devoted to Ne Temere. He scoffs at Ne Temere. He jeers at the Synods, presbyteries, conferences, &c., for knocking at the wrong door when they look to the Dominion Government for redress. He falls back upon the Minister of Justice's evasion of the issue and seeks to put responsibility on the provinces. But that the issue lies with the Dominion Government and with it alone in the matter, is plain. Nothing is plainer. Bigamy is a charge that a man or woman has been married twice, illegally. It is a charge that like all other criminal charges can be tried by the criminal (federal) law of Canada only, and the provinces have no say in it whatever. The validity of a marriage therefore rests with the Dominion Government alone, and it knows it. A province can direct the mere form of marriage but nothing more. The whole question is precisely like that of the franchise. The provinces say who may vote in this election but the Dominion Government regulates and rules everything with reference to it but that. Ne Temere however ignores all Governments. But Ne Temere is only a straw. The real decree is the one against Protestantism. Modernism and Protestantism are the same thing, and the Pope has condemned them both to utter extermination. There is no evading that fact. So much in reply to Mr. Stratton on the religious question. I will now reply to what he has to say on Reciprocity, leaving the Farmer's Bank for some other occasion. I will reply however, not in my own words but the words of President Taft himself, and in them alone. I believe that reciprocity will wreck our home market, but if any man can go and vote for reciprocity in the face of these words of President Taft's, then let him do so. I can say no more. These are President Taft's words:

"I have said that this was a critical time in the solution of the question of reciprocity. It is critical because unless it is now decided favorably to reciprocity, it is exceedingly probable that no such opportunity will ever again come to the United States. The forces which are at work in England and in Canada to separate her by a Chinese wall from the United States, and to make her part of an imperial commercial band reaching from England around the world to England again by a system of preferential tariffs, will derive an impetus from the rejection of this treaty, and if we would have reciprocity with all the advantages that I have described, and that I earnestly and sincerely believe will follow its adoption, we must take it now, or give it up forever." [From the speech of President Taft at the joint banquet of the Associated Press and the American Newspaper Publishers' Association held in New York on April 27th, 1911].

And here follow President Taft's own words from the article on Reciprocity written by him in Leslie's (New York) Weekly of August 10th, 1911 (a copy of which is in my possession):— * * * "The United States exports to Canada a great many more horses than she imports from Canada. She sends to Canada a much larger amount of potatoes than she receives from her. The United States exports to Canada about fifteen times as much of meat and dairy products as Canada exports to the United States.

"The only real importation of agricultural products that we may expect from Canada of any considerable amount will consist of wheat, barley, rye and oats. The world price of these four cereals is fixed abroad, where the surplus from the producing countries is disposed of, and is little affected by the place from which the supply is derived." * * * * "A very material benefit to all the farmers of the country, especially the stock and cattle raisers and the dairy farmers, will be the by-products of bran and shorts from the flour mills likely to follow the free export of wheat from Canada to those mills. These by-products are now so scarce that many farmers are unable to procure them. What is true of wheat is true of the other cereals."

Yours, etc.,
J. H. BURNHAM.

COLLEGE PRESIDENT INDORSES FOOTBALL

ARTHUR T. HADLEY.

With the participants in football already getting into form for early practice for the fall season, the statement of Arthur T. Hadley, president of Yale, that, considering the number of boys that play football, he doubted whether the injuries resulting from the game were more numerous than the injuries resulting from baseball, is recalled. He added that, at any rate, it was a small price to pay for a game which diverts the energies of one kind of boys from rowdyism and another kind from drinking.

GREAT RAILWAY TIE-UP IS ON; ORDERS SENT OUT BY WIRE

Strike Was Ready to go Into Effect Over all United Kingdom—Government Will Take Hand in Protecting Food Supply.

London, Special, Aug. 17, 7 p.m.—The strike has been ordered to take place immediately. The order was telegraphed broadcast at six o'clock (British time).

Special to the Review.

LONDON, AUG. 17.—THE COUNTRY WIDE STRIKE ON THE RAILROADS, TIMED FOR EIGHT O'CLOCK THIS MORNING, WAS POSTPONED PENDING A CONFERENNCE OF THE UNION LEADERS WITH BOARD OF TRADE OFFICIALS

London, Aug. 17.—Meetings, with a view to settling the controversy between the railway companies and their employes were held yesterday and last night at the Board of Trade, but when they were adjourned late last night the situation remained as far from being solved as when they begun. The railway managers declared they had been promised protection in the running of their trains and would not yield to their men; the representatives of the Railway Men's Unions declared the strike would take place at the expiration of their ultimatum to-day.

At Aldershot the military authorities are taking every precaution to insure the working of the railways in the event a strike is called. Every soldier in the Aldershot command has been placed under orders for duty. Previously only the cavalry and infantry had been under orders, but yesterday the Royal Engineers, the Army Service Corps and the Field and Garrison Artillery were warned to have every man in their ranks ready to move off on a moment's notice.

If a strike is declared three regiments of cavalry and three batteries of Royal Horse Artillery will first be moved direct to London, to be followed at short intervals by an infantry battalion, field artillery, the royal engineers and the medical units of the command. Only the barracks' guard will be left at Aldershot.

All the soldiers will be armed with rifles and ball ammunition. They will be stationed along the railway lines north and south of London, while the cavalry will be employed at stations and also will patrol the lines so as to be able to get quickly to any point of danger. The trains will be worked by flag signals.

It is estimated that 25,000 men from Aldershot will be prepared to move in a few hours, trains to accommodate that number having been assembled there. Similar precautions also have been taken at all other military stations in England, Scotland and Wales, so that in case of need every available soldier will be on duty to insure the continuance of railway traffic.

Though the Government yesterday made an energetic attempt to avert the calamity of a general railway strike, the present indications are that one will materialize to-day, when the ultimatum of the employes expires. Conferences were held yesterday and last night at the Board of Trade with representatives of both sides of the dispute, by Sydney Buxton, President of the Board, but they did not actually result in a meeting between the contending parties. An adjournment of the conferences until to-day was arranged late last night, in order to enable Mr. Buxton to see the executives of the three railway men's unions, who are now en route to London from Liverpool. This fact alone leaves a glimmer of hope that the men's ultimatum may at the last moment be extended another day and provide an opportunity for further negotiations. This is the Government's earnest desire, but up to midnight there was no sign of any change in the plans for a strike.

It is understood that Mr. Buxton's conference with the members of the railway companies was largely taken up with the discussion of how far the Government was prepared to go in affording military protection to the railways in the event of a strike. In the House of Commons yesterday Winston Churchill, the Home Secretary, declared that non-unionists were entitled by law to work without molestation and that they would be protected in the exercise of that right. The Chancellor of the Exchequer, David Lloyd-George, also declared that the Government was determined to protect the railways and the food supply at all cost, and would not depart in the smallest degree from its determination to protect life and property.

WARSHIP CREWS TO UNLOAD BOATS

Antrim is Now in Liverpool Harbor—More Coming

Special To The Review

Liverpool, Aug. 17.—The British warship Antrim is now in the harbor and other vessels are en route. It is believed that the intention of the government to have the crews unload provision-laden vessels and thus avert a food famine.

POOR PROSPECTS FOR AGREEMENT

Germany May Send Her Soldiers to Agadir

Special to the Review.

London, Aug 17.—Germany is said to be considering the landing of troops at Agadar, Morocco. Berlin and Paris despatches indicate that the Moroccan negotiations are hopelessly deadlocked because the demands of Germany are exorbitant.

POLITICAL NEWS OF DAY

Sir Wilfrid Holds Conference in Montreal.

Montreal, Aug. 17.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier spent the day here in organization work, holding conferences with Liberal leaders of this district. He left to-day for Three Rivers. With him will be Hon. Sydney Fisher, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Dr. Beland, Hon. Mackenzie King and others. The Premier announced that his itinerary had not been definitely settled, but that he would visit Quebec City after Three Rivers, and that the next two weeks would probably be spent in this province.

A deputation from the Liberals of Soulanges visited Mr. Lemieux yesterday and invited him to run in that division. No definite answer was given. The new Minister of Marine, however, will run again in Gaspe, and in some other division nearer the centre of the province.

The Socialists of St. Lawrence division will run a candidate against Messrs. Robert Bickerdike, Liberal, and G. F. Johnston, Conservative, in the person of Hugh Cotton, editor of Cotton's Weekly.

Two Nominations.

Ottawa, Aug. 17.—Two more Ottawa Valley nominations were added to the list yesterday. Thomas Low is again the Liberal candidate in South Renfrew, following a convention held at Eganville.

A report that the Opposition nomination in Labelle would go to Henri Bourassa, the Nationalist chief, did not survive the holding of the Conservative convention last night at Papineauville. The nomination went to Honore Achin, an advocate of Nominingue.

A Three-Cornered Fight.

Welland, Aug. 17.—William Monroe of Thorold was unanimously chosen as Conservative standard-bearer for this county. The large auditorium of the court house proved inadequate, close to four hundred persons being present, and all municipalities in the county being represented. The session lasted from 2 until 7 p.m.

In view of the attitude of the late Liberal member, Wm. German, M.P., in opposing reciprocity there was a feeling in some quarters that the Conservative party should not nominate a candidate. Hon. Frank Cochrane, organizer for the province, while not dictating to the convention, voiced the view that the party might well recognise Mr. German's services against the pact.

P.E.I. Nominations.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Aug. 17.—The Federal nominations in Prince Edward Island are complete. The Liberals of Prince at Summerside have selected J. W. Richardson. Other candidates are Dr. P. C. Murphy, Conservative, for Prince; A. J. Warburton and L. E. Prowse, Liberals, and S. A. McLean and Donald Nicholson, Conservatives, for Queen's; J. J. Hughes, Liberal, and A. L. Fraser, Conservative, for Kings.

West Huron Liberals.

Goderich, Aug. 17.—At the Liberal convention for West Huron held here yesterday afternoon, M. G. Cameron, mayor of Goderich, was nominated. Mr. Cameron is opposed by E. N. Lewis, the late member at Ottawa, and both are strong campaigners.

Mr. Fielding Chosen.

Halifax, Aug. 17.—Two Liberal nominations took place yesterday in Nova Scotia. In Shelburne, Hon. W. S. Fielding was nominated for Queen's-Shelburne.

The Lunenburg Liberal convention nominated the late member, J. D. Sherry of Petite Revere.

Gervais Accepts Judgeship.

Montreal, Aug. 17.—Honore Gervais, ex-member for St. James' Division, after an interview with Sir Wilfrid Laurier yesterday, stated that he had decided to accept the appointment to the Court of King's Bench, appeal side. The new justice will be sworn in at the beginning of next month and will enter upon his duties with the opening of the Criminal Assizes, Sept. 15.

This leaves the Liberal candidature in St. James open, and a convention will be held shortly to choose a candidate. Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux is spoken of, as the Liberals of St. James Division are anxious to be represented in Parliament by a member of the Cabinet.

Catarrh and Bronchitis

The Bane of Thousands, and has Hitherto Baffled the Skill of Medical Science.

Catarrhozone

Dry air treatment is the one treatment that will cure these diseases.

What stomach medicine has ever been known to cure Catarrh or Bronchitis?

Catarrhozone is not a stomach medicine, but an air medicine, that carries to the remotest parts of the throat, lungs, and air cells little drops of healing so curative that whenever it touches germ life it kills and eradicates them from the system.

Thousands of doctors and patients have been disappointed by using stomach medicines for coughs and colds. Have you not found it a rather roundabout way to reach the diseased portion of the throat and lungs?

Why not use Catarrhozone, which is breathed to the very root of the disease and heals so quickly and perfectly that every spot is rebuilt with new healthy tissue?

Catarrhozone is the only medicine that will cure. Thousands have testified.

Think for a moment. Is it not sense? Little drops of healing—the air carries them just where disease exists. That is why

BOURASSA

The Examiner is still objecting to the Conservative battle cry, "Borden and British connection." It seems to hurt the Stratton organ that Mr. Borden has assumed a policy in regard to Canadian national affairs that is designed to prevent the dismemberment of the empire, and the removal of Canada slowly and gradually from close imperial connection.

It takes up the old Bourassa gag that it has been working consistently, trying to insinuate that Mr. Borden and the Conservative party are in alliance with the Bourassa clique.

The Examiner says of Mr. Bourassa:

> Now, Mr. Bourassa and his policy are at variance with everything British and in everything but "National." The so-called "Nationalist" movement is purely sectional—parochial and and limited. Its ultimate aim is the establishment of a French-Canadian Republic on the banks of the St. Lawrence."

Anyone familiar with politics and the history of Quebec in the last few years knows that Bourassa is the pupil of Laurier. He was one of Laurier's lieutenants for years. He may be a disappointed office seeker; he probably is. That doesn't disguise the fact that he was chief lieutenant for years in Quebec to Sir Wilfrid, and was used by Laurier in his campaigns to secure solid support for him (Laurier.) Laurier appealed to Quebec in these campaigns on a largely racial and religious platform. He worked the racial cry to what seemed to be the limit—and it worked effectively. Bourassa was an apt pupil and when he broke from his political chief, he knew the Laurier game, and beat Laurier at it.

Bourassa is simply an exaggerated type of Laurier, as far as Quebec is concerned, and that his appeals are so effective is due to the years of seeding and cultivation by the Liberal chief. He planted his crop in fertile and responsive soil. He is merely reaping now and using against Laurier, the crop of hatred and prejudice against British and Protestant Canada that was originally cultivated in a milder form by the great "British" premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

The Bourassa wing of politicians in Quebec is but a broken off branch of the Quebec Liberals. Armand Lavergne, Bourassa's lieutenant, was a Liberal until that split. The Conservatives are interested in the fight only indirectly, just as they are interested indirectly in the Liberal split in Alberta.

Bourassa, the ex-pupil of Laurier, is master of the game apparently. He has taught the people of Quebec—the easily inflamed, emotional habitants—that Laurier is an idol with feet of clay, and having sown the wind, Laurier is rapidly reaping the whirlwind.

TO THE WORKER

The workers in the Peterborough factories should hesitate before they vote for reciprocity, if there are any of them who propose to do so. The prosperity of the country is their prosperity, and any measure that threatens it, threatens their livelihood also.

The workers of Peterborough city should remember that Sir Wilfrid Laurier went about the country in 1893 declaring the tariff to be a delusion and a snare. He was a free-trader then—would have none of the protection in Canada that has enabled the factories to exist against the giant American industrial combinations. In 1891, some years further back, he was engaged in a death struggle for Unrestricted Reciprocity, which was even more pronounced a measure leading to Commercial Union, than the present Reciprocity Pact.

Laurier went west last summer. He was met by clamors from the grain-growers, and low tariff men. They wanted reciprocity not only in natural products, but they wanted the protection which ensures to the artisan of eastern Canada at least a living at a decent wage, practically wiped out. "We are ready to stand direct taxation instead," they said. And Laurier was frightened.

Laurier had his opportunity when Taft, for political purposes, started in to "beat the Democrats to it"—to a lowering of the prohibitive tariff the United States has waxed so great on. He knew that he could not survive the storm that would blow up if he sacrificed the business interests of the country at this juncture. So he entered into a secret arrangement with Washington to have free trade in natural products, and to lower the duties on manufactured products that we import from the United States as much as he dared.

We have the spectacle of Laurier holding up the tariff on articles like cement, away above the requirements of the industry, to help out powerful political friends, but we find him ready to sacrifice the protection which the farmer has enjoyed in the home markets, and taking a liberal slice away from the ordinary workingman's protection against American competition.

The workingman is opposed to reciprocity. He has an instinctive feeling that reciprocity is coming too close to the danger line. He does not want to be on half-time, or to be thrown out of a job, and have to hang around the doors of factories sighing at the sign, "No help wanted." There is one sure way to retain the present condition of affairs, Mr. Workingman. By if you are not injuring the farmer; you are saving him from deadly competition, and preserving your present prosperity, such as it is. It is always wise policy to make sure of fiscal stability, and this is what R. L. Borden offers.

A vote for Burnham is a vote for Borden and a staunch British administration, that will develop Canada's prosperity along Canadian lines and not make it interdependent with the fluctuations of American business.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Laurier and lessened prosperity for the workingman.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier wants Canada to say on Sept. 21, "Not my will, but but thine, O Taft, be done."

The first libel suit of the open season has been registered against the Winnipeg Telegram. The Telegram is so used to them that it is like handing peanuts to a monkey.

Lord Charles Beresford is coming to Canada for the Toronto exhibition. As a naval expert, how would it do to get his opinion on the Canadian navy? It might be safe to show him the Niobe now that it is off the rocks.

Why should Canada be tied to the apron strings of the United States? Let us pursue our own way, not thinking of this continent one "united commercial whole" which is in other words one "United States commercial whole."

Two Kansas men have brought suit against the Missouri Pacific for $50,000 for damages because a couple of employees of the company forced them to drink whiskey at a revolver's point. No, you're wrong—the men are not crazy. They are merely freaks of nature.

The Toronto Star is discovering Conservatives who are going to vote for reciprocity as the result of the Laurier meeting at Simcoe. It would be real interesting and more to the point for it to discover the Liberals who are going to vote against reciprocity. It is they who will decide the election.

Conservative workers and voters should make themselves at home around Mr. Burnham's committee rooms. It is only by organization and work that an election is won. People may have deep convictions on political or trade matters, but the party that wins is the party that gets the voters to the polls, one after the other. Organise and work.

The Montreal Herald publishes under great headings and set in heavy italic type, a story to the effect that the American trusts are going to spend millions of dollars to defeat the reciprocity pact. It was Sir Wilfrid Laurier who once said that he preferred the Yankee dollar to the English shilling. Apparently, according to the Herald, he will now have his preferences gratified.

Judging by the meeting at St. Hyacinthe, where the 15,000 people were undoubtedly very partial to the Bourassa cause, it would be very much in order to have the Stratton organ circulated amongst these deluded habitants. There wouldn't be be much left of Bourassa after the Examiner got through with him. Here is a way to save Quebec for Laurier.

When it comes down to the bean-farmers like the Globe, trade figures show that for 1910 Canada exported about 17,000 bushels in the year and imported about 107,000, much of the latter coming from the United States. Again we ask, does it look probable that 30,000,000 farmers have reason to fear the competition of 2,000,000 farmers, or have the 2,000,000 any chance of keeping out the 30,000,000 farmers' products?

Sir Wilfrid Laurier repeated that silly yarn about the opposition not wanting an election. For goodness sake, we wish the premier or someone would tell us why Mr. Borden and his followers did so much "obstructing" that the Liberals were yowling about if they did not. Why did Mr. Borden tell the people of the West that they would have an election this fall, because he intended to force the government to go to the country, if he did not want an election. The Conservatives forced the question to the people, but of course they did it by accident, pure and simple. Accidents will happen, you know.

WARSAW ITEMS

Special Correspondence

Warsaw, Aug. 16.—The regular meeting of the Warsaw Woman's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Edwards on Thursday, Aug. 10th. The president, Mrs. D. Miller, was in the chair and the secretary was also present. There was a goodly number of pleasant faces and attentive ears to listen to the two excellent papers prepared, one on canning fruit, by Mrs. Nathan Payne, and the other on flowers and bulbs, by Mrs. A. F. Choate. The meeting was instructive and sociable and after the business came the pleasurable part, a dainty lunch, followed by coffee and home-made candy after which the gathering dispersed delighted with the pleasant time, to meet again in September, at the home of Mrs. Robt. Tedford.

Warsaw is progressing and trying to keep ahead of the times. The old Foresters' hall has been pulled down and on its site, Mr. Fred Calder is erecting a "mansion on the hill."

We are pleased to learn that the Rev. Mr. Brown's infant daughter, Muriel, has recovered from her illness. She was taken ill while visiting with her mother in New York.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. J. J. Crowe, of Hall's Glen, is down with typhoid fever.

Mr. Marmion Clements and Mr. Jas. Trotter, of Clydale, went to the west on the 12th.

Miss Jessie Kidd and Mr. Elmo Kidd, of Young's Point, were the guests of Mr. Thos. Miller on Sunday last.

A nursing bottle and some other infant requirements were found in the vicinity of the Traders' Bank on Sunday morning, supposed to belong to some one of the members of the Old Woman's Sewing Society of the East Riding, who held a meeting in the bank Saturday night. Are they raising Kerr on the bottle.

Was it not enough for Stratton that he got ousted off the platform in Havelock on the 12th of July, and that the old woman punched him in the back with her umbrella as he got down and told him a thing or two. Was this not enough for him that he has to come before the public again to expose his ignorance?

"I do not know what to say to you," she returned, as I stood before her in abject penitence. "That you have hurt my pride more than it was ever hurt before, perhaps you may appreciate. I scarcely know what to think of a love so ready to defame its object and so willing to condemn it unheard. Certainly I could never go through a scene such as this again. If our acquaintance is to continue as before, you must have unquestioning faith in me. Should you ever doubt me again I should despise you."

"I never shall. I have learned my lesson, and it will never be forgotten. May I hope to be restored?" I begged humbly. She turned her face away.

"That I cannot say now. I have been hurt and it will take time for the wound to heal. Still, in a measure I am not without appreciation of your feelings, for if I lacked that appreciation I should have commanded you to leave me permanently before this. Neither do I think I blame you as much as some women might. But at least my day has been spoiled and I do not care to leave the house. Also, I wish to be alone. You may call me up in a week, if you wish, and I will tell you at the end of that time how I feel about it. I do not now know whether I can bring myself to a total forgiveness or not, and if I find I cannot I shall so inform you. But I am going to try."

I would have given years of my life to have taken her in my arms in a final appeal, and must have made some motion that caused her to fear such an act, for she stepped backward quickly. "Please leave me now. I will send you the keys by a messenger when I have recovered myself sufficiently to make a search for them." I obeyed her instantly, humbly.

"I shall be hopelessly miserable until the week has passed, and can only pray that you be merciful," I importuned from the entrance. She nodded her understanding, and I closed the door between us upon my second banishment.

I did not receive my keys, however, until the next day. "Janet had mislaid them," said the note, and nothing more.

CHAPTER VII.

I have now come to the period immediately preceding the running of the Derby, and upon the events of that day I must dwell with some particularity, for the reason that they form a very important part of this narrative. Mrs. Dace was to go with me. After torturing me by a week of silence and suspense, I had been received back, first upon probation, and soon later, more or less unconditionally. It would do no good to go into the details of our readjustment of our former relations. There are some things which may be expressed by cold ink, but you have to see the human countenance with its lightning play of expression, and hear the human voice in all its wondrous inflections in order to form a correct mental picture of certain scenes. But on the whole her restoration of me was both womanly and gracious. I came to her a kneeling and penitent sufferer; she touched me upon the forehead and I arose healed. My spirits revived instantly in the sunshine of her forgiveness and I renewed my worship.

The race was to be the out-of-doors social as well as sporting event of the season. I was an admirer of the beautiful. Next to a beautiful woman, a thoroughbred horse appealed to me as the most perfect of the world's creatures. And although I had never bet upon them, I had kept myself well posted upon their performances through the medium of the press. Bruce, however, was an enthusiast. Coming in contact, as he did, with many of the more prominent horse owners and turfmen, he generally had a store of more or less reliable inside information as to both the runners and the imps who rode them. Consequently I was not surprised when upon the second day before the great race was to be run he came to me in a state of whispering excitement.

"Say, old man, I've got the best thing that is ever going to happen in this world, and of course I want you to be in on it. I wouldn't trade it for Alladin's lamp. You know that Eagle Boy horse that we have been watching for the last year? Well, he has developed into a simon pure world beater. I got this on the dead Q. T. from his owner, who would break his arm to do me a favor. That horse is smashing all records by moonlight, and even the railbirds haven't got onto it yet. He is going to run away from that bunch like a locomotive leaves a mud turtle. And the odds will be long against him. I am going to plunge, and advise you to do the same. But if you dare breathe it I'll poison you."

I was not startled. As a matter of fact for some time past I had had my eyes on this great son of Black Eagle as much the best horse of the lot; therefore the news of his midnight performances merely corroborated my own judgment. I answered in an offhand manner:

"I rather look to see him win myself. But you know I do not bet, and therefore cannot take advantage of the opportunity. But I thank you just the same for the information."

Bruce's countenance fell. "That's so. You bonded fellows have to be pretty careful of your sporting transactions." He brightened up again and whispered hoarsely in my ear in stage fashion: "However, in this instance you had better take a chance; let some friend put it up for you; say some wise relative, for instance. A hundred or two lost would not damage you much, and a few thousand gained would be ambrosia and nectar." He winked cautiously.

Once more I told him that I could not violate my traditions, and he shrugged his shoulders; and away be went at Eagle Boy speed himself, doubtless hot on the trail of some of his particular cronies to whom he could break the glad tidings. For when Bruce had a chance to do his friends what he thought was a favor, he did not let the grass grow under his feet until he had done it. It was one of the traits that lay back of his popularity. Of course I sincerely hoped he would win, but I was always afraid that his recklessness would some day get him into trouble.

The afternoon upon which the race was run will forever remain seared upon my memory. I had been wise enough to put in my order long in advance at a fashionable stable, and as a result my two-wheel outfit was about as neat as could be found anywhere. As I drove up to Mrs. Dace's with the silver-mounted harness glittering in the sun and the cob arching his neck and tapping the boulevard with his polished hoofs as daintily as a dancing girl, I experienced much the same sensations as does a school boy on the first day of his long vacation, when life, as a well-nigh endless primrose way, stretches before him in a vista glorious to contemplate. I was at the full tide of youth and hope. Charged to the full with health and vitality, desperately in love with and half accepted by one whom I thoroughly believed to be the most beautiful woman in the world, I shook my fist defiantly in the teeth of the grinning spectre of my lack of money. And realising my domination for the day, the spectre cringed and fled before me.

The great migration of the day was in full movement. Automobiles were whizzing past, honking like flights of wild geese. Victorias and traps, drags and tallyhos streamed behind them in an endless procession. It was life, teeming and exultant. The world was on parade dressed in its best clothes and with its pockets lined with money, and right royally did it proclaim the fact, its headache of the morrow an unthought-of thing.

Mrs. Dace came down in a creation I had never seen before, but which fairly made me gasp with delight. I shall make no attempt to describe it, but the general impression it gave me was of fleecy clouds in which were blended delicate and changeful rainbow tints that came and flitted like summer shadows. She seemed rather to float than walk, and when I gave her my hand at the curb and she arose from it to the high seat with the lightness of a feather, I could scarcely believe that she was made of warm, firm flesh. The aggressiveness of her beauty challenged nearly every eye that we passed, the men craning their heads for a longer look, the women searching her enviously. In my pride of her and the enthusiasm of the moment I whispered in her ear that she was the most beautiful woman in all the world and that I loved her dearer than my own life. My reward was a smile and a flash of her wonderful eyes.

"I am glad you think so, Tom, even though of course you are wrong. And it is sweet of you to be so devoted to me. I am really very happy to be with you." My fingers tightened about the reins and my teeth clenched. In my heart I swore that she should become mine though the heavens fell.

We turned into the crush where the converging boulevards emptied their streams into the rolling sea of vehicles. Bugle calls vibrated in our ears; college yells shattered the air; the beat of hoofs sounded like the long roll of drums. Through the wide entrance to the club grounds we drove into an arena banked by 30,000 people. Already the racing was on and before us swept a cloud of preliminary racers with the jockeys bumped over their necks like so many colored simians. Not far away I saw Clare, standing upright on her seat, her face aglow with excitement and her head nodding rapidly as she carried on a running fire of conversation with a cluster of friends. Her eyes fell upon me and she waved her hand with the airy grace of a plume; but as she noticed my companion her smile grew thin and vanished as for a moment she surveyed her with a face that was absolutely expressionless. Mrs. Dace, whose attention had been attracted to my cousin by my waved reply to her salutation, returned Clare's gaze, smiling faintly. Amusement lurked within her eyes like a reflection deep down in unruffled waters.

"My cousin, Miss Winton, of whom I have often spoken," I explained nonchalantly. The one at my side gave her attention to the flying racers.

"An exceedingly pretty girl. You are very fond of each other, I believe," she returned, with a slight rising inflection. I hastened to answer.

"In a way, yes. She is a very good and sweet girl, and we are the best of friends. But of course that is all." Through the press Bruce came jamming his way, his necktie awry from the scuffle and his face a-grin with enthusiasm. He bobbed my companion a hurried bow, and then shouted something to me as a surge of the crowd bore him along.

"Last call for prosperity in the betting ring," was all that I could catch of it as, still gesticulating, he was swept away. Mrs. Dace looked after him.

Charge Maladministration.

Montreal, Aug. 17.—A sensation was created at the City Hall yesterday, when it was learned that two officials of the fire department had signed depositions which they were about to submit to the Board of Control, charging Chief Tremblay, head of the fire department, with a species of maladministration.

It is charged in the depositions that Chief Tremblay has used firemen of his department to make a motor for a boat he owns, and that firemen have been working at Mr. Tremblay's house at Valois, in the city's name.

The chief stated that while firemen had assisted him in moving and in building his boat, the work was done in spare time, and the Board of Control were aware of it.

Railway Rumors.

Winnipeg, Aug. 17.—A rumor, fanned by a New York despatch, has spread through the city that the Canadian Northern has either acquired control of the Minneapolis and St. Paul Railway, or will work in collusion with that company to secure terminals at Minneapolis and Chicago. Confirmation of the report cannot be secured.

Another despatch says that the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway will invade western Canada via Winnipeg, within a short time.

A third story is to the effect that the Minneapolis and St. Louis will run up to the Canadian border to connect with the Canadian Northern, the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Torpedo Boat Sunk.

BROKEN-DOWN NERVES

HOPELESS CONDITION CURED BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MILFORD HAVEN, ONT., Aug. 20th, 1910

"I was a complete invalid, three years ago, with Stomach Trouble, Constipation and Broken-down Nerves. I could not sleep at night and my Doctor did me very little good. I was almost helpless untill I began to take "Fruit-a-tives" in small doses. I have taken about three dozen boxes in all and, Thank God, to-day I am well and strong—able to do my own work—and have a baby fifteen months old, and six children in all.

I would not be without "Fruit-a-tives" in the house, and I can highly recommend them to anyone suffering as I did."

MRS. D. GUINEY.

Nervousness is not a disease in itself, but is the result of some of the vital organs becoming diseased. In Mrs. Guiney's case, her nervous condition was caused by a very weak stomach and torpid liver. "Fruit-a-tives" strengthened her stomach—helped digestion—made the liver active—and cured Constipation. Then her nerves became well.

If your nerves are "all unstrung", take "Fruit-a-tives". 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size 25c. At all dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

That Fisher Interview.

London, Aug. 16.—The Pall Mall Gazette says it is pretty obvious that unless the opinions attributed to Premier Fisher in a certain interview had been utterly repudiated by him his relations with the Australian democracy to-day would be of a character which it would be fantastically considerate to describe as strained. Consequently every opportunity of publicly tearing the interview into little bits has been seized by Fisher, much to the satisfaction of his audiences. His forecast of the decision of the commonwealth Parliament in the event of war is as confident as any man who knows the Australian mind could find.

Tenders For Tubes.

Toronto, Aug. 16—The Board of Control authorized the city engineer yesterday to advertise at once that tenders would be called for on Sept. 21 for the tube system. Controller Hocken moved it, and after some discussion it was passed.

The controllers wanted the matter published far and wide so that all possible contractors would know about it. He wanted all the European and United States contractors to have time to prepare their tenders so they would be in by October 15.

"BARGAIN" GLASSES ARE DANGEROUS GLASSES

This Editorial in the Ladie's Home Journal gives timely warning against these "Eye Destroyers" advertised as "Exceptional Values."

A woman who was hunting "bargain glasses" finally succeeded in "fitting" her eyes with what she enthusiastically declares was "just the thing." And immensely pleased with herself, this woman had brought about the gravest danger a woman could invest in, for she has bought two pieces of glass crudely ground, but magnifying strongly, and with them she can see 'better to read'—That seeing better will mean an intense strain upon the her eyes, but she will not realize what the trouble is, nor the injury the glasses are doing. Some day she will be under the care of a Specialist, probably for the removal of a cataract, which will cost considerable, to say nothing of the suffering entailed, and she will be fortunate indeed if she does not suffer partial or entire loss of sight for the remainder of her life.

We have every qualification for giving your eyes a thorough examination. We fit you with the finest ground lenses, and at a very reasonable cost. Thousands of our citizens can certify to the care, skill and thoroughness of the examination, and the good results they had in wearing the glasses we prescribed. ALL WORK GUARANTEED.

FAIR DIRECTORS' GOOD MEETING

Much Business Transacted in Interests of Exhibition

The Peterborough fair directors got together at the County Council chamber last night and talked for two hours and a half. It was straight business all the time and many details relative to the welfare of the big Industrial for 1911 came up for discussion. Judges were appointed and arrangements for the horse races, which promise to eclipse any previous programs, received attention.

Those who have not received a copy of the prize list may obtain one at R. Denne's flour and feed store, George street.

CHILD'S INJURIES PROVED FATAL

Dr. and Mrs. Sutton of Lindsay Are Bereaved

Lindsay Warder.—The sympathy of the community is being extended to Dr. and Mrs. Sutton, their little three-year-old son Lloyd having passed quietly away last evening from the burns received on Saturday, when he set himself on fire. Although hopes were at first held out for his recovery, the shock and injuries had been too severe and the young life passed away last night.

Deceased was a smart, manly little fellow, and was beloved by all that knew him, so that his death came as a shock to all.

The funeral will take place Thursday at 2.30 from the family residence, Victoria Avenue, thence to the Riverside cemetery.

"The County Sheriff"

The most interesting story of real western life that has been put into play form, entitled "The County Sheriff," a new play this season, by Lem B. Parker, will be presented at the Grand Opera House, one night only, on Thursday, Aug. 23rd. It is delightful in its humor and stirring in its adventure, while its romance cannot fail to draw sympathy from the coldest audience. The cast is an exceptionally clever one, including Georgia Frances, Evelyn Morrison, Bert Melville, Maurice Jenkins, Jack F. Mallory, Frank L. Tyoe, Kittie Melville, Albert R. Richman and others.

MR. AND MRS. J. SUTHERLAND CELEBRATED GOLDEN WEDDING

Children and Friends Were With Them for the Happy Event.

The fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. James Sutherland, 323 George street, was most pleasingly celebrated last evening at their home, when children and relatives gathered around the parental abode once again in rejoicing and glad re-union.

On August 16th 1861, Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland were joined in matrimony and during the long stretch of intervening years the current of their lives has flowed harmoniously together.

Some of those present were Mrs. Thomas Ranton and daughter, of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. G. Sutherland, Mr. James Sutherland, jr., and son Jas., and several friends.

A most jolly evening was passed. At 8.30 a sumptuously laden table with choice delicacies occupied the attention of the party, to which full justice was done.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sutherland, sr., were married on Aug. 16th, 1861, at Aberdeen, Scotland, by the Rev. Chas. Skene, minister of the John Knox church.

They came to Canada and landed at Quebec on May 28th, 1868 and after a few days came to Peterborough and settled.

There is a family of three daughters and two sons. Numerous handsome gifts were showered upon the principals of the happy event all testifying to the love and respect in which they are held.

Mr Thomas Ranton, of Boston, who was unable to be present telegraphed a congratulatory message.

MR. WILSON HENDERSON DIED WHILE AWAY ON TRIP

Was Superintendent of the Waterworks System for Twenty-seven Years.

The sad and sudden tidings of the death of Mr. Wilson Henderson, who for the past twenty-seven years was superintendent of the local waterworks system, was received in the city this morning, and has cast a feeling of gloom upon the community of Peterborough, and particularly upon a large circle of his immediate friends. The late gentleman left Peterborough for a trip by water through Georgian Bay and the great lakes, in the hope of recruiting his health, which was not of the best for the past few months. He was given a three months' furlough, and a little over a week ago left Peterborough, accompanied by his three daughters. One daughter phoned to the city yesterday, stating that her father had taken a relapse, and that they were bringing him home. He passed away on "The City of Hamilton" at six o'clock this morning. His wife was staying at Oshawa and the funeral will be held in Oshawa, the home of the deceased. The City of Hamilton" arrived in Toronto this morning.

He leaves to mourn the loss of a good husband and kind father, his wife and three daughters, namely, Kate and Mya at home, and Bessie, of Belleville, to whom most heartfelt sympathy is extended in their time of bereavement and trial.

During his long period of service with the town, and afterwards city, as superintendent of the waterworks system, he amply demonstrated his ability and energy in every capacity. His work was ever an example to others. All that is comprised in the expression of faithfulness, thoroughness and stability, was Wilson Henderson's. He left no loose ends. No man had cause, or even thought to criticize his work. His board of commissioners trusted and relied on him in a manner that was at once a deserved acknowledgement and a compliment. The permanency of the works the regularity of operation, are testimony to his thoroughness. While not a college bred man, he had abilities that if devoted to other fields of the profession would have carried him to the top. His knowledge was large, his experience ample, and always were his methods up to date. His successor will have an onerous task in seeking to fill the position so well, so honestly, faithfully and with such absolute efficiency as Wilson Henderson.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Edward Mahood

Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Mahood, wife of Mr. Edward Mahood, sr., well known throughout the county and a resident of Smith township, passed away last night at the homestead at lot 6, concession 2, Smith, at the age of 75 years. The late Mrs. Mahood was born in Ireland and had resided in Canada for 61 years, most of which time has been spent in Peterborough county. In religion Mrs. Mahood was a Presbyterian and a faithful member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church.

Surviving besides her husband is a family of nine children, the sons being Messrs. Alexander, of Peterborough, Edward, of Smith, Robert of Toronto, David of Smith, John of Warterbourne, Ont., and Bert at the homestead. Three daughters are Mrs. Geo. Ruth, of Peterborough, Mrs. L. Crossley, of Newtonville, and Mrs Mills, of Smith. One brother, Mr. Alex. Wright, lives at Burfield.

The funeral will take place Friday afternoon at two o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

Mrs. Sarah Brown

Hamilton, Aug. 16.—The death took place at the home of her daughter, Mrs John Frid, 27 Nelson street, last night, of Mrs. Sarah Brown, who was in her 86th year. Deceased was a former resident of Cobourg, and had lived in Hamilton for the past four years. She is survived by one son, John, of Peterborough, and four daughters, Mrs. Frid, Mrs. A. P. Williamson, and Mrs. Louis Davey, of this city, and Mrs Samuel Lapish, residing in Michigan. The funeral will take place at 3.30 o'clock on Thursday afternoon to Hamilton cemetery.

The Late Mrs. McWilliams

Numerous Peterboro people will regret to learn of the death at Toronto of Mrs. George McWilliams, who formerly resided in this city. Her husband for many years was the proprietor of a windmill and planing mill which was situated on the old Dickson raceway. The family lived on London street and the late Mrs. McWilliams made a large number of friends by her many estimable qualities.

The news of her death was received here this morning, but no particulars of her illness were sent. The funeral is to be held on Friday at Toronto.

Three sons are Messrs. Lorne, Henry and Leslie.

The late Mrs. McWilliams was an aunt of Mr. E. N. McWilliams, and Mr. C. R. Wilson of this city.

Mrs. Sidney Revoy

Mrs. Elizabeth Revoy, wife of Sidney Revoy, 495 Cross street, passed away at Nicholls Hospital this morning at seven o'clock, after an illness of about three weeks, at the age of twenty-five.

The deceased was generally beloved and respected and her early passing is a matter of regret and grief to her many friends. She was born in Victoria Road, near Lindsay, but for the last five years resided in Peterborough.

Three children, all small, namely, Sidney, David Henry, and Evelyn, besides her sorrowing husband, are left to lament her departure.

There are also five brothers and two sisters, viz., Joseph and Neill, of Peterboro; George, of Lindsay; Michael of Blind River; William, of Edmonton; Mrs. Minnie Richmond, of Winnipeg, and Mrs. Stafford Osier, of Coboconk.

The late Mrs Revoy was a member of Bethany Tabernacle. The funeral will be held at two o'clock Saturday afternoon to Little Lake cemetery.

SUDDEN DEATH AT HAMILTON

Special to the Review.

Hamilton, Aug. 17.—James Perkins, a well known jockey, died suddenly this morning at his boarding house, after making a purchase of a quantity of liquor. The fact of some peculiar circumstances being associated with his death has led to the order for an inquest.

CONFIDENCE FOR DOUBT

Under the existing fiscal system Canada has increased in population fifty per cent. in ten years. We are receiving three hundred thousand immigrants annually. Employment is general. It is a fair statement that to-day in Canada no man is unemployed who is willing to work. Capital is flowing into the country. Mines are opened up, new agricultural land is thrown open to settlement, lines of railway are projected into every district, the whole country in all its wealth is being developed internally. Such is the condition under the fiscal system now obtaining. What has the Government to offer under reciprocity. Competition for our farmers from practically the whole world; changed trade routes; endangered industries; curtailment in expansion; hesitancy of capital. Certainty would be changed to uncertainty, confidence for doubt. Why invite trouble? We enjoy what other countries long for, employment for both labor and capital at remunerative rates. Having the substance, why should we be asked to grasp at the shadow?—Industrial Canada.

NEWSY ITEMS OF FRASERVILLE

Special Correspondence.

Fraserville, Aug. 15.—Miss Nellie Waterman, returned on Saturday after spending a few days with friends in South Monaghan.

Miss Luella Stewart of Peterboro is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Stewart.

Miss Lila Moncrief is staying at Mr. A. Brown's this week.

Mr. Wren Pickup, lately employed by Mr. B. Seabrook, has taken Mr. E. McLean's position with the G.T.R. section gang until Mr. McLean recovers sufficiently to resume his labors.

Mr. E. Delehay of Peterboro, spent Sunday in the village.

Miss Ethel Armstrong has secured a position at Public school teacher at Markdale, Grey county, and will leave in a few days to resume her duties.

What might have proved a serious accident occured on Wednesday morning last when Mr. W. A. Kidd was unloading goods from a G.T.R. freight car, which was on the siding. Mr. Kidd had his horse and waggon on the tracks and did not notice the approach of a freight train until too late to remove them. The waggon was completely demolished, and the horse badly cut, however, it will recover. The outfit which was rented, belonged to Mr. Saunders. We understand Mr. Kidd paid the amount of the damage in full to Mr. Saunders.

Some of our young men have lively times in the village, Saturday evenings which sometimes proves serious for them. For instance Mr. Roland Atchison had his top buggy badly damaged. The buggy was a new one, having only been purchased about two months ago.

An American View

From the Newark (N.J.) News.

The argument that freer trade relations with the United States will tend to check the manufacturing and commercial development of Canada, has a basis of reason. In order to avoid the Canadian tariff many manufacturers of the United States have already established branch factories in Canada. These concerns have given employment to Canadian workmen, built up towns and cities and added largely to the general wealth and prosperity of the country. Any agreement which permits the free import of American manufactured goods will naturally check the establishment of branch factories in Canada, or indeed, of new, and independent enterprises, which must compete with those already established with those on this side of the border. It is the same argument that has for so many years made a high protective tariff the settled policy of the United States."

BELLEVILLE WON OUT IN THEIR HALF OF NINTH

Locals Gave Grand Trunks a Great Argument — Score Was 3-2

Peterboro ball tossers gave Belleville Grand Trunks a warm race for honors in a return game at Belleville yesterday afternoon, the railway team getting the odd run on a 3-2 score in their last half, with two out and a runner at third.

A nifty hit over short brought in the count and brought to an end a snappy contest, and one that was watched by a crowd of fans that that numbered close to the one thousand mark.

The hitting of both teams was light and what fielding had to be done, was handled by the players in a manner that took well with the crowd.

Ashton who was seen here twirled for Belleville and Quinlan served up the foolers for the Petes, While the remainder of the team was Gonter, c; M. O'Brien, 1b; Obearn, 2b; Sheehy, s.s.; Murphy, 3b; McFadden, lf; Creswell, r.f; Phelan, c.f.

Local fans will have an opportunity of seeing Belleville here on Labor Day.

GREYS BEAT LEAFS AGAIN; WAGNER HURT AT BROOKLYN

Score at Providence Was 3-2 Kelly Chased From the Field.

Providence, R. I., August 16.—The tail enders made it two straight over the Leafs in another close and exciting battle to-day, the count being 3 to 2.

President Barrow, the league head, witnessed his first game here since he was elected to the office and saw a lively little argument between Manager Kelley and O'Hara of the Leafs, and umpires Byron and Doyle. In the fourth round Smith belted the ball on a screaming liner to deep right centre. From the stand it appeared to some that the ball had passed under the fence, entitling the hitter to a homer but umpire Doyle ruled that the ball remained in the field. Kelley who was on the bench in citizens clothes, cut loose a torrent of hot stuff at Byron, the umpire in chief, and was promptly ordered off the field. Kelley clambered into the grand stand behind the bench and finished the game there. Smith died on third, and between the innings O'Hara questioned Doyle's decision, ending by calling the umpire a liar. He was ordered to the club house. Delehanty went to left field, Rowan having started the game in right. Mueller pitched fine ball but was responsible for the defeat in the opening round by a wild throw. With Phelan on third and Anderson on second, Mueller heaved the ball past the keystone sack in an attempt to catch Anderson napping, and Phelan trotted home with the run that proved just big enough to win.

Brooklyn, Aug. 16.—Steele held the Brooklyns to a solitary hit to-day, and the Pirates shut out the home team by a forfeit score. Wagner was badly hurt in running the bases, his ankle collapsed, and he was carried from the field. It is feared his ankle is broken, and an X-ray has been made to determine the exact nature of the injury. [illegible]

BOWLERS LOSE IN SEMI-FINALS

After Winning Fourth Round Five Shots Behind

After trimming Skip Kelk's Parkdale Presbyterian church rink yesterday at Toronto in the fourth round of the Dominion bowling tourney for the Walker trophy by a score of 15—11, the Peterborough bowlers lost in the semi-final to the Queen City four and were eliminated from the contest. The locals were five behind, and the rinks in the semi-finals were:—

Queen City.	Peterborough.
G. H. Neale	C. Seymour
G. R. Fleming	D. G. Moore
E. G. Hackborn	J. B. Renwick
W. A. Morrison.	J. M. Waddell.
Skip—19.	Skip—14

Skip Waddell and his rink has made a highly creditable showing. At the tournament are gathered many of the crack bowlers of Canada, and for the locals to have won their way to the semi-finals is some honor

OLD CY YOUNG GETS HIS RELEASE

Grand Old Man of Diamond Not Going to Quit

Cleveland, O., Aug. 17.—The Cleveland American League baseball club last night gave Denton T. (Cy.) Young, the veteran pitcher and grand old man of baseball, his unconditional release.

"I am not through," said Young last night, "and there is lots of good pitching in me yet. I think a number of big league clubs will want me. I will remain in Cleveland working out daily until I sign up with another club."

A Captain Dilates on How the Passengers as a Rule Pass the Time

"I suppose that celebrities crossing the Atlantic are subjected to a good deal of impertinent scrutiny and lionizing," said a man to the captain of an Atlantic liner recently during the course of a conversation concerning life aboard the huge greyhounds which carry thousands of passengers to and from North America every year.

"Not necessarily," was the reply. "As a matter of fact, the first-class passengers may be as exclusive in regard to other folk as if he or she were at home. In the old days, of course, the cabins and saloons on liners were so small and stuffy that passengers spent a lot of their time on deck, with the result that most of them became acquainted with each other on the voyage. Nowadays, however, deck suites of rooms, which include a parlor and a bath-room, are so airy that one can get along very comfortably without goin gon deck at all."

"But isn't it usual for passengers to sit about in deck-chairs to enjoy the fresh air?"

"Well, the habit is not quite so popular as many people imagine. There is plenty of ozone in any of the deck cabins, and, as I heard a passenger say on one occasion, the spectacle of men and women spread out asleep with their mouths open is not exactly picturesque. After dinner in the evening passengers will promenade the deck for a while, but fashionable folk seldom show themselves on deck except for this walk. They amuse themselves in their own cabins or play bridge in the private rooms."

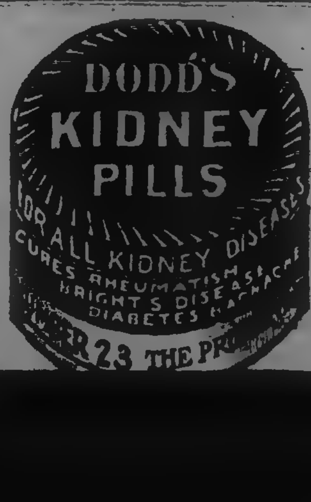
THE "SILENT ADMIRAL"

Sir Arthur Wilson Has Entered the Navy Controversy

For the first time in his life Sir Arthur K. Wilson, First Sea Lord and chief expert adviser to the Admiralty, has entered into the public controversy regarding the strength of the Navy. A man who prefers deeds to words, "Tug" Wilson, as he is popularly termed in the Service, is recognized as being without equal as a strategist and tactician. He is one of the very few naval officers who have earned the coveted V.C. This was at the Battle of El Teb in 1884, when the Arabs broke the square formed by the Naval Brigade, and he sprang into the breach and engaged the enemy with his bare fists, having broken his sword. Sir Redvers Buller described the act as "one of the most courageous he had ever witnessed." Sir Arthur is known in the Navy as "the man who never takes a holiday," for he rarely goes ashore, even when his fleet or flagship visits any port. He regards every moment spent away from the Service as wasted.

LONDON GIRLS WERE PRETTIEST

Sir Francis Galton, the last of the great Victorian scientists, who died recently, had a curious bent of mind at times. For instance, he made an instrument for carrying in the pocket by which he could tick off, as he passed in the street, the number of girls who were "good," "medium," or "bad" in regard to looks. "I found," he said, "London to rank highest for beauty and Aberdeen lowest." On another occasion, when he had his portrait painted, he beguiled the tedium of sitting by counting the strokes of the brush that went to make his picture, and the total, to his great surprise, amounted to 20,000.



NOTHING TO GAIN, MUCH TO LOSE

How the Canadian Producer of Butter Would Suffer if Reciprocity Went Into Force.

What would be the results if Canada enters into free trade in Butter under the proposed Reciprocity Agreement?

Her farmers would be confronted with the competition on her own markets of such producing countries as Denmark, Russia, Australia, New Zealand, Argentine Republic, Sweden and Norway, as well as the United States.

Would this competition amount to anything?

At present the export demand from Great Britain is the controlling factor in the Canadian butter market, and it is interesting to note that the average prices realized in Great Britain during the year 1909 for butter imported from Russia, Australia, New Zealand, United States and Argentine Republic were lower than those obtained for Canadian butter. In the matter of prices, then, these countries would be prepared to undersell Canada on her own market as they do now on the British market.

Great Britain in 1909 imported 455,034,944 pounds of butter, worth $109,134,815, from the following countries:

Denmark	$51,671,648
Russia	14,326,256
France	11,292,185
Australia	9,770,695
Sweden	7,170,746
New Zealand	7,164,799
Netherlands	3,879,929
Argentine Republic	1,907,801
Norway	797,481
Canada	585,913
Other countries	568,292

The above is sufficient to show that Canada, under the Reciprocity Agreement, would be open to a deluge of butter from countries whose production and exportation of that product are the largest in the world to-day.

Moreover, under Reciprocity, if Canada's market should be inundated at any time, there would be no relief, no outlet back to those countries who had sent us their product. The following comparison of tariffs on butter, if Reciprocity becomes law, shows that Canada gives free entrance to all her competitors, but must pay duty to all of them, except the United States, if she wishes to send butter back to them.

Canada—Free from Favored Nations and British Possession, including Denmark, Russia, Australia, Sweden, New Zealand, Argentine Republic, Norway and United States; otherwise 4 cents per lb.

Australia—6 cents per lb.

New Zealand—General Tariff 30 per cent. ad valorem. British Preferential Tariff, 20 per cent. ad. valorem. (Canada is entitled to the B. P. Tariff).

Denmark—In hermetically sealed vessels, 4 7-8c. per lb.; otherwise, free

Argentine Republic—4 2-5c. per lb

United States From Canada free; otherwise, 6c. per lb.

Sweden—2 2-5c. per lb.

Norway—Minimum Tariff, 1 4-5c per lb. Maximum Tariff, 3c. per lb.

Russia—1 7-100c. per lb.

Canada's export trade in butter is not so great at the present time that her farmers can afford to imperil their dairy industry by a tariff scheme that would, in all probability, make the country's imports in this article greater than her exports. In the year ending 1910, Canada shipped only 4,615,380 pounds of butter, worth $1,010,274. Canada's imports of butter, on the other hand, amounted to 687,454 pounds, worth $104,301.

These imports into Canada last year are given below, with the rate of duty that had to be paid on coming into the country, and also with the changes in that rate which would be effected under Reciprocity. By these changes Canada would lose her revenue on all foreign shipments into the Dominion.

Country	Quantity (lbs).	Value.	Rate of Duty.	Rate under Reciprocity Agreement
Great Britain	45,837	$11,573	Brit. Pref., 3c. per lb. Gen. Tar. 4c. per lb.	B. Pref., free Possibly free
Australia	547,149	68,764	4c. per lb.	Free.
Newfoundland	3,820	763	" "	"
New Zealand	21,840	4,371	3c. "	"
Norway	1,000	200	4c. "	"
Turkey	240	65	" "	4c. per lb.
United States	67,568	18,676	" "	Free.
	687,454	$104,301

As far as butter is concerned the Reciprocity Agrement would mean:

(1) Lower prices for the Canadian farmer.

(2) The loss of what little export trade he now enjoys.

(3) The loss of what small revenue now realized from imports into Canada.

(4) A general demoralization of the dairy industry in Canada, due to the inevitable lowering of prices and mixing of foreign and home grades of butter.

Crop reports from Europe indicate that the yield this year will fall be-

As Greenwood Sees It.

London, Aug. 16.—Hamar Greenwood, M.P., writes to The Westminster Gazette giving, as he says, the broad facts of the situation in the Canadian election. As usual, he says, Quebec is the key of the situation. The only hope of the Conservatives to defeat Laurier here is to join the Nationalists who are advocating Canadian independence and no party. "Surely," exclaims Greenwood, "this situation ought to make the wildest imperialism in England pause before accusing Laurier of lukewarmness in imperial matters."

Greenwood concludes that the motto of Canadian Liberals is Laurier and larger markets, and the Opposition of the English-speaking Canadian Conservative party to the reciprocity bill is based on the presumption that reciprocity makes for annexation to the United States.

Used Bent Wire for Key.

Montreal, Aug. 17.—Robberies which have been baffling the police for some time were cleared up by the arrest of three boys, Alfred Gouin, aged 14; Hector Cyr, aged 13, and Lucien Champeau, aged 9, yesterday. For some time past articles have been missing from the store of M. Hamber, 1,141 Mount Royal East. The doors were never disturbed and the windows never broken, and still articles were disappearing. About $35 worth of goods were found in the possession of Cyr Tuesday night by Detective Mercier. His two companions said that, armed with bent wire, they would open the shutters, and plying the same instrument, would draw the articles through a hole in the bottom of the window used for ventilation purposes.

Cyr put up a bold front in the dock and claimed he had nothing to do with it. The other two boys pleaded guilty and incriminated Cyr. They were both allowed out on suspended sentence, but Cyr was sent to the penitentiary for three years.

Rogers Suggests Spite.

Toronto, Aug. 17.—Was the Hamilton Asylum report of William Crawford, provincial inspector of fire equipment for public buildings, pigeonholed? It is said that the inspector made recommendations, which, had they been carried out, would have prevented the loss of life that occurred.

Provincial Superintendent Rogers stated yesterday afternoon that he hadn't heard anything as to whether the fire inquest would be re-opened or not. Mr. Rogers expressed the opinion that there must be spite somewhere on the part of the Hamilton citizens, who believe that the inquest did not probe sufficiently deeply.

It is now developing that a good many people beyond the confines of Hamilton were not satisfied with the conduct of the investigation.

Slays His Partner.

Dawson, Y.T., Aug. 17.—D. N. Allison just arrived here from Fort Macpherson, at the mouth of the Mackenzie River, reports that a prospector from Edmonton, and his partner were victims of a double tragedy, when one killed the other with his gun, then committed suicide.

An Indian found the bodies in a cabin at the mouth of the Sale River, 500 miles up Mackenzie from the mouth of Peel.

One of the prospectors left a note that he had killed his partner because he himself had been taken ill and his partner had refused to go for a doctor. Details, it is explained, will be received at Mounted Police headquarters, Regina, during September via the Hudson Bay steamer, which is now en route up the Mackenzie.

Funeral Prepaid.

London, Aug. 17.—The recent death of a woman who paid for her own funeral benefits twenty years ago was the subject of an inquest Tuesday at St. Luke's coroner's court, E.C.

It was stated that the deceased woman, Elizabeth M. Chappell, aged 77, an old pensioner, was very eccentric. Her favorite method of spending her time was in the various city churches. She never spent a moment out of a church that she could help.

Twenty years ago she paid for her own funeral. The undertakers at first thought she was only joking, but she insisted, and a legal contract to bury her was drawn up and signed. She always carried the contract about with her.

Tried to Suicide.

Chatham, Aug. 17.—Announcing that he was going to end his life, Frank Truckle, a young married man, who recently came to this city from Toronto, walked into the rear rooms of a house occupied by Mrs. Mary Bowers, on South Queen street, Tuesday night and tilted a bottle of carbolic acid to his lips. Truckle did not swallow any of the acid, but a portion of it ran on his cheek, burning it. He was arrested, charged with attempting suicide, and committed for trial.

A Clean-Up In Chatham.

Chatham, Aug. 17.—Chatham's little red light belt seems to be in for a thorough cleaning out by the police and several women of the local under world are worrying to-day over the trouble that faces them. An incident of Tuesday night, when a young man named Truckle attempted suicide in one of the alleged resorts, started the renovation of the city.

Killed by a Convict.

Pensacola, Fla., Aug. 16.—News has reached here of a tragedy in Lee County, Florida, Saturday night, resulting in the deaths of Mrs. Weeks, wife of the postmaster of a small Lee county town, and Willie Williams, an escaped convict and serious injury to a son of Mrs. Weeks.

Williams, who was serving a life sentence on a convict farm near the Weeks' home for the killing of two white men, six years ago, escaped from the convict farm, together with three other life term prisoners. Stealing four horses, they rode to the Weeks' home, supposedly for the purpose of robbery. Thinking that it was her husband returning home, Mrs. Weeks went to the door. There she was confronted by Williams, who immediately opened fire, the woman being killed instantly.

Sheridan Goes to Trial.

Orillia, Aug. 16.—Arthur Sheridan was committed for trial yesterday by Magistrate Clark at Barrie Fall Assizes for the murder of Ross Ford at the Duff farm last week. The preliminary trial occupied little time. The prisoner was defended by J. T. Mulcahy, who pleaded "not guilty" on the prisoner's behalf to the charge of murder following the finding of the coroner's jury on Tuesday night.

Sheridan's written and signed statement made to the police, in which he admitted stabbing Ford was introduced. The line the defence is to follow is that of self-defence, Sheridan claiming that Ford attacked him first on the night of the killing.

Shot By His Brother.

London, Aug. 16.—Accidently shot by his elder brother with a 22-calibre rifle on July 22nd, Victor Lee, the young son of Charles H. Lee, the general manager of the Canada Spice and Grocery Co., died in Victoria Hospital at five o'clock Tuesday. The accident occurred at Thorndale, while the two young boys were out shooting rabits, when the younger brother rushed in front of the gun to pull away his dog. As he did so the rifle was accidentcally discharged, the charge entering the boy's right side.

German Deal Over Persia.

Paris, Aug. 16.—The Matin says that Germany and Russia are about to sign an accord over Persia, in which Germany will abandon political interests in the northern half of Persia, and abstain from asking for railroad and telegraph concessions. Russia, the paper says, by the compact will agree to unite in the future the Russian railroads in Persia with the German Bagdad Railroad, and also extend the open door in Persia to German commerce and industry. The Matin adds that the accord will not affect the triple alliance.

BRIEFS FROM BENSFORT TOWN

Special Correspondence.

Bensfort, Aug. 16.—Our attention was drawn to an article in Lake View items in last week's issue, in which the writer makes mention of the cannon cracker episode at Mr. Jos. Wood's barn raising. It is hoped that the culprit does not feel slighted because mention was made of him lighting but one. Had any person been injured by the lighting of both it would have been mentioned, but under the circumstances the second was omitted. The writer tries to defend his valiant deed by stating that a man was injured as a result of the one lighted in the cellar underneath where the men were working, but we think his imaginary mind is at fault. Mr. Harry Kerr tripped and fell while working on the floor above during the afternoon, but was not disabled from work, and no notice was taken of any injuries received by him, although it has since been learned that medical attendance was necessary as a result of his fall, and that he was off duty for a few days.

Mrs. Wm. Beebe, of Port Hope, is visiting her brother, Mr. Edmund son, of Lorenz.

Mr. White, of Toronto, has been the guest of Mr. Robert Poe for a few days during the past week.

Mr. Wordsworth Finnie was the guest of Mr. Robert Nurse Sunday evening.

Mr. George Wood, of Lake View, was the guest of his son, Dr. H. A. Wood, of Peterborough for a few days.

Mr. William Dawson and Mr. Walter Fisher left last Tuesday, 8th inst., for the west.

Mr. Ross Moncrief left Wednesday, 16th, for western points.

Mr. Thos. Bradshaw left on Saturday morning, 12th inst., for an extended trip in the Saskatchewan district, where he will visit his sister, Mrs. Thomas Clark.

Miss Sisson, of Peterborough, has been renewing old acquaintances in this vicinity.

Mr. Fraser McDonald, a former resident of Peterborough, who has spent the summer in this district, purposes going into the poultry business, having two incubators. We wish Mr. McDonald much success in his new enterprise. He also purposes getting an auto at an early date, which will be of great service to him in marketing his produce.

Election day is coming and we believe that all loyal Conservatives should follow the example of a resident of Lorenz in teaching the principles of the party to all with whom they may come in contact. If this were done we might have many expressions of loyalty from those whose party leanings may not be prejudiced.

Rev. and Mrs. Thos. Dodd, of Sarnia, Ont., are visiting his father, Mr. Thos. Dodd, of this vicinity.

Mr and Mrs. Joseph Morrison, of Peterborough, have spent a few days visiting friends in this community.

Mrs. Fred Brown and Miss Olive Hanna, of Carmel, have been visiting Mrs. Brown's mother, Mrs. John Whittington.

Mr Walter Finnie gave an ice cream party to quite a number of young people on Wednesday evening.

Miss Nettie Finnie and Miss Elizabeth Thompson spent Sunday in Peterborough.

Mr Lancelot Nicholson had a thrilling experience with a bull a few days ago. He was leading the animal when it attacked him, fortunately he escaped with a sore leg and some torn garments.

Mr Armstrong, of Otonabee was the guest of Mr. Wm Moncrief a short time ago.

SPRINGVILLE NOTES

Special Correspondence

Springville, Aug 16— Miss Sadie Paterson of Toronto is visiting at her uncles, Mr. G. Bidgood's.

Mr. Roy Smith of Peterboro spent Sunday with friends here.

The Presbyterian Sabbath school here are arranging for a pic-nic in the near future.

Mr. Bert Sanderson and Miss Ella spent Sunday at Mr. W. Whitfield's.

Miss Mary Wood is the guest of her cousin, Miss Rosella Wood here.

Mr. J. J. Herron accompanied by her grand daughter, Miss Sybil Robinson left for Frobisher, Sask., and other western points last Tuesday.

Miss A. Bowles spent Sunday at the manse here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Bothwell of Peterboro were at Mr. Wm. Bothwell's for the holiday.

Mis Coons of Peterboro spent Sunday at Mr. Bidgood's.

ENNISMORE DADS WERE IN SESSION

Items of Business Put Through by the Council

Special Correspondence.

Ennismore, Aug. 16.—The members of the municipal council of Ennismore held their sixth meeting on Aug. 14, 1911, for the purpose of levying a tax on all the rateable property in the said township to defray the expenses of the current year.

Minutes of previous meeting read and signed.

To meet all liabilities the average rate amounted to 13 7-10 mills on the dollar. The improvements put in the public schools required by the provincial tax is 3 mills on the dollar, a decrease of 1.5 mills from 1910.

By resolution of the council Patrick Crough and James Sullivan were granted $50 each to be expended in the drawing of gravel on the main road between Chemong Lake and Gannon's Narrows.

Daniel Holland $25 to be expended in drawing gravel on his road beat.

John Donoghue $25 to be expended on his beat.

The following accounts were drawn on the treasury, John Travis $8.50 for work performed on boundary line between Emily and Ennismore; Treasury, John Travis $8.50 for work performed on the boundary line between Emily and Ennismore. Maurice O'Connor, building two culverts $6, Richard Killen building two culverts $6, James Mahoney repairing scraper 40c.

The meeting was adjourned till the call of the reeve.

LORENZ NEWS

Special Correspondence.

Lorenz, Aug 16.—We are very glad to report that Mrs. David Jewison is much better after being troubled with sickness.

Dr. Russell, of Bailieboro, was visiting Mrs. D. Jewison on business calls last week.

Mrs. T. Bradshaw left for the west last Friday and put his son Wesley in charge of managing his Picturesque farm.

Mr. D. Jewison and Mr. J. Grier on Friday commenced threshing and Mr. Clair Dawson on Saturday, with fairly good returns.

The local correspondent is thanking the two worthy Bensfort correspondents for their chippy pieces in last week's paper, how nice to be so friendly.

Mr. Fred Jewison was the guest of Miss M. Johnson, of Bailieboro, last week and spent a lovely day.

Mrs. T Bradshaw gave a party to some of our people, and they enjoyed it first rate and came home all smiles wishing it was every day.

Most farmers are finishing the once looked for large crop, but many are disappointed with the returns of their labors. Still there is another year in view.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wicks were away last Sunday visiting some folks around Bailieboro.

Mr. O'Hara of Millbrook creamery was over paying us a visit of inspection at our local cheese factory.

RIOTERS MAKE TROUBLE AGAIN

Police Made Baton Charges on the Crowd — Troops Bivouacked on Streets.

Liverpool, Aug. 17.—A renewal of rioting growing out of the strike of dockers and allied unionists occurred last night on the Scotland road division of the city. The police again had to make baton charges, and the soldiers also were called upon. Their presence, however, was sufficient to overawe the rioters, who dispersed.

Motor wagons, which were conveying print papers to the newspaper offices, were attacked, street car windows were smashed, and another attempt was made to release prisoners from the vans, in which they were being conveyed to Walton Jail. The police and soldiers, however, were present in force, the troops with their bayonets fixed, and the crowd was not so daring as on Tuesday night, and did not compel the militia to fire.

Last night the troops bivouacked in the streets of the city. They have been given orders not to fire over the heads of rioters in the future, as this endangers innocent parties, but that if it become necessary to shoot that they shall pick out the apparent ringleaders of the mob.

Coal and provisions are being brought into the city under military escort.

In many others of the great provincial towns business has been partially or completely dislocated by reason of strikes. Some trains out of Birmingham already have been cancelled, but, as comparatively few of the workers there are members of unions, a general tie-up is not anticipated.

Fredericton Nomination.

Fredericton, N.B., Aug. 17.—O. C. Crocket was nominated as candidate by a large Conservative convention here yesterday afternoon. A resolution against reciprocity was passed.

Lincoln's Aide Dead.

New York, Aug. 16.—News has just reached this side of the death in Germany of Major Henry Reid Rathbone, who was a military aide to President Lincoln, and who in attempting to defend the President on the night he was assassinated, received a stab wound from Booth.

Rathbone died in an asylum for the criminal insane, where he was incarcerated for murdering his wife. He was appointed consul-general at Hanover, Germany, in 1887, and lost his reason while on that post.

Rostand Near Death.

Biarritz, France, Aug. 17.—Edmond Rostand, the poet and dramatist, was the victim of a serious automobile accident near here yesterday, and lies in his villa at Cambo-Les-Bains today, surrounded by physicians who as yet have been unable to determine what the outcome of his injuries will be. He is suffering from serious contusions of the head and body, and it is feared he is injured internally.

Mr. Rostand was motoring from Cambo-Les-Bains to St. Jean de Luz, accompanied by his chauffeur and a mechanic, when his machine skidded on a curve in the road, leaped into the air, turned over and fell to the bottom of a 15-foot ditch, pinning the poet beneath it. Mr. Rostand is 43 years old.

Another Blythe Case.

Toronto, Aug. 17.—A beating which she says she received at the hands of her husband, has brought another woman close to death. Mrs. Thomas Lowther, 7 Somerset avenue, was found wandering in the street early yesterday morning, bleeding profusely from a great scalp wound at the base of the skull. She was taken to the Western Hospital, where her condition is considered serious.

She says that her husband came home drunk Tuesday night and beat her, striking her repeatedly with an iron instrument. The man was arrested, charged with drunkenness, and was remanded a week from the Police Court yesterday morning.

Circus Train Wrecked.

Montreal, Aug. 17.—The Barnum and Bailey circus train en route for Montreal was in collision yesterday morning, the engine drawing the circus cars crashing into the van of a freight train that was ahead of it going down grade on the same track.

The collision occurred on the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks between the Angus shops and the Eastern Abattoir. In the impact the van was cut in two, and the wreckage scattered for many feet around. There were no fatalities. The circus train was delayed about an hour, but the engine was not seriously damaged, and was able to draw the train to its destination.

Two Men Blown Up.

Dublin, Aug. 17.—Two men lost their lives and two others were injured, in an explosion which occurred Tuesday at Kynoch's explosive factory at Arklow, County Wicklow.

It is stated that two men were wheeling a bogey containing four boxes of high explosives when, on reaching the points on the rails opposite a mixing house, a loud explosion occurred.

Fragments of the bodies were picked up on the sandhills around. A mixing house in which two men were engaged was partly blown in and the inmates were injured. The cause of the explosion is at present unexplained.

Commander McDonald's Fate.

Ottawa, Aug. 17. Hon. L. P. Brodeur, former Minister of Marine, by resigning from that office last week to take a supreme judgeship, has escaped and relegated to his successor, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, the unpleasant duty of deciding what shall be the fate of Commander McDonald, of the Niobe, an investigation into the grounding of which has just been concluded at Halifax. The report of the enquiry has not yet been received at the Navy Department. Commander Roper, however, who was a member of the investigating board, will return to-day with the report.

Arrests Follow Lynching.

Coatesville, Pa., Aug. 17.—Three men, one of whom, the authorities assert, was a leader of the mob, were arrested here yesterday and charged with murder in connection with the burning of Zacharias S. Walker, who was dragged on his cot from the Coatesville Hospital on Sunday night and cremated. Those arrested were Joseph Schofield, master mechanic of the Conestoga Traction Co.; Norman Price, a millhand, and George Stoll, who was employed with Price in the iron mills.

$100,000 Fire at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 71.—A fire occurred here last night with losses estimated at $100,000.

The boys smoking cigarettes while tending a team of horses, set fire to the warehouses of Provost & Allard, wholesale grocers, and did $20,000 damage there. The flames then caught to Chevrier's Hotel on Murray street, which was completely gutted, and some of the shantymen therein had to be carried out by firemen, owing to being under the influence of drink. The fire scorched many nearby houses and between the fire and water cost some $100,000 damage ere it was over.

Atwood Reaches Toledo.

Toledo, Ohio, Aug. 17.—Exactly 520 miles from his starting point, Harry N. Atwood, the Boston aviator, who is attempting to break the world's long distance aeroplane record by flying from St. Louis to New York, alighted in Toledo yesterday afternoon after completing the third day of his trip with a spectacular flight 2,000 above the city.

He covered the 130 miles from Elkhart, Ind., to Toledo, with only one stop and in an actual flying time of two hours and 56 minutes.

Home Rule For Scotland.

London, Aug. 17.—The desire for home rule in Scotland is assuming a more concrete form. As a first step Sir Henry James Dalziel, newspaper proprietor and member of Parliament for Kirkcaldy burghs, introduced in the House of Commons yesterday morning a bill to establish a Legislature in Scotland, to deal with purely Scottish affairs.

VOL. LXII., No. 40, PETERBOROUGH, ONT., CANADA, FRIDAY, AUGUST 18, 1911 TEN CENTS PER WEEK.

Laurier would have Canada say on Sept. 21, "Not my will, but thine, O Taft, be done"

NO TRUCE IN THIS STRIKE

Great British Tie-up Will be Complete.

Troops Are Being Prepared For Active Service.

London, Aug. 18.—James Henry Thomas, secretary of the western district of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, stated last night that there would be no truce between the unions and the railway managers, despite the efforts of Chancellor Lloyd-George, and that the strike would go on.

The society sent out 1,500 telegrams yesterday afternoon to various railway centres, ordering an immediate strike.

Officers and men who were on furlough have been recalled to their regiments by telegraph. The artillerymen have been taken from their gun drill, and are devoting their attention to their rifles, with a view of strike possibilities. The parks of London are being made ready for encampments. It is probable that bluejackets will be drafted to equip the electric power stations at Liverpool, and they will also be required to protect the ships in the harbors, upon which there have been many small fires, supposed to have been of incendiary origin.

The authorities regarded the action of the strikers in calling out the men from the power houses at Liverpool as one of the gravest features of the day. All the horses of the army have had their shoes sharpened in preparation for service in the streets.

How tenaciously the Government is clinging to hopes for a settlement of the dispute and is working to arrange one was displayed by David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in a speech in the House of Commons last night which quickly sent abroad the impression that the situation had taken a strong turn for the better and that fears of an immediate strike might vanish.

Ramsay Macdonald, the Labor leader in the Lower House, was prepared to move a vote of censure against the Government for its use of the military in strikes and because of its general attitude in the present situation. Feeling in the House ran high.

Mr. Lloyd-George, however, arose and, addressing the members, intimated that the representatives of the unions had failed to understand the Government's offer to form a royal commission which should report what amendments were necessary to the agreement of 1907 between the railway managers and the men. He said it was not purposed to form an ordinary commission, but one composed of three members, one representing the railways and one the men, with the chairman a man well known for his impartiality and enjoying the general confidence of the community. The Government, he added, realized the importance of acting promptly lest the men should think it was trying to put off the whole question. He proposed that the commission get to work immediately and report without relay.

"I have not given up hope of arriving at some solution of the difficulty satisfactory to all parties," Mr. Lloyd-George said, "and I appeal to the press as well as to the House of Commons to support us. I hope the men will realise that it is intended to give them fair play and not to lure out of their hands the great weapon of striking."

If the royal commission were accepted, the Chancellor said, its members would be appointed Saturday and and its sitting would begin Monday. He emphasised the importance of exercising great patience and restraint in this critical moment and hoped it would be possible to conduct the negotiations without any exasperating intervention from any quarter.

Ramsay Macdonald, replying to the Chancellor, said there evidently had been a misunderstanding of the Government's proposal, and that he would not press his motion of censure. He appealed to the members of the House having influence with the railway directors, to persuade them to make it easier for the men to accept a truce.

THE MAN AND THE HOUR

Chatham, Ont., Aug. 17.—Mr. R. L. Borden received the following telegram last night from John J. Drummond, of Midland, Ont., one of the most prominent iron mining men in Canada and a brother of George Drummond, of Montreal. It reads: "Read your manifesto last night. It is worthy of the best traditions of our race, country and Empire. I believe in this our country's crisis there will be no parting of the ways. The hour has produced the man. May God bless your noble fearless efforts and crown them and our country's cause with success from the Atlantic to the Pacific."

"Whatsoever a Man Soweth That Shall he Also Reap."

Let us consider Bourassa and his movement in Quebec for a few moments. He is the object of the bitter hatred of the Liberal newspapers and speakers now, and they do not hesitate to charge Bourassa with almost every crime under the sun, though those who know the fire-eating Frenchman know that Bourassa is personally honorable, dangerous though his doctrine may be.

Anyone who is familiar with the course of political events in the last ten years, knows that some years ago Bourassa was the pupil of Laurier. He sat at the feet of the great French-Canadian, and drank in the lesson then being taught by the premier on how to manage Quebec. Bourassa was one of Laurier's lieutenants for years—his generalissimo in Quebec. The fact that the Liberals charge him with being a disappointed office-seeker; that he wanted the speakership, then the postmastership of Montreal, then a cabinet position, is evidence of his standing with Laurier. Even the Examiner admits it when it says: "Mr. Bourassa hates Laurier because Sir Wilfrid refused him a cabinet position."

When Bourassa broke away from Laurier, he was an adept at the art of managing Quebec by means of the judicious use of race and religious prejudices. He had studied the Laurier methods, had carried out his chief's instructions. The soil in Quebec had been carefully cultivated. The seed had been cunningly sown by Laurier, through Bourassa and his aides. Sir Wilfrid had sown the wind, believing that as long as he lived the breeze would carry him and his ship back into power. But he did not calculate on reaping the whirlwind.

Bourassa was an apt pupil, as we have said. He saw that the only way to obtain a hold on Quebec and to break the spell of Laurierism, was to outdo the Liberal chief in the dissemination of racial and religious prejudice. He knew from long experience, that the habitant, already carefully exploited by Laurier, would respond to more inflammable appeals. And he started in on his campaign.

To-day in Quebec Laurier sees the fruit ripening. He sees the harvest of those long years of assiduous cultivation and fostering care—but another is filling his political bins. "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." Laurier sowed the passions of the hate of creed and nationality. He widened the gulf that separates Quebec from participation and assistance in the loyal and patriotic aims of the British part of Canada. To-day Bourassaism would not be possible, had the premier not done that early work on the fields of Quebec passion.

And where do the Conservatives come in? They are in the same position in Quebec as in Alberta, where Grit hurls defiance at Grit with venomenous glance, and the Conservatives stand by and watch the fun. In Quebec the Conservatives are watching Bourassa rend Laurier with the fangs of anti-Britishism. They watch the pupil excelling the old master at the old game. It is dangerous to the peace of Canada, this "old game," but Laurier's chickens are coming home to roost.

LAURIER APPEALS TO FRENCH TO STAY WITH HIM TO LAST

Makes Personal Appeal at Three Rivers—Deals With Bourassa and the Campaign.

Three Rivers, Aug. 18. About 1,000 people listened to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's opening shot in the Quebec campaign here yesterday afternoon. All Three Rivers turned out. But the speech was not a particularly important contribution to the case before the electors. Beyond showing that he is in fighting trim, Sir Wilfrid said little more than that reciprocity is the real issue before the Canadian [illegible]

"I came here expecting to speak to the people of Three Rivers," said Sir Wilfrid, "and I find that I have to meet a real provincial assembly. I met many people of Ontario Tuesday at Simcoe, but my welcome here is far more important than even that meeting. This appeals to me as the answer to the meeting at St. Hyacinthe the last Sunday, and I am satisfied with the reply. I have read with careful attention the speeches recently made by Mr. Monk and by my ex-friend, Mr. Bourassa, and I find that they have spoken on every possible subject except the real question, which is before the people to-day, and they have not agreed even as to that when they thought of it. Mr. Monk has said he was against reciprocity. Mr. Bourassa seems neither for nor against, while Mr. Gilbert says he favors it with modifications.

"But, I tell you that the only real question which concerns them to-day is to defeat Laurier, that is all the policy they have." (Applause and cries "No; they won't do it.")

Proceeding, Sir Wilfrid dealt with the increasing revenue of the country during the past number of years, and declared that it was plain this increasing prosperity had had its effect on Quebec Province, since the old exodus to the States had stopped, and now the young men of the province were going to Montreal; Quebec was the first when they need work. (Applause.) "But in face of all this," said Sir Wilfrid, "the Opposition says turn Laurier out."

Sir Wilfrid declared that nowhere was this reciprocity pact of more importance than in the Quebec counties facing the St. Lawrence, and predicted that once it was adopted the whole district would be visited by buyers from the States, anxious to secure the products of the country. The Premier then briefly dealt with the history of the old reciprocity negotiations, until finally the Americans had sent to Canada and succeeded in getting a pact agreed to, "and as soon as this is adopted in Canada," he said, "you will obtain entry for your grain, hay and vegetables into the markets of the United States, without paying any tax." (Applause.)

FOUND IN HAMILTON BACK YARD WITH HIS BACK BROKEN

Two Men Arrested on Suspicion of Having Caused His Injuries.

Hamilton, Aug. 18.—About 9 o'clock a foreigner named Todosi Parec, who lives at 355 Macnab street north, was found lying in a yard by the police. He was badly injured and helpless. He was removed to the City Hospital, where it was found that his back was broken, and his condition is very grave. Later the police arrested two men on suspicion that they caused his injuries, and efforts were made to have them identified by the injured man, but with what success could not be learned last night.

From the meagre details given out by the police, it appears that there was a row at the above address yesterday afternoon, or evening, and the injured man was apparently left lying in the yard until he was found by the police. The injured man, who was conscious, identified one of the men taken to his bedside as his assailant, but he was too weak to explain how the fight started or what had been used to cripple him. The man identified, whose name is unknown to the police, was locked up. The injured man is almost totally paralyzed, and is said to be slowing sinking.

Is Shah Assassinated?

Teheran, Aug. 18.—It is reported that Mohammed Ali Mirza, the former Shah of Persia, who recently returned from exile in Russia and started an uprising in an endeavor to regain his throne, has been assassinated.

The last previous news concerning Mohammed Ali Mirza was received here Tuesday and was to the effect that he was in full flight, after a crushing defeat of his forces by Government troops north of Firuzkuh, which is about 60 miles east of Teheran.

Strikers in Liverpool Carry things With High Hand

Special to the Review.

Liverpool, Aug. 18—Serious bread riots occurred to-day the mob storming the big grocery establishments, carrying away food. The soldiers have been unable to keep the power plants in operation, many factories being forced to close.

STOCKS TO JUMP

If Reciprocity Is Defeated Big Rise Coming

Montreal, Aug. 17.—"If reciprocity is defeated on September 21st" said Mr. Rodolphe Forget, M.P., to-day, "I look to see a 10 to 20 point rise in Canadian stocks.

"To make our country prosperous," he said, "we must first see that the farmer is well looked after. If the protection on the things he grows is taken away, American products of the farm will come in here and swamp him. He needs the protection that he is getting now and the protection that the Conservatives will continue to give him. Let us, therefore, be assured that the farmer is all right; and we can go ahead with our constructive schemes for the advancement of the country. Prosperity will be certain, and hence I look for a 10 to 20 point rise in the market if reciprocity is beaten.

"There are thousands of investors in this country. Let them do their duty on election day and bury reciprocity so deep that it will never be heard of again."

MR. BURNHAM'S REJOINDER

To The Editor of The Review!

Sir,—The Examiner's comment upon my letter in its issue of yesterday contains the information that I belong to a society whose members would not vote for a Catholic. Let me give this the fullest and flattest contradiction. Moreover, I know of no such society. Furthermore, I value the liberties and friendship of Roman Catholics just as much as I do those of Protestants, and would vote for one just as quickly. But the momentous question which we are discussing refers wholly to the uncompromising attack of the Pope on Protestants in his late decree. The Pope takes the position that he is really the successor of Christ and master of the situation, and that, therefore, he must "restore all things in Christ." i.e., himself, and no longer delay in hurling back the democracy which has been having its way too long in defiance of the Church. Moreover, he claims to say what liberty is to be allowed mankind and what is not. He has established in every diocese a Secret Council of Vigilance to carry out the work. Why "secret"? Believe me, the trouble is just beginning. There is no course for Protestants but to resist with all their might. But their resistance has no reference to individual Catholics. When Cardinal Vannutelli said at Montreal at the height of the celebration: "Oh! This is indeed like a day in the Middle Ages." he knew quite well what he meant. Are the people to be driven back to those days of subserviency and class rule? Now let me close by quoting the Catholic Register's idea of what the Church wants and its idea of liberal thought and open-mindedness The Register says:

"The Liberal Catholic," said Pius IX., is a worse enemy of religion than even the infidel or the heretic. And years ago Brownson, in his Quarterly Review, declared that it is the liberalism which has penetrated the Catholic camp that renders Catholics throughout Europe so imbecile in the defence of the rights and interests of their religion, and enables the enemies of God and society to usurp the government of once Catholic nations. It is accursed liberalism, so seductive in its tones, so sweet to the taste, yet so fatal in its effects on the system, that has brought the Catholic population of Europe into their present deplorable condition. . . . . It is all the work of liberal Catholics, without whom Protestants and infidels would be reduced to impotency, and become the laughing stock of the world."

Yours, &c.,
J. H. BURNHAM.

'TAINT TRUE NIOBE SINKS

Canadian Navy Still Afloat, so There.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—"The report sent out from Halifax and appearing in some papers Wednesday to the effect that the Niobe is sinking, is absolutely incorrect," stated Commander Roper, chief of the naval service, who returned yesterday from Halifax, where he was a member of the board which investigated the grounding of the Niobe.

"The Niobe is now drawing only four inches more water than is her normal draught, and there is not the slightest cause of anxiety. We expect to get her docked about Saturday. The Cornwall is now docked. The recruits who were let go on three weeks' leave, will return in about a week."

He had nothing to say as to the result of the enquiry.

MISS MARGARET RUTHERFURD

Ogden L. Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, well known in New York and Newport society circles, announces that his marriage to Miss Margaret Rutherfurd, daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, will be celebrated at Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt's chateau, in Normandy, France, September 20.

Mr. Mills has just returned from Europe and brought with him his sister, the Countess of Granard, formerly Miss Beatrice Mills, who will spend a month in this country.

BORDEN SCORES BIG TRIUMPH IN HIS MEETING AT SIMCOE

Greater Reception to Conservative Leader Than Was Given the Premier—Borden Refutes Premier's Assertion That He Wanted an Election.

Simcoe, Aug. 18.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier didn't exhaust all the enthusiasm and all the political vitality of Norfolk County on Tuesday of this week. The Laurier traveling circus was much heralded. It came, it was seen, and it departed. Mr. Borden arrived here unostentatiously yesterday afternoon. He was received with open arms, and left, behind him a message that will not be quickly forgotten. In fact the meeting at Simcoe was nothing short of a triumph for the Conservative leader. The crowd, though less in actual count than that which met Sir Wilfrid, certainly showed keener appreciation of the speeches. From the time Mr. Borden entered the rink until the close of the meeting the air was charged with enthusiasm and interest, and if all Mr. Borden's meetings follow the order of Simcoe, the Conservative cause is on the high road to win.

Mr. Borden devoted himself to an arraignment of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's argument on Tuesday. He said that the sudden dissolution of Parliament involved a breach of faith on the part of the Government in connection with the Oliver enquiry. "The action of the Government in this connection," declared Mr. Borden, "is absolutely without precedent in this country, and it ought to invite condemnation of the people of Canada upon a Government so lost to all sense of public decency as to take the course which I have described to you."

Charging the Prime Minister with misrepresentation in stating that it had always been the intention of the Government to submit reciprocity to the people, Mr. Borden gave the lie to the Premier's assertion, declaring that a motion to that effect, introduced by himself, had been voted down in Parliament at the instance of Sir Wilfrid in March last.

The trade agreement, he went on, would be deleterious to Canada, because the ultimate effect of reciprocity would be to have the Canadian tariff dictated at Washington, and Canada would be the mercy of every caprice and contingency of international politics.

Dealing with the result of the favored nation treaties, Mr. Borden scored the Government with the words, "The Prime Minister has promised to give you competition with the whole world in everything that you produce, and yet to maintain the same burden of taxation upon everything that you buy, and he calls that a great relief to the farmers."

Following Mr. Borden's remarks W. F. Maclean continued the assault upon reciprocity with a speech, in which Sir Wilfrid Laurier was characterized as an Indian doctor, a medicine man peddling a political cure, well known as Taft pills.

S. H. Harding, president of the Norfolk Conservative Association, was in the chair. Alex. McCall, late member and Conservative candidate, spoke briefly. A. C. Pratt and H. P. Innes were the other speakers.

In Provencher, Man.

Winnipeg, Aug. 18.—Dr. Molloy was unanimously nominated here yesterday to contest Provencher for the Liberals. The Conservatives elect their candidate next week.

In Carleton.

Woodstock, N.B., Aug. 18.—Carleton County Conservative convention here last night nominated B. F. Smith to oppose Frank B. Carvell in the coming election. Mr. Smith was despatched by Carvell in the 1908 election by 151 majority.

In King's, N.S.

Halifax, Aug. 18.—The Liberal-Conservatives of King's County yesterday nominated A. D. W. Foster of Wolfeville as their candidate, in opposition to Sir Frederick Borden. Mr. Foster took time to consider, and before the convention adjourned, announced that he would accept. The announcement was made that R. L. Borden would hold a meeting in Kentville Sept. 16.

Foster Again Chosen.

Toronto, Aug. 18.—George Eulas Foster is the Conservative candidate for North Toronto in the coming Dominion elections. Mr. Foster's was the one and only name presented to the delegates.

Mayor Geary presided and with him on the platform were: W. K. McNaught, M.P.P., Hon. J. S. Duff, E. B. Osler, Edmund Bristol, John Shaw, M.P.P.

LABOR MEN ARE FIRM IN DEMANDS

Refuse to Accept a Royal Commission on Troubles

Special to the Review.

London, Aug. 18.—It was announced at noon to-day that the labor leaders after a long conference still refused to submit their grievances to a royal commission. London traffic was further crippled to-day when the tube men struck. About a thousand men, long unemployed, responded to the appeal for special volunteer constables.

CROWD DUCKED; BLACKHAND JOKE

Thought Smashing of Hat Was a Pistol Shot

Special to the Review.

Toronto, August 18.—The crowd in police court this morning, when the eight alleged Black-Handers were brought up for trial got a scare. Suddenly a sound like a pistol shot was made, and the crowd ducked, thinking that someone had a pistol ready. But it was only an enraged prisoner sticking his fist through the top of a derby hat.

BREVITY THAT HELPS

The Review is in receipt of a post-card communication from W. A. Bailey, signed with the familiar old Pro Bono Publico, that does such noble use. Perhaps the post-card may explain itself:

To-night, the Examiner quotes the Premier, "If the British people change their fiscal policy and give us a preference we are ready to meet them." The Examiner itself, page II, says: "The reciprocity agreement saves the people from those who would monopolise their food supply." So that the Laurier Government after all Britain does for us, would hand over the British people to the monopolists.

PRO BONO PUBLICO.

After several hard efforts, we give it up. We acknowledge that we cannot chase the fleeting fancies of the writer's brain, into those realms of deduction indicated by the post card. But we can, and do, commend the brevity, the consciousness, the terseness of his style and manner of communicating. Not many men can make a tariff deduction on a post-card. A most unusual gift, it would appear. Some men there are, who in making remarks on paper, or by word of mouth, seem to wander along the interminable paths of prolixity. They are fascinated by the sound of their own verbosity, but not so our friend Bailey. Would it not be a kindly act toward humanity in general, if the preachers would only get the habit? Or even magistrates, or other public officials, whose duties call on them in the discharge of their important and onerous functions to address the waiting multitude?

Mr Bailey's concern as to the future of the British people and the food monopolists is quite commendable. If we all demonstrated more concern about our fellow men, what a busy world this would be. Not that we don't pay plenty of attention to others, especially their private affairs but a kindly solicitude, especially expressed in such tabloid form, is like whipped cream on top of an apple pie —it makes the going easier.

THE STRIKE IN BRITAIN

The great railway strike in Britain involves 800,000 men, and the railways have a capitalization of $6,000,000,000. It is a most serious thing, this attempt on the part of the workers to tie up all the transportation systems in the United Kingdom—how important can scarcely be measured. It is a grave peril which the Asquith government has set itself to meet, and it is hoped that moderation and prudence will be observed on every hand. A great railway strike in a congested country like Britain, where distances are short and opportunities for damage so numerous, is a much more serious matter than a railway strike in a country like Canada, with a comparatively sparse and scattered population. In Canada the only danger to life and property would be in the larger centres of population, but in Britain the disorderly mob may take advantage of the situation to attack the lines at half a thousand points.

The railway companies have refused to treat directly with the men representing the unions. That is the old-fashioned way, long since passed out of existence in America. The British railway boards are composed of some of the old blue-blooded aristocrats, men who have looked on their railway connections as the only "trade" outlet for their energies tradition would allow them to touch. The British railway organizations—the boards of directors and the higher officials—have been a sort of close corporation for the aristocracy with the business instinct. That the men have at last decided to enforce demands for better pay, and recognition may be another sign of the awakening of the people that has been observable in Britain in the last decade or two. It is part of the revolt which democracy is making against the old order of affairs, that worshipped caste, and which even now in Britain holds strongly to the feudal idea.

The strikers may be excessive or wrong in their demands—we do not know. But as a rule great bodies of men do not adopt such extreme measures without having some grounds for complaint, without, in fact, being ill-used in an effective way.

The Asquith government is a Radical government. It is supposed to be in sympathy with the people, with the popular movement. It now faces the task of controlling its people. It is to be most sincerely hoped that it will manage to preserve public order and maintain transportation, while efforts are being made to adjust the differences as quickly as possible.

A CHANGE

It is not many months ago that Sir Wilfrid Laurier in one of his speeches said,

> "Canada to-day is not in favor of Reciprocity. There was a time when Canada, beginning with myself, would have given many things to obtain the American market, but thank heaven, those days are passed and over."

Nor was it long ago that Sir Wilfred declared;—

> "There was a time when we were wanting Reciprocity with the United States, but our efforts and our offers were put aside and negatived We have said good-bye to that trade and we now put all our hopes upon the British trade."

Nor are all the people yet dead who heard Sir Wilfrid in impassioned and ringing tones cry;

> "But I have found that the best and most effective way to maintain friendship with our American neighbors is to be absolutely independent of them."

Any comment on these quotations from Sir Wilfrid's speeches of a year or two ago is quite superfluous. What has brought about such a remarkable and sudden change on a matter of such vital consequence to the future of this country? Will Sir Wilfrid kindly explain? No he won't! An explanation is impossible. But all Canadians can still echo his pious sentiment, "Thank heaven those days (when we favored Reciprocity) are past and over."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Borden and British connection.

Laurier and Let Taft finish his work.

Stratton and Struggles for the workingman.

Henri Bourassa is an off-shoot of Liberalism. How do the Quebec Liberals like the brand they produce?

It doesn't seem to be much evidence of a weak Conservative spirit in this election that the Welland Conservatives are not willing to let W. M. German off without Conservative opposition, in spite of his promise to vote against reciprocity. The Conservatives have nominated a candidate to oppose reciprocity, intending to make use of getting a run for their votes.

The railway strike in Britain marks the industrial unrest of a decade. It is of tremendous importance, and most certainly disastrous results to business will follow, if the struggle is prolonged. Only firm measures by the Asquith government can mitigate a terrible conflict. The Asquith ministry is a Radical administration. Perhaps it can find means to pacify the Radicals who have boosted it into office.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Simcoe speech is quite eloquent and it is quite in line with his declarations of years ago Read in connection with his declaration to the Young Liberals of Toronto in 1899, it is illuminative of the tendency of the Liberal administration. Sir Wilfrid made in this speech a telling declaration. He has never repudiated it. Does not it stand to-day?

"I have read the history of unrestricted reciprocity in this way—that every reform has cost to the reformer years of labor, and those years of labor I, for one, am ready to give, and though the democrats may be defeated in the States, and though Canadians may grow faint-hearted in Canada, the Liberal party, as long as I have anything to do with it, will remain true to the cause until the cause is successful. I will not expect to win in a day, but I am prepared to remain in the cool shade of opposition until the cause has triumphed, and you shall never hear a complaint from me. I tell you the Liberal party will never cease from the agitation until they triumph and obtain continental free trade. We are asked sometimes, gentlemen, what is the program of the Liberal party. This is the program of the Liberal party, to obtain a continental freedom of free trade. Success will certainly crown our efforts at no distant day. Fixing our eyes steadily on the goal, we shall go on steadily until we reach it—unrestricted continental reciprocity."

THE REVIEW

The Lash of Circumstance

— BY —

Harry Irving Greene

Author of "Yoconde of the Wilderness"

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

"What did he mean by that?" she demanded. I enlightened her.

"Oh, Bruce has got a straight tip from a turf friend of his that Eagle Boy is going to win. So I suppose he is now going to back him to his limit. He would as soon sit down and watch the hands of a clock go around as to see a race unless he had a wager on it." The light of interest came into her eyes.

"And you think what?" she queried, searching my face. I meditated.

"To tell the truth I think his horse will win. I know something about the beasts, you know, having been raised on a Kentucky stock farm. The horse is a wonder, sure enough, and Bruce says he has been breaking records by moonlight. Then, too, Pettit, who rides him to-day, is a fiend in the saddle. He can lift a horse off his hoofs and carry him around the track between his knees as a witch rides a broom. If I was to bet on the race, Eagle Boy would carry my wealth to-day."

"And the odds?" she mused.

"They are ten to one against him at present, but they will go down like a falling rocket when the crowd has once had an opportunity of seeing him in motion. He is a Pegasus. He seems to soar rather than run. If they have a horse than can beat him, that horse can catch birds." I was surprised at the warmth of my own enthusiasm.

She opened her purse with a snap and her fingers dived into its depths. Presently she drew forth a $500 bill and crumpled it into my palm. "Bruce is a shrewd fellow and you are a born horseman. I am going to rely upon your combined judgment. I wish you would go and place this on him for me," was her announcement. Now, I had always considered that to consent to be an agent for a woman in a gaming transaction was rushing in where angels might well fear to tread. I hesitated.

"But of course I do not know which one will win. It is difference of judgment that makes horse racing possible, you understand," I warned her. She tightened my fingers about the money, thrusting my hand from her imperiously.

"I have said that I am going to rely upon your judgment. At ten to one, should I win, I will have made $5,000. Do you wish me to go myself? If not, you had best hurry."

For the first time really chilled by doubt and feeling my convictions ooze, I continued to protest. "But he may be pocketed, he may foul another horse, he may be left at the post—anything may happen in the race to make him lose." She looked at me steadily, silently, I thought almost contemptuously, and without more words I pocketed the bill. Through the crush of the betting ring I fought my way, placed my money in the hands of a perspiring man who stood upon a stool, and came back to her warm and crumpled. Already the Derby racers had galloped the course in their preliminary warming up and were now chafing before the flag. I gave her the ticket for her wager and resumed my seat in a throbbing hush.

Then came a roar like the crash of surf and a thunderous wave of sound boomed across the field and was echoed back by the distant walls. In a compact bunch and stretching themselves like greyhounds, the horses swept past us. For an instant I felt a sensation of giddiness, and closed my eyes; then opening them once more riveted them on the field as it circled the course with the speed of hawks. Well placed among the leaders I saw the powerful haunches of Eagle Boy working with the smooth power of pistons as they steadily drove him into the foremost rank. With a roar of hoofs they turned the last curve and came into the stretch, while the sea of humanity, rising upon tiptoe, burst into full tongue. Mrs. Dace was upon her feet and watching them with parted lips. I sat beside her with parched lips, my knees shaking. Then from out of the bunch a black horse, that shone like a polished shoe, forged a yard at a bound, and putting a good length between himself and his nearest follower, led the way homeward in a burst of speed that was truly magnificent. Pettit was fairly lifting him from his feet, his whip flicking, stinging him on like a venomous yellow striped wasp. I fiercely clutched my companion's arm. "Eagle Boy wins," I roared in her ear.

Then, as in a nightmare, I saw the happening of an evil thing. A dozen yards from the wire and when two more leaps would have brought him victory, there came a stumble that sent the great black one crashing to the ground, while over him his nearest rival hurtled as a jumper clears a fence. From the vast crowd there arose first a cry, shrill and explosive, followed by an instant of silence, and then a raging tumult. I heard an involuntary exclamation from the lips of the woman at my side, and turned to her with the cold perspiration bursting from my forehead. Her lips were tightly compressed and she was gazing fixedly at the fallen horse as he arose with difficulty. The jockey was already limping about and the mob surging upon the track.

"I guess that race is settled for all time," she said quietly as she snapped her pocket-book shut. "I suppose we might as well be going." Her face resumed its placidity, but she turned it away from me. Half dazed by the suddenness of the catastrophe, my hand sought hers in a sympathetic squeeze. She did not respond.

I whipped through the crush recklessly in my chagrin and bitterness. Silently cursing my folly, I drove her homeward with but a perfunctory attempt at conciliation. Even to that she did not reply, and I decided that I had better remain quiet until she had recovered her equilibrium. I had never seen a woman whom I considered a good loser, and there was that in her demeanor now which warned me to caution. Silence on the part of the fair sex I had always regarded as ominous, and before her quietness I now sat wretchedly.

CHAPTER VIII.

I know of few things more uncomfortable than for a man to pose before the woman he loves in the garb of a sage, and being suddenly unveiled to realize that he stands revealed to her as a naked fool. That I had been asinine enough to air my opinions to her as a self-styled expert upon such an impossible proposition as the winner of a horse race galled me to the marrow. My humiliation was all the more complete for the reason that in this, the first financial transaction in which I had advised her, she had come to grief. No one knew better than I the unforgiveableness of my offense. Man may lead woman astray in love and be wept over through the darkness of many a night; he may counsel her out of her hope of a hereafter and yet die with her arms around his neck; he may separate her from the world and still reign as her king, but when he separates her from her pocket-book he becomes a rascal or a clown in her eyes. Just how Mrs. Dace made me know that I had lost caste in her favor was not a thing that could be analyzed, but in some mysterious way she saw to it that I knew it. Perhaps it was by the almost imperceptible arching of her eyebrows when I chanced to express my views upon some matter; perhaps it was in the occult way some women have of making you uncomfortable when they wish you to be so without discernible physical manifestations on their part, and perhaps it was partially due to my own sensitiveness upon the subject. More than likely it was a compound of the three. Be that as it may, I became almost timid in her presence; and knowing that this would never do, grew desperate. I had never believed that a man could retain a woman's love unless he could command her respect as to his mentality, and I, therefore, determined to reinstate myself to my former position at any cost. Clearly the only way I could do this would be to reimburse her for her loss in so delicate a manner that she could neither take offense nor refuse. I pondered over the matter for about ten days and determined to take a plunge, sink or swim. I transferred what money I had in the savings bank to my overdrawn chequeing account.

I had been watching the steady rise of a certain stock upon the exchange for some months with secret covetousness. It pertained to a vast system of underground railways which were to honeycomb the depths beneath the city. The franchise had been secured through political sorceries, and the capital to float the enterprise was being raised by public investment. As steadily as the mercury mounts under a summer sun the stock had advanced point by point from a merely nominal sum until it had reached thirty cents on the dollar. The more I pondered upon the yearly increasing value of such a system as the overhead streets became more congested, the more I became convinced that public rumor would be verified and that the stock would soon be at par. Without confiding in any one except my broker, and binding him to secrecy, I margined a considerable quantity of it and watched its daily rise with a heart that mounted as steadily as my fortunes. A week later I strolled over to see Mrs. Dace.

I had won handsomely, my spirits were effervescent and my old feeling of assurance predominant. I assumed the attitude of a critical man of affairs whose confidence in his own judgment has been verified by his successes in many a jousting bout with the great knights of the financial arena. I leisurely rambled afield amongst the larger topics of the public press as I sat in the easy chair which she had bought for my especial comfort. I referred hastily to my present investments and diagnozed the condition of the business world; the Russian wheat crop; the boll weevil in Mississippi cotton; the machinations of the trusts. She did not seem to be particularly impressed and made few comments. At times I even imagined a smile came flickering about her lips, but I proceeded with careless assurance until the time came when I remarked that I must be departing. She did not press me to stay, in fact, seemed to be thinking about something else; and it was then that I played the card that I had been leading up to throughout the evening.

I opened my pocket-book casually. "By the way, Matie," I remarked half patronizingly, "I put a little down for you the other day on some stock that I thought was a good thing. It went up, as I had expected, and I closed you out a little profit. Here is your share." I tossed a clearing house certificate for $500 before her.

She glanced at it with a quick sidelong flash of her eyes, and her hand came stealing over mine. "Why, Tom, I don't know what to say—it was so generous—so thoughtful of you. You don't know how much I appreciate it—not the money, you know, but the consideration that prompted it. Yet, really, I do not feel like accepting it when I took none of the risk. You had better keep it for reinvestment." I laughed lightly as I backed away, telling her that it amounted to nothing and that she should keep it for pin money.

STRANGLES CHILDREN

Then Bruce County Woman Takes Own Life

Mrs. Thomas Pettigrew of Lion's Head Is Found Dead by Neighbors In Her Home and Her Ten and Twelve Year Old Children Are Found Strangled In Their Bed — Woman Had Been Ill For Some Years.

Lion's Head, Ont., Aug. 18.—The body of Mrs. Thomas Pettigrew was found hanging dead in the kitchen of her home here by neighbors yesterday morning, and in a bed upstairs were the bodies of her two children strangled to death.

The children were a boy and a girl, James and Hazel, aged 10 and 12 years. From the condition of the house it is evident that they were able to put up some sort of a struggle for their lives, but the frantic woman finally overcame them, and by tieing pieces of thin rope around their necks they were strangled to death.

After undressing them and placing them side by side in bed, the woman then tied a piece of rope to the bottom of the bed in another room. The end of it was put through a stove-pipe hole in the floor. Coming downstairs the woman then tied the loose end around her throat, mounted a table, and jumped off.

The deed is thought to have been the result of insanity brought on by years of illness. Her husband, a carpenter, was away from home at distant work. Cries were heard from the house about midnight.

Noticing no life about the place, the door was broken down.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The water in Toronto harbor is the lowest on record.

Mr. Joseph Leech, one of the pioneers of Gorrie, was found dead in bed.

The Paris Midi is authority for the sensational report that sixty soldiers at the Marseilles garrison, have been placed in the hospital as suspected cholera patients.

One of the first residents of the village of Portsmouth, immediately west of Kingston, has just passed away in the person of Mrs. Martha McCammon, aged 81.

Asking for a lunacy commission for Harry K. Thaw, now confined in the Matteawan Hospital, New York, a petition was filed yesterday on behalf of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, his wife.

In attempting to raise the steamer Sirius, on which seven persons were drowned when she sank near Ogdensburg, the chains broke the hull yesterday. The hull will be abandoned.

Found guilty of stealing money from patients at the General Hospital, Geo. Nilson at Sault Ste. Marie, was yesterday sentenced by Magistrate Elliott to six months in the Central Prison.

After being in the water since September last, the body of Thomas Fay, who was drowned in a boating accident, came to the surface yesterday at the Soo within a short distance of the fatality.

Half-Way on His Flight.

Cleveland, Aug. 18.—With another gain to his credit of 123 miles, H. N. Atwood arrived in Cleveland yesterday afternoon on his aeroplane flight from St. Louis to New York. He covered the 123 miles between Toledo and Cleveland in an actual flying time of two hours and twenty minutes.

"Just an easy canter," said Atwood as he stepped from his machine in a park in the Lake Shore City. "I almost went to sleep with the monotony of it. In five days New York will see me hop over its tallest skyscrapers and glide into the sand at Coney Island."

The Bostonian is pleased with his progress. He has now traveled 643 miles from his starting point in St. Louis. He has till 622 miles to fly to reach his destination in New York. He therefore has gone just 10 1-2 miles more than half of the 1,265-mile trip, which he says will show the possibility of a future ocean-to-ocean flight. His total time actually in the air since he left St. Louis last Monday is 13 hours and 15 minutes.

Vetoed Wool Tariff Bill.

Washington, Aug. 18.—President Taft yesterday carried out his threat to veto the wool tariff bill. In a special message to the House of Representatives he characterized the measure as a blend of an avowed tariff for revenue and anti-protection measure with a professed protection bill.

In explanation of his course President Taft said the bill was not in harmony of the platform on which he was elected. Furthermore, he declared that the American people are "deeply impressed with the conviction" that the interest of the consuming public can be properly guarded only by revising the tariff one schedule at a time, and then upon "accurate and scientifically acquired information."

Optimism the Keynote.

Winnipeg, Aug. 18.—Weather continues warm with good ripening breezes all over the prairie west and the crop is coming along nicely. On light lands the binder is at work and reports from many points show that farmers are making a start on early fields, while much of the barley is already in shock. Next week will be a critical period, as the thermometer usually takes a downward dip about August 20, but with the splendid conditions prevailing optimism is the keynote of the situation. Both Brandon and Indian Head experimental farms say conditions are just right for ripening a high grade crop.

Earthquake Reported.

Toronto, Aug. 18.—The Toronto Observatory reports an earthquake disturbance, commencing at two minutes after six Wednesday night and lasting two and a half hours. The maximum disturbance was at 6.45. The estimated distance of the earthquake from Toronto is 5,400 miles.

The Bishop of Salisbury, Right Rev. John Wordsworth, is dead. He was a nephew of the poet.

JAGERSCHMIDT AT MONTREAL.

Round the World Tripper Is Making Good Time.

Montreal, Aug. 18.—Jagerschmidt, the Paris journalist, who is girdling the world in an effort to set a new time record for circumnavigating the globe, arrived in Montreal at 7 o'clock last evening on train No. 8 from Winnipeg. He sailed for France at 7.30 this morning by the Allan liner Victorian, instead of going via New York as had been expected.

New York, Aug. 18.—A powerful touring car throbbed at the kerb outside the Grand Central Station for two hours yesterday, and a speedy tug boat stood ready to cast off in a moment from her pier in the North River, awaiting the arrival here of Andre Jagerschmidt, the French globe-girdler.

Hot at Behring Sea.

Washington, Aug. 18.—The revenue cutter fleet officers in Behring Sea report that unusual heat has been felt in the Arctic. The flagship Bear, sailing homeward after a three months' cruise of approximately ten thousand miles, reported by wireless yesterday that there is no ice in Behring Sea, nor along the shores of Alaska or Siberia, a condition not observed for several years.

Drifted Five Days.

Aden, Arabia, Aug. 18. The chief officer and six sailors of the British steamer Fifeshire, which was wrecked 20 miles south of Cape Guardafui, arrived here yesterday on the British steamer Ardandearg, which picked up the men after they had drifted for five days in an open boat.

Had Two Appendices.

Cambridge Springs, Pa., Aug. 18.—Joseph Link of Jefferson is believed to be the only patient ever operated upon who had two separate and distinct appendices.

An operation here disclosed the fact. The man has a good chance for recovery.

Lock-Out Settled.

Christiania, Norway, Aug. 18.—The lock-out declared by Norwegian mine owners on July 8, following a dispute over wages and conditions of employment, was settled through the mediation of the Government.

"BARGAIN" GLASSES ARE DANGEROUS GLASSES

This Editorial in the Ladie's Home Journal gives timely warning against these "Eye Destroyers" advertised as "Exceptional Values."

A woman who was hunting "bargain glasses" finally succeeded in "fitting" her eyes with what she enthusiastically declares was "just the thing." And immensely pleased with herself, this woman had brought about the gravest danger a woman could invest-in, for she had bought two pieces of glass crudely ground, but magnifying strongly, and with them she can see 'better to read'—That seeing better will mean an intense strain upon the her eyes, but she will not realize what the trouble is, nor the injury the glasses are doing. Some day she will be under the care of a Specialist, probably for the removal of a cataract, which will cost considerable, to say nothing of the suffering entailed, and she will be fortunate indeed if she does not suffer partial or entire loss of sight for the remainder of her life.

We have every qualification for giving your eyes a thorough examination. We fit you with the finest ground lenses, and at a very reasonable cost. Thousands of our citizens can certify to the care, skill and thoroughness of the examination, and the good results they had in wearing the glasses we prescribed. ALL WORK GUARANTEED.

CHEAP EXCURSION TO LINDSAY

By West End A. C. To-morrow Afternoon—Fare 65c

The West End Athletic Club excursion to-morrow afternoon to Lindsay will provide a trip that no doubt will be largely patronized. The fare is only 65c, the train leaving the G.T.R. station at 1.30 o'clock, with the return on either of the night trains. A good ball team is being taken along to meet the Lindsay Redskins at the Exhibition Park.

WEDDING BELLS

PRATLEY—COOPER

Wednesday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock a pretty wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Cooper, 121 Margueretta street, when their eldest daughter, Edith J., was united in marriage with Mr. Geoffrey G. Pratley, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pratley of Peterboro. Rev. F. C. Keam of King performed the ceremony in the presence of about forty guests. The bride was given away by her father, and entered the drawing-room to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Ethel J. McCullough, cousin of the bride and was prettily gowned in ivory satin with pearls and lace trimmings, and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses. Miss Melia A. Cooper, sister of the bride acted as bride-maid, and was becomingly gowned in pink silk muslin, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Harry Potter of Woodstock supported the groom.

After the wedding supper Mr. and Mrs. Pratley left for a trip to Boston, Mass., and on their return will reside at No. 414 Brock avenue. — Toronto Star.

GOSSIP OF THE THEATRE

One of the big dramatic sensations of the past two years is Jeanne Towler, who is justly heralded as "America's most beautiful and emotional actress." Miss Towler was discovered by Manager Leigh Morrison and created something of a sensation in his last season's production of "A Modern Salome." The unusual cleverness of Miss Towler in portraying this heavy emotional role was such, that several New York managers tried to steal her away from Mr. Morrison, but he, realizing the wonderful possibilities of her work that he already had her tied up with a five year contract.

It is quite probable that Miss Towler will be one of the first stars to open the local theatrical season in a production of F. Marion Crawford's wonderful novel, "The White Sister," which has set all America talking, and nothing better than this could be provided to start the present dramatic year.

LOCAL BOYS, NOW EXPRESS MESSENGERS IN ACCIDENTS

All But Two Cars of One Train Ditched — Other Took Wrong Siding

Peterboro boys now engaged as express messengers running out of Toronto to North Bay, recently had an exciting experience when the train met with an accident.

"Glad" Tetford, who some time ago was identified with the local Canadian Express office, figured in a wreck last Thursday, when one mile south of Utterson, the entire train with the exception of the mail and express cars all turned on their sides, rolling down a ten-foot embankment. The Dominion Express car, which was loaded rather heavy with express for north of North Bay, mixed things up pretty badly and the express messenger had a miraculous escape. Ice cream tubs and various other heavy consignments were tossed about all round him, considerable damage being done to fruit. Many baskets were crushed very badly. The line was completely blocked till about 10 o'clock Friday morning when the company had a track built around the wreck. The trains were all delayed. No. 46 did not arrive till 11 o'clock Friday morning and 64 got her cat 3.15 p.m. The auxiliary did not get back till late Saturday night. The cause of the wreck is supposed to have been something broken underneath one of the trucks causing the baggage car to jump the rails.

Herb. McMillan who, until a short time ago was fruit driver for the Canadian Express Company, and is now express messenger with a run from Toronto to North Bay, was more fortunate. His train took a siding and knocked several standing cars off the track and down an embankment. No one was injured.

"The County Sheriff"

The most interesting story of real western life that has been put into play form, entitled "The County Sheriff," a new play this season, by Lem B. Parker, will be presented at the Grand Opera House, one night only, on Wednesday, Aug. 23. It is delightful in its humor and stirring in its adventure, while its romance cannot fail to draw sympathy from the coldest audience. The cast is an exceptionally clever one, including Georgia Frances, Evelyn Merrion, Bert Melville, Maurice Jenkins, Jack F. Mallory, Frank L. Tyee, Kittie Melville, Albert B. Rishman and others.

GAY MASQUERADE AT CHEMONG PARK

Young People Had Pleasant Evening at the Pavilion

The pavilion at Chemong Park presented a brilliant scene last night, when over fifty couples, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Fred. L. Roy, took part in a masquerade dance, to the strains of particularly appropriate music supplied by Signor Macoronia, who came to the city recently and generously responded to an invitation to be present.

The costumes bespoke of the cunning work of capable hands, and included two harem skirts. The young people had a very enjoyable evening and the ladies served supper at eleven o'clock. The affair broke up at midnight.

CHANGES TO BE MADE AT OLD AMERICAN HOTEL

Premises May be Converted Into Stores

Although at present there is a hitch in the negotiations, it is probable that the premises lately occupied by Mr. Sam Long and known as the American Hotel, will be converted into stores. Without a doubt a move in this direction would make a big change for the better.

Merchants in the vicinity, however, do not want the laneway leading off Hunter street into the rear of the building closed up, but with the laneway closed rooms would be provided for another store.

TO THE ELECTORS

— OF —

EAST PETERBOROUGH

Fellow Electors:

At the Convention of the Liberal-Conservative party of East Peterborough, held in the village of Norwood on July 27th, 1911, my friends, unsolicited, again conferred on me the honor of again selecting me as a candidate for the House of Commons.

During the past three years you have had opportunities of judging of my fitness and worthiness for the position.

The arduous duties of a member of Parliament I have honestly and faithfully, and to the utmost of my ability, endeavored to fulfil.

Both in the House and out of the House I have been unceasing in my efforts to promote the best interests of that Riding which I had the honor to represent.

Many questions of vital importance have come before the House during the last Parliament, some of which have been of particular interest to the agricultural classes of the country.

Being a practical farmer myself and representing a riding mostly rural, I have studied and watched closely any legislation affecting agriculturists, believing as I do that anything that is of benefit to the farmers and laboring classes will work out to the great advancement of the country at large.

On the great subject now agitating the minds of the people over the whole Dominion, viz., that of reciprocal trade with the United States, you are acquainted with my views.

After months of laborious study on the subject — After a trip to the United States in order to satisfy myself as to farming conditions in that country, I here repeat that neither statistics nor actual conditions warrant me in thinking that the Canadian farmer will gain anything by such a pact.

On this subject I hope to have an opportunity of addressing you at a public meeting.

I now appeal to all my friends, and all those who desire honest administration of public affairs, and who are in sympathy with the Liberal-Conservative platform, to rally to my support and promote an active campaign in my behalf and thus for better government.

Thanking you for past support, I am.

Your Obedient Servant

INSURANCE ON WEATHER FOR THE BIG WRESTLING BATTLE

Record Crowd to Witness Gotch-Hack Meeting on Labor Day.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 18.—To guard against rain Jack Curley has taken insurance on the weather from Lloyds for the big wrestling match between Gotch and Hackenschmidt at Chicago. He also will build a cover over the ring so that neither the sun nor the rain will cut any figure. The spectators, of course, will be protected by the grandstand covering at the ball park.

The gates will be opened at 9 o'clock in the morning so that the great crowd can be handled just as they are at the world's series games. The out of town delegations who have secured their seats will be protected, no matter what time they arrive at the ball park. Curley is going to see to it that every man who buys a seat receives the one he bought. The grounds seat over 20,000 people.

Never before in the history of the wrestling game as there been such a demand for tickets. It has gone away beyond the expectation of the management, and only the receipts of the Jeffries-Johnson fight will top them in the athletic line. It looks like a big thing for Curley, who has assumed all the risk. He gets every cent after the first $40,000 have been taken in. Gotch gets $20,000 and $1,000 for training expenses. Hackenschmidt $10,000, the Empire club gets $5,000 and Curley takes all money after that. It was a great gamble on the part of Jack, but he seem to have put over a big one. It's the old story about big things getting big money, and only the fellows who take a chance get into the real pay ore after all.

LEAFS AND GREYS WERE STOPPED IN THE EIGHTH

Each Team Tallied Three Times—Athletics Beat the White Sox—Crawford is Hurt.

Providence, R.I., Aug. 17.—The slipping Leafs wound up their trip with a tie game with the Grays this afternoon, the count being three runs apiece when Umpire Doyle called the game in the first half of the eighth round, the score reverting to the end of the seventh. The contest was shortened in order to allow the Leafs to catch a train. The trip was one of the most disastrous of the season for Kelley's men, not a victory being registered.

Tesreau, the giant hurler who has been pitching great ball for Toronto, shot the leather up to the batsman, and although he kept the lid down fairly well on the hits, his wildness proved his undoing, two of the tallies chalked up against him being due to pitches that hit the grand stand.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—The Athletics inaugurated their last swing through the west to-day by licking the Sox in both games of a double-header. The score of the first battle was 2 to 1, and Walsh and Coombs were the pitchers. The Athletics grabbed the second 5 to 1, beating two Sox recruits. The Indian Bender had the sign on the Sox all the way. This second game was a battle until the fifth, when Oldring drove out a homer with two men on bases. That broke up the game.

Detroit, Aug. 17.—The Tigers dropped the first of a three-game series to Boston to-day by a 4 to 3 score. It was anybody's game up to the time the last man was out. In the preliminary practice Crawford was hit in the mouth by a foul tip from Stanage's bat, his nose and upper lip being considerably bruised. He was compelled to retire for the day.

QUEEN CITY RINK WON WALKER CUP

Great Bowling for First Honors Locals Lost Again

Toronto, Aug. 18.—By the close score of 10 to 9 the Queen City rink, skipped by W. A. Morrison, won the Walker Trophy yesterday afternoon on the Victoria lawn from Dr. F. W. McGuire's quartet from Buffalo. It was one of the closest and smallest scoring games on record in the Dominion Lawn Bowling Tournament, the game being won and lost on the fourteenth end, when with McGuire lying 3, Morrison drew in on the last bowl for shot, making him 3 up with one end to play, and on the fifteenth Morrison had the end blocked so that when McGuire ran the kitty with his last bowl the best the Bison could do was to count 2.

In this competition the local rink got as far as the semi-finals and met defeat. Going into the Ontario Cup, they lost again and took another fall after some good playing in the Toronto Cup.

SKIP WADDELL HAD HARD LUCK

How the Locals Worked in Semi-Final for Walker Cup

Toronto Star;—Bennie won his game with Evans, of St. Kitts in a romp. In the other half at the Victoria rink, Morrison, Queen City, won the semi-final from R. M. Waddell, of Peterborough. The latter was 9 to 1 at the end of the fifth, a 2, 3, and 4 put the Morrison men up, once ahead they soon had it on ice.

Waddell was unlucky losing his own game. The ninth end he was laying two when he tried to draw a third with his last bowl. He carried the kitty to two of the Queen City bowlers, making a difference of four. These Peterborough men are fighters. The last end they were three down and lay shot, probably two. There was no chance to draw, but by running the kitty to the right or left he would count three.

He got the kitty dead on and it went straight ahead to where two Queen City bowlers were and instead of being one down he was five. This is the first time Queen City have ever had the honor of playing in the finals. Morrison's men, especially Fleming and Hackboy, played magnificently. This game with Buffalo should be one long to be remembered.

Morrison's other victim was Dr. Pirie, of Dundas, whom he swamped. The score was 17 to 4. Waddell's right to the semi-final was won from Kelk, Parkdale. This was another of the good games of the tournament, victory finally falling to Peterborough by 15 to 11.

SHOOTING

Youth Opened Cars.

Montreal, Aug. 18.—Gordon McMartin, a youth of 16, was sent to the penitentiary for two years yesterday by Judge Choquet for breaking and entering seventeen cars of the Grand Trunk Railway. Other charges hanging over him are for a theft of $40 from Joseph Adelard of Coteau Landing. He is also wanted in Belleville and St. Alban's for stealing clothes. At the time of his arrest the chief of police from St. Alban's was looking for him in this city on the latter charge.

Judge Choquet, sitting in the court of special sessions, sentenced James Mooney to three years in the penitentiary. Mooney was convicted on a charge of horse-stealing from J. Coeur, having purloined a team of horses valued at $200, and another horse from Callis Casse & Co., valued at $500.

Changed Wiley's Finding.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Dr. H. W. Wiley, the pure food expert, added another sensation to the House enquiry into Agricultural Department affairs yesterday, when he declared that a ruling adverse to the so-called "corn syrup" manufacturing interests, promulgated by the Bureau of Chemistry, the Food and Drug Inspection Board, and Secretary Wilson himself, had suddenly been changed into a favorable opinion without being referred to him or his associates.

Killed By Fall of Bricks.

London, Ont., Aug. 18.—John Crosby, proprietor of Evelyn Brick and Tile Yards, was instantly killed on Wednesday afternoon during the heavy storm which passed over this district.

He was wheeling a load of tile out of one of the kilns when it was either struck by lightning or weakened by the high wind, and the arch collapsed, burying Mr. Crosby beneath tons of bricks.

Pet Dog's Fatal Caress.

Newark, N.J., Aug. 18.—Jacob Swenzer, president of the Woodbridge Automobile Co., is dead at his home in Woodbridge, N.J., of rabies, after a two days' illness. A pet dog, which licked his hand a month ago, went mad a few days later. Swenzer was formerly a well-known driver of racing automobiles.

Murphy Made Protest.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—Mgr. Gauthier, Archbishop of Ottawa, returned from Montfort, Que., yesterday and went immediately to the residence of Mgr. Stagni, Papal Nuncio. It is believed the conference was to discuss the activity of certain Roman Catholic clergy in opposition to Hon. Charles Murphy in Russell County. It is said on good authority that a strong protest has been made by the Secretary of State.

Blew Out Cylinder Head.

Boston, Aug. 18.—Delayed three days by the blowing out of her high pressure cylinder head, the Allan Line steamer Numidian, arrived at this port yesterday from Glasgow. The last 600 miles of the run was made at a reduced speed, owing to the accident. The cylinder head blew out last Sunday.

Two Drown From Canoe.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 18.—Percy Simmonds, of the firm of James Simmonds & Co., wholesale hardware, Halifax and Dartmouth, and Miss Nellie Burton, of Dartmouth, were drowned Thursday night by the upsetting of their canoe on Second Dartmouth Lake.

INCREASE IN OFFICIALS

London, Aug. 7—The Government has issued a return of the number of additional offices "established and temporarily created in consequence of legislation passed since 1906." The total reaches the surprising figure of 4,351.

The total annual cost to the country of this addition to the official ranks is not given. Salaries are classified loosely as "not exceeding £150" or "exceeding £500." A conservative estimate puts the aggregate cost at $5,000,000 a year.

The insurance bill now before the House will add enormously to the list of officials. It is calculated that a department of several thousand employes will be created by this bill.

WHO WAS SHIELDED ?

(Brockville Times.)

Dr Edwards was tendered a flattering reception when he began his magnificent address. After congratulating the candidate on such a large gathering, and after congratulating the audience on having a candidate like John Webster, a candidate which any constituency might feel proud of, he delved into the Farmers' Bank scandal, explaining how the government refused to appoint a royal commission, saying he could not understand why the government refused the request unless it was because they had something to cover up. They should have granted it, maintained doctor, if only to ascertain where the weakness in their banking system lay. The reason they refused was because they had men like J. R. Stratton and Pardee to screen. He then said if he was elected on September 21 he would recommend the government to reimburse to some extent those victimized by the bank through no fault of own. He knew it would be establishing a precedent, but the Laurier government established a precedent when they granted the charter.

700 MILES OF FENCE

C.P.R. Will Use 5,000 Miles of Wire In Prairie Provinces

Over 5,000 miles of wire will be used by the Canadian Pacific this year in building new fences along their lines in the prairie provinces.

This quantity of wire will build 700 miles of fence, which is the amount suggested for the work of the year. The fences are seven strands high, the wire used being the class without barbs.

Some of the old fences will be replaced, but for the most part the wire will be used in the construction of fences where there are none at the present time.

The work of building is done by contract; the company supply the posts, the contractors supplying the wire and doing the work. This latter will be done by one of the local companies.

RULES OF LACROSSE

The rules of Lacrosse which have come up for considerable ill-considered criticism, are by the deep-thinking lacrosse experts, being favorably regarded. President James Murphy states that as soon as the game shows benefit from the adoption of the new legislation he will introduce important amendments to still further improve the game and make it faster. Drastic alterations he considers are unwise, but he has improvements which will be generally introduced as opportunity affords, and which he calculates will bring the game of lacrosse back to its former position of pre-eminence in the summer sports of Canada.

BARLEY AND ITS USES

In any examination of the crops of Canada barley is far too important to admit of being overlooked. This cereal has two great uses, the most important being its value as a condensed food for live stock, the other the use to which it is put in the brewing of beer. For from barley is made malt, one of the chief constituents of ale and lager. It was solely for the brewing industry that Canada had in the past exported her barley to the United States prior to the Dingley tariff of 1897. This put a duty of 30 cents per bushel of forty-eight lbs. on barley entering the states and on barley-malt one of 45 cents per bushel of 34 pounds. After the tariff was put on, our export of barley dropped from 1,674,193 bushls in 1896 to 787,787 bushels in 1897, and to-day we are only exporting to the extent of 147,596 bushels. All of these large exports of barley were for the use of the American brewer. Practically none at all was sent into the States for feed purposes. As soon as the duty made the American price of our barley prohibitive, the Americans turned their attention towards the improvement of their own product, which up till 1897 had been much inferior to the quality of the Canadian crop. A regular crusade was started in Iowa under the direction of Prof. Olin and in Wisconsin under Prof. More. So successful have their efforts been, that to-day the middle Western states grow as good a barley as any produced in Canada.

Since the year 1897 the total production of barley in the United States has increased from 68,685,127 bushels to 170,284,000 in 1909. The United States is threfore in a position to supply herself without any importations. A proof of this point is found in the fact that in 1909 the United States exported 6,530,393 bushels of barley. Surely a country able to send a certain product whether natural or manufactured abroad has an ample supply for her own necessities. As before remarked the only use the American has for our barley is for malting in the preparation of beer. It must be remembered that the United States brewer does not make his product from pure malt and hops. Generally he will only use 1-3 malt (made from barley) sometimes less, just enough to reproduce his yeast. He employs corn, grits, rice, or in fact any cereal containing a large percentage of easily obtainable starch. All the above are successfully grown in the States. On the contrary the Canadian brewer is practically forced by the government regulation to use only malt and hops in the preparation of his beer.

Let us consider the other side of the question. Granting for the sake of argument that a large export to the United States would make a barley bonanza for our farmer, would it be for the best interests of Canada as a whole and tend towards the improvement and conservation of our great natural resources? In the first place, is barley suitable to be a standard crop for a country such as ours? There is no cereal which requires such a careful and thorough preparation for its reception into the soil. It must be carefully planted, the land ploughed at precise seasons of the year and a great deal of trouble and care taken during its preparatory growth. This puts it away behind wheat as a crop for a country with so much new and unbroken land. Secondly, barley does not require as rich a soil as wheat and deteriorates to a considerably greater extent the land on which it is grown. This, in event of our farmers increasing their barley areas, would lead to a rapid exhaustion of our best farm lands. These facts are amply proven by the investigations conducted on the relative merits of barly and wheat as crops, by the Rothamsted Experiment Station, England. After fifty years of careful consideration the following result has been finally rached at. Wheat during fifty years of cultivation declined in its average yield on a given area for the first 18 years, but after that period remained steady, giving 13 bushels per annum to the acre. Barley on the contrary showed a rapid diminuition. It returned ten bushels for the last ten years, against a previous annual average of 15 bushels. These experiments were of course conducted on ground which was in no way fertilized. Thus the continued fall of the barley crop from decade to decade would seem to show a progressive exhaustion of the soil without reaching the comparatively stable condition of the continuously unmanured wheat plot. This is one of the strongest arguments against the growing of barley for export trade. It is not alone the present prosperity of the country that must be looked to, but, what is more important, the future.

The advocates of mixed farming may say that it is good for Canada to grow diversified crops and that barley on account of its great yield is an ideal and profitable one. The fallacy of this can easily be seen by a glance at the following figures. They were computed from a series of experiments during the last five years at the Macdonald Agricultural College:—

Crop.	Lbs. to the acre
Six-rowed barley	2,74
Two-rowed barley	2,25
Milling Spring wheat	1,78

It therefore appears that six-rowed barley (the highest in protein value and the most suitable for American export) gives a much higher yield to the acre than wheat. However, considering how much more it uses up of the natural elements of the soil, the difference in amount of labor and fertilizer necessary to grow barley successfully, and above all the difference in the selling price between the two (wheat 84.9 cents per bushel in 1909; barley 47.9 cents) it does not bear comparison as a crop with wheat.

Floods in China have destroyed 325,000 acres of rice. Half a million persons are homeless.

A proposition to introduce a compulsory arbitration bill in the British House was voted down as impossible of enforcement.

TO THE YOUNG MAN

MacLean Publishing Company, Toronto, are looking for a local representative for their MacLean's Magazine also Farmer's Magazine. This is an excellent opportunity for any ambitious young man to greatly add to his regular income. Both of these magazines are up to the high standard of the other MacLean publications and would have a large circulation in this district if brought to the attention of readers here.

To the Young Man of the right type there can be no doubt as to his success. It not only means a greatly increased revenue for him but a training in salesmanship which would be difficult to secure from any other source.

MacLean Publishing Company have their own salesmen in every province of Canada. Every man joining the staff is given a training in salesmanship which is of inestimable value no matter what line he may engage in later. Their staff includes not only the most expert salesman in Canada but the highest priced men also. Their staff includes the very best circulation men in the Dominion.

Arrangements can be made with the Circulation Department of the MacLean Publishing Company, Toronto, for the above representation—but only men with ambition should make application.

A VOICE FROM THE WEST

Hanley, Sask.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir—Much has been said in the Parliament of Canada, and in the public press and elsewhere, concerning the coming Dominion election and "reciprocity." Reciprocity is giving ourselves over to Uncle Sam's domain, as Champ Clark termed it.

Now sir, allow me to say a word concerning this very important question, reciprocity. Sir Wilfrid Laurier came to Western Canada last summer, as leader of an avowed Free Trade party theoretically speaking, despite the fact that the last time he was in England, he was forced to admit it in the midst of those who had been voting for him for 15 years, that he had done absolutely nothing for Free Trade of any kind, but he actually raised the tariff, and had walked hand in hand with the manufacturers from the first day he took office at Ottawa. Now sir, Laurier has betrayed those people, by playing the double-faced game, and it is safe to say that 98 per cent of them had been Liberals all their lives.

Now Sir Wilfrid, in order to place himself right with the dissatisfied ones of his party, met one demand by framing up a trade arrangement with the United States, which will do no good to this country. This one concession appears to have been sufficient to satisfy the hide-bound Grits, who would not vote for anyone, but a Grit anyway, and we see them back in Liberal custom shouting themselves hoarse in favor of the party that had been promising for 15 years to give this one single concession, and now meets that pledge with a pact which never lays a finger on the trusts or the combines, but places the farmers of Canada in open competition with the different countries of the world. This is called reciprocity. The most amusing spectacle, is, growling Liberals visiting Mr. Borden, who had never been in a position to grant anything and demanding that he give them reciprocity, and every one of them knows perfectly well, they wouldn't give Borden a vote to-morrow if he could give them absolute Free Trade. It matters not if Mr. Borden met those hampering, howling Grits or not. For they are secured by Sir Wilfrid. Hon. Clifford Sifton, Brandon, saw this grave danger of reciprocity, which caused him to leave the party that he had been a supporter of for 23 years, and for which he outlined the policy his party took in 1897.

This is what Sir Wilfrid Laurier says "Canada to-day is not in favor of reciprocity. There was a time when Canadians, beginning with myself, would have given many things to obtain the American markets, but thank Heaven those days are gone and over."

"But I have found in the short experience during which it has been my fortune to be placed at the head of affairs by the will of the Canadian people, that the best way to maintain friendship with our American neighbours, is to be absolutely independent of them."

The Laurier Government in order to blind the eyes of the people, as to its numerous sins and omissions, has thrust the reciprocity issue to the forefront in a manner most warranted by its importance. Even Liberals themselves will admit that the land question in this province is of more importance to the people than a trade pact, which gives the farmers of the West practically nothing, and whose only advantages will be to United States, and there are many graft charges and scandals which have blackened the name of Canada under the Laurier regime, and this party hopes to slip into power again on the reciprocity issue.

What about the Aylesworth canal, St. Peter's reserve, saw dust wharf, navy, and many other similar charges. How can any sane thinking man support such vile and corrupt government?

ITS TIME FOR A CHANGE

The people of this country, are now on to the slimy, slippery ways of the present government. In 1908 the slogan of the Liberal party was "Let Laurier Finish his Work," and that work was the building of the Transcontinental railway, and for the purpose of encouraging transportation of goods through Canadian channels and Canadian ocean ports, etc.

GRITS ADMIRE BORDEN

The Grit newspapers of Western Canada have had to unite in admitting that Mr R. L. Borden, by his honesty and frankness has won a place in the hearts of all the people of the West which has been occupied by no other politician in the history of Canada. Even the Saskatchewan organs have to confess his straightforwardness in dealing with public questions.

And I see the day, not far off, when that gentleman, R. L. Borden, will hold the reins of government in this country.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor
HAROLD F. ANDREWS, formerly of Asphodel township, Ont.

THE NE TEMERE

(Toronto Saturday Night.)

Sir Alan Aylesworth holds out little or no hope of the Federal Government interfering in the "Ne Temere" decree. According to the views of the Minister of Justice, the question of the solemnization of marriage in Canada rests solely with the several provinces. In other words, it is a question over which the Federal Government has no jurisdiction. The minister makes this clear in a letter to the Baptist Association, said letter being in answer to an appeal to the minister from that body:

"Under the British North America Act," says Sir Alan in his letter, "everything relating to the solemnization of marriage is within the executive jurisdiction of the Provincial Legislature. At the time confederation was under discussion, it was, so far as can be gathered from the utterances of leading Canadian statesmen, the deliberate wish and intention of those who had most to do with the framing of the statute, that this should be so.

"The Provincial Legislatures, accordingly, have exclusive right to legislate in regard to everything which relates to the formalities under which the contract of marriage can be validly entered into. The Provincial Legislatures have no power to annul a marriage, and perhaps equally would have no power to declare by legislation any particular man validly married to any particular woman; but the Provincial Legislatures alone can declare what the formalities shall be with which the ceremony of marriage must be attended in order that the contract may be one which shall be legally recognized. The Provincial Legislatures, and the Provincial Legislatures alone, have authority to declare what clergymen or officials shall have the legal right within each province, to solemnize a contract of marriage. It is, I think, not the case, as seems to be the opinion expressed in the resolution of your association, that while the Dominion Parliament has power to legislate "as to marriage and divorce," the former of these subjects has been left wholly to the Legislatures. This language seems to indicate the impression that this situation has resulted from some action, or inaction, on the part of the Dominion Parliament. I think that is not the case. The Dominion Parliament is bound by the Provisions of the British North America Act. The subject of "marriage" is one thing, the subject of the "solemnization of marriage" is a different thing, and the Dominion Parliament has no more right to encroach upon the jurisdiction of the Provincial Legislatures than those Legislatures would have to encroach upon the jurisdiction of the Dominion.

"It would seem to me, therefore, that while, of course, the Dominion Government could make representations on the subject of the Ne Temere decree, as is urged in your resolution, the subject matter with which that decree, so far as I understand it, deals, relates wholly to the manner in which, or to the person before whom, the ceremony of marriage may validly be solemnized, and in that view the matter would seem to me to lie wholly within the jurisdiction of the various Provincial Legislatures."

It is to be hoped, however, that the question will not stop this side of the Privy Council, for that body has before now turned upside down what we were given to considering hard and fast rules and regulations.

The "Ne Temere" decree, under which an otherwise legitimate and correct marriage is annulled because it is contrary to the canon law of the Church of Rome, is in many respects paralleled by the famous Guilbord case. It will be remembered that Guilbord was the owner of a lot in the Roman Catholic cemetery in Montreal; that he died out of the church, and the church authorities refused to allow of his being buried in this plot. The case was fought through court after court and finally went to the Privy Council. The decision of this body was to the effect that no churchly right or canon law could override British law; that Guilbord owned this plot in the Roman Catholic cemetery and should be buried there, and he was; though it took a couple of regiments of Canadian militia to enforce the order.

In discussing this phase of the question the London Times says:

"Neither the higher courts of Canada nor the Privy Council have been disposed to uphold the extreme claims of the Roman Catholic hierarchy. The courts disallowed the assumption of the hierarchy to interfere with freedom of elections by the imposition of spiritual penalties. The Privy Council denied the right of the church to refuse burial in Roman Catholic cemeteries to excommunicated persons. It is clear that, under the law of Quebec, Protestant ministers have the right to solemnize marriage, and therefore, while the church may refuse to recognize marriages between Protestants and Roman Catholics performed by Protestant clergymen, it is surely doubtful if it has the power to declare such marriages illegal and deny to the state all power over the civil and moral consequences of such marriages."

INNOCENT MAN SERVED LONG TERM

Pittsburg, Aug. 16—Andrew Toth was released from the Western Penitentiary recently, after serving twenty years of a life sentence upon a charge of murder which subsequently was proved he never committed, will leave here to-night for his old home in Austria. Broken in health and now an old man unable to work, Toth goes to meet his aged wife, whom he has not seen for a quarter of a century. He feels keenly the failure of the State Legislature to provide for him some recompense for the lost years of his life, and the enforced punishment of a felon visited upon an innocent man.

INVITATION TO A CAT'S FUNERAL

Philadelphia, Aug 17—Lying in a silk-lined mahogany coffin, its head resting on a satin embroidered pillow, Tiger, the pet Angora cat of William Gray Brooks, a Philadelphia millionaire, was buried in the cat cemetery at Radnor. The attaches at the Morris Refuge for Cats sent out invitations to the neighbors of Mr. Brooks to attend the funeral, and so many of them responded that the cat cemetery was overcrowded. A headstone now will be erected over Tiger.

ICE CREAM MADE FROM SOUR MILK

Some half dozen years ago there was a young, college-educated Dane living in Sioux City Iowa, who had a mania for experimenting with sour milk drinks. While in college he became acquainted with the famous theory of Metchnikoff that the prolongation of life depends largely on the introduction into the system of plenty of the bacilli found in sour milk.

Pampered on sweets, however, the American has a prejudice against the sweets which have "spoiled" and so hurries pellmell into a grave which might have been barricaded behind a sour milk can.

This young, inventive Dane was not slow in discovering another national tendency. The American will partake of things with a relish if he does not know for sure what they are. So he set about to doctor up his sour milk drinks with fruit juices and flavoring extracts, working all the time toward a beverage which should contain the healthful bacteria without due—to the American—unpalatable flavor.

It was not long until the little workshop of the Dane was the Mecca of men who knew a good thing when they tasted it. Railroad and traveling men had a habit of looking forward to spending Sunday in Sioux City and dropping in to see the Dane and incidentally to quaff some of his pleasing beverages. They never associated their better health with the drinks, but were content to tickle their palates with various and sundry colored and flavored concoctions, the like of which no man, not foreign born, had ever tasted.

That was the genesis of lacto, the new frozen dairy product which has recently come upon the market and which is nothing more or less than ice cream made from sour milk. Doesn't sound a bit good, does it? Well, that's what several score college professors, college students and ordinary garden variety human beings in and around Ames said a few months ago. And so Prof. M. Mortensen, the young Dane of the Sioux City experiments, now head of the Dairy Department of the Iowa State Agricultural College, set about to show them how little they really knew about this particular subject. He set his dairy students to making lacto and he sent it about the campus and even down town to Ames for sampling. Some he told, but others he left in peaceful ignorance. All he asked was that they take a taste and let him know, honestly and truly, just what they thought of the stuff. This was the result. Out of 179 persons who sampled lacto, 128 pronounced it very good, 37 good, 6 fair, and 8 poor. Comparing it common vanilla ice cream, 111 reported that they preferred lacto, 9 considered it equal to ice cream and 59 preferred ice cream. Comparing lacto to sherbet, 123 preferred lacto, 30 preferred sherbet and 26 considered lacto equal to sherbet. The Dane was beginning to be vindicated.

Lacto is skimmed milk which has been soured by a commercial lactic acid culture, combined with eggs and fruit flavors and frozen to the consistency of ice cream.—From "Ice Cream from Sour Milk," in September Technical World Magazine.

BIG STRIKE IS SPREADING

Nearly a Quarter Million Men Are Out in England.

Employes of London Underground May Now Walk Out—220,000 Railwaymen Are Idle and Special Constables Are Being Sworn In—Liberal Ministers Seem Helpless to Stem the Tide.

London, Aug. 19.—Scores of thousands of railway employes throughout the United Kingdom are on strike today and traffic everywhere is badly disorganized.

The leaders of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants declare that 220,000 men, or nearly half the total of employes of the railways of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, have answered their call to stop work. On the other hand, the managers of the railways say these figures are greatly exaggerated.

There is no method by which verification of either assertion is possible, but the fact is patent that the railway service all over the country is completely demoralized, even a limited passenger service being impossible. Never before have the Ministers of a British Government made such earnest efforts to ward off a great labor war; yet last night they had been unable to stay a movement that promises to entail inconvenience, possibly misery, to millions of people.

One of the gravest features of the situation in London is a threatened strike by the employes of the underground railways. Hundreds of thousands of persons use the tubes to get to and from their business and their stoppage would greatly increase the suffering and demoralization which is being caused by the strike on the steam railways.

Thus far, according to the officials of the underground companies, only 800 of their employes have struck. This is but a small percentage of the men employed in the tubes, but their defection already has curtailed the service and only a few trains are running. The underground strikers held a mass meeting last night and passed a resolution not to return to work until satisfactory terms have been arranged through their executives, or until all the other railway men who have struck are restored to their positions under Government guarantee.

London has the appearances of an armed camp, for on all sides are to be seen soldiers, rifles in hand and leaden bullets in their belts, while from the dome of St. Paul's the engineers are keeping in communication with the general staff by heliographic signals in the daytime and by electric flashes at night.

Undeterred by the failure of their negotiations on Thursday to effect a settlement of the dispute between the railway managers and their men, the whole of yesterday again was spent by Premier Asquith, David Lloyd-George, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Sidney Buxton, President of the Board of Trade, in fruitless conferences with the leaders on both sides of the controversy.

The battleship Warrior arrived at Douglas, Isle of Man, yesterday afternoon to provision the hungry islanders, whose regular communication with Liverpool has been cut off.

Reports from Wales say that some 20,000 or 30,000 additional colliers will be idle by to-night.

Thousands of holiday makers are stranded at the seaside and country resorts without money and unable to obtain transportation home.

The Liverpool street station, where some 80,000 commuters arrive and depart daily, was the most congested point of London probably, yesterday. Last evening the platforms were packed with thousands awaiting a chance to get to their suburban homes. A large majority did not reach their homes before morning.

Major Roche, who, having been ordered from Ireland to rejoin his regiment at Aldershot, on arriving at Fishguard found the train stalled by strikers. He promptly mobilized a party of soldiers who were returning by boat from a furlough, borrowed rifles from the local territorials, drove off the strikers at the point of the bayonet and got his train through.

The international combine of steamship companies has no hope of getting away any ships from Liverpool

BIG BURNHAM RALLY TO-NIGHT

The first big Burnham rally of the campaign will be held TO-NIGHT in the YOUNG CONSERVATIVE quarters on George street. Mr. Burnham will address the electors on the issues of the day, and there will be other speakers. All Conservatives are asked to attend, and every other elector who wants to hear the campaign questions thoroughly discussed. Make the opening gathering an augury of a victory for Borden and Burnham on Sept. 21st. The meeting will start about 8 o'clock. Go to the Burnham rally to-night.

RECIPROCITY WOULD HURT CANADIAN BUTTER MARKET

A glance at the weekly market report for the month of April, 1911, reveals a comparison of prices paid for butter in Canada and the United States which should be of special interest to the Canadian dairymen in view of the pending reciprocity agreement.

The following table is compiled from the market report of The Canadian Farm, and represents the highest price paid on each market for choice creamery rolls:

Week ending.	Toronto.	New York.	Chicago.
April 7	29	22	23
April 14	28	21 1-2	23
April 21	25	21 1-2	21
April 28	25	23 1-2	21

The average dairyman need not be reminded of the absurdity of this talk of "larger markets" in view of the excellent home market he now enjoys. According to the above table the average maximum price paid for choice butter on Toronto market for April was 26 3-4 cents per pound, as compared with 22 cents per pound in Chicago and 22 1-8 cents per pound in New York. You need not, however, confine yourself to the Toronto market. The price paid in Montreal for the same article and during the same period was 24 1-4 cents, in Winnipeg 28 cents, in St. Johns 25 cents, and in Edmonton 28 cents.

Now what will be the inevitable result of the free entry of American butter to our market? With the removal of the duty of 6 cents per pound, which at present ensures us a [illegible] than in the dairy industry an product of the United States will be dumped upon our market and a direct lowering of our prices will be the outcome.

In no branch of agricultural industry is there a higher degree of specialization than in the dairy industry and we are proud to-day of the excellent quality of our product. Would it not be utter folly to render our market a dumping ground for the inferior product of the United States? Quality, unfortunately, does not always govern the price and the effect of such needless competition would necessarily be disastrous to our present prices. The inferior article always finds a market.

After all these years of improved and painstaking methods and patient efforts at co-operation does the Canadian dairyman wish to see his splendid work undone, his present home market ruined and his ideal shattered? Has he labored all these years in vain to improve his product? Is he going to support a Government which would ruthlessly step in and destroy the market he has merely to suit the political schemes of President Taft and the Republican party of the United States?

MOTHER AND BABY BLOWN FROM BED

New York, Aug. 17.—A mother and her new-born baby were literally blown from their bed in the Beehive section of the seething east side early to-day. The outrage was committed by Italian Black Handers, enraged because a prospective victim had refused to pay tribute. That both were not instantly killed was due entirely to the fact that the bed, in anticipation of the arrival of the stork had been moved from its original place to the front of the room. Because of the dastardly nature of the crime, Police Commissioner Waldo and Inspector Hughes took personal charge of the detectives trying to find the dynamiters.

The woman was Mrs. Jennie Colarusso. Her boy baby was born just 24 hours before the attempt on the lives of him and his mother. The exploding bomb threw them out of the bed onto the floor, where they were covered with plaster and falling debris. They were hurried to a hospital.

Fifty inmates of the house, which is at 183 First avenue, rushed to the streets in terror when the explosion took place. Antonio Colarusso, a retired wine and olive merchant, husband and father of the victims, told the police he had received letters signed by Black Hand demanding money.

250,000 MEN OUT ON STRIKE

Special To The Review

London, Aug. 19—The strike scenes were practically unchanged to-day, the labor leaders claiming that a quarter of a million labor men are out and prophesying a complete tie-up on all railways in twenty-four hours. The government states that there is no dearth of men for supply except in London and Liverpool.

A German torpedo boat was sunk in a collision off the coast of England while manoeuvring.

LUNATIC IS CAPTURED

Officers Laid in Ambush to Catch Osias Beaudin.

Desperate Character Who Has Been at Liberty For the Past Year Since His Escape From the Asylum Is Caught at Last—Officers Waylay Him Near His Home in the Woods and Handcuff Him.

Montreal, Aug. 19.—At large for the last twelve months, after having escaped from the asylum, Osias Beaudin, charged with having poisoned cattle belonging to Pierre Bourette, at the Caughnawaga Reserve, was arrested Thursday night at St. Annes de Dundee by High Constable St. Mars and Deputy Constable Cyr. The accused will be brought before the court of sessions Thursday for trial.

Beaudin, who was condemned to two years in the penitentiary, on the charge of having attempted to murder Chief Jocks, of the Indian reserve, in 1893, is declared by the police to be a desperate character.

When he was arrested for having tried to cut the chief's head open with an axe, he resisted strenuously, and it took three men to subdue him and prevent him killing those charged with taking him into custody.

The second time he was arrested on a charge of having poisoned his neighbor's cattle.

Thursday night, about 9.30, in order to prevent any bloodshed, the officers waited for the accused in the woods near his home at the side of the path where they knew he would pass, and they succeeded in putting the handcuffs on him before he could offer any resistance.

Had Revolver In Satchel.

Toronto, Aug. 19.—But for the timely intervention of Staff Inspector Geo. Kennedy yesterday morning, Morality Officer Thomas Bloodworth might have met death at the hands of a woman frenzied by the fancied retention of money which her husband has ceased to contribute for her support.

The woman, Mrs. W. D. Joyner, has called several times at the morality department office, demanding the money, only to be told that its payment had been discontinued. She left in a rage Thursday, threatening vengeance upon Bloodworth. She called again yesterday morning.

While she was talking to Bloodworth she opened her handbag and Staff Inspector Kennedy saw a revolver inside. He took it away from her and placed the woman under arrest so that doctors might decide whether she is sane. She was arraigned in the Police Court upon a charge of carrying concealed weapons and remanded a week.

MR. BORDEN'S WELCOME BY THE WOODSTOCK PEOPLE WARM ONE

He Gets a Remarkable Reception In One of the Government's Strongholds and Opera House Is Crowded—Strain on Leader's Voice Forces Him to Limit Speech to Half-Hour—Foster Bears Burden of Address.

Woodstock, Aug. 19.—Right into the heart of the traditional Liberal ridings of Oxford, R. L. Borden carried the war against reciprocity. Although the crowd which met him at the Grand Opera House last night was not as large as on the previous evenings of this week, the place was more than filled and many people were unable to obtain admission. In spirit and interest the audience would compare favorably with those at Chatham, Simcoe and London, and there was a fighting spirit manifested which gave great encouragement to the candidates.

Owing to the strain of his voice, the Conservative leader only spoke for half an hour, but Hon. Geo. E. Foster took up the cudgel for the Opposition cause, and lavished argument upon argument to an absorbing crowd. Mr. Foster was particularly severe on the method behind the reciprocity pact, and he declared that the sole desire of the United States was to estrange Canada from the Motherland.

"I stand for the Mother's markets," he shouted to approving applause, referring to Canada's export trade, and warned his hearers not to run into a contract which projects its shadow into the future for twenty years to come.

Mr. Borden was well supported on the platform. John Lindsay, president of the North Oxford Conservative Association, was chairman, and with him were Donald Sutherland, candidate for South Oxford; J. S. Wallace, candidate for North Oxford; J. H. Fisher, candidate for Brant. Over one thousand persons attended the meeting, and many of these were forced to stand through lack of room.

The dissolution of Parliament, with the [illegible] charges uninvestigated, Mr. Borden characterized as an absolute contempt of public opinion. The subterfuge offered by the Prime Minister, that the mind of the Government was always inclined to submit reciprocity to the people, lacked the essential element of truth. And Mr. Borden repeated his challenge to prove this to Sir Wilfrid on any platform. When the United States threw down the gauntlet to Canada in 1866, Canada had faith in herself and picked up the gauntlet, and had since accomplished a work in nation-building that had never been equalled in the world before.

"It is a most remarkable agreement," said Mr. Borden, "if it is to lower the cost of living to the laboring men on the one hand, and increase the price which the farmer receives for his products on the other." Mr. Borden regretted that many Liberal speakers had sought to raise class against class, interest against interest, "trying to instill into the minds of the farmer that man in industrial life is his enemy, that their is a divergence of interest between the two, that it will be the duty of the farmer to bring to an end protection of industrial interests.

Farmers Anti-Pact.

Markdale, Aug. 19.—At the largest and most enthusiastic convention in the history of the riding of East and Centre Grey, Dr. Sproule and Hon. I. B. Lucas received the unanimous nomination for the House of Commons and the Ontario Legislature respectively. No other names were brought before the convention.

Major Beattie Nominated.

London, Aug. 19.—Major Beattie was nominated last night by the Conservatives and John M. McEvoy by the Liberals as candidates in the coming election. Four others were placed before the Conservatives convention, including Wm. Gray, who ran against C. S. Hyman. All declined.

The nomination of Mr. McEvoy was made unanimous on motion of Dr. W. J. Stevenson, whose name also went before the convention.

REGISTER! REGISTER!

If your name is not on the voters' list you cannot vote. Every supporter of Mr. Burnham should make sure that his name is on the list in order to mark his ballot for the Conservative candidate.

If your name is not on the list you must register, at one of the registration booths on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week.

Every one 21 years of age, three months a resident of Peterborough, one year in the province and a British subject, born or naturalized, is entitled to vote.

The registration may decide the election. Your name should be on the list. If unable to call, communicate with Mr. Burnham's committee rooms, and have the business looked after.

MODERN PRAIRIE SCHOONER NOW CROSSING THE CONTINENT

TWO TYPES OF PRAIRIE SCHOONERS.

The type of the 1911 prairie schooner, now crossing the continent from Atlantic City to San Francisco, amazes old-timers. It bears an outward resemblance to vehicles used by the pioneers, but there the likeness ends. To compare the two types is laughable. The first automobile prairie schooner that has essayed to cross the American continent is now nearing the end of its journey, bringing up the rear of the transcontinental caravan of ten touring cars, driven by their owners and filled with families and friends, who are prominent New Yorkers and Philadelphians. It is used as a commissary and baggage car.

HORSE'S LEG SWELLED

Animal Was Too Sore and Lame to Work—Quickly Cured by "Nerviline."

"I have had a long experience in treating horses, and I can safely say that I know of no liniment for strains, sprains, and swelling that is as useful around the stable as Nerviline." Thus writes Mr. Joshua E. Murchison, from his home, Crofts Hill P. O. I had a fine young mare that wrenched her right fore leg, and from the shoulder down she was stiff, sore, and swollen. I applied Nerviline, and it worked like a charm; in fact, that mare was in shape to work a day after I used Nerviline.

Nerviline is a Trusty Liniment

"We have used Nerviline on our farm for twenty-five years and never found it wanting. For man or beast it is a wonderful liniment."

We have received nearly five thousand letters, recommending Nerviline as a general household liniment, as an all-round cure for aches and pains. One million bottles used each year. Try it yourself. Large bottles of Nerviline 50c; trial size, 25c. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

NERVILINE FOR MAN OR BEAST

The Daily Review

FRIDAY, AUG. 18, 1911.

LARGER MARKETS

The Christian Science Monitor of Boston saying New England is especially interested in the prospective compact, owing to her proximity to the older, more thickly settled and wealthiest section of the Dominion. As the result of the trade agreement, New England ports are anticipating increased export trade, New England manufacturers are expecting larger markets north of the line, New England consumers are preparing for diminished cost of food supplies from Canada.

WHO IS IT?

The Liberals in some quarters are fighting the "privilege" holders, the "interests." They are fighting "the great battle of the mass as against the classes, etc. Yet it is to be noted that Mr. Stratton says that if he thought for a moment that reciprocity would hurt the manufacturing interests,—that is, the classes whose scalps the Liberals say they are after—he would vote against the pact. Evidently Mr. Stratton and MacKenzie King and Sir Allen Aylesworth do not agree as to what effect reciprocity will have. Sir Allen Aylesworth dramatically declared in a speech at Newmarket that Liberalism was again engaged in a valiant struggle on behalf of the people against the Canadian protected interests, against the plutocrats, against the classes. Reciprocity will have the effect of seriously crippling these interests, these manufacturers, according to these cabinet ministers. Evidently Mr. Stratton has a whole lot to learn about the real effect in Canada of the reciprocity pact, or else he is bearing false witness to the workingmen in declaring that the manufacturing institutions are being left unharmed. Someone is a liar.

A DANGEROUS PACT

No Canadian voter can afford to ignore the fact that in the reciprocity pact, we are asked to lay ourselves open to the domination of the American business interests. We are but a small boy beside Uncle Sam, big though we sometimes think ourselves and we cannot, until we grow up to further equality with him, try to meet him on his own ground, and hope to hold our own.

Reciprocity is not merely a question of larger markets, and of better prices for the farmer. Reciprocity is not the policy that both parties in Canada have endorsed for forty years. Reciprocity will enable us to sell in the American markets if conditions favor the sending of Canadian produce to those markets in competition with the home grown stuff—But reciprocity also opens the Canadian market to the American goods. The Canadian market to-day is valuable, much more valuable than in 1891 or 1878. It is valuable because of the properity the continuation of the old National Policy in its essentials has brought. Yet we are asked to sacrifice a large part of the result of that policy to please President Taft and further his political game.

The workingman of Canada can ill afford to start on a game of throwing away the prosperity which he is enjoying. He must sit tight, and hold on to what he has got, for it is not helping but injuring the farmer to vote for reciprocity. It is destroying the stability and security of some industrial conditions on which the farmer is dependent very largely. It will make the Canadian market the football of the American food trusts, for if they can control and monopolise the food production for 90,000,000 people is it not absurd to say that with a free hand, they cannot extend their operations so as to control the market of only 8,000,000 people more? And is it not absurd to say that, apart from the United States food trust question, 2,000,000 Canadian farmers can batter 30,000,000 American farmers in a struggle of prices and production. Reciprocity simply means the amalgamation of our natural products market with that of the United States; with constant pressure to also amalgamate our industrial markets, and thus destroy our factories and shops.

Edward Porritt, an authority, and author of "Sixty Years of Protection in Canada" says, The American position has undergone no change since 1860. The United States has never varied from the position that if Canada desires reciprocity she must be willing to make concessions to American manufacturers." Seeing that the United States could not get the worm all at one gulp, President Taft has agreed to adopt the instalment plan. He is taking reciprocity in natural products now, and has prospects of getting the rest later on—that is, if Laurier goes back into power.

Perhaps there was never a more striking passage illustrating the difficulties of entangling alliances between nations of the comparative size and situation of the United States and Canada, and of their peculiar geographical situation, than the following passage from old Aesop, the Greek philosopher, the old sage whose writings have survived the test of centuries. Here is some wisdom to ponder over. Then do you want reciprocity?

"No alliance is safe which is made with those superior to us in power, though they lay themselves under the most strict and solemn ties at the opening of the congress, yet the first advantageous opportunity will tempt them to break the treaty; and they will never want specious pretences to furnish out their declarations of war. It is not easy to determine whether it is more stupid and ridiculous for a community to trust itself first in the hands of those that are more powerful than themselves, or to wonder afterwards that their confidence and credulity are abused and their properties invaded."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Winnipeg has one member for the House of Commons. At the recent Dominion election registration 28,000 names were put on the list. These are merely the new names. It is easily seen who was afraid of redistribution in the west.

Since Grey's Elegy is getting some attention from the campaign writers, how is this for a Sept. 21st prediction?

The curfew tolls the knell of Laurier,
The knowing herd finds safety up the tree;
The plowman homeward plods his gladsome way,
And leaves it all to Borden—and oui! oui!

SURPRISED THE GERMAN

Story Showing the Energy of a British Soldier

General Sir Reginald Pole-Carew relates the following story showing the energy of the British soldier. A German attache in the South African War was amazed at the spectacle of the British soldiers after a fight staggering into camp but rushing instantly after a football which was thrown on the veldt. The German attache said to the General, "Well, you are the most extraordinary people in the whole civilized world. I have been with your men all day: I know what they have done. I know they have had nothing to eat or drink, and I know of no other troops in the world that would not have been lying down asleep. If we could do this we could conquer the world."

Dr. Stuart Johnstone, father of St. Croix, who was drowned in Lake Michigan, has written protesting against a continuation of the aviation meet.

Canadian Nationality — In Double Harness

By ARTHUR HAWKES.

You cannot wisely consider Canadian nationality without keeping in the front of your mind the division of Canadians into those who couldn't help being Canadians and those who could—the native-born and the immigrant.

Don't be scared by the immigrant. It is bad for you and worse for him. And don't think you know all about the immigrant host and their country just because you hired a green Englishman from a city, who didn't know how to put a collar on a horse.

Perhaps you never saw a Doukhobor, or a Galician, or a Buckowinian, or a Ruthenian. Thousands of these people, scattered over the prairies are Canadian citizens just as much as you are, you lucky great-grandson or great-granddaughter of a United Empire Loyalist.

They will vote on Reciprocity two thousand miles from where you are. One of these days a full-blooded Doukhobor will sit in the House of Commons. I have an excellent friend in the Saskatchewan Legislature—a Ruthenian—who couldn't speak a word of English a few years ago. It isn't far, you know, from the Assembly to the Commons. The Chairman of the Licensing Commission of the Province of Saskatchewan is a German who came from the Fatherland to Minnesota, was naturalized and elected a senator, left Minnesota for Saskatchewan, and was naturalized again.

The largest place of public assembly in Port Arthur is owned by Icelanders. In Vancouver I could take you to a Chinese theatre where two performances daily are given. The Jap is almost as numerous as the Chinaman in the salmon fisheries of British Columbia. The Hindoo's turban has become a commonplace on the Pacific Coast.

Down in Nova Scotia travellers not infrequently hear people speak of going to Canada, when they mean another province in the confederation of which Nova Scotia has been a constituent for forty years. On the prairies you will find a foreign flag exalted. I had almost said worshipped, in uncounted homes. At Red Deer, in deference to foreign sentiment, they stopped singing songs in harmony with the flag that has these thousand years braved the battle and the breeze. Canadian nationality is marching in double harness, with these imported elements in the team.

I tell you Canada is infinitely more than an Ontario concession line, a little red school house and a Loyal Orange Lodge. What is to be done about the amazing medley of kindreds and tribes and tongues which I have hinted at, and for which the Bible Society prints the Scriptures in seventy different languages?

And, mind you, there is more than the differences of race and language between you and your fellow-citizen from the South of Europe who flourishes alongside the South Saskatchewan. He comes from a country you never saw to a country you have never seen, and he knows nothing of the distinctions of the country you inhabit. The prairie country and the mountains are apt to produce people different in their make-up from the dwellers in the east.

A high railway official who came east two years ago, had never seen apples growing on the trees. The non-English speaking people who have come to the country where he was born are twice as unfamiliar with the east as he was. It is something of a job in Canadian development to get all these people up there to live like you live, think like you think, and see things as you see them. And they are Canadians with full rights—citizens. Their children are the native-born, even as your children are. What do you think about it?

What ground can we line them up on so that they will stand where we stand, and be governed by the same well-springs of patriotism that move us? You perceive it must be broad ground on which to stand, and a big, high ideal at which to look. And don't forget this—the imagination of their children must be nurtured. How can anything be accomplished in face of the tremendous differences between them and us?

Somehow, soon, we have got to get all Canadian citizens thinking about the same thing. We have got to have a common ideal about our country—their country, speakers of broken English; owners, absolute owners of Canadian soil, that they are. They must be helped to become good Canadians.

But what is a good Canadian? Answer me this—What do you mean when you stand up and sing "God save the King"? The King is on the other side of the ocean, and you perhaps are a thousand miles from salt water. On the other side of the world people are singing "God save the King" exactly as you sing it. What have you to do with them? What have they to do with your Buckowinian fellow-citizen over on the Saskatchewan?

It is a mighty curious thing this Canadian nationality in the progress of which you have harnessed yourself with the crowd of aliens to your ideals who have come to the Dominion from all the corners of the earth. You are sure about your own Canadianism. But what about theirs? It is up to you; for you asked them to come in, you know.

Suppose you talk it over with those Scotch and English fellows of your acquaintance. And ask your Irish friend to talk about it.

No trace has been received of the fate of the 60 passengers from the wrecked steamer Fifeshire.

The Lash of Circumstance

— BY —

Harry Irving Greene

Author of "Yosonde of the Wilderness"

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

She picked it up, folded it carelessly and tossed it into a drawer of her secretary. "Very well, if you so wish it. But I shall not spend it, I shall keep it for luck. You once told me that I was an enchantress. We shall see. I am going to use all my black arts towards the conjuring of your fortune. With this magic cheque as a basis I shall work wonders." The smile she gave me as she closed the drawer was certainly that of an enchantress. She went on almost without pausing.

"You must have a few mouthfuls with me—nothing but coffee and sandwiches, you know. I was just about to order them when you spoke of going." I demurred perfunctorily, reiterating as the cause of my hesitation that it was becoming late. Her little jeweled clock was ticking somewhere back of me and I turned as if to note the hour. Quickly she slipped behind me and placed her fingers over my eyes, the delicious thrill of her touch electrified me. "Stay," she half whispered from her tiptoes, her lips close to my ear and the soft hair of her temple brushing my cheek. I sought to clasp her wrists, butt hey evaded me magically, and with a low laugh she ran to the wall and pressed an electric button. Janet appeared as though conjured from the air.

It was after midnight before we had finished. Through the moonlight I hurried homeward with a heart that sang like an aeolian. For the second time in my life I had kissed her upon the lips; not impassionedly as before, yet with enough warmth lurking beneath it to cause her to quickly break away from me. And most glorious of all, it had been done with her tacit consent. At least she must have known what was coming, for I had taken both her wrists with a deliberate air of proprietorship and quietly drawn her to me.

"You are beautiful—sweet and tempting beyond any queen. I salute you," I had said. She had made only a show of resistance in the beginning, yet when I displayed a disposition to prolong the embrace she ended it. Then, still retaining her clasp upon my finger ends, she had held herself at arms' length from me for a moment, the color of her cheeks blossoming into deeper richness, her eyes falling before mine.

"Oh, Tom! You must be a good boy and run home at once," she had pleaded, and I had obeyed, well satisfied with my achievement. Over and over in my recollection I fondled the delightful details of the occurrence until beneath my sheets my eyes closed in sleep. Even then my sub-consciousness took it up, and all in all I passed the night in a dream revel.

The few weeks which followed were lived in the most delightful mental exhilaration I had ever experienced. If paradise has joys beyond those of the young successful wooer and speculator, they are sensations inconceivable to the mortal mind. Love and gold were mine. Up, steadily up, mounted that blessed stock as a skilled mountain-climber arises, with never a slip backwards and never a cause for worriment on the part of the watchers. Usually my daily winnings ran into the hundreds. In a very little time my profits amounted to $10,000, and fifty thousand, yes, even a hundred thousand more, seemed but the matter of a few months. And who but a fool, given a hundred thousand, cannot achieve a million! I began to permit myself extravagances. More than ever I was with Mrs. Dace, and weekly my expenses in entertaining her soared. Automobiles took the place of carriages. For her birthday present I gave her a bracelet that cost $500. I even ventured in an offhand manner to speak to her about marriage and a dash around the world as a wedding trip. It was not a direct proposal, yet it was sufficiently unmasked to preclude her ignoring it. She caught me by the arm.

"You must not talk about such things, Tom, yet," she said quickly. "You are young, almost too young a man to marry, and are in the midst of piling up your fortune. Let that be your business, and your thoughts of love your recreation. I know of nothing so destructive to a man's financial interests as for him tho desert them for a honeymoon. Wedding trips and business are unmixable. If you would not have the one disillusioned and the other destroyed, keep them far apart. Love can wait its hour, but when fortune knocks upon the door we must be there to throw it wide. Perhaps in a year from now—" she paused and averted her cheeks.

"Perhaps in a year from now—what?" I cried eagerly. Her voice became very low.

"Nothing in particular. I was only about to say that if in a year from now you have not changed your mind and your business affairs are so grounded that you can leave them in safety for a period, it might then be proper for you to ask the fortunate lady."

"But a year seems a lifetime to one who loves her as I do. And she might become tired of waiting," I expostulated.

"Then I would not imagine that she had your best interests at heart, or that she would be a particularly desirable person to choose as a life companion. This is, of course, supposing that she understood the reason for the delay. This is my sisterly advice to you, having no idea, of course, who the charmer may be whom you have in mind." The wisdom of her advice seemed unanswerable, and I remained mute before it. My hand falling upon hers and clasping it longingly was my only reply.

It was the day following this that I met Bruce in his despair over his lost fortune, and it was the next night that Uncle Abner was robbed. I think everything of importance has now been told up to the time I drew LeDuc through the door after the departure of the police.

CHAPTER IX.

LeDuc was a medium-sized man, wiry of build and tough as whalebone. His eyes were restless and the faint smile which hung habitually about his lips was offset by a hawkish nose. I had known him ever since we had attended the same school as youths. Later on he had naturally gravitated into the service of one of the big detective agencies; had been successful on important cases with a uniformity that mere good luck could not account for, and having thus acquired a reputation had established an agency of his own. I had seen very little of him in the last ten years, but as boys we had been more or less chummy, the difference in our ages having been neutralized by the physical fact of my being considerably larger for my years than was he. I had admired him in those days for his remarkable agility and strength. As it is quality of brain matter which counts rather than quantity, so it is equally true of muscle. And while Billy was not especially powerfully made as far as appearances went, his muscles were like piano wire, and the bulk of his competitor in a physical contest was to him a matter of supreme disregard. Moreover, he was shrewd and pleasant to meet and a decent fellow withal, and our friendship had wended along smoothly until the inevitable separation of our life paths. As he had never called to see me before, it took no rare instinct on my part to divine that this visit was not a purely social one.

Dr. Courtney passed us in the hall on his way back to his office, and with a farewell salutation to him I led my old friend up to my private quarters. He seated himself and I gave him a cigar. No sooner had he got it burning to his satisfaction than he broached the subject of his visit.

"I have just heard that you have had a robbery of some consequence," he began. I assented with the remark that it was a beastly affair. LeDuc's eyes had always impressed me as having the alertness of a watching hawk's, and I now noted that they were flickering about the room as though searching for some lost article and apparently overlooking nothing. He continued:

"I don't suppose under the circumstances that it is necessary for me to state the object of my visit, although I presume I may as well do so. When I got wind of this affair it occurred to me that perhaps I might be of assistance to you professionally, and even if that were not the case that I would be glad to see you again on general principles. So I hurried right over. But now that we have shaken hands and looked each other over, I am anxious to know the particulars of this affair—thief catcher's instinct, you know. Mind telling me about it?"

"Not in the least. Glad you came," I returned heartily. Without further ado I briefly outlined the salient facts in the case as they had come under my observation. He then asked me a few questions as to who had possession of the keys, and such like, to which I gave him the same answers that I had the police. He listened quietly and without comment, and then expressed a wish to be introduced to Uncle Abner, whereupon I immediately took him to the adjoining room and made them acquainted. LeDuc settled down to business without delay.

NEW WARSHIPS.

Russia Will Enlarge Her Black Sea Fleet.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 19.—The Cabinet yesterday awarded the contracts for the construction of two battleships to be added to the Black Sea fleet to the Ivanoff Shipbuilding Co., which is a combine of six Russian metallurgical machine works. The work will be done under the direction of the English firm of John Brown & Co. Each ship will cost $9,771,085, to which will be added an expense of $4,347,146 for the armor and guns of each vessel.

The contract for a third battleship was awarded to private works at Nikolaev, under the technical direction of Vickers, Sons & Maxim. The cost will be $6,575,000.

The battleships will be of 23,000 tons and carry 13 12-inch guns. Their coal bunkers will be smaller than usual as their radius of action will be confined to Turkish waters.

Six submarines to cost $800,000 will be built by Baltic firms. The contract for nine torpedo boat destroyers were given, four to the Nikolaev Works and the others to Baltic firms. The destroyers will have a displacement of 1,060 tons and a speed of 35 knots an hour. They will cost $1,000,000 each. The keels of the battleships will be laid at Nikolaev next October and the plans call for their completion in four years. The Cabinet will submit to the Duma a bill appropriating an extra expenditure of $5,500,000 for the battleship program.

Would Boycott Chinese.

San Francisco, Aug. 19.—The International Typographical Union in convention here, passed a resolution yesterday expressing as the sense of the convention that all members of the union should refuse to patronize Chinese laundries, restaurants and other establishments. Local unions are ordered to assess fines for violation. This resolution was introduced by Delegate G. M. Sheldon of Lowell, Mass.

A proposal by Delegate Maxwell of Topeka, Kas., to take $100,000 from the old age pension fund, which is now $400,000, and use it for the erection of a permanent administration building in Indianapolis, was referred to the national executive council to be voted at the next general election.

Considerable damage has been done in southern Portugal by severe earthquakes, followed by a tidal wave.

"FEEBLE" STOMACH"

Causes Digestive Weakness and Poisons the Entire System.

"No one can have suffered more than I did with stomach trouble," writes Phil. E. Pascalar, well known at St. Andrews Corners. "My doctor told me my indigestion and sleeplessness were due to poisons in the blood. Certainly my condition was desperate, and it seemed from the despondent feelings that swept over me that I would lose my reason. I happened to read about Dr. Hamilton's Pills and bought five boxes from the druggist. Such body-cleansing pills I never used; they were mild and yet quite strong enough to drive all the humors out of the blood. My stomach gained strength rapidly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I improved so much that in eight weeks I could eat and digest all ordinary food. Depression and weariness passed away and I am, thanks to Dr. Hamilton's Pills, enjoying robust good health."

No remedy for biliousness, indigestion, headache, sick stomach, or constipation that compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse substitutes. Sold in 25c. boxes. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Extra pay in the naval service is to be eliminated as far as possible, on the ground that "a more generous scale of pay is provided in the naval service of Canada than in the imperial navy.

Order-in-Council has been passed increasing the pay of surveyors of block-out lines from $10 to $12 per day, "in view of the importance of the work and the hardships which these surveyors have to bear."

Detective Frank Fraser of St. Paul, Minn., was fatally shot in Minneapolis while arresting a well-known bandit. Fraser was a son of the late Duncan Fraser of the eighth concession of Cornwall Township, Ont.

The combination of pre-election festivities in Hull and pay-day at the Booth Mills had a rather novel effect on Wednesday night. Owing to so many of the employes not being sober enough to operate with safety the sawmill had to closed down.

IN HOME RIDING.

Sir Wilfrid Repeats Arguments of Three Rivers Meeting.

Quebec, Aug. 19.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier addressed the electors of his own division in Quebec East last evening, where he was escorted by a large number of party friends to the Jacques Cartier Market Square, where he addressed a crowd estimated at between 10,000 and 15,000 people.

Sir Wilfrid was accompanied on the stand by Sir Lomer Gouin, Premier of Quebec, and A. Taschereau, Minister of Public Works; Hon. J. C. Kaine, Hon. Mr. Devlin, A. G. Carrier, M.P., Levis; C. Blouin, M.P., Levis; D. Caron, M.P.; Eugene Leclerc, M.P.P., Quebec Centre, and many other members of both the federal and local Parliaments.

When Sir Wilfrid advanced to the front of the platform behind which was the motto: "Hommage de Quebec a Sir Wilfrid Laurier," he received another reception. In introducing the Dominion Premier, Mr. Letorneau said that they had assembled to meet the greatest statesman which Canada had ever produced.

Sir Wilfrid, in many respects, duplicated the speech which he had made on the previous afternoon in Three Rivers.

Touching reciprocity, he said the United States was one of the greatest nations in the world. Canada was one of the youngest. All governments had recognized the benefits to be gained by the Dominion through reciprocity, and under the new arrangement all classes would prosper. The working man as well as the capitalist were looked after by the Liberal Government, and the Opposition had proved obstructionists and had forced them to come before the masters of the situation, the electors.

Turning to the naval question, Sir Wilfrid said there were parties trying to overturn the Government on this issue. Much had been made of this by the Nationalists. Who were the Nationalists? A new party? Scratch a Nationalist and you find a Castor; Scratch a Castor and you find a Tory.

A Test Case.

Montreal, Aug. 19.—Judgment was rendered yesterday by Judge Leet in the case of Jules Gratton, a local labor leader, accused of intimidating workmen and preventing others from seeking employment during the progress of the carpenters' strike.

Gratton was condemned to five days in jail.

The judgment of the court is important as being a test case in which the whole business interests of the city are concerned as well as the labor unions who are following the matter.

Charlemagne Rodier, representing the accused, appealed the case, and Judge Leet will withhold the sentence till Tuesday pending appeal proceedings.

Struck an Iceberg.

Montreal, Aug. 19.—In connection with the report from Boston that the steamer Saturnia had struck an iceberg, the Robert Reford Co., Limited, agents of the Donaldson Line have received a marconigram from the steamship Saturnia that she ran into a ledge of an iceberg 184 miles east of Belle Isle. Damage was slight, and she proceeded on her voyage to Glasgow.

A later message says that all was going well. The steamer is due in Glasgow on Sunday night or Monday morning.

An Awful Place.

Montreal, Aug. 19.—The month of August so far has set a record for the number of accidental and violent deaths in Montreal and vicinity. Up to this time, over eighty cases of this kind have already been reported to the morgue.

RHEUMATISM AND COMMON SENSE

Father Morriscy's No. 7 Eliminates the Uric Acid.

Many treatments will relieve the aches and pains of rheumatism, but there is only one way to cure that dread disease. The common sense method is to remove the cause, and the effects will soon disappear.

Rheumatism is caused, as is well known, by the failure of the kidneys to perform their intended work of filtering the uric acid out of the blood and eliminating it from the body through the bladder. When the kidneys go on strike, the uric acid is carried to the joints and tissues, where it causes stiffening of the muscles, and the excruciating pains of rheumatism.

Father Morriscy, the learned priest-physician, after much research devised a prescription which would act directly on the kidneys, and by toning them up to vigorous action, cause them to clear the system of the uric acid. This remedy, known as No. 7, has been used successfully in thousands of cases.

Father Morriscy's Liniment will bring relief from the effects of rheumatism, while his No. 7 Tablets will get to work on the cause and in due time cure the disease.

Why suffer from this painful and troublesome affliction, when by using the common sense methods originated by Father Morriscy and successfully followed for years, it is possible to aid Nature to restore you to health?

If you are not yourself rheumatic, you doubtless know of some one who is, and who would be glad to learn of a treatment which has such a consistent record of cures. It is easy to take and sure to benefit and ultimately cure rheumatism. 50c. a box, at your dealer's, or from Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Ltd., Montreal, Que. 99

EVERY GENERAL STORE-KEEPER NEEDS "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

INKERMAN, ONT. Sept. 23rd, 1910

"I am in the General Store business and have been a resident of Inkerman for thirty-seven years. Since I started this store four years ago, I have found your remedy "Fruit-a-tives" the most satisfactory one I have sold. Many of my customers have used "Fruit-a-tives" with the most beneficial results and I know of two cases that have been completely cured of Dyspepsia.

I recommend "Fruit-a-tives" on every possible occasion and would say that if every general store keeper, who stocks medicine, would keep "Fruit-a-tives" prominently displayed, he would increase his business many fold"

"BARGAIN" GLASSES ARE DANGEROUS GLASSES

This Editorial in the Ladie's Home Journal gives timely warning against these "Eye Destroyers" advertised as "Exceptional Values."

A woman who was hunting "bargain glasses" finally succeeded in "fitting" her eyes with what she enthusiastically declares was "just the thing." And immensly pleased with herself, this woman had brought about the gravest danger a woman could invest in, for she had bought two pieces of glass crudely ground, but magnifying strongly, and with them she can see 'better to read'—That seeing better will mean an intense strain upon the her eyes, but she will not realize what the trouble is, nor the injury the glasses are doing. Some day she will be under the care of a Specialist, probably for the removal of a cataract, which will cost considerable, to say nothing of the suffering entailed, and she will be fortunate indeed if she does not suffer partial or entire loss of sight for the remainder of her life.

We have every qualification for giving your eyes a thorough examination. We fit you with the finest ground lenses, and at a very reasonable cost. Thousands of our citizens can certify to the care, skill and thoroughness of the examination, and the good results they had in wearing the glasses we prescribed. ALL WORK GUARANTEED

DOCTORS FAILED TO HELP HER

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pound, Wis.—"I am glad to announce that I have been cured of dyspepsia and female troubles by your medicine. I had been troubled with both for fourteen years and consulted different doctors, but failed to get any relief. After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier I can say I am a well woman. I can't find words to express my thanks for the good your medicine has done me. You may publish this if you wish."—Mrs. HERMAN SIETH, Pound, Wis.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

OBITUARY

The Late Thomas Jamieson

In the death of Mr. Thos. Jamieson, at the good old age of eighty-eight, which occurred at 6.30 this morning, at the residence of his son, Matthew Jamieson, 252 London street, the city lose one of its oldest and most highly respected citizens. The late gentleman had been ailing for the past eight months and death followed a general weakness due to his advanced age.

The late Mr. Jamieson was born in Ireland, in the year 1823 and emigrated to Canada in 1837. Settling in Cavan, he plied the shoe-making trade, for many years until he moved into Peterboro about forty-one years ago. Mr. Jamieson was a loyal Orangeman and took part in every Orange demonstration possible. In politics he was a Conservative. He attended the Anglican church.

A family of four daughters and two sons and his wife survive him namely, Mrs. Tennyson and Mrs. Craig of Toronto, Mrs. Mein of Picton, Ont. and Mrs. John Keenan of Peterboro, and the two sons, Matthew, of Peterboro and Robert, in the West.

There are also sixteen grand-children and seven great grand-children.

The funeral will be held at 2.30 Monday afternoon to Little Lake cemetery, conducted by Rev. Chas Carpenter.

Mrs. Jas. Coombs

Lindsay Warder—The death occurred early this morning of Elizabeth Smith, wife of the late Jas. Coombs. The deceased lady was a highly respected resident of the town of Lindsay for the past forty years or more and was widely known. She was 81 years of age and had been ailing but eight or nine days, death being due to natural causes. In religion the deceased lady was a member of the English church, and for years was an active worker. She was beloved by all who knew her and was admired because of her many sterling qualities. The late Mrs. Coombs was predeceased some seven years ago by her late husband and is survived by three daughters and one son, namely Mrs. Armsden, of Lindsay, Mrs. Cresswell of Peterboro, Mrs. Chart of Toronto; and Mr Geo. Coombs of Lindsay.

The late Mrs. Coombs was born in Ireland and came to Canada when very young along with two cousins. They landed at Port Perry and rowed from Port Perry to Lindsay and the deceased lady has resided in this town ever since.

TWO MISHAPS TO WORKMEN

One Man Taken to the Nicholls Hospital

Two minor accidents occurred at the C.G.E. works this morning, one employee had a finger smashed and another had a narrow escape when a piece of iron fell upon him. The former was taken to Nicholls Hospital in the ambulance, but the second man was driven home.

TO BE PRESENT AT THE FUNERAL

The following local men left this morning about 10.30 for Oshawa by auto to attend the funeral of the late Wilson Henderson, which takes place there to-day at 2.30. Mr. T. F. Matthews is representing the water commissioner. Mr. E. G. Patterson, F. R. Yokome, and T. F. Matthews.

MR. DILLON'S DENIAL.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—Mr. J. H. Burnham made the statement in your issue of yesterday that the Catholic Church, by the direction of Pope Pius X., has a secret vigilance committee in every diocese. Now, I challenge Mr. Burnham to prove his assertion. If he proves that there is such a committee in this diocese, not to mention others of which he has no knowledge whatsoever, I am willing to deposit $100.00 with any bank manager in this city, to be given to any charity Mr. Burnham may name, provided he deposits a like sum, to be given to any charity I may name, if he fails to do so. I am willing to allow one month from to-day for him to furnish his proofs.

His statement is false, and if Mr. Burnham is not an imbecile, he knows it to be false.

DENNIS DILLON.

SEXSMITH ALL THE WAY IN EAST PETERBOROUGH RIDING

Splendid Meeting Held at Blairton by the Conservative Candidate—The True Inwardness of Reciprocity is Explained.

(Havelock Standard.)

Reciprocity was the one great theme of interest at Mr. J. A. Sexsmith's open meeting at Blairton on Monday night, when a large and enthusiastic audience of ladies and electors vigorously applauded the sentiments of the different speakers.

Mr. Robert McQuaig officiated as chairman of the evening, and in speaking of the candidate, said that the people of Belmont were proud of him and of his splendid record in the House, and that the unanimous verdict in that section of the county, was that he would be returned as their representative again.

MR. JOS. KNOX.

Mr. Jos. Knox was the first speaker and gave a general resume of the conditions under which the present election would be conducted. He had at first been inclined to favor the reciprocity pact, but changed his mind later when he discovered from careful perusal of the trade agreement that it would be harmful in the extreme to Canadian interests. He referred to the many overtures of the Canadians to the States, all of which had been ignored in time of great need, and now that Canada was in such a splendid financial and progressive state, he did not think that we should sell our birthright.

He thought it the duty of every elector to get out and hustle for Mr. Sexsmith from the present to the day of election and to do everything in their power to elect him.

MR. J. A. SEXSMITH.

The candidate was received with hearty applause when he rose to address his fellow farmers. He referred to the great task and trials of his first Parliament, and said that he had tried faithfully to serve his country and constituency to the best of his ability. He had nothing to say against Mr. Kerr, but took up some of the arguments that gentlemen had advanced in favor of reciprocity and showed the electors how futile and empty were the statements made. He told his hearers that under the pact Canadians were asked to sell their products in open competition with the world and to buy necessities from a highly protective foreign market. The States, he asserted, has flourished like a green bay tree under one of the most highly protective policies in the world, and now by giving free trade in natural products, President Taft and his colleagues hope to gain an entrance into Canada and eventually control our markets.

He referred to England's free trade policy the only one in the world which he declared was put in force after that country had grown wealthy under protection, and which policy was causing great dissatisfaction today.

He quoted statistics in regard to the importation of butter, eggs and beef from New Zealand, Australia and the States, and proved to the satisfaction of the audience that those countries could ship in those articles of produce in spite of a heavy duty and sell them in Canada at a lower rate than that paid for the Canadian article.

He compared our meagre corn production with the immense corn production of the States, as the controlling factor against our hog and bacon trade.

The reciprocity pact, he said, was a most vital question to the Canadian people, yet the Government had given the Opposition no chance to fairly discuss the matter in the House, but had instead childishly cried "obstruction" whenever the pact was under discussion by the Conservative members.

The speaker referred to the Oliver graft charges, which the Government had effectually concealed by the sudden dissolution as the breaking of a solemn pledge and a disgrace to Canada.

Mr. Sexsmith then took up the horse market and showed from statistics that the average price of horses in Canada was $133.00, and in 11 States of the union, only $108.00 per head, and predicted that, with reciprocity in force, thousands of car loads of horses would be thrown on our Western markets.

He next took up the subject of barley which the Liberals declare will benefit greatly under reciprocity and showed that we could not hope for an increase in the price of that cereal.

He quoted Taft's "parting of the ways" speech, to prove that that astute statesman foresaw in reciprocity in reciprocity a great opportunity for the States. He referred to Canada's immense resources in timber, coal, wheat and pulp wood, which he asserted were greatly coveted by Uncle Sam who had been so wasteful of that country's own resources. He spoke of the strong feeling of annexation prevailing in the States. Also to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's speech at the Imperial Conference when he said that Canada did not want reciprocity, but instead closer Imperial trade relations and thanked high heaven that such was the case.

He asked the electors for their undivided support in the coming election if they thought that he had pursued the right course and had served them faithfully, and concluded amid cheers with the prophecy that in time to come all the colonies of the Empire would be joined in one great federation and the navy controlled by an Imperial Council.

MR. JAS. THOMPSON, M.L.A.

Mr. Thompson was heartily received, and he referred in the highest terms to Mr. Sexsmith's abilities in the House, and urged the electors and ladies to work for him and elect him—their neighbour and fellow farmer—and not a resident of West Peterboro. He then brought to the attention of his hearers the great trusts of the States which were such a curse to that country and if reciprocity passed he foresaw a repetition of the same in Canada. He stated emphatically that if the farmers favor reciprocity with the idea that they will be benefitted thereby, they will be the most bitterly disappointed class in the world. He pointed out to the ladies that the butter and eggs, which they look to now to supply luxuries and comforts to-day, under the trade pact would prove far less productive of such blessings. He said that for the past five years the prices of natural products in Canada were far higher than in the States. Right at Havelock, he said, farmers get from $1.00 to $1.25 more per cwt for their hogs than they could in the best markets over the line.

The meeting then broke up with hearty cheers for the King and the candidate.

S. A. BAND MADE FINE IMPRESSION AT THE FALLS

Fenelon People Liked the Work of This Clever Organization.

The Fenelon Falls Gazette has the following to say of the Salvation Army band:

The Peterborough band of the Salvation Army, under the able leadership of Bandmaster Wm. Peryer, was on Saturday and Sunday last the centre of attraction for Fenelon Falls music lovers, and especially those who like good band music. The Peterborough band demonstrated its ability not only to supply instrumental music of a very high order, but has among its members several excellent vocalists, who contributed to the generous program that was kept going morning, afternoon and evening and renewed on Monday morning when the band was leaving for home. The band is quite an interesting organization. All the members belong to the Salvation Army. The instruments were manufactured by the Salvation Army, and the Army also publishes all the selections used by the band. There are thirty-six members, thirty of whom were at the Falls on Sunday. The instruments, a new set, cost about $2,500. A junior band is being taught to play on the old instruments, which are still in good order. The city of Peterborough gives the band a grant of $150 annually as an encouragement. The band does not take engagements outside of the Army and other religious denominations. The proceeds of their visit here, and to other outposts, are devoted to the work of the Army, minus the bandsmen's railway fares. Nothing is allowed for the men's loss of wages by being absent from work, the men themselves losing the amount.

Mr. A. Bobn, who carried the big drum, and attracted a great deal of attention by his clever handling of the sticks, learned to play the drum in an orphans' home when six years of age. He has no rival in Canada, and probably very few anywhere. Among the other artists in the band might be mentioned Messrs. A. Sandford, the trombone player, and W. Pick, the snare drummer. The latter learned to play in the King's Own Royal Lancaster Regiment, and has travelled in India and Egypt.

CHAMPION GOTCH INSURES CHANCES

Has Taken Out Three Policies Totalling Many Thousands

Chicago, Aug 19— Frank Gotch, champion wrestler, has taken out three policies to insure himself against loss in his match with George Hackenschmidt on Labor Day.

The first is for $25,000 to protect the champion in the event of an accident. The second policy is for a like sum to insure the presence of Hackenschmidt in the ring.

The third is for $40,000 to insure the champion against loss in the pictures.

BASEBALL

The most apparent weakness of the Detroit Tigers lies at first base. Delahanty's leg is so bad that he is practically useless at the position. Drake will never do. Unless Gainor is able to get back into harness speedily the Jennings organization will continue on the down grade. Sam Crawford might relieve the situation, but Sam absolutely refuses to become an infielder. He declares that it interferes with his batting. Jennings was one for a big disappointment over the case of Gainor, whom Hughie expected to play at first base within a day or two. President Navin found it necessary to call a specialist to operate on Gainor's wrist, which healed improperly from a fracture. The experts declare that Gainor cannot possibly be fit for duty before Sept. 1.

BIG STRIKE IS SPREADING

this week. The best it expects to accomplish to-day is to sail the steamer Philadelphia out of Southampton and the steamer Minneapolis out of London. These vessels, however, were fully booked up long ago, and consequently their sailing will not help to diminish the number of stranded Americans in England.

The steamship combine is advancing the dates of sailings of its boats as far as possible to try to get the Americans home.

Riot In Birmingham.

Birmingham, Eng., Aug. 19.—Again last night there was a sharp conflict when several wagons loaded with meat were being driven from the depot to the wholesale market under an escort of police and soldiers. The mob attacked the cavalcade and was driven off and dispersed, but not until there had been a free use of truncheons by the police.

Police Guard Stations.

Swansea, Wales, Aug. 19.—Railway traffic here is at a standstill. The four stations are closed and the police are guarding them. Many factories are shutting down owing to a lack of fuel.

Dockers' Strike Settled.

London, Aug. 19—The strike of dockmen, coal porters and carmen, which began here August 1 and resulted in a dislocation of trade, almost famine conditions and rioting for nearly two weeks, was finally settled last night. The strike was called off August 11 under the promise that the differences between the men and the shipowners should be arbitrated.

The chief points of the agreement reached are that the men may be engaged for work outside the dock premises, and that any differences which may arise shall be referred to John Burns for an arbitrator, appointed by the President of the Local Government Board.

WILKIE INQUEST ADJOURNED.

Witnesses Tell of Slayer's Brutality to His Wife.

Toronto, Aug. 19.—So uncertain was the evidence given by witnesses at the inquest yesterday afternoon on the body of Mrs. Ellen Wilkie, that the enquiry was adjourned until Wednesday, Aug. 23, to enable the crown to get the facts straightened out.

Mrs. Wilkie died at 234 Claremont street on Mnoday night, and it is alleged that death was caused by her husband, who is facing a charge of murder.

Wilkie and Frank Perry, who is included in the charge of murder were present in the court room.

Mrs. Mary Jane Bryant, who lives on the first floor of the house in Claremont street, was the first witness. She told of seeing Mr. and Mrs. Wilkie fighting. Mrs. Wilkie was on the floor in the passage and Wilkie was beating her with his fist, on the side of the head, while Mrs. Wilkie was grasping her husband's leg. Witness succeeded in separating them and then Mrs. Wilkie fainted.

In continuing, the witness was unable to give a clear account of what happened, and as she complained that she was "all unstrung," the coroner excused her for the time being.

Cecilia Bryant, daughter of the previous witness, described several fights which occurred during the evening, between the Wilkies, but as, in repetition, she gave contradictory accounts of the incidents, the coroner decided to adjourn the case.

Amendment to Treaty.

Washington, Aug. 19.—In the executive session of the Senate yesterday, Senator Root of New York presented an amendment to the arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France in the nature of a declaration so constructing the treaties as to render them inapplicable to questions arising under the Munroe doctrine. Heretofore Senator Root has opposed amendments to the treaties, maintaining that they were sufficiently safeguarded. He made no explanation of his reasons for introducing the amendment. There is no probability that the treaties will be acted upon during the present session.

Must Make Restitution.

Toronto, Aug. 19.—Louis Herling was yesterday afternoon found guilty before Judge Denton of stealing a gold watch and chain, a locket and a pencil-holder from Solomon Mayers, which he had said he would sell for him. They were in partnership in business ,and there were debts in connection with the business. Restitution has been offered for the watch and chain, but Judge Denton has given the prisoner three weeks to clear all the debts before he will sentence him.

W. J. and George Farrell were remanded for a week till Detective Wallace returns from his holidays. They are charged with assaulting him.

Ran Off the Track.

Montreal, Aug. 19.—C.P.R. train No. 15, westward bound from Halifax to Montreal, and due here at 8.30 yesterday morning, was three and a half hours late, owing to three coaches leaving the track at Trudel, ten miles east of Megantic.

Several of the passengers were rather severely shaken up and bruised.

Youth Shanghaied.

New York, Aug. 19.—A dramatic tale of the sea was told in Police Court here yesterday by George Allen, aged 16, of Sioux City, Iowa, who was charged with being a vagrant. Allen claimed that after his arrival in New York six weeks ago he was asked by a foreigner, whom he met casually, to take a ride in a launch. With thirty-nine other men, most of whom were Italians, he said the launch sailed down the bay and put all hands on board a steamer bound for Porto Rico.

When they attempted to enter the launch again, he claims, they were driven below at the point of a revolver. For the next six weeks, he says, they had to work the vessel to and from Porto Rico, after which he was sent ashore penniless. He also claims that all of his clothing had been stolen while he was on the boat.

Allen was released in the custody of an agent of the Children's Society.

George Will Found.

Kingston, Aug. 19.—Although the report is denied by lawyers interested in the case, it is reported that the will of the late Joseph George was found in his old home, which is being overhauled. It is stated that plumbers found the will stuffed in some of the pipes. The will could not be found when George died, a year ago, and the grave was opened in search of it. Recently a case was fought out in the high court over the will, the estate involving the sum of $40,000, which was divided between his wife, Albert Cottenden of Toronto, his son, and other relatives.

Atwood's Flight Continues.

Swanville, Pa., Aug. 19.—What he called one jump brought Harry N. Atwood, the aviator, from Cleveland, Ohio, to Swanville, Pa., yesterday afternoon and landed him 84 miles nearer his destination in his picturesque aeroplane flight from St. Louis to New York. Atwood was to have gone on to Erie but a lack of gasolnie forced him to land here eleven miles west of Erie. He came down without accident and glided into a cornfield in the twilight, his biplane being moored beneath the trees on the lake shore.

Catarrhal Deafness

Successfully Treated By

Catarrhozone

Deafness is not so common as blindness, yet thousands are more or less afflicted by it, and their comfort seriously interfered with.

Catarrhal deafness manifests itself but slowly, yet it must be acknowledged that the great majority of those who become totally deaf might have averted this unfortunate condition if they had treated the catarrhal inflammation at its beginning.

The only remedy that can be safely employed for all forms of catarrhal deafness is Catarrhozone. You simply charge the air you breathe with this healing, soothing agent, and by forcing it gently through the ears destroy the germ life which keeps up the inflammation, and at the same time by the soothing, healing action it heals the inflamed surfaces of the middle ear.

CATARRHOZONE, to those who are just a little deaf, and are growing increasingly deaf, is an agent capable of affording the utmost satisfaction, and its use is attended without danger, and as the treatment can be carried on at home no person threatened with the affliction of deafness should postpone one moment in beginning its use.

From every part of the Dominion glowing accounts of the beneficial action it exerts upon catarrhal conditions of the middle ear have been sent in, and you will be resorting to the only method of cure, and the simplest method too, if you try Catarrhozone. Dealers everywhere sell it, 25c, 50c, and $1.00. By mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

MEAN TRICK ON GUELPH MAN

Unknown Person Cut Part of His Moustache

Guelph, Aug. 19.—Mr. W. J. J. Burns, of this city, holds the unique record of possessing the longest moustache of any man in Canada.

Mr. Burns is much incensed at a piece of vandalism which occurred while he was a passenger on a G.T.R. train from Toronto to Guelph. He had been visiting in Toronto and was returning home, when some vandal in the passenger coach, which was crowded, snipped a few inches from one side of his moustache with a pair of scissors.

Mr. Burns, who is justly proud of his moustache, which measures 14 inches across, and which, he could fold over his ears, is very indignant and if he can find the party guilty of the offence, will prosecute him.

Owing to the crowd in the car at the time it was impossible for Mr. Burns to identify the offender. He has placed the matter in the hands of the police.

Nervous Condition

RESULTS FROM KIDNEY TROUBLE

Sick kidneys make you feel sick in a number of ways and it is now known that a nervous condition often results from kidney trouble. When the kidneys are sick the whole nervous system becomes irritated, causing headache, dizzy spells, fits of "blues," neuralgic attacks, rheumatic pains, weak eyesight, dull, tired days, and a constant inclination to worry over trifles.

BRITISH FLEET IS A GUARANTEE

Lord Charles Beresford's View of Peace

New York, Aug. 17.—Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, left New York early to-day for a cruise up the Great Lakes to Fort William, and across Canada to Vancouver. He arrived in New York yesterday on the Olympic. His cruise will be made aboard the Duke of Sutherland's yacht Catania, which will carry him up the New England coast to St. Andrew's, N.B., Quebec, Montreal and thence westward.

Before leaving New York the admiral said—"The English-speaking nations should organize to maintain the peace of the world. You cannot afford to try to maintain peace on sentimental grounds. The peace of Europe depends on British fleets sufficient and efficient. There should be no arrogance about it, but a nation must be strong to be respected. No weak thing ever is respected."

BEAUTIFUL EYES

are made beautiful by long, silky lashes, and well defined, lustrous brows. Eyes, like diamonds, depend on their setting. The beauties of the face are lost if the eye brows are thin and scanty; and the lashes are short and lifeless. Parisian Lash Lustre grows beautiful, soft, silky lashes. It has done so for society women throughout Europe, and it comes here well recommended to do the same for you. Parisian Lash Lustre is not a dye or colorator, but a scientific preparation for beautifying the eye lashes and brows. Our guarantee goes with every box of Parisian Lash Lustre. A two weeks' treatment will bring beauty to your eyes that you have never before possessed. By mail, prepaid, in opal boxes, on receipt of price, fifty cents. B. V. THE BEGINNING OF THE END

How the Reciprocity Compact Would Break Down the British Preference.

For the past thirteen years Canadian trade has been carried on on the basis of Preferential duties in favour of Great Britain. In 1898 a preference or a reduction of duties to the extent of 25 per cent. was extended by Canada to the United Kingdom, and in the year 1900 this preference was increased from 25 to 33⅓ per cent. The existing Canadian tariff, (that of 1907) while it does not every where grant a preferential duty of exactly 33 1-3 per cent., has a schedule of duties which vary from article to article, but in which the general principle of the reduction of duty by one third, in favour of Great Britain, has been observed.

This sytem since its first establishment has met with universal approval, It was supposed to carry with it the assertion that henceforth the Dominion of Canada proposed to unite itself in special trade relations with the British Iles, and to cut itself free from any entangling alliances, in the commercial sense, with countries outside of the British Empire. Preference in fact, was looked upon as the negation of Reciprocity.

The system met with a general approval, for the reason that its economic basis was perfectly sound. It was felt on all sides that the time was still far distant when the Dominion and Great Britain could be on terms of absolute free trade with one another. Canada could not afford to dispense with its manufacturing and industrial system, which had been built up with so much pains and effort, and the effect of which is seen in the growing wealth of our cities, and in the general prosperity of our country. In as much as the costs of manufacture, owing to low wages, are very much less in Great Britain than they are in Canada, it was felt to be unfair to ask the Canadian manufacturer to stand in competition, on even terms, with the British producer whose business could be carried on at a very much lower cost. The safeguarding of home industries therefore, and the creation of what could properly be called a national system was recognized as the cardinal principle of Canadian trade policy.

At the same time it is necessary and desirable that Canada should obtain from outside a great number of things which either cannot be supplied at all by its home production, or cannot be supplied in sufficient quantities to satisfy the entire demand. Therefore, since Canada is obliged to buy from our fellow citizens of the other parts of the British Empire. Every well made bargain brings a double benefit. There is a profit for the buyer, and a profit for the seller. If both halfs of the bargain are made within the British Empire, then the whole profit of the bargain stays within the Empire, hence the establishment of preferential duties represents properly speaking, the desire of Canadians to encourage their own manufacture as necessary to establish and keep among us the great essential industries which every well equipped nation must have, and for its purchases from outside, to encourage the citizens of Canada to deal with the British Empire rather than with the forigner.

If this policy is not sound, then the sooner it is done away with the better. The reciprocity compact would certainly have this effect, and if the preferential system under which we have now been trading for thirteen years has been a national error, reciprocity may be welcomed as a first step in another direction. But if on the other hand, the Preferential System rests upon a sound, national, and imperial basis, then, the Reciprocity Compact can only be regarded as a dangerous interference with one of the main supports of our present imperial system.

There can be but little doubt as to the facts of the question. In the first place, the reciprocity compact admits practically the whole range of natural products of duty, both from the United States and Great Britain, into the Canadian market. Until now a duty had to be paid on imports of this class from Great Britain, but a still higher duty was paid on imports coming from the United States. Hence although the British exporter can now send in goods of this class free of duty, he no longer finds himself in a favoured position as compared with his American rival. It is an open business question whether it is not better to be compelled to pay a duty and to have one's rival pay a still higher one, then to find oneself placed on a footing of absolute equality. It is true that the bulk of natural products imported into Canada come from the United States but it is an error to suppose hat there is no such import to our market from Great Britain. The statistics given by the Canadian government show an import of natural products from the United States included under the first schedule of the reciprocity compact for the year 1910 of the value of $32,912,823. But the imports of this class from the United Kingdom for the same year amounted to $6,394,638.

Moreover there is another part of the Reciprocity Compact which lowers duties in favour of the United States and the twelve favored nations without entirely removing them.

In this case the British duty stays exactly where it is, or if the proposed reciprocal rate is lower, it is brought down to that level. In these cases therefore the preferential advantage is either considerably lessened or even disappears altogether. The following table will show at a glance the way in which the preference suffers by the lowering of duties in favour of the United States, quite apart from the cases where both the American and British products are put upon the free list.

GARDEN OF CANADA.

Niagara Alone Can Supply the Whole of Canada with Fruit.

There are in the Niagara Peninsula about 350 square miles of land on which fruit can be well grown, not counting such districts as Ancaster and Dundas. Between Toronto and Hamilton there is another 100 square miles; in all at least 288,000 acres.

Not all of this is peach land, not even probably 20 per cent. of it. But very little of it is of no use for any fruit. Much can be made fine peach land by drainage, or good apple, plum or grape land; some is only good for berries, but all of it is in a good fruit climate. The unplanted land is waiting to double or quadruple in value, whenever the market demands more fruit.

It may be assumed that the value of this land for general farming is not over $100 per acre, and that for fruit purposes it is worth $500 per acre; although much of the peach land is worth $1,000 per acre; and that where is has to be drained, draining will average about $30 per acre.

It can further be stated that peach land at $1,000 per acre is known to pay a good return on the investment in the hands of practical growers. If we take the very low estimate of 1,000 00 acres planted at $500 per acre we have a value of $50,000,000 for the orchard and berry lands.

Now as our home market grows, and in our home market we have no competition, every acre of this 288,000 has potentially the same value, and fully half is unplanted.

There are in Canada about 8,000,000 people, the United States claim 92,000,000. However that may be, our present soft fruit acreage is fully equal to supplying Canada. It is safe to say there is not over 12,000 acres of peaches in Eastern Canada. If this supplies 8,000,000 people it would take 150,000 acres to supply 92,000,000 people, but there are 150,000 acres of peaches in Georgia alone.

Vetoed Farmers' Free List.

Washington, D.C., Aug. 19.—A message from President Taft, vetoing the so-called Farmers' Free List bill was read in the House yesterday afternoon. The President declared that the bill was so carelessly drawn that it was uncertain just what articles were covered by it.

Chairman Underwood, of the Finance Committee, proposed that the House pass the bill anew over the President's veto and a roll-call began. The House failed to give the two-thirds' vote necessary for the adoption of the measure, the vote being 226 for the bill to 127 contrary.

Italians White Slavers?

Toronto, Aug. 19.—The police are still investigating the white slave traffic among the Italians, the suspicion of which was aroused by the disclosures following the shooting of Tarro by Griro. Among the letters found on one of the Italians of the seven arrested a week ago is a letter from Cobalt asking that more girls be sent up there.

The eight Italian men and two women arrested and believed to be implicated in the Black Hand organization were remanded a week in the Police Court yesterday.

IT TELLS ABOUT THE SANE HEATING OF HOMES

"Comfort & Health" tells about a heating system.

It goes into the question of healthful heating and shows how important a part the furnace plays in the health of your family.

It explains the principle of warm air heating; how the furnace draws in fresh air, warms it and circulates it moist and pure to every room in the house.

Then it tells about the perfect warm air furnace—the "Hecla." The furnace that cannot leak gas. The furnace that gives heat without dust. The furnace that is easy to run, and what is more important, how that furnace—The "Hecla"—saves you one ton of coal in seven.

"Hecla" Furnace

Cannot Leak Gas

Gas in the house is disagreeable. Often it proves dangerous to the health. The "Hecla" is so constructed that gas cannot get into the living rooms. The places where gas leaks occur in the ordinary furnace are fused in the "Hecla" so that gas cannot possibly find an outlet.

Saves 1 Ton in 7

The "Hecla" uses only six tons of coal where others use seven. It is the steel ribbed fire pot that makes this saving. How flanges are of steel plate placed close together and welded into the fire pot get more heat from your coal is told in "Comfort & Health."

THE CONSERVATIVE PLATFORM

The Liberal-Conservative party, through its leader, Mr. R. L. Borden, gives its pledge to carry out the following policy if returned to power;—

"1 A thorough reorganization of the method by which public expenditure is supervised. The increase in what is known as ordinary controllable expenditure from $21,500,000 in 1896, to nearly $74,000,000 in 1911, is proof of extravagance beyond any possible denial.

"2. The granting of their natural resources to the Prairie Provinces.

"3. The construction of the Hudson Bay Railway, and its operation by independent commission.

"4 The control and operation by the State of the terminal elevators.

"5 The necessary encouragement for establishing and carrying on the chilled meat industry.

"6 The establishment of a permanent tariff commission.

"7 The granting of substantial assistance towards the improvement of our public highways.

"8 The extension of free rural mail delivery.

"9 The extension of civil service reform.

"10 The granting of liberal assistance to the provinces for the purpose of supplementing and extending the work of agricultural education and for the improvement of agriculture.

"And, lastly, it pledges itself to a course of policy and administration which will maintain independent and unimpaired the control of our own affairs by the Parliament of Canada; a policy which, while affording no just cause of complaint to any foreign nation, will find its highest ideal in the autonomous development of Canada as a nation within the British Empire."

The award of the arbitrators is satisfactory to the government.

THREE YEAR OLD CHILD FELL INTO TUB OF BOILING WATER

Was Son of Former Peterborough Lady Well Known Here.

Mrs. William Madill received this week word from her niece, Mrs. Somerville, of Chicago, telling of a shocking accident resulting in the death of the latter's three-year-old son, by falling into a tub of boiling water last Thursday in Chicago.

The little fellow was so dreadfully scalded that death ensued shortly after.

Mrs Somerville formerly was organist in the Murray street Baptist church here about seven years ago and will be well remembered.

SIDESTEPPING THE QUESTION

The following letter appears in the Orange Sentinel, written by Mr. J. H. Burnham, of this city:

To the Editor of the Sentinel: "The Toronto News' masterly exposure of the Dominion Government's last surrender to the Church of Rome must create general alarm throughout Canada. The government has actually declared that it has no power to validate, or, in other words, control, the law of marriage. The News shows that in case of bigamy and criminal matters affecting marriage, it certainly has.

This furnishes at once an answer that makes the Government appear ridiculous and cowardly. No one denies the Minister of Justice's statement that the provinces alone have the right to say who can "solemnize" marriage in the provinces. But what about all the rest of it? Solemnizing matrimony is but a small part of the whole affair. Who has the power to take up a case of marriage where the "solemnizer" has erred or been a crook? The provinces have no power in that case. It is the Dominion only, and everybody who ever read the B.N.A. Act knows that this is laid down beyond the possibility of mistake.

But here is where the Church of Rome steps in. She says that she alone possesses the power to really marry people or to validate or invalidate a marriage. And the Dominion Government, when asked upon the point, fails utterly to assert the supremacy of the State in respect to this matter! It has quailed before the Church of Rome and its claims. The Church says we may contract, but not marry, and that the Church alone can administer this sacrament. The question then, at once arises? Are we as the Church of Rome says, or are we not? Are we really married or are we not?

And in this most vital point of life, liberty and virtue the Laurier Government has quailed before the Church and left the people to fight their battles for freedom all over again.

Never mind. We will do it. Let the Church govern herself, and let the State govern itself. The State does not interfere with the Church, and I am persuaded that the people will see that the Church shall not interfere with the State.

It is all so new that the people have not yet digested the Pope's recent decrees, but when they do it will be found that they will allow no government, Grit or Tory, to surrender their liberties to party exigencies.

What, pray, is there to prevent a government's saying that it will take instant steps to remove its doubts of control in so vital an affair as marriage, if it were not afraid to raise the very question of secular control itself, in the face of the Church's protest? Will the provinces sidestep their little part also?

Yours, etc.,
J. H. BURNHAM.
Peterborough.

GOOD MARKET

Potatoes Were Scarce and High Priced

Things were looking up at the regular Saturday morning market to-day. Plenty of produce was on hand, including all the season's offerings. The attendance also was large. The feature of the market was the high price of potatoes, only $1.50 and $1.75 per bag being demanded. "Pretty high, are they not," asked a Review man. "They certainly are," was the reply.

Apples looked good at 20 cts. a peck.

The inner market was crowded. All kinds of dairy produce was in abundance. Chickens were quite numerous.

The following were some of the day's quotations:

Butter—25 cents.
Eggs—19 and 20 cents.
Chickens—75c and $1 per pair.
Potatoes—$1.50 and $1.75 per bag.
Apples—20 cents a peck
Tomatoes—35c per basket.
Hay $10 a load

SEVEN YEARS PAIN FROM ACUTE NEURALGIA

Cured Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Neuralgia is not a disease—it is only a symptom. It is the surest sign that your blood is weak, watery and impure, and that your nerves are literally starving. Bad blood is the one cause—good, rich, red blood its only cure. There you have the real reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure neuralgia. They are the only medicine that contains, in correct proportions, the very elements needed to make new, rich, red blood. This alone reaches the root of the trouble, soothes the jangled nerves, and drives away the nagging, stabbing pain, and brace up your health in other ways. Mr M. Brennan, an ex-sergeant of the 2nd Cheshire Regiment, now a resident of Winnipeg, Man., says: "While serving with my regiment in India, on a hill station, I contracted a severe cold, which brought on acute neuralgia, at times lasting for three weeks. I was constantly suffering almost every month in the year for over seven years, the pain being sometimes so severe that I wished I was dead. On my return to England I seemed to get no better, though I spent large sums of money for medical advice and medicine. Then I came to Canada, and about a year ago saw the advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in a Winnipeg paper. Although I had begun to think my complaint was incurable I told my wife that I intended giving the Pills a fair trial. I was suffering from terrible pains when I began taking the Pills, but before the second box was finished the pain began to disappear, and under the pain began to disappear, and under a further use of the Pills it disappeared entirely, and I have not had a twinge of it during the past year. Only those who have been afflicted with the terrible pains of neuralgia can tell what a blessing Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been to me, and you may be sure I shall constantly recommend them to other sufferers."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FIRST CAR OVER CROW'S NEST PASS

The tremendous progress being made by the manufacturers of automobiles in perfecting the construction of their machines to meet the roughest and most difficult road conditions has again been forcibly illustrated by the trip from Calgary, Alta., to Cranbrook, B.C., made July 10th, 11th, 1911 in an "Everitt" Touring Car, the property of Mr. R. H. Bohart of Wardner B.C., and driven by W. H. Elmert.

The route traversed leads through Macleod, Pincher Creek, Crow's Nest, Fernie, Elko, Wardner and Cranbrook and comprises 323 miles of assorted road including mud, rock and corduroy. The consumption of gasoline was 25 gallons, or one gallon to every 13 miles, of oil 3 1-2 gallon, while the total running time of 19 hours for the entire distance completes the record of a most remarkable run.

The car in this case was an all Canadian Everitt, made in Orillia, Ont., by the Tudhope Motor Co., and rated at 30 horse power. The fact that no tire troubles were experienced shows the excellence of the Canadian product, with which all Tudhope cars are supplied. In speaking of this tour, Mr. S. H. Roe, Manager of the Calgary agency of the Everitt, says—

"This is the first car that ever went over the pass on its own power. Two others got across, but had to be towed over the summit with teams. With due consideration of the fact that these cars are rated as of much greater horse-power, the showing made on this occasion is sufficient to convince any fair-minded person that in the Everitt we have a car that is thoroughly reliable, with plenty of power for work in a mountainous district, one that is simple and economical of operation, both as to tire wear and consumption of gasoline and oil, and, when price is considered, the superior of any car on the market."

ORILLIA GETTING LINDSAY CONCERN

Report Says Plant Will be Removed to Orillia

According to a report from Orillia, the Tudhope-Anderson Co. has taken over the Sylvester works at Lindsay. The Orillia Packet has the following to say regarding the deal:

The Tudhope-Anderson Co. has within the past few days acquired control of the well known Sylvester Agricultural Works at Lindsay. Ultimately it is the intention to remove the plant to Orillia, and to do the manufacturing in the large factory now in course of erection here. The Sylvester Co. has made what is generally conceded to be the best drill on the market, and the Tudhope-Anderson Co. acquires all the patents and right of manufacture. They will also continue to produce the Sylvester cultivator. The Tudhope-Anderson Co has been selling Sylvester drills and cultivators in the west some years. The company has recently got into financial difficulties, and several efforts to place the concern upon a better basis having failed, the Orillia company has bought them out, in order to secure control of their drills and cultivators, for which there is a strong demand in the west.

You here a lot of nice things about our Fall Suits and Overcoats. We might say they were perfect in style, best in quality, and best to buy. All of which would be the truth. But it would be far better for you—and us for you to come to this store and see with your own eyes how they look and fit, and judge for yourself if they are best for you to buy. BUY later, if you want to, but LOOK NOW.

P.S.—One word about the balance of our Summer Clothing and Furnishings. For the balance of August we will positively clear out all at greatly reduced prices, in order to make the necessary room for Fall Goods shipments daily.

ENGLISH STRIKE SETTLED; BASIS OF AGREEMENT IS REACHED; MEN TRIUMPH

Great Tie-up is Averted—Killing of Strikers Had Influence in Helping Lloyd George Get the Compromise Through.

London, Aug. 21.—A great wave of relief swept over the country Saturday night, when, after 11 o'clock, the announcement was made from the Board of Trade offices that the railway strike had been settled and that the men would return to work immediately.

Telegrams were quickly despatched to all important railroad towns bearing the information, and crossed in transit messages to London describing strike riots in Llanelly and smaller towns in the kingdom.

Most of the credit for the settlement appears to rest upon the shoulders of David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who, in his statements to Parliament and in interviews with the managers and the men, worked for conciliation, when all others of the interested parties seemed to have given it up.

A joint committee of five members, composed of two representatives of the railway companies, two of the men and a non-partisan chairman, will be appointed Tuesday to investigate the workings of the Conciliation Act of 1907, which the men claim is the root of all their grievances. This device overcomes the men's objection to a royal commission, which they contend always has been in practice a synonym for delay.

So far as technical advantage in the compromise goes, it appears to be in the men's favor, particularly as the managers' consent to meet their representatives. The official statement concerning the agreement says the managers consented to this scheme in view of certain representations made them by the Government, including a promise of legislation to permit of an increase in railway rates. The men claim a victory for unionism on the point of recognition of unions, which was one of the most vital principles at stake.

Messages were sent to 1,800 branches of the labor unions Saturday night, saying:

"The joint committee has settled the strike. It is a victory for trade unionism. All men must return to work immediately."

As a result of the settlement the soldiers who had been scattered at strategical railways points about the country will be withdrawn as fast as arrangements for transporting them can be made.

There is no doubt that Saturday's affair at Llanelly, Wales, where troops fired on a mob, killing two men and wounding two others, had much influence in ending the strike, as it depends on the working classes for its power. The shooting of citizens by soldiers occurs less often in the United Kingdom than in any other European country, and is particularly repugnant to all classes.

The settlement was reached at a conference between David Lloyd-George, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and the executives of the men's societies.

Premier Asquith returned to London Saturday afternoon from the country, where he had expected to stay over Sunday, and his secretary made constant trips to the conference at the Board of Trade and headquarters of the railway magnates.

At the conclusion of the conference the official statement was issued:

"The action on representations made to the railway companies by the Government, they Saturday empowered Mr. Claughton and Sir Guy Granet, general manager of the Midland Railway, to confer on their behalf with representatives selected by the joint executives of the trades unions and railway employes, with a view to discussing with them the suggested terms of settlement drafted by the Board of Trade."

There were present at the conference G. H. Claughton, director of the L.N.W. Railway, and Sir Guy Granet, on behalf of the companies; James H. Thomas, M.P., and Messrs. Bellamy, Williams, Fox, Lowth and Charlton on behalf of the men, and Mr. Lloyd-George, Sir H. L. Smith and G. K. Oskwith, on behalf of the Board of Trade. Ramsay Macdonald, M.P., also was present during the conference.

The railroad men throughout the kingdom are returning to work and it is hoped within a few days to have the great transit systems working under normal conditions.

Following the announcement Saturday night that the railway managers and their employes had agreed to permit a commission to settle their difficulties came the reassuring news that there was great hope of ending the dockers' strike at Liverpool and that the workers there shortly would resume their duties.

No rioting as a result of labor troubles were reported yesterday except at Dublin, where the police and constables came into collision with a mob, which was in sympathy with striking newsboys who were endeavoring to prevent the distribution of newspapers. Numerous persons had their heads cracked in the melee and several shops were looted.

The railway workers held meetings throughout the country yesterday to celebrate what they claimed to be a victory over the railway companies. With the exception of the 4,000 men of the Northeastern Railway Co., which was not a party to the strike settlement agreement, and 3,000 Manchester men, all the unions passed resolutions in favor of a resumption of work. The Northeastern Company's employes demand an eight-hour day and a two-shilling weekly advance in wages, with a minimum weekly wage of 22 shillings, about $5.50.

TWO MEN WERE KILLED, AND TWO INJURED IN WELSH RIOTS

Riot Act Read by a Magistrate, But Didn't Improve Matters.

Llanelly, Wales, Aug. 21.—Four rioters were shot down by the troops on Saturday afternoon, two being instantly killed, and the other two mortally wounded.

Another mob find a car of explosives and set fire to it. Several deaths occurred bringing the total list of fatalities up, it is reported, to ten.

This part of Wales has been the scene of exceptional violence since the railway strike was declared. There has been a succession of conflicts with the police.

Saturday a mob attempted to stop an incoming train, and the police were unable to disperse the angry men. The Riot Act was read by a magistrate, but it had no effect. The strikers continued their attack on the train and mounted the locomotive. A military officer discharged his revolver in the air, but still the mob refused to quite.

Finally the troops, who had been station in the vicinity to protect the depot and other railroad property, were ordered to shoot. They fired three volleys. At this the mob broke and fled, leaving four men stretched on the ground. Two were dead when picked up, and the others were dying.

Labor Party to Run Man.

Montreal, Aug. 21.—J. E. Leonard announced on Saturday night that he had decided to accept the Conservative nomination for Laval in opposition to C. A. Wilson, the late member, who is again to contest the seat in the Liberal interests.

The Labor party at a meeting held yesterday decided to run a candidate in St. Mary's division as well as in Maissonneuve and other divisions. The name of the nominee has not yet been announced.

Mr. Monk announced yesterday that he would tour the district between now and election time. Besides helping out the Nationalist movement throughout the provinces his itinerary includes sixteen meetings in his own constituency.

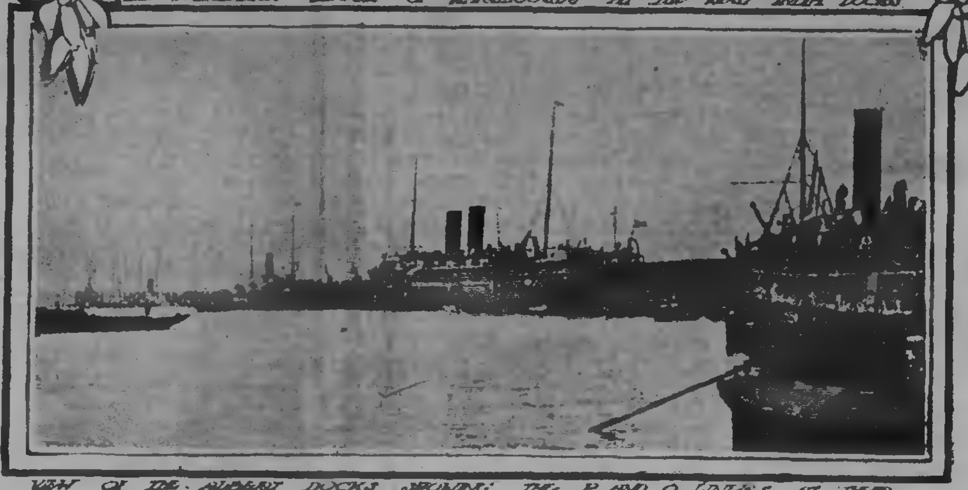
FAMINE THREATENS ENGLAND, WHERE DOCK LABORERS ~~ARE ON~~ STRIKE

THE NORTHERN BLOCK OF WAREHOUSES AT THE WEST INDIA DOCKS



VIEW OF THE ALBERT DOCKS SHOWING THE P AND O LINERS AT THEIR QUAYS

A most serious situation threatens the people of England resulting from the strike of transportation employes and dock laborers in London and Liverpool. Serious fighting has been in progress along the waterfront and at the railway stations, and troops are now on the scene. The neighborhood of the docks in London is practically under mob rule. Thousands of tons of fruit, vegetables and provisions are rotting on the wharves and in the railway freight depots, and in addition to a food famine, which is greatly feared, the authorities also fear that unless the foodstuffs are moved from the docks soon it will cause a serious menace to the general health of the populace.

MR. BORDEN HOLDS A GREAT RALLY IN WELLINGTON COUNTY

His Meeting at Harriston Attended by Four Thousand People—A Fighting Speech Against the Reciprocity Agreement—Hon. I. B. Lucas Assisting.

Harriston, Ont., Aug. 21.—The Conservative leader was given a rousing welcome here on Saturday evening. Three thousand people crowded into the rink for the meeting. They came from six counties, Wellington (where Harriston is situated), Huron, Bruce, Perth, Dufferin, and Grey.

Special trains brought them in from Orangeville in one direction and from Wingham in the other, while the regular brought a large contingent from Drayton district. They knew how to cheer and they gave abundant evidence of it.

On his way up to Harriston on Saturday the Conservative leader spent two hours at Stratford, in the riding of South Perth, where G. H. McIntyre, ex-M.P., is the Liberal candidate. While at Stratford Mr. Borden held an informal reception at the Conservative rooms, when he met about two hundred of the local Conservatives. After his arrival at Harriston he made a tour of inspection of the chief industries of the town.

The meeting opened with a battery of appeals from the Conservative candidates and the local members. The first was W. C. Chambers, the standard-bearer for West Wellington for the Ontario Legislature. James Rowman, federal candidate in East Huron, brought a message of confidence and H. B. Murphy gave a sanguine report of the campaign in North Perth.

Vigorous fighting addresses were also made by two members of the Legislature, C. R. McKeown of Dufferin and A. H. Musgrave of North Huron. All struck vigorously the note of national menace in this agreement and all were heartily applauded. The chairman of the meeting was Anson Spotton, mayor of Harriston, and a prominent figure in the business community.

Mr. Borden's voice was somewhat stronger than in Woodstock, but it was still necessary for him to guard it carefully, and Hon. I. B. Lucas came up from Toronto by the evening train to join forces with the Conservative leader.

Mr. Borden opened his speech by recalling the strange circumstances under which Parliament was dissolved. He pointed out how a pledge had been given that Parliament would be in session for another meeting of the Oliver committee, that pledge being given in the presence of Mr. Oliver himself, and then dissolution was brought on suddenly before that meeting of the committee could be held.

"The decent standards of the public life of this country," declared Mr. Borden, "are not consistent with such conduct."

CANON CAYLEY DIES IN MUSKOKA

Well Known Episcopal Clergyman Succumbs.

Toronto, Aug. 21.—Rev. Canon John D'Arcy Cayley, rector of the Church of St. George the Martyr, Toronto, died in Muskoka yesterday from the effects of ptomaine poisoning, from which he suffered an attack some months ago, and rallied only to have a relapse, which proved fatal.

Canon Cayley was born in 1837, the son of Hon. William Cayley. He received his early education under Dr. Palmer of Guelph, after which he went to Upper Canada College. He graduated from Trinity College, Toronto, in 1858, and was ordained deacon by Bishop Strachan in 1860. After ordination he went to England, where he spent the next three years. He was ordained priest in 1861 by the Bishop of Chichester, and accepted the curacy in the village of Cowfold, Sussex. There he remained two years, marrying a Miss Cartwright of Brighton in 1861.

In 1862 Canon Cayley returned to Canada, and was rector of All Saint's Whitby, from 1863 to 1874, when he became rector of St. George's, Toronto, where he remained until his death. He was Canon of St. Alban's Cathedral and also perceptor, and a member of the corporation of Trinity College.

Canon Cayley is survived by one son, Rev. E. C. Cayley, of St. Simon's and three daughters, Mary Augusta, Cecil Maud and Mrs. Rosher, who is now in England.

Special mention was made of the death of the canon in St. George's Church yesterday evening.

NEW AEROPLANE RECORD IS HUNG UP FOR PASSENGERS

Three-Fourths Done.

Lyons, N.Y., Aug. 21.—Nine hundred and thirty miles from his starting point, Harry N. Atwood, the young Boston aviator, who is fast approaching the world's long distance record in his flight from St. Louis to New York, landed in a field in Lyons yesterday afternoon, after flying 104 miles from Buffalo without a stop.

Atwood is now 335 miles from New York, or almost three-fourths of his 1,265-mile flight. By tomorrow night he hopes to reach Albany and on Wednesday in a one-day flight down the Hudson River, he expects to break the world's record for distance when he lands at Sheepshead Bay race-track. For the 930 miles so far covered he has been in the air 19 hours 58 minutes. He had expected to reach Syracuse last night, but gasoline was running short.

Beatty Stayed in the Air With Passenger for Nearly Four Hours.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—W. G. Beatty, in a Wright biplane, beat the world's record for duration while carrying a passenger at the international aviation meet here yesterday. Beatty and his passenger were in the air at the opening gun at 3.26 o'clock and remained up until 7.08.22 1-5, a total of three hours and 42 minutes and 22 1-5 seconds. The former record was made by Amerigo, at Mulhausen, Germany, Dec. 11, 1910, when he carried a passenger 3 hours, 19 minutes, 37 seconds. While official announcements for the contest were received with doubt here after it had been learned that O. A. Brindley, officially announced as having flown to a height of 11,726 feet, instead had risen only 5,768, there was little doubt that the Beatty figures were approximately correct. Beatty's performance was watched and timed by thousands of spectators, and his record is not subject to the mistakes possible in so intricate an instrument as is used in recording height.

Yesterday's events were enlivened by a number of spectacular escapes, in none of which, it is said, was the aviator in great danger. The hydroaeroplane, driven by C. C. Witmer and cruising above over the lake, approached dangerously near the yacht marine. It scared the passengers, but passed overhead without injuring any-one.

HOTEL AND TWO HOMES DESTROYED

Kingston Visited by Fire Causing $8000 Loss

Kingston, Aug. 21.—Fire this morning destroyed Loy's hotel and the residences of Mrs. Summers and Mrs. York. The loss is estimated at eight thousand dollars. Some occupants of the hotel had a narrow escape from death.

WELLAND LOCK IS BROKEN

Steamer Key West Runs Amuck in Canal.

Head and Lower Gate Are Smashed—Sides Damaged.

St. Catharines, Aug. 21.—The steamer Keywest early yesterday morning carried away both the head and one of the lower gates of lock 21, closing navigation through the waterway, blocking the Grand Trunk Railway tunnel, and seriously damaging banks both sides of canal. The steamer will be held for full payment of damages, including new gates, which in all will run well on into thousands of dollars. The accident occurred between twelve and one o'clock. Captain Esford was in command, but Second Mate Lapointe was doing the canaling.

It is asserted that the boat was being pushed in order to reach Port Colborne before six o'clock, and thus escape spending Sunday in the canal. The captain, however, who was on deck when the mishap took place, says the steamer was not going unusually fast, although she took a sudden forward list just as she entered the lock. The mate signalled the reverse, which Engineer Watson says was given. Although ropes were thrown and snubbed, the steamer rammed the head gates, which immediately gave way, carrying the steamer and one of the lower gates down to lock 20. The captain dropped anchor when he saw what was happening, but the force was too great to be withstood. The steamer suffered several minor damages.

Captain Esford appears to have done everything possible to avoid an accident after he saw what was imminent, but without success. While not actually asserting that the accident could have been avoided, he claims the snubbing posts at the lock are too close to the head gates for all round safety. He has sailed for years and never before experienced serious mishap.

Chief Engineer Weller and his staff accomplished repair of the damage to the lock in record time. The journey had to be made through twenty locks before any effective work could be done, yet navigation re-opened at the usual Sunday night hour, nine o'clock, as if nothing unusual had happened. This was the first serious break in the Welland Canal this year.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills Cured

"I think it should be the duty of the schools to teach children how to keep well," writes Miss Nannie E. Naydon, a well-known and highly esteemed resident of Bristol. "Ignorance of the laws of health and the use of improper remedies destroyed my vigor, and led me to the verge of invalidism. I was as a girl ruddy and strong. Nothing seemed to affect me until I was about thirty. Then gas began to form in the stomach. I suffered with bloating and a general failure in strength set in. If I went upstairs my breath hurt. My system was very irregular, and until I grew pretty bad I didn't pay much heed to my condition. Then I got blue, worried all the time, wakened in the night, and couldn't get to sleep again. None of the medicine I took helped me. One day I was reading of a very interesting case like mine cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I took the same treatment. It was just right—didn't physic me to death, but took hold of the weak, sick parts of my system, and set things right. It seems as if Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made me young again, and all my color, spirits, vigor, and health of former days have returned to stay."

Every girl and woman should use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly. They help a woman in many ways. Beware of the dealer who asks you to take an inferior pill on which his profit is larger than on Dr. Hamilton's. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

AMERICAN EVIDENCE

It is confidently expected and hoped in the United States that Reciprocity will permanently undermine British influence in Canada and lead to the Dominion being annexed by the Americans. The leading newspapers of the United States and many Senators and Congressmen headed by President Taft himself, frankly avow the fact. Here are the President's own words taken from his message to Congress:—"The greatest reason for adopting this agreement (Reciprocity) is the fact that it is going to unite two countries with kindred people, and lying together across a wide continent in a commercial and social union."

Later on at Atlanta President Taft further advocated the scheme of Commercial Union:—"Canada is at the parting of the ways. If we now neglect this opportunity to bring closer relations we shall throw away an opportunity not likely to recur."

Then again at New York last April he spoke in favor of Reciprocity because it would prevent the British band. Here are his own words:—"I have said that this is a critical time in the solution of the question of Reciprocity. It is critical because unless it is now decided favorably to reciprocity, it is exceedingly probable that no such opportunity will ever again come to the United States. The forces which are at work in England and in Canada to separate her by a Chinese wall from the United States, and to make her part of an imperial Commercial band reaching from England around the world to England again, by a system of Preferential Tariffs, will derive an impetus from the rejection of this treaty; and, if we would have Reciprocity with all the advantages that I have described and that I earnestly and sincerely believe will follow its adoption, we must take it now or give it up for ever."

Mr. Taft speaks as plainly as he dares. Everybody can see that annexation is his goal. Indeed, he instructed his Secretary of Agriculture to write a letter giving the following as a culminating reason why the farmers of the United States should favor Reciprocity:—"Adoption of the pending Reciprocity Treaty, would, from the national standpoint, be as much an act of wisdom as was the adoption of treaties in the past that have added to our own country more than half its present area."

These words can bear no other interpretation than that Canada by virtue of the Reciprocity treaty will become practically part of the United States

We all remember the declaration of Mr. Champ Clark, now leader of the Democratic Party in Congress:—"I am in favor of the Reciprocity Treaty, because I hope to see the day when the American flag will float over every square foot of the British North American possessions clear to the North Pole."

The Hon. Samuel McCall, who brought the Reciprocity Bill before the House of Representatives in January last, proclaimed in unmistakably clear terms his belief in the ultimate result of Reciprocity:—"The entangling web that is woven by Reciprocal trade will the more quickly bring the inevitable day when the Republic and the Dominion shall be politically one country."

Could anything be clearer than these words of Mr. McCall? Not unless the following words of Senator Cummins are more plain:—"I am for the annexation of Canada. If it were generally understood that Canadian annexation was the purpose of the pending pact (the Reciprocity Bill) it doubtless would help the measure in becoming law here."

Senator McCumber and Congressmen Prince and Madden all expressed their belief and hope that Reciprocity means annexation. "Canadian annexation is the logical conclusion of Reciprocity with Canada," said Senator McCumber. "It is the first step towards annexation," said Mr. Prince. "My hope is that the territory lying north of us may become a part of the United States," said Mr. Madden.

Ex-Governor Bachelor, of New Hampshire and Mr. Flake, of the Michigan Legislature, are among the many public men of the United States, who have lately declared in favor of annexation.

Mr. J. J. Hill, the railway potentate, speaks strongly for Reciprocity saying frankly that he favours it because it will prevent the commercial federation of the British Empire. Many American newspapers advocate Reciprocity on the grounds that it will destroy Great Britain's influence on this continent and prevent all possibility of imperial federation. "A growing union of North American interests redounding to the advancement and ascendency of the United States at the expense of Great Britain will be the glorious results of Reciprocity," declares the Milwaukee "Free Press."

Enmity to England and total disregard of Canada's wishes and interests characterises all the utterances of American publicists and newspapers on the subject of Reciprocity. The Americans want Canada for the sake of her natural resources, and they want her too in order that Great Britain may be driven from the continent.

A FEW STRAWS

Hark, you Britisher, you loyal Canadian—you Conservative and you Liberal, who all freely acknowledge that if you thought for a moment reciprocity would endanger the national life, the British connection that Canada enjoys, you would rise in your wrath and sweep from power forever any government that would dare harbor such a plan. What is your candid opinion of this, from the New York American:

"The day that reciprocity becomes a fact, the chief interest of Canadians will be here in the United States.

"Should we not, with reciprocity, be far more important in the eyes of Canadians than the IMAGINARY EMPIRE of Great Britain, which they look to now?

"The ideal condition, of course, would be a political as well as a business union of all this North American continent."

"Is it not a fact that reciprocity bringing the people of Canada and the United States closer together every day will do more than anything else to promote eventually the complete political and business union and all to the great territory to the north of us?"

"The reciprocity agreement will check the east and west development of Canada and make that country a business part of the United States, with lines of traffic running north and south."

And the New York American says The section east of Lake Superior will merge with the New England states, and the west will become part of the west of the United States.

And Sir Wilfrid Laurier at Simcoe, in knowledge of this, said, "I have visions of a more far-reaching agreement which will bring even more closely together the great civilized nations of this continent."

In view of these facts, in view of the expressions that are finding general approval and acceptance in the United States, and in view of the fact that Sir Wilfrid Laurier wants a more "far reaching" agreement, can it be that Canada will stand by and see herself attached as an appanage of the United States? This election marks the pivotal point of Canadian destiny. You cannot vote for Laurier and be true to the British and imperial ideal. You cannot afford to ignore the tendencies of the day.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Borden and Canada for the Canadians.

Stratton and struggles for the workingman.

If the Americans want Canadian raw material, let them manufacture it in Canada. Don't ship it to the United States to be manufactured and sent back to us. Give the Canadian the work and the profit of the labor. Industrial progress makes a nation.

A letter received from J. N. A. Orton in reference to the Dillon matter cannot be printed because it contains statements that might easily be considered libelous, and would certainly have to be proved in court, and of course, while they might be true in fact, the Review cannot undertake to establish it.

On November 17, 1891, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, made this declaration in Boston, "I prefer the Yankee dollar to the British shilling, especially when the dollar is so near and the shilling so far away." In 1911 he is of the same opinion. He would prefer the American five dollar gold piece to the English sovereign. Laurier's policy is one which was opposed by Sir John Macdonald in 1891, and is being opposed by the Conservatives to-day.

Lloyd Harris of Brantford refuses to go to Ottawa to represent Brant merely as a "rubber-stamp" for his constituents. He would rather retire than run merely to vote the way the party wants him. Lloyd Harris a Liberal, but he refuses to budge in his opposition to the pact, in which he shows strength of character. The Liberals who won't touch reciprocity are many, and there are thousands of them who are of the same opinion, though they keep it quiet until they ballot.

The way in which the electors cheered to the echo, the clear presentation of why workingmen should strongly oppose reciprocity at the Burnham meeting on Saturday night shows that Peterboro workers at least realise the dangers of free trade with the United States. As Leader Borden says, "If you had a fine field of grain surrounded by a fence, and sixteen hungry steers on the other side, would you take down that fence?" That is what Laurier is asking us to do—to take down that barb wire fence.

Four Dead In Wreck.

Quebec, Aug. 21.—Four people met death shortly after one o'clock yesterday morning on the St. Lawrence River, when a collision took place between the steamer Hero and the tug Chieftain. The Hero was bound down and the Chieftain, which had brought down a raft to Quebec, was on its way up. As a result of the collision the Chieftain was sunk. When the crash came, most of the people on board the Chieftain were rescued, but Mrs. Haggerty, the cook, and her daughter, a man named Menard, who had been captain of the raft, and a Swede named Alwar Thomas, of the crew, were lost. Mrs. Haggerty and her daughter are supposed to have been killed in their berths, but the others were drowned. The accident took place between St. Antoine and St. Croix, Lotbiniere County.

A Practically Perfect Preparation.

Years of experience have enabled Mr. Fletcher to make Castoria a practically perfect preparation. These years of labor: the amount of money required to introduce its merits to the public: the investment in its manufacture, including the most modern machinery, mean a vast amount of invested capital. It follows that the greatest care is exercised in the selection of each ingredient, and the greatest attention is paid to every detail of its preparation. The result: The practically perfect preparation in the finished product; Fletcher's Castoria.

Herein lies the guarantee of the absolute safety in the use of Fletcher's Castoria for the baby, and the warning against irresponsible makers of imitations and counterfeits. The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher that is printed in black on the wrapper and red on the bottle is the mother's safeguard.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic, all Teething Troubles and Diarrhoea. It regulates the Stomach and Bowels, assimilates the Food, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS BEARS the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

The Lash of Circumstance

Harry Irving Greene

Author of "Yosonde of the Wilderness"

"As you perhaps know, I am a professional detective, and cases like this are strictly my specialty. I take it for granted that you wish to apprehend the parties who did this job, and that you would like to recover your money, or as much of it as possible. That being the case I would like to make an arrangement with you. I am in a more favorable position to get you results than are the regular police for a number of reasons. In the first place I am better equipped for it than are the majority of them, both by nature and education. It is a matter of common observation that the smart crook is smarter than the average crook-catcher, and while I don't wish to sound egotistical, I don't believe that the rule holds good in my case. Furthermore, I can mix with ladies and gentlemen among any surroundings, as well as with professional criminals, without betraying myself to either class, which is in itself a considerable advantage, for the criminal can spot the average city policeman, although he be in plain clothes, as readily as you could should he put on a dress suit and enter your drawing room. In addition to that, I am not bound by rules and regulations or the instructions of superiors who may or may not be competent to direct me, and neither am I always looking forward to the hour when it is time for me to go off duty and take my rest. Your city sleuth is paid a few dollars a day for certain hours of work, expects no reward as a general thing, and therefore more or less mechanically performs his work, and then goes to him home the same as any other workman. I do not blame him for it, but it illustrates the weakness of the system. In addition to that, he probably has a dozen other somewhat similar affairs in his mind, and his work is more of a general than a special character. If he is running along the trail of one criminal and strikes that of another which seems a little warmer, he is likely to be diverted, since all evildoers are fish in his net. On the other hand, when I take up a case I do it with the expectation of receiving substantial remuneration in case I succeed, and I am not to be diverted by other matters which only indirectly concern me; and neither am I at all particular as to the hour when I shall quit my day's work. These and other facts which I will not take the time to mention, added to my natural fitness for the work, have made me successful many times when the regular police force failed. You have lost $40,000, and I make this proposition to you: It will be a case of no cure and no pay, as the doctors put it, and therefore an advantageous arrangement for you. If the regular police get your money back I will charge you nothing for what I may have done in the meantime. Neither will I present you any bill for the capture of the guilty party or parties unless I get some or all of your money back as well. But on all funds that I regain for you I will charge you 25 per cent. commission. I don't see how anything could be any fairer than that."

Uncle Abner, who had remained quiet during LeDuc's utterances now sat up and began to whimper. "Ten per cent. is plenty enough for any one to charge. I have been robbed enough already. Suppose you should go out and get the money back in 24 hours. Would you have the greediness to charge me $10,000 for a day's work?" LeDuc's lips tightened into a thin smile.

"I certainly should. I am very impudent in some respects, and I should charge you the full price even though the transaction took me only ten minutes. I have tried to emphasize that point as one of the reasons why I will do harder, longer and more intelligent work than will the policeman who only gets his $3 a day. But on the other hand, and to balance the scales between us, of course the more I get the more you get. I take it for granted that you would rather get $30,000 back than nothing at all. Also you must remember that there is the contingency that I may fail completely, and in that event I will be out my time, labor and expenses. Then again, I may recover but a small portion of what has been stolen, and in that case my fees will be insignificant and my time practically wasted. I have made you my offer and it is the best I will do. You can take it or you can let it alone if you prefer."

"Too much—altogether too much," whined the voice from the sheets. Then as LeDuc, with an indifferent shrug of his shoulders, arose as if to depart, the lean hand of Uncle Abner shot from beneath the coverlet and hooked itself to the tails of his coat. "Very well, if you must take advantage of a sick man. I suppose I will have to submit. I'll be lucky if I don't die in the poorhouse after all, the way everybody imposes upon me." That LeDuc was half inclined then and there to throw up the proposition in disgust I could tell by the curl of his lips, but after a second of reflection he turned to me with a little smile which told me that he had made his allowance for the nature of the man with whom he was dealing.

"Very well. Sign this agreement then," he commanded shortly, as he handed the quibbler a paper and a fountain pen. Carefully Uncle Abner ran his colorless eyes over the printed form, inserted the necessary words and figures and affixed his signature. LeDuc thrust it into his pocket, and first having his new client repeat what he had previously told the police, turned his attention to the room without comment upon the statement.

The safe he examined with infinite attention to detail. The hole that had been drilled in the combination occupied his attention for at least ten minutes in itself. He measured it, peered into it as a terrier peers into a rat hole, examined it by the aid of a magnifying glass and actually smelled of it. The shattered pieces of lock he examined slowly, pondering over them for many minutes as he slowly turned them around and around in his hands. As for the room itself, the floor and the walls, he went over them inch by inch, and having at last finished that task, asked me to show him the closet in which I had found the old man. In the hallway I saw him suddenly stoop and pick up some small object which he thrust hurriedly into his pocket without showing it to me. Inside and out we went over the house for a full hour, and then at his suggestion returned to my room, where we seated ourselves. I asked him if he had discovered anything.

"Yes. The explosion occurred at 42 minutes past three," he replied, as he blew a long cloud of smoke. I demanded that he tell me how he knew that.

"Simply because the clock on the mantel stopped at that hour. I gave it a little shake when I noticed that it had stopped and it started up again as merrily as you please, so I guess the conclusion is what put it out of business temporarily," he smiled. Simple and obvious as this fact had been I had not noticed it in my survey of the room, and not particularly flattered at my own lack of discernment, I agreed that his explanation was probably correct. He seemed to be thinking intently for a while after that and I did not disturb him, but presently he turned to me.

"In getting at the roots of a case like this, one way of simplifying it is by the process of elimination—that is to say, by the weeding out of those persons and circumstances which although immediately surrounding the affair could not in the nature of things be connected with it. By doing this you are often able to narrow the field of your search and thereby secure greater concentration. I believe in this matter if you will frankly answer all questions I may ask you as you proceed. First of all, was your uncle in the habit of keeping large sums of money in the safe?" I shook my head.

"It very seldom happened. Perhaps once or twice a year only, and then merely because the cash was received out of banking hours. The rest of the time it would not be worth robbing."

"Who knew of this particular amount being there at this particular time?"

"No one as far as I know except Uncle Abner, of course, my cousin, Bruce Halliday, and myself. Uncle Abner says he did not tell Mrs. Tebbets, she denies all knowledge of it, and I am inclined to believe that that settles that."

"It would so seem. And what kind of a man does Bruce happen to be?" I hesitated, endeavoring to choose my words with circumspection before answering a question which embraced so many qualifying and modifying phases.

"Well, that is a hard question to answer off-hand. He is a complex proposition, you know—a sort of a paradox. You should know him thoroughly before passing judgment. But comprehensively I should say that he is genial, generous, outspoken and inclined to be reckless along certain lines. But I never knew him to even contemplate doing a dishonest thing, and I don't believe that he ever did. The only two things that I ever knew him to do that might be criticized from a high moral standpoint are to occasionally take a few highballs or cocktails and to habitually speculate on 'Change. He is a broker, you know, and plays the game himself, like most of the rest of them."

"And his financial condition these days?" pursued my companion contemplatively. I shifted uneasily. It was plain that LeDuc was going to dig deep and ask me questions that would make it necessary for me to put Bruce in an unfavorable light, and it is not a pleasant task for one to be compelled to cast suspicion, even by inference, upon a life-long friend, especially when the friend is of his own blood. Yet a serious crime had been committed against both society at large and another of my kinsmen in particular, and should I conceal any essential fact that I knew and LeDuc discover that I had done so, it would put me in the miserable plight before Uncle Abner as having tried to shield some one and thus acted against him in the recovery of at least a portion of what had been pilfered from him. I did not for an instant believe that Bruce would even contemplate such an act, even though standing blindfold against the wall of financial despair, yet certainly there were things which in justice to everybody concerned he should explain; and while I did not doubt but that he could do so without difficulty, I disliked exceedingly to speak against him.

LeDuc sat quietly throughout my mental colloquy, eyeing me keenly. That my hesitancy in answering was unnoticed I did not for a moment flatter myself, for as well might one expect the fox to miss a movement of the cornered hare. "There seems to be something disagreeable in your mind. Perhaps you had better out with it," he suggested at length. "Remember that I am asking you, as a good citizen, to help me in this matter, and am taking you into my confidence. I therefore expect you to assist me to the fullest extent of your powers regardless of whom it may help or hurt; always bearing in mind that no innocent man need be afraid. Furthermore, you may trust me not to give any information you may convey to me any more publicity than the exigencies of the case demand. What is it you are keeping fro mme now?"

"You have asked me as to my cousin's financial condition, and under my protest and your promise I will say this," I returned slowly. "He was in a miserable fix through losses on the exchange and came to Uncle Abner yesterday for a loan. Uncle Abner only grinned at him, as Bruce should have had sense enough beforehand to know he would. When I saw Bruce afterwards he was way down on his luck and fairly desperate. He knew that uncle had the money in the house, because he was the one who called my attention to that fact, saying tho me: 'My God, I must get hold of $10,000 some way.' He then left me. When I saw him again he appeared to have been drinking. I put him in a carriage to get him out of sight and he was driven away, where I don't know, for I have not seen him since. That is all I know about that phase of the matter." My companion was following my every word and action with the intentness of a watching lynx, and when I had finished pounced upon my last and qualifying words instantly.

Will Oppose Fielding.

Halifax, Aug. 19.—F. B. McCurdy of Halifax was nominated by the Liberal-Conservatives of Queen's-Shelburne at a convention held in Liverpool yesterday, to oppose Hon. W. S. Fielding. Mr. McCurdy is one of the successful young men of Nova Scotia. He is a stock broker, capitalist and organizer, and he has considerable interest in the riding which he is to contest with the Minister of Finance.

Mr. Fielding won the constituency by a majority of only about 130 when A. B. Morine of Toronto was defeated by him in 1908, and political observers are predicting on this occasion he will be given the fight of his life, with the odds favoring McCurdy.

"BARGAIN" GLASSES ARE DANGEROUS GLASSES

This Editorial in the Ladie's Home Journal gives timely warning against these "Eye Destroyers" advertised as "Exceptional Values."

A woman who was hunting "bargain glasses" finally succeeded in "fitting" her eyes with what she enthusiastically declares was "just the thing." And immensly pleased with herself, this woman had brought about the gravest danger a woman could invest in, for she had bought two pieces of glass crudely ground, but magnifying strongly, and with them she can see 'better to read'—That seeing better will mean an intense strain upon the her eyes, but she will not realize what the trouble is, nor the injury the glasses are doing. Someday she will be under the care of a Specialist, probably for the removal of a cataract, which will cost considerable, to say nothing of the suffering entailed, and she will be fortunate indeed if she does not suffer partial or entire loss of sight for the remainder of her life.

We have every qualification for giving your eyes a thorough examination. We fit you with the finest ground lenses, and at a very reasonable cost. Thousands of our citizens can certify to the care, skill and thoroughness of the examination, and the good results they had in wearing the glasses we prescribed. ALL WORK GUARANTEED.

MAIL CLERK LOST LEG

Mr. Alex Lowe of the Toronto-Ottawa Express Injured

Mr. Alexander Lowe, of Ottawa, mail clerk on the Toronto-Ottawa express and who has numerous friends here met with an unfortunate accident at Smith's Fall on Friday. While waiting for the transfer of his car from the Toronto train to the Ottawa track, he got out and talked with the express men on their car. A few minutes later he was run down by the yard engine and has his right leg cut off below the knee. He sustained an injury on the head as well, presumably when he was thrown down by the engine. He was taken to St. Francis Hospital and attended by Dr. Anderson.

C.G.E. BENEFIT SOCIETY HAS SEEN ITS BUSINESS TREBLED

Annual Meeting Shows Very Prosperous Year—New Officers.

A large and enthusiastic attendance marked the annual meeting of the Canadian General Electric Mutual Benefit Society, held in the Y.M.C.A. parlors last Friday evening, and it was shown that the business of the past year compared with previous years, has been practically trebled. In the absence of the president, Mr. R. S. Cotton was chosen chairman, after which the year's operations were discussed and the following officers elected:

President—Mr. R. S. Cotton.
Vice-President—Mr. Chas. Clemens.
Secretary—Mr. F. A. Shannon.
Treasurer—Mr. R. E. Harding.
Auditors—Messrs. Wm. Hill and Wm. Hinchcliffe.
Executive Committee—The officers.

During the first six months of 1911 the society paid a large number of sick claims than in any previous half year, the number being 166, and there were more deaths in this time than in any other twelve months in the history of the society. The following is the statement:

Peterborough, Aug. 9, 1911.

CONSERVATIVES HELD BIG AND ENTHUSIASTIC RALLY IN MR. BURNHAM'S CAUSE

Some Common Sense Reasons Why Reciprocity Should be Voted Down — Mr. F. A. Peck Condemns Pact in Strong Speech—A Hearty Gathering.

The first big demonstration of enthusiasm and energy felt by the Conservative party in the coming election and in Mr. J. H. Burnham's campaign, was held on Saturday night in the latter's central committee rooms on George street. The rally was an unqualified success and judging from the attendance and from the activity and energy displayed, the outlook is particularly encouraging and hopeful for a successful contest. The speeches by leading Conservatives were all brimful of hope and optimism and were greeted continually with hearty applause.

The earlier part of the evening was occupied with the taking of names for registration and in the course of the speeches, special emphasis was laid on this important part of the election campaign, namely, to see that everybody registered.

Mr. James Kendry with his usual ability, presided as chairman and in a few terse sentences outlined the object of the gathering and called on Mr. E. A. Peck.

The Provincial candidate for West Peterborough, said he should say a word about himself as appreciating the honor to contest the riding. He stated that he had always endeavored to advance the interests of Peterborough. A most important crisis in the history of the country was now at hand, and never in years at an election had such a dominant question been before the public, namely, Reciprocity.

There were many other questions that he might consider, but that one alone would he deal with.

PAY ENVELOPE TALKS

"It is to the industries of this city that Peterborough owes her position, he continued, "and it is to the weekly pay envelope that passes to and fro from the workingman to the shopkeeper that keeps this town prosperous. If then, you weaken any of the power of the workingman you weaken the power of the whole city.

"Mr. Stratton is trying to give you reasons why you should vote for reciprocity, but he cannot give you any specific reason," said the speaker.

"I do not sees how any real benefit can accrue from the reciprocity pact; it is a question for all to consider; do you want to throw away the prosperous condition of affairs now enjoyed or continue to enjoy them?" asked Mr. Peck in conclusion.

The chairman before calling on Mr. J. M. Burnham, stated that he believed they were gaining every day in the riding.

CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE.

Mr. Burnham's address was strong and thoughtful. He thanked the people heartily for the kindnesses awarded him, many of which he felt he did not merit.

"In my estimation," said he, "there never has been such a vital question before the people. If the reciprocity treaty is consummated, the union between the British Empire and Canada will be broken. England, Canada and the other colonies are doing their best to consolidate themselves into an empire by a system of preferential tariffs."

"Britain has bequeathed to us, and promoted conditions of peace, contentment and happiness that have never been enjoyed by any other country in the world.

"The Liberals say we charge them with being annexationists. We do not. We do charge them with urging a policy absolutely against the best interests of this country.

"The United States is steeped in adversity while Canada is vigorously prospering. Why should we seek to put into the hands of a country that which belongs to us and which they are only too ready to appropriate for their own benefit.

"I say that the people of this country will throw that reciprocity pact as far away as lies in their power. I think the Government will be literally swept from power.

Mr. Kendry called on Mr. Jones, an old Conservative who told of conditions thirty years ago as he remembered them, when free trade was in force.

"I had a set of tools," said the speaker, "and I had not ambition enough to sharpen or use them. I have no use for this free trade and if I could have my way, I would bury it in the deepest sink that could be found."

Mr. James Edgar in a brief speech, said he felt that the Conservative party were going to win. Very few men were supporting Mr. Stratton. From what he had seen and heard he had no hesitation in saying that Mr. J. H. Burnham would be the successful candidate at the election.

Mr. Thomas Wilson urged upon all present the great importance of registering. "Let each man work, and not stand back and let others do the work," urged Mr. Wilson.

The meeting closed with loud cheers for R. L. Borden, Mr. Peck, Mr. Burnham and the chairman.

BOY SCOUTS TO MEET TO-NIGHT

Will Arrange for Trip to Toronto Exhibition

There will be a full meeting of the 3rd troop in the Y.M.C.A. on Monday night, sharp 7.30, to make arrangements for the Toronto exhibition. All the boys of the 3rd Troop, who are going, must hand in their names as there will have to be extra drilling done. The 3rd Troop must uphold the good name gained by the Peterboro Scouts among the 2000 who were at the exhibition last year. If possible there will be a First Aid display put on in Toronto, so every boy who wants to take part must be on hand Monday night. Full uniform must be worn. Major Clegg has kindly granted shoulder straps for the blankets.

WM. J. MILLER,
Scout-Master.

Let me here thank Mr. Johnson on behalf of the 3rd Troop, for so kindly giving the tea and cocoa needed for camp free of charge. We are all deeply indebted.

Yours truly,
WM. J. MILLER,
Scout-Master.

Word has been received from Toronto that James Eyers, son of Mr. Wm Eyers, Antrim street, was successful in passing his faculty entrance part one, for Toronto University.

GILMOUR STREET RESIDENCE VISITED IN NIGHT BY THIEVES

Preserves and Canned Goods Were Taken by the Bold Visitors.

A bold case of burglary occurred early Sunday morning, at the residence of Mr. Hugh Regan, 600 Gilmour street, when thieves entered the house and cleaned out the entire stock of eatables, including all the preserves, canned goods, etc. All the occupants of the house, save Wilbert Regan, were camped down the river at the time. Mr. Regan stated that he thought he heard a footstep on the verandah during the night. When he arose Sunday morning and saw the clean sweep that had been made he was not by any means in a calm state of mind. No other articles, as far as noticed, were stolen, and indications suggested that the robbery was the work of thieves and hoboes, who make a practice of frequenting the boundary road in the west end of the city. Mr. Regan has noticed numerous tramps, apparently, from time to time, who meet in the vicinity and hang around in a suspicious manner, and he attributes the robbery to them. Suspicious looking characters are reported to be numerous in different parts of the city.

Last night a sturdily built stranger was noticed on Charlotte street west. He had his coat collar up, and a felt hat pulled down as if to shade his features. He appeared to relish the darkness, and when last seen took up a long laneway. Women at home alone during the day have been frightened seriously by the actions of strangers who came to the house asking for food, and in some cases demanding it in none too polite language.

GOLD WATCH AND MONEY TAKEN FROM BOARDING HOUSE

Herbert Hughes Pleads Guilty—Was Brought Back From Lindsay.

Herbert Hughes, a young man whose home is in Toronto, and who was arrested in Lindsay on Saturday morning charged with theft in Peterboro; appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning in the local police court. He pleaded guilty to the charge, and at the request of Crown Attorney Wood, judgment was reserved for a week.

The articles stolen were a valuable gold watch and fob, and $19 in money, the property of David Fleming a boarder at Mr. John Craig's on Stewart street, where the prisoner also was rooming.

It appears that young Hughes, who is rather good-looking and respectable in appearance, came to the city recently from Toronto and secured lodgings at the boarding house of John Craig, on Stewart street, for a few days. On Friday evening, while Mr. Craig was out, one of the boarders named David Fleming, came home and missed from his room, the property mentioned. Suspicion pointed towards Hughes. Fleming reported the circumstances to the police and the wires were put in operation between and Toronto, Lindsay, Port Hope and a couple of other places.

Hughes did not leave the city the same night, however, but stayed at Montgomery's Hotel over-night. He left Peterboro the next morning for Lindsay and Chief Chilton of that town landed him at the G.T.R. station just at the train was pulling out with Hughes on it. He was brought to Peterboro, and remanded this morning.

Detective Newhall brought the prisoner from Lindsay.

Scene from the "County Sheriff," Grand Opera House Wednesday, Aug. 23rd. Prices—25c, 35c and 50c; Gallery 15c. Box Seats, 75c.

GENERAL STRIKE ORDER MAY BE SENT OUT ONCE AGAIN

Companies Are Charged With Not Living up to Agreement With Strikers.

Special to the Review.

London, Aug. 21.—W. H. Thomas, assistant secretary of the Railwaymen's Federation, charges the companies with not keeping faith in regard to taking back the strikers, and threatens a renewal of a general strike if the agreement of Saturday is not lived up to in full. It is believed, however, that government pressure will be brought to bear upon the companies to force them to carry out all the terms of the settlement. The men of the North-Eastern Railway claim they are not affected by the settlement and refuse to return to work. In all parts fo the country the men are returning to work in thousands.

TRIP TO ISLANDS MUCH ENJOYED

About Two Hundred Went to Thousand Islands

The annual excursion to the Thousand Islands, under the auspices of the Grand Trunk railway, was held on Saturday, August 20th, and was a success in every way. About 200 took in the trip. The excursionists left Peterborough via Grand Trunk at 6 a.m. Saturday morning, arriving in Kingston about 9.15. Here they embarked on the steamer "Caspian," leaving Kingston for the trip through the islands about 10.15. The sail was most delightful, the surprising beauty of the scenery receiving most enthusiastic comment. The boat returned to Kingston about 5.30 p.m. and entrained again for Peterborough, arriving here early in the evening. About fifteen of the excursionists remained at Kingston and will arrive here this evening.

REV. DR. MARSH AT DALE CHURCH

Mr. F. G. Hassard Took Services at Springville

Mr. F. G. Hassard took the services at Springville Presbyterian church yesterday, and pleased two large congregations. Rev. Dr. Marsh through Mr. Hassard's kindness was enabled to accept an invitation to preach in Dale Presbyterian church, Toronto, which has as its minister, Rev. Mr. Morrow, known at the athletic clergyman. Rev. Dr. Marsh received a splendid reception, and at the close of the evening service, a vote of thanks was extended to the visitor, and also one to Mr. Hassard for his action which permitted Dale Presbyterian church congregation to hear Rev. Dr. Marsh.

WEST ENDS LOST INTERESTING GAME TO LINDSAY REDSKINS

Locals Couldn't Hit With Men on the Bags—Score Was 9-6.

Too much Jack Spratt and their own rocky work in spots, put the West Ends all to the bad in an interesting ball game at Lindsay Saturday afternoon. The score was 9—6 and the Scugogville fans were happy all the time, for their nine lead throughout getting away to a good start in the first round on a wild peg from Dutch Gonter to Murphy, which allowed two counters. They have scared up a new twirler in the hamlet of Bill Cinnamon, none other than Johnny Spratt, the youthful and fair famed puck chaser, who, with his brother, Peter, is back to the old burg. What young Mr. Spratt hasn't got in the line of shoots amounts to a whole lot, but the manner in which he stopped the visitors with the bases busy got to the Redskin rooters, and it sounded somewhat like the days of yore. Duke Oldham's outfit should have smashed Mr. Spratt's offerings to all corners of the agricultural grounds, but they didn't, and several chances to send a brace of runs across the pan were missed, when a little clout failed to be forthcoming. And again, with Lindsay at bat and Stan Cresswell twirling good ball, his support was not of the best, and the scores were registered as a result. Gonter started the run getting of his team, wafting the leather to deep left for a home run in the fourth. Jimmie O'Hearn had an easy triple with two on but Dicky Butler had his peekers rather dusty, and the Petes' middle sacker heard his effort called foul.

Lindsay won the game in their half of the eighth on infield hitting, assisted by wild flinging by the opposition. Features of the contest were the horse shoers around the pitching box when Spratt was working, a nice catch of a foul by Gould, who went back to the fence for the ball, and a stab of a high drive by Kirn at first base. Herb Workman took an afternoon off and worked well at second base, but the fusty wallops of days gone by were not in evidence.

The excursion under the auspices of the West Ends was not only largely patronized, but all who took the trip had a good time. The local line-up was:

Murphy, 3b; Dickie, ss; O'Hearn, 2b; Gonter, c; Brydie, cf; Kirn, 1b; Smith, rf; Curtis, lf; Cresswell, p.

LOCALS DID NOT SCORE

Baracas of Toronto Took Second Soccer Game by 3-0

Toronto, Aug. 21.—The Senior Inter-league soccer game at Rosedale Saturday resulted in an easy victory for Baracas of the T. and D.F.A. over Peterborough, the score being 3 to 0. The local team kept the ball in Peterborough territory for three-fourths of the game. There was no scoring in the second half, in which the Lift-lock boys played a much better defence than in the opening period. The Baracas will meet Westinghouse, of Hamilton in the final. Teams:—

Baracas—Hardie, goal; Norwell, Attwood, backs; McGregor, Bingham, Reeve, halves; Gillespie, McGrath, Grant, Dalzell, Scott, forwards.

Peterborough—W. Jones, goal; W. Hull, R. Evans, backs; Dawson, Simonite, E. Hooper, halves; H. Corliss, French, Miller, T. Mark, E. Dawson, forwards.

Referee—Sid Banks.

THE SPORTS ON LABOR DAY

Two weeks from to-day will be Labor Day, and the last holiday for some time to come. For that date the Trades and Labor Council have gone to considerable expense to put on a list of sports for the citizens. The Belleville base ball team will clash with the local team. The program is a good one and the prizes are valuable. They will be displayed in a George street store window at an early date. There is also a handsome rug to be drawn for and it will also be displayed in the window. The 57th Band will be in attendance and a first-class afternoon's sport is promised.

COL. HUGHES AGAIN CHOSEN

Victoria Convention Selects Old War-Horse

Lindsay, Ont., Aug. 20.—The Liberal-Conservative convention held here yesterday by the Conservative Association of Victoria and Haliburton will go down into history as a record breaker as far as the local association is concerned. The Academy of Music was thronged with delegates and friends, and when it came to the time for nominating a standard bearer for the party in the coming elections only one name was mentioned, and that was the name of the loyal and reliable Col. Sam Hughes, M.P., and the mention of the name was the signal for a spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm, which augurs well for a larger majority than ever for Colonel Hughes.

The nomination was unanimous and the very welkin rang with cheers for the colonel, who has so ably represented the riding for the Conservatives for the past 21 sessions.

The colonel made one of his characteristic patriotic speeches and took occasion to score the Laurier Government on the reciprocity question, and also showed up many evidences of graft and wastefulness on the part of the Government. The free trade pact was condemned as a curse to the country, and Col. Hughes' strong and lucid appeal struck home, with the result that there are bound to be many Liberal votes turned in his direction this year.

The farmers of Victoria County will never forget or forgive the Laurier Administration for the downfall of this bank and for attempting to tie their necks in the free trade pact with the United States. Col. Hughes' popularity has not diminished one iota, of over a thousand last election will but has increased, and his majority be greatly augmented.

WILL CAUSES SOME SENSATION

An Attempt Apparently Made to Alter It.

Kingston, Aug. 21.—Sensational developments are expected in connection with the finding of the will of the late Joseph George. All depends on whether there will be opposition to probate of the will, in view of the fact that the estate has been ordered to be divided under the intestate law, the widow getting one-half, and the balance going to deceased's next-of-kin. H. Sullivan and G. H. Williamson, the witnesses, have identified the will. It has not been presented to the courts, but will be very shortly.

"Who put the will in the house where it was found by the plumbers?" This is the question. The discovery of the will means that the widow will only receive $4,000, instead of $12,000 or $14,000, which she would have received had her husband died intestate. Albert Cottenden of Toronto, an admitted son of the deceased, will receive about $25,000. He has declared all along that his father left him the bulk of the money.

The will shows that an attempt was made by some person to change the amount willed to the widow from four to forty thousand dollars by adding the letters "ty." It was most glaring, and as this word would be spelled wrongly, and was not initialed as required by law.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Bishop Fallon yesterday laid the corner-stone of St. Martin's Church in South London, Ont.

A. M. Beauparlant, former member for St. Hyacinthe, is dead. He was recently operated on for appendicitis.

Conductor W. Smith of the London Street Railway, is in a serious condition from an assault by an unknown man.

The Opal Sewing Machine and Bicycle Works at Russelheim, Germany, were destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at between $1,000,000 and $1,250,000.

A well-to-do Armenian named Pavel died at Hamilton from a broken back. In his ante-mortem statement he accused Michael Zima of throwing him over a stair-railing.

Fire yesterday destroyed the store and storehouse of Poupore & McDonald in Chapleau and the residence of Miss D. Kelly. The origin is unknown. The loss runs to $15,500.

At the office of the general manager of the Union Pacific Railroad Co. the information was given out that 2,500 employes of that road will be laid off during next week, possibly on Monday.

Hon. G. P. Graham announced at Brockville that an agreement had been reached with the Grand Trunk to reinstate all the strikers recommended for such action by Judge Barron.

George Riddle was drowned Saturday night in the Welland Canal at Welland. The body was recovered shortly afterwards. He was a resident of Montreal, and deck hand on the steamer Yorkton, which is unloading her cargo.

More Harvesters Wanted.

Duluth, Aug. 21.—There is a pressing need for harvesters in Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan. Canadian farmers from all over the west are complaining of a shortage of labor in handling the bumper crop, which is now ready for cutting.

The experts who have looked over the Canadian wheat country have estimated a total of 127,000,000 bushels for the three provinces, a record crop.

During the last week the railroads have sent 9,000 men into Manitoba, where cutting has already begun, and the Canadian Northern men here estimate that 30,000 more will be needed before a sufficient force is on hand to handle the immense crop.

Of these, it is thought that 20,000 can be enlisted from eastern Canada, leaving 10,000 to be secured from along the American border.

Crop Doing Well.

Winnipeg, Aug. 21.—Two more days of perfect crop weather have given impetus to the belief that even in the latest districts grain will be ready to cut before there is any danger of frost. Rain has been recorded in slight quantities at three or four points, but nothing in the nature of a general downpour has occurred.

In Saskatchewan and Alberta, where the crops are latest, grain is reported to be filling rapidly. In Northern Alberta, the yield promises well, samples from several districts received Saturday showing exceptionally well developed shoots. Between three and four thousand more harvesters have arrived from the east and south. Cutting is general in Manitoba and the men have all been placed. Threshing of rye is reported in some districts.

Explosion Kills Four.

Joliet, Ill., Aug. 21.—Four men were killed, four were fatally injured and nine others suffered fractured arms and legs in an explosion on Friday night, which wrecked the moulding building at the Illinois Steel Co.'s plant, and imprisoned 100 men.

The accident occurred when a ladle of several tons of molten metal upset on a wet floor.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

RECIPROCITY QUESTION

To the Editor of the Review.

I am somewaht puzzled to find out how, if we get reciprocity with the United States, it is going to enrich the Canadian farmer and at the same time benefit the consumer. At the present time the consumer in Peterboro is paying for food about as much as he can well afford to pay. The house wife complains that $2 now, will only go as far as $1.50 went in buying food a few years since.

The price of food supplies in Detroit to-day is very much dearer than it is in Peterboro. Bread is almost double the price it is here; for a 23 oz. loaf they pay 9c, while we pay 5c for 24 oz. Butter again is 31c per lb. Liver must be considered a luxury in Detroit for they charge 15c. per lb. for it.

I think I have quoted prices sufficient to show that we are much better off as we are. It may be alright to experiment in some things, but when it comes down to our daily bread and butter, we don't want any guess work about it.

Some of our farmers thinking to get a little higher price for their wheat will vote for the reciprocity deal unmindful of the mechanic and bread winner. The farmer doesn't care, as long as it will bring in a few dimes more per bushel on his wheat, whether it is going to make it hard for the working man or not.

I want to say, Mr. Editor, that we the consumers have more to do with reciprocity than the farmer has, and when Sept. 21 comes around, we will show him by our vote that prices in Peterboro are plenty high enough, and that to become a nation within the British Empire is plenty good enough for us.

Yours truly,
"VOTER"

TROUBLE WITH THE FOREIGNERS

Chief Constable Miller, of Millbrook, was called to Bethany Saturday, some trouble having broken out in the vicinity of that place where a number of foreigners have been brought in to work on the new C.N.R. It is stated that the foreigners refused to work and became disorderly.

Edward Whitten of Flesherton has successfully raised 60 lbs of ginseng roots, valued at $400 to $700 in a twenty-foot garden plot.

Geo. Hagart of Barrie has an oddity in the shape of a rooster that stands up as straight as a soldier. It has no projection at the breast or tail like the ordinary fowl.

Doctors Condemn Oily Liniments

The Public are Warned to Be Careful of These Strong-Smelling Oily Liniments Containing Harmful Acids, Ammonia, Etc.

Many people have clung to the old-fashioned idea that a thick, greasy liniment is the best kind. Doctors say not—and they know.

Recently a number of these white, oily liniments were analyzed, and they were found to contain an enormously high percentage of harmful acids, and such irritating chemicals as ammonia, etc. For the moment they may cause a warm sensation when first applied, but their continued use never cures rheumatism, and only deteriorates the skin, sets up inflammation and causes endless trouble.

When a doctor warns you to quit using a white, oily liniment—do so. He knows that a thick liniment can't penetrate, can't sink through the pores and reach the seat of the pain.

When asked his opinion a few days ago, Dr. Roberts stated that he considered a strong, penetrating, pain-subduing liniment such as "Nerviline," to be superior to any of the white, ammonia liniments. In his twenty-five years of practice he had witnessed cases of rheumatism, sciatica, and lumbago that simply would not respond to ordinary treatment—but Nerviline cured them. The same physician also spoke of the great advantages of keeping a preparation like Nerviline in the house always, because of cramps, diarrhoea, stomach disorders, earache, toothache, headache, and such minor ailments. Nerviline is a first-class cure. There is scarcely an ache or a pain, internal or external, that Nerviline won't cure. In thousands of homes no other pain-relieving medicine is used. Fifty years' continued success and the endorsement of the profession are proof that Nerviline is the liniment for the home.

Indiana Paper Says That Annexation is Coming

(La Grange Standard, Indiana.)

The National Editorial Association, which reorganized and changed its name to National Press Association at Detroit last week, had thrust upon it an unexpected notoriety. Governor Chase Osborn was invited to welcome the association to Michigan, and when he came down from Lansing for that purpose, being a newspaper man himself and a judge of news values, he raised an unpromising session into a plane of interest by a few enthusiastic words to the effect that whether reciprocity be wise or unwise, he would like to see the Star-Spangled banner float over the free and the brave from the north pole to the isthmus of Panama.

Which joyous Americanism was followed in a few minutes by the frank statement from a Denver delegate that he had no use for Taft reciprocity at all, but he did want to love our Canadian neighbors as ourselves by extending to them the privileges of States in the American Union. Hence, when a be-whiskered judge of the Supreme Court from Toronto came to bat, oratorically, he profusely declared that he mustn't say anything, but he would say that there was nothing so irritating to a Canadian as talk of annexation to the United States. How would you like us talk of annexing you? he asked. Then he boasted that Canada was drawing thousands of settlers from the United States, and sixty millions of dollars with those settlers, every year, and he hoped to make good subjects of King George out of them. As a result of this melay, when the editors started out on their tour of the lakes and St. Lawrence River towns it was with some apprehension about the manner of their reception.

It is a trifle ridiculous the way some of the excessively English Canadians talk about their country. We all remember from school-day reading of history that Canada was originally the realm of the French. England took the country away from France by force of arms, during the time that our colonial ancestors were dubs and English subjects as the poor present-day Canadian yet are. Canada could never have been taken from France without the help of Virginians and New Yorkers and New Englanders. Neither these colonists, nor we, their heirs, administrators, devisees and assigns, have had any compensation for that job, except the military training received by George Washington and a few others, which enabled us to lick the British armies in 1776 to 1783.

It would be simply an instance of the justice that works out sooner or later in the history of nations for the United States to annex Canada. We will have to do it some time, and the English Canadians might as well get themselves used to the system. It will not be very difficult to persuade the French-Canadians.

As a wonderful exhibition on Ontario's fertility of soil and mildness of climate the Leamington Post points out that two crops a year can be harvested of tobacco. A farmer there recently harvested his crop as a neighbor was setting his out.

CANADIANS STAND TO LOSE BY OPENING OF U.S. MARKETS

But in a still larger sense Canadians would stand to lose from the opening of the American markets, and that is very clearly put by Senator Beveridge in a speech recently delivered on reciprocity. He says: "There must be reciprocity with Canada. Our tariff with the rest of the world does not apply to our northern neighbor. That policy already has driven American manufacturers across the Canadian borders, built vast plants with American capital on Canadian soil (do you notice the Senator weeps (laughter), employing Canadian workingmen to supply trade. That capital should be kept at home to employ American workingmen to supply Canadian demand." (Applause.)

Here we have another statement—this time from a distinguished Senator—as to the effect of our present commercial relations with the United States which President Taft is so anxious to improve. Senator Beveridge says, "The American tariff has driven American manufacturers across the Canadian border, built vast plants with American capital on Canadian soil, and so on." Well suppose it has—we are told that American capital to the extent of $225,000,000, has been invested in Canada—is that a condition that we should seek to change? If the Americans change it of their own motion, we cannot help it, but surely we should not encourage negotiations which would prevent the investment of capital from any quarter in Canada. If there is anything we need it is capital for our industries and farms and mines and factories. But notice another observation of the distinguished Senator. He says, "That capital should be kept at home to employ American workmen to supply Canadian demand." Will let me tell Senator Beveridge that some time ago we allowed American workmen to supply Canadian demand, but if he hopes this will ever happen again I very much mistake the Canadian sentiment of to-day.—Sir Geo. W. Ross to the Toronto Board of Trade, Nov. 3rd, 1910.

BEEF TRUST HAS EYES ON CANADA

Its Tentacles are Seen in Reciprocity, Which Purposes to Give it Free Access to Our Live Stock

Third Fisherman:—"Master, I marvel how the fishes live in the sea."

First Fisherman:—"Why, as men do a-land; the great ones eat up the little ones."

"Such whales have I heard on o' the land, who never leave gaping till they've swallowed the whole parish, church, steeple, bells and all."

Like Shakespeare's whale, the monstrous Beef Trust of the United States will "never leave gaping" till it has "swallowed the whole parish," provided, of course, that Providence doesn't send a Jonah.

The Reciprocity Agreement, ex-speaker "Joe" Cannon of the United States Congress, says, is "a machination of the trusts." And when it is considered that this trade pact proposes to feed such huge octopuses as "the Big Six" meat packing companies in Chicago, with "free" natural products from Canada, one is inclined to believe "Joe" Cannon is right. Having almost swallowed the American parish, this whale now gapes for the unexploited, fair districts of Canada. Shall Canadians be considered as "little ones" and be eaten up or shall they throw the Reciprocity Jonah overboard and continue their national voyage to greatness on an untroubled sea?

The examples to hand of the way in which the Beef Trust has operated and is operating now in the United States should, alone, turn every citizen of Canada, and especially the Western farmer, against a tariff re-arrangement which would tend to bring the country under the direct touch of this gigantic corporation.

The United States Beef Trust is made up of the following firms: Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Morris & Co., including the Fairbanks Canning Company, the National Packing Company, under the joint management of Armours, Swifts and Morris'; Swarzchild & Sulzberger, and Cudahy & Co. The main interest, "the Big Six," as they are called, control 72 subsidiary packing companies, and these 72 tentacles stretch over the length and breadth of the United States, feeding themselves on the fat of the land and crushing out life wherever it is convenient.

In 1903 Judge Grosscup at Chicago granted an injunction against the Beef Trust, holding that it was an illegal combination in the restraint of trade. As usual, the case was appealed, and in the Supreme Court in 1905, Attorney-General Moody sustained the decision of Judge Grosscup, showing that (1) members of the Trust had agreed not to bid against one another in the live stock markets of the various States, (2) temporary increases in prices were caused to induce shipping of cattle to the Stock Yards, (3) prices for meat were set, through which shipments were controlled, (4) uniform rates of credit were adopted, and black lists were maintained, (5) common and unfair cartage charges were made, and less than legal shipping rates were obtained from railroads, thereby restraining competition.

At the present time the Beef Trust is looking for additional supplies from Canada. With the duties down, our livestock, especially that from the West, would be taken for consumption at Chicago. The bonding privileges now allow buyers from Armours, Swifts, Morris' and the others to come over and buy cattle off the Canadian markets for their export trade to Britain. At the Union Stock Yards in Toronto, the largest purchases are made by these American buyers, who absorb as much Canadian stock as possible, in order to leave a greater number of cattle in the States for the domestic uses of the Beef Trust. Canada at present is being used to hold a large proportion of the Beef Trust's export trade. The Chicago magnates regard their position in the British market jealously, and in the face of the Argentine Republic's strong competition in Britain, the American interests need all the y can get from Canada.

It is evident, then, that the Beef Trust has its eye on this country. Is it not better to give its buyers our cattle from our own markets for export, thus controlling our own position, than to have the live stock industry undermined and enslaved by allowing the same power that has smitten the United States to have free sway in Canada?

AFTER OUR RESOURCES

President Taft Explains How He Expects to Get Canadian Pulp Wood

That reciprocity will save the natural resources of the United States at the expense of Canada's is set forth by President Taft in an article contributed by him to Leslie's Weekly. He states that as one of the objects of the Agreement and proceeds to discuss the paper and pulp issue as follows: "In order to induce the Canadian provinces, over whom the Dominion can exercise no control, to lift the restrictions upon the exportation of their pulp wood, it is provided in the agreement that when paper is made in Canada from wood grown on land not under export restrictions, the paper may come into the United States free; and it is hoped that the difference of $5.75 between the duty on paper from restricted wood and no duty on paper made from unrestricted wood will induce the provinces to lift their restrictions. It seems to me that this is treating the paper manufacturers of the United States fairly. It is a provision calculated to secure to them a source of supply where they can get their wood at five dollars less a ton than in this country, with the disadvantage of a small competition of paper made in Canada from Canadian wood upon which there is no restriction."

FARMER WILL LOSE FIFTY DOLLARS ON EVERY HORSE

How Passage of Reciprocity Will Affect Ontario Farmers.

The Toronto World took up the question of horses with C.A. Burns (Burns & Shepherd) of the Repository, in that city, the leading horse mart in Ontario. The conservation turned altogether on the effect of reciprocity, should it come into force on the horse industry of the farmers of Ontario. Mr. Burns has always been a Liberal, and his father before him, the late Charles Burns was one of the Liberal leaders in Toronto. Mr. Burns intends to vote against reciprocity in the coming elections, and as a Liberal to vote against his party, because reciprocity should it pass will injure his business incidentally and also because it would be a great blow to the farmers of the province at large.

At the present time the Province of Ontario is shipping at least sixty thousand horses every year to our western provinces, and these are worth on the average $165.00 apiece to the Ontario farmer who raises them, or in round figures over ten million of dollars, which Ontario takes for her horses every year from the Canadian west. Mr. Burns' firm shipped about a million dollars worth last year to the west; other dealers in Toronto shipped almost as many; and there were bought and shipped from other centres in the province at least eight million dollars' worth more, making, according to Mr. Burns a shipment that aggregated at least ten million dollars, every dollar of which was distributed among the farmers of Ontario.

If the duty on horses is removed and American horses are allowed into Canada free, Mr. Burns gives it not only at his word, but as his experience, and as a fact that these horses can be bought in the southwestern States at fifty dollars less than they can be bought for in Ontario, with a shorter journey and lower freight rates to boot.

"Say it from me," said Mr. Burns "that the Ontario farmer will lose fifty dollars at the very least on every horse he has to sell, if reciprocity comes into effect and that means three million dollars to the Ontario farmers every year of loss. They can breed horses in Arkansas and in the southwestern States for much less than we can in Canada; they can graze them for nine months in the year, where the most the Ontario farmer can graze his horses is five or six months in the year. Moreover, they can feed their horses corn, which is cheaper than oats.

In every way, the American horse raiser can turn out his horses for a great deal less than the Canadian; and when Mr. Burns was in the southwest a short time ago visiting the big sale stables at Memphis, St. Louis, Chicago, and the other southwestern cities, the one opinion that he heard from the dealers there was that they desired to get into the Canadian market with their animals.

At the present moment there are scores and scores of buyers who came from Manitoba to the Toronto and Ontario horse markets every year. They buy their horses here and they ship them over the Canadian railways and every one that comes here, when he comes, also buys one or two carloads of other goods from Ontario or Toronto merchants. They spend their money in Toronto for clothes for other goods, at Toronto hotels, for supplies for wagons and the like and this money which they leave here besides what they leave for horses would hereafter go to the cities of Chicago, Memphis St. Louis and the other horse centres of the United States.

"No one can imagine," said Mr. Burns, "how serious a foe reciprocity will be to Ontario, to the Ontario farmer, and to the City of Toronto once our horses lose their values and we lose the present trade we now have It is a black eye for the Ontario farmer and it is a black eye for the city of Toronto; and it simply means the transfer of a profitable industry and its attendant benefits from Ontario to the United States."

Our horses will not be able to go into the States; the horses of the United States will be able to come in here and undersell our own farmers. This aspect of the situation comes home to every farmer in Ontario. It is all very well to talk about wider markets, but those in favor of wider markets must come down to details and tell the farmers of Ontario what they are to gain on horses by the use of the market of the United States, and whether, rather it will not mean a decided reduction in their present income for their farm products, and most of all, in the case of horses.

DR. CLIFFORD ON CANADA

Noted Divine Gives His Impressions of This Country

London, Aug 21.—Dr. John Clifford, the notable Nonconformist preacher, who recently visited America to attend the Mohonk Peace Conference, has returned to London and told the London Chronicle what he thinks of Canada.

Dr. Clifford was amazed by what he saw on the Canadian prairies, the forces of advance and development in the civic, educational, and commercial divisions of the provinces he visited. At Calgary the rising value of land, property was brought vividly home to him. Some years ago a sum of about £100 was contributed by his church for the establishment of one at Calgary. The land on which it was built cost £82. It sold a short time ago for £5,600 and now the church is looking out for a new site. They call it Westbourne Park No. II.

"The people of both the United States and Canada were most anxious to know all about old England. I addressed the largest body of clergymen, I am told, that ever met a stranger in New York, and at the close of the gathering, as, indeed, at the close of all my similar meetings, questions were asked as to what the old country thought of this and that. 'What is its attitude toward the higher criticism?' 'What is the trend of the motherland on social matters?' and so on. I was asked to address several Canadian clubs, and sent in advance a list of subjects from which they could select one. 'Social Evolution in England,' was selected four times out of five, and when you remember that these clubs are composed of the cream of the commercial and the professional classes, you have at once an indication of the trend of our Canadian friends.

"They are, depend upon it, out for making a great and good nation, and the evidences that I saw of how they are planning for the future and for dealing with the mass of newcomers, clearly proved that the new world is going to be a great improvement upon the old, at any rate, they are going the right way about making it so. Of course, it has its dangers. Materialism is a great dead wall there. The dollar-maker is in the ascendant, I fear. There is little use for the dreamer. They forget for the moment that the man who cannot wonder is but a pair of spectacles behind which there is no eye.

WENT THROUGH SMALL BRIDGE

Threshing Outfit Too Heavy Planks Not Used

A threshing outfit went through the bridge this side of Downer's Corners, and near Beaver Meadows, Saturday afternoon, but after considerable hard work, was placed on terra firma again. The owner, Mr. Moffat neglected to place the planks carried with the machine on the bridge. Ald Morgan and a number of other men assisted in the rescue.

CITY COUNCIL TO MEET TO-NIGHT

Sewer Work Tangle Due to Come up for Discussion

A meeting of the city council is called for to-night, the most important item of business to come up being the trouble which has arisen over the action which recently took place on the sewer work in connection with the new pump station.

An effort will be made to straighten out the misunderstanding, so that the work may be rushed along as rapidly as possible.

TWO BLAZES AT THE GAS WORKS

Fire Started Between Wall and the Boiler

The fire brigade was called to the plant of the Peterborough gas works on Simcoe street twice on Saturday afternoon, to fight a stubborn blaze which originated on a wall on the south side of the building and the boiler. The fire was difficult to reach and hard to extinguish. The first call was sent in about one o'clock, and after it had been brought under control, another blaze started at 6 o'clock, but after considerable work it was also successfully overcome. The damage will not be very extensive.

LAID AT REST

The funeral of the late Wilson Henderson, of Peterborough, was held in Oshawa the home of the deceased, on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 to the Union cemetery. The proceedings were conducted under Masonic auspices, the late Mr. Henderson being a member of the Cedar and Lebanon lodges.

Rev. R. W. Hinds, B.A., of Bowmanville, officiated at the funeral service. The funeral was rather private only a number of former friends of the deceased being present. Those from Peterborough were Messrs. T. F. Matthews, F. R. Yokome, E. G. Patterson, A. E. Coulthard, R. A. Morrow, J. J. Turner, sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Garrow.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier at Simcoe said: "I have visions of a more far-reaching agreement (reciprocity) which will bring even more closely together the great civilized nations of this continent."

"LAURIER WAS AFRAID OF THE UNITED STATES" SAYS BORDEN

Conservative Leader Tells the Why of the Reciprocity Pact—Afraid of Maximum Duty Threat of Uncle Sam.

Berlin, Aug. 22.—Between twenty-five hundred and three thousand people heard R. L. Borden, the Conservative leader, here last night. The meeting was eagerly anticipated in view of the vigorous campaign which Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King is conducting through the riding of Waterloo, and the more immediate fact that he received the nomination at Waterloo yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Borden's meeting was noisy; there were many interruptions and much moving about. It was late before the Conservative leader took the platform, and the shuffling of feet made it difficult for his voice, already suffering from strain, to carry.

The meeting itself was thoroughly satisfactory. The interruptions were concerned chiefly with local issues, but the main arguments of the Conservative leader were followed closely and his points applauded.

Hon. J. J. Foy concluded the meeting.

Mr. Borden admitted that in 1866 and for some years afterwards. Canada desired reciprocity with the United States. But that was the nineteenth century; this was the twentieth century, the century of Canada (Cheers).

In 1903, when the bill to provide for the National Transcontinental Railway was before the House, Sir Wilfrid Laurier had asserted that Canada could only prosper by being absolutely independent of the United States. Contrast that with the present situation. He likened the sentiment surrounding reciprocity to the spiritual comfort which a character in Scripture derived from repeating over to himself the word "Mesopotamia."

True, he went on, reciprocity would obtain with a country like the British West Indies, which did not grow what Canada had to export, and only exported what Canada could not produce.

The immediate cause for the reciprocity pact was that the Dominion Government got down on their knees before the United States, because they were afraid of the enormous dislocation of business if the United States impose the maximum duty. I do not think they were right in doing that. I am free to admit that our Government had the support of the business interests of Canada, and it would have been better to have fought that issue out then and there, and to determine whether or not we were a free people in Canada so far as the control of our tariff is concerned, or whether we would submit to interference of that kind.

Leaders' Plans.

Ottawa, Aug. 22.—Both the political leaders are now turning their attention to the Maritime Provinces.

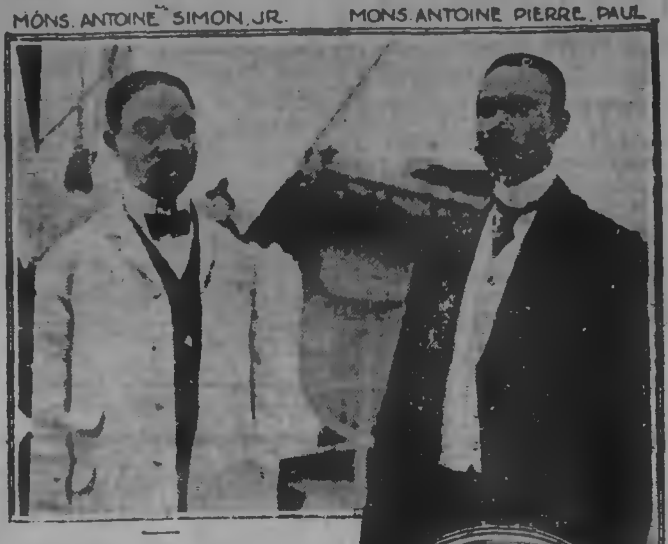
REFUGEES FROM HAYTI RETURN WITH BAGS OF GOLD.



MR. EVANS R. DICK.

Mr. Evans R. Dick, of the New York banking firm of Dick Brothers, who figured very prominently in the Haytian revolution in selling the yacht American to the government, has returned from the Black Republic with several other refugees, who had some interesting stories to tell. Mr. Dick denied having anything to do with the troubles in Hayti. "I had a commission to buy the yacht for the Haytian government and I filled it," he said on his arrival in New York. Among the other arrivals from the scene of disturbance were Antoine Simon, son of ex-President Simon, and Antoine Pierre Paul, his secretary. They had mighty few clothes, but they had pockets full of gold coin. Simon and Paul said the revolution was due to the abuse by Americans of the concessions for railways granted them in Northern Hayti.

ENGLISH STRIKERS GETTING BACK INTO HARNESS AGAIN

King George Sends His Personal Thanks to Lloyd George For Saving the Day—Small Disorders Still Existing.

London, Aug. 22.—The strife in the industrial world of the United Kingdom gradually is abating. With a truce in effect on all railway lines except the London and Northwestern, the Board of Trade was occupied all yesterday in an endeavor to reach an amicable arrangement between the employes of this line and the managers, and also in trying to settle the strike of the short sea traders. It was announced last night that both these controversies are now in line for early adjustment.

There is still much friction on some of the railroads over the impatience of strikers returning to work, to be accorded full reinstatement to their old positions, which have been given to men who remained loyal to the companies when the walk-out was declared. As a result there were several instances of disorder yesterday in various parts of the kingdom, and decisions by small bodies of men to remain on strike.

Work on the London docks was in full swing yesterday for the first time in three weeks, but it will be some time before the congestion of the port, due to the dock and transfer men's strike, is relieved.

King George telegraphed his congratulations to Premier Asquith, David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Sydney Buxton, president of the Board of Trade, on the settlement of the railway strike. The King's message to Mr. Lloyd-George said:

"I am glad to hear that it was largely due to your energy and skill that the settlement was brought about. I heartily congratulate you and feel that the whole country will be most grateful to you for averting a most disastrous calamity. It has caused me the greatest possible anxiety."

The representatives of the railway employes yesterday complained that the companies were not carrying out the terms of the agreement under which the strike was called off, referring particularly to clause two, which provides for the reinstatement of strikers without prejudice. As a consequence a long conference was held at the Board of Trade and a protest of the men investigated. At its conclusion the announcement was made that a satisfactory solution of the difficulty had been reached.

PREMIER ADDRESSES THE HABITANT IN HIS HAUNTS

Pays Little Attention to Bourassa and Lavergne Now.

Ste. Julienne, Que., Aug. 22.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier carried his campaign into the rural districts of the province yesterday, addressing typical gatherings of French-Canadian farmers here yesterday afternoon. Several hundred people were present, many driving into the village from distant farms.

It is in the rural districts that the Nationalists are reputed to have made the greatest headway, but the Premier paid little attention to Messrs. Monk, Bourassa and Lavergne in his address, and did not indulge in the fierce replies to these opponents that have characterized his addresses in some of the larger centres of population. He was, however, particularly emphatic in stating that the claims of the Nationalists that the navy would soon result in conscription were ridiculous and false.

On the reciprocity issue he made the usual appeal—the higher prices that the farmers would receive for their products once the market of ninety million was open to them.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, who has quite recovered from the throat affection which has been troubling him, also spoke.

The meeting was presided over by Mayor Bertrand. A feature of the meeting was the presence of D. A. Lafortune, K.C., who two years ago carried Montcalm County, in which this village is situated, as an independent Liberal, although Omer Lapierre opposed him, endorsed the Government. Mr. Lafortune has again been nominated to contest the county, and yesterday the Premier endorsed his candidature, while Mr. Lapierre, the defeated candidate, in a brief speech, also exhorted the electors to give their support to Mr. Lafortune.

Jury Blames Waters.

Hamilton, Aug. 22.—That the deceased came to his death by being struck by an automobile driven by W. J. Waters, and that the speed of the auto was excessive, was in effect the verdict of Coroner Anderson's jury, which last night enquired into the death of William Boyce, who died in the City Hospital on Aug. 15, from injuries received the previous day in a motor accident at the corner of Main street and Sanford avenue.

Crown Attorney Washington could not say last night whether or not the crown will take any furhter action in the case. George S. Kerr, representing the Boyce family, and John W Gauld, acting for Mr. Waters, were present at the inquest last night.

ONTARIO WILL TAKE THE BONDS

Cochrane to be Assisted by the Government.

Toronto, Aug. 22.—To enable the Town of Cochrane to pay the interest and sinking fund of the debenture debt toward building a new jail, public school, etc., the Provincial Government has agreed to buy the bonds of the town for the sum of $21,000.

Cochrane is taking up the work of erecting public buildings to replace those destroyed by the recent fire. The financial load entailed is a heavy one, and will seriously tax the energies of the people of that town.

In connection with this matter, a deputation, composed of the mayor of Cochrane, two of the aldermen, the president of the Toronto Board of Trade, and Mr. Home Smith, recently waited upon the Ontario Government and asked it to help the town out with its financial arrangements.

SAVE THE WORKINGMAN

After the Canadian reciprocity pact passed the United States house of representatives and the senate, these legislative bodies considered other tariff reduction bills. One was the Wool bill, making changes in what is known as the Wool schedule of the Aldrich-Payne tariff, and the other was the Farmer's free list bill, which puts on the free list: flour, cured and manufactured meats, agricultural implements etc.

And after working might and main to secure the passage of Canadian reciprocity, which puts on the free list our raw material, our grains, and other unmanufactured products, President Taft vetoed these bills. He was not willing that the Canadians should get concessions of real value to this country; concessions that would enable Canada to manufacture her raw material at home, and sell it to the consumers of the United States in finished form. In vetoing the Farmer's Free List bill, President Taft gives his reasons. Two are of interest to Canada, and the last reason in particular.

"Third — Because it places the finished product on the free list, but retains on the dutiable list the raw material and machinery with which such finished product is made, and thus puts at a needless disadvantage our American manufacturers:

"And, Fourth—that while purporting, by putting agricultural instruments, meats and flour on the free list, to reduce their price to consumers, it does not do so, but only gives Canada valuable concessions which might be used by the Executive to expand reciprocity with that country in accordance with the direction of Congress."

So President Taft would not consent to give Canada "valuable concessions" because he thinks he might be able to use them "to expand reciprocity" with Canada. In other words he would not give Canada the concessions that would have been handed her by the Democrats of their own free will if there had not been a reciprocity agreement rushed prematurely through. He wants to get a quid pro quo every time But that is only business. What is the use of making concessions for nothing if you can get valuable concessions in return?

If President Taft wants more concessions from Canada, and dangles some inviting bait, what have we left to offer him? We would already have free trade in natural products; the United States would already have access to our timber; it would already be getting our grain into its great mills, and sending the flour to the export markets of the world. We could only offer concessions in our tariff on manufactures. And that is what President Taft wants. He offered the Canadian commissioners, Fielding and Aunty Paterson, free trade in everything, and was disappointed when refused free trade in manufactures also. The United States business men want larger markets, and will have them. It is safe to say that reciprocity passed would lead to a series of efforts by Taft or his successor to pry off a few more bricks from the Canadian tariff wall protecting the workingman of Canada to-day.

Do we want free trade? Free trade would reduce Peterborough to the status of an overgrown village, instead of being a prosperous, growing city. It would produce hard times for the workingman such as he has not known since the "soup kitchen" days that the National Policy so quickly abolished. Let the workingman who wants silent, rusting machinery; who wants to hunt for work day after day with discouraged ones at home anxiously waiting; who wants to feel that instead of a community pulsating with life and energy and prosperity, it is drooping under the deadly heat of trust competition — let this man vote for reciprocity, the first installment of free trade.

It is the tariff wall that acts like a breakwater in the lake ports -- it keeps Canadian industrial and commercial conditions secure from the storms that rage in the troubled seas beyond. Keep up that tariff breakwater.

DO YOU WANT RECIPROCITY WITH CONDITIONS LIKE THESE?

UNION PACIFIC "LAYS OFF" 2500 MEN.

Omaha Neb., Aug. 21.—At the office of the general manager of the Union Pacific Railway Company, the information was given out that 2,500 employees of that road will be laid off during the week.

The reduction in forces will apply to all departments. The employes will not be discharged, but will be laid off, with no time set for their return to work.

The action of the company is said to be due to the fact that since October business has been steadily falling off.

THRFAD MILL CLOSES DOWN.

Pawtucket, R. I., Aug. 21.—Dulness in the cotton industry had an added effect in this city to-day when the thread mill of the J. and P. Coates, Limited, closed for two weeks, making 2,500 idle operatives.

Reciprocity With Argentine.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Representative J. M. Curley of Massachusetts, yesterday introduced a resolution requesting the President to direct the Department of State to enter into negotiations with the Argentine Republic to secure an agreement looking to the admission free of duty of all food products between the two countries.

DON'T NEED ONE FOR OLD ANDREW

Not Even a Convention Held to Select Mr. Broder.

Winchester Springs, Ont., Aug. 22.—Andrew Broder, member in the late Parliament, will again be the Conservative candidate in Dundas.

The Conservative association of the riding held its annual meeting here yesterday, and so popular is Mr. Broder in the party that a convention was not deemed necessary.

Sir James Whitney was present, and he was also named as the party's choice for the Provincial House.

The Ontario Premier and Mr. Broder delivered addresses in accepting the nomination of their old constituencies.

The registration may decide the election. Your name should be on the list. If unable to call, communicate with Mr. Burnham's committee rooms, and have the business looked after.

CYCLONE ON THE PRAIRIE

Seven Killed and Much Damage Done.

Wheat up Two Points Because of Reports of Damage.

Winnipeg, Aug. 22.—The extent of the damage suffered by Sunday's storm cannot be gauged. That it was sufficient to send the wheat market soaring two points is patent; but the volume of actual harm caused is beyond conjecture. The city is flooded with reports and rumors, which are unreliable, as is shown by the fact that correspondents in the same districts do not agree as to the effect of the storm.

One thing is known definitely, and that a cyclone two hundred yards in width swept through a big stretch of Saskatchewan, the southern corner of Manitoba, and entered into the northern States. The tornado apparently gained momentum as it swept forward; in Dakota it killed seven, overthrew grain fields and swept buildings off their foundations.

Apparently in Saskatchewan hail and heavy winds robbed a few sections of a good percentage of grain, but it is not believed that the damage was really a warrant for the big advance in local prices here yesterday.

Four buildings are totally wrecked. When the barn of Donald Colquhoun, near Gainsboro', Sask., was blown down, two men were in it, and one is so seriously injured that he is not expected to recover, while the other is quite badly injured.

The other buildings on the farm were damaged and the machinery rendered useless, while the crops were destroyed.

J. S. Shillington's barns, hay and crops are totally ruined.

A neighbor named Brown suffered a like loss, and a boy was hurt from the flying timbers of one of the barns.

John W. Stevenson lost his barn, granary, machinery and crops.

John Cares suffered as severely as Stevenson.

The houses of all were damaged, though none were blown down.

GOOD POSITIONS GET IN LINE

The Peterborough Business College is a worthy link in a chain of seven Business Colleges located in the cities of London, Peterborough, Welland and the towns of Orangeville, Walkerton, Wingham and Clinton. Owing to its high-grade work it is affiliated with the Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. It is freely admitted that owing to these connections, its students get the very best positions. Fall openings are on Aug. 28th, and Sept. 5th, but at this school each student is instructed privately at his or her own desk, students may enter any day. Many students study all at home and others partly at home and finish at the College. As Spotton Colleges are the largest trainers in Canada and have thirty years experience, it would be well for young people to get their training there. Last year Mr. Spotton trained over 1200 students and placed them in good positions. What he has done for thousands of others he can do for you. 13d

A Discovery of Vast Importance

It Is Now Admitted That Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Coughs, and Colds Can Only Be Quickly Cured By Mixing a New Medicine With the Air You Breathe.

Scientists acknowledge that medicated air treatment is the only treatment that will cure these diseases, and that stomach medicines are worse than useless.

Catarrhozone air treatment has been found to be the most effective way to cure all diseases of the throat, lungs, and nasal passages. Its action is so prompt that in less than an hour an ordinary cold is cured, and after a more thorough use of Catarrhozone, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all diseases of the throat and lungs are completely cured.

Catarrhozone is a very simple and powerful method of treatment. You simply breathe it through the inhaler and it immediately passes over every air cell of the throat, lungs, and bronchial tubes, curing and healing as it goes.

Catarrhozone treatment affords little drops of healing for sore places in the lungs, throat, and nasal passages.

A FRIEND INDEED

The British railways have a kind and munificent friend in the Radical Asquith government. The great railway strike has been happily averted, the men getting the increase in pay that they asked for. This would in the ordinary way of business have to come out of the profits of the railways, but that is not the way they do business in Britain, apparently. They do in Britain as in most other places—they ask the poor ultimate consumer to pinch himself a little more, that the usual measure of profit may be retained.

The British government has announced that it will in the next session of parliament introduce a bill to allow the railways to moderately increase their rates, to compensate them for the increased demands on their exchequers through higher wages to employes.

Thus the dividend cheques of the holders of the railway stock will be no less fat than of yore. The shipper and the commercial interests will pay the increase to the men, and they in turn will soak it to the consumers or the public. If the public had any alternative to paying the increased rates, there might be some justification for the government seeking to help out the railways. But the shippers have got to use the railways and pay whatever charges are allowed.

If a newspaper could work on the same system, what a happy time it could give its employes. All it would have to do would be to raise its rates, and of course the advertisers would have to pay the increase, and then out of the fullness of its treasury it could send its employes on trips to the Flowery Kingdom, or fossil-hunting in Brazil. But unfortunately, modern business competition does not permit of such felicitous happiness.

But British railway men have gained their points. The British public pays. And the British public cannot afford to pay. The extremes of poverty that are known in England have no counterpart in Canada, thank heaven. Britain is a country of great wealth, but the condition of its masses is deplorable, and some of these days we will see in the old land another French revolution, but performed in a Anglicized manner. The masses rest under the yoke only so long as they can bear it without getting physically and mentally desperate. More and more the doctrine of democracy, the right of man to have at least a fair chance in life is becoming recognized; and the privileges of caste and of wealth before the law must disappear. The world is, paradoxically speaking, getting to a broader and narrower plane. It is broader in its aspirations and its sympathies, in its tastes and its aims. It is narrowing in that the primeval forces of nature, the raw material that is the source of all life in the universe, is lessening rapidly. The fires of existence are burning low Nature's fuel, and a thousand years hence will see some strange conditions. The onward march of the years will bring great change and perhaps Britain's trouble is one of the signs of the times.

THE TRUST EVIL

The American trusts are occupying a rather peculiar position in the present political campaign. Each party is trying to put em in with the other fellow. They are a desirable enemy, it seems. We have the Montreal Herald declaring that they are putting up money to fight reciprocity in Canada as they fought it in the United States, and the Conservative newspapers say that the removal of the barriers will give the great organizations a chance to control the production of this country too, and that we shall be merely going from the frying pan into the fire in the matter of great industrial combination control. But there are trusts and trusts. It is conceivable that the food trusts do not desire reciprocity. It means that they would have to spend a lot of effort to gather under their wings the Canadian market also, which they do not want particularly. Having control of the United States markets which are big enough for any corporation to handle, these trusts do not want the added trouble of having to corral the Canadian production. But if reciprocity is put into effect, they will have to put this additional capital to work. They will have to take in Canada as a field of operation as a measure of self-protection in retaining their grip on the United States. And it would not take them long to do it, if they had to face the problem. Therefore it is certainly conceivable that the trusts do not want reciprocity but if reciprocity becomes a fact, the Canadian consumer will fall under their claws just the same as if they did want it. There is no law of right or of mercy in modern business. It is death to all who oppose the onward march of the relentless millions of dollars accumulated under a name. We have the chance to be let alone, if we refuse to enter the United States markets as competitors of the trusts. If we "butt into" their field, they will simply reach over, and where are the Canadians?

EDITORIAL NOTES

Stratton and struggles for the workingman.

Reports from the east riding say that Mr. Kerr's prospects are about the same color as the books he carries to convince the farmers that beans is beans.

At the Stony Lake regatta Candidate Kerr promised that if he became an M.P. he would next season give a cup. The Stony Lake people realize, however, that there's many a slip between a cup and an M.P.-ship.

Dr. T. F. Chamberlain, a Ross government official, and a life-long Liberal, cannot stomach reciprocity. He is going on the stump against it. How many Conservatives are there on the platform stumping for reciprocity?

Laurier would let the United States have free access to Canadian raw material, to cart away before our eyes to the United States. No wonder the Jim Hills of the United States are shouting for reciprocity. Keep up the fence.

Lloyd Harris, M.P., says that if the reciprocity pact had been submitted to vote in the Liberal caucus it would have been swamped. The Liberals themselves do not want it. It has been forced on an unwilling party. Let us see if it can be forced on an unwilling country.

The evidence surely is accumulating that it will not be safe to return Laurier at the polls, and let him finish his work. The safety and the prosperity of Canada demand that there shall be no change in the policy that for the last twenty years has made this country the most prosperous in existence.

President Taft has vetoed the farmers' free list bill, because it will give to Canada concessions for nothing. He says that the executive can use the offered concessions to obtain a quid pro quo from Canada, to further extend the reciprocity agreement. No more concessions can be given in natural products, because the present arrangement makes them free. Any further concessions must be in the reduction of manufactured article duties. Thus right in the campaign, the Laurier protest that the manufacturer is not going to be hurt is given the lie by Taft. Taft proposes to use a sledge hammer on Canada, if the pact goes through, to force still further concessions from this country.

Chas. J. M. Hickling of Collingwood has just received letters patent from the United States and Canadian governments for a very valuable noiseless explosive engine.

What We Can [illegible] Teach The Americans

BY ARTHUR HAWKES.

Can you teach your grandmother to suck eggs? Sometimes; for grandmothers aren't always clever.

"I'm very sorry, Mr. Bluffit," said an eminent judge to a lawyer who had argued with him instead of arguing before him, "but I can't teach you any law."

"That is so, my lord," dryly replied the lawyer, and sat down.

The Americans are more willing to be taught than we suppose. They have more to learn than they suppose. Not many of them think they can learn anything from Canada or Canadians. To them the idea of learning from us is about as sensible as the idea of an elephant teaching a grass-hopper to hop.

A while ago a party of United States editors was travelling to Winnipeg from Chicago. The talk turned to Canadian affairs and presently to elections. Said one from Kansas:

"But they don't have elections in Canada. Their public officials are appointed from England, aren't they?"

The Kansas editor's idea was a little too typical. His countrymen regarded us, I was going to say, as a poor relation, but we were scarcely in that class. The notion was pretty well expressed six months ago by the Washington Star, which said, "The native Canadian . . . is merely a displaced colonist, a species of political outcast, like the man without a country."

This kind of talk represents a traditional habit of despising the state of Canada, and of expecting that the country would come to the United States like a pile of filings to a magnet. Our neighbors could not understand how any white people could want to remain outside their political fence. At first when we declined to join them they were amused, then they were amazed. Then they were displeased, and they put up a tariff wall that was intended to starve us into a political marriage with them.

That was when Canada of the St. Lawrence valley had no winter access to Europe except through American ports; and when only a few men of the long vision saw a prosperous, populated Canada; the acknowledged leader of the younger commonwealths of the British Empire.

They thought we must come in. I have often been asked, in the United States, before the present revival of Reciprocity was put on the boards, whether I didn't think Canada was bound to come into the Union.

And now that Reciprocity has come to serve the very policy for which the United States denied it in the years ago—I mean the aggrandizement of the United States—it is taken for granted by our neighbors that union is bound to follow. The new phrase among the foreign diplomats at Washington is truthfully reported to be, "From the Pole to Panama."

Now, what is the answer of our Neverlooks to this dominant temper in the United States? It is that if they want union, we don't. The fool that rocks the boat always forgets that there is a great deal more water than boat. The little fellow who is told that he must choose whether he will travel his own way, or with the big fellow who personally did all he could to thwart his business ambitions; and who chooses the big fellow in the belief that he is serving his own permanent interests—well; it doesn't seem much use telling him he is at the parting of the ways.

The American says, "Train with me. Come my way. Never mind the plans you have been making for yourself."

What will you reply? Can you teach him anything? You can. If you were Canada's spokesman this is about what you would say:

"Permit me to offer you the lesson you taught me. When I was a national infant I thought I needed your help, and that without it I could not attain the stature of a man. I wanted to sell my goods to you. You turned your back on me. You did it many times. You showed me how to rely on myself and my kinsmen across the seas. I did not know what I could do till I tried.

"The last time I sent my representative to you he came back with the story of your own hardness, and with the news of the sure foundation on which my prosperity could rest. His name was Laurier, and he informed you, he informed the rest of the world, that I had turned my back on the hopes that had centred in you; and had turned my face to British business, and was building railways to make secure and permanent that same business.

"The difference between what I thought I needed, a long time ago, and what I now know I can do without, is the difference between a poor, timid farmer looking for a loan and that same farmer turned bank director.

"I admire you. Your business ability is marvellous. You have a perfect genius for obtaining control.

"I have discovered that linked with the mere buying and selling across a counter, and with the hauling of wheat in a box-car, there are deep and strong tides of national life. You don't hesitate to tell me you want to control my trade. I don't intend to have it controlled. You had your chance when I was young and green. I've got a country that hasn't all the advantages of climate and variety of resources that yours has. But it is one of a world-wide cluster of countries that have the greatest possible part to play in the world's history. It reaches out to the Old World from its Eastern courts. It touches all the wealth of Asia and the Islands of the Sea, from its shores on the Pacific. I have an asset in the Old Land that you have forfeited. I have a stake in the Orient that you cannot hope to emulate. I have a destiny, which a course, unfettered by entanglements with you, will help to make glorious. You tell me that I am at the parting ways. So let it be. You go your way; I'll go mine."

And the American will learn a whole when you talk to him like that.

The Lash of Circumstance

You say that is all you know about that phase of the matter. Very good But what else do you know?" Driven fairly into a corner I answered desperately:

"I know he had a key to the house While I was sitting with him at the interview I have just mentioned he became angry at the thought of uncle's refusal to assist him, and struck the table several times with some small metallic object which he had tightly clenched in his hand. The familiar appearance of the object immediately attracted my attention and I managed to see enough of it to know that it was a key to this place. I was somewhat surprised, not knowing how he had come into possession of it; but thinking it was his own business I did not mention it to him in his then condition of mind. I do not believe that he knew that I had noticed it, or was even aware that he had exhibited it in his excitement, for immediately after his outburst he thrust it back into his overcoat pocket. I think that I have now without reservation told you all that I know concerning his words and actions within the last few days. He can undoubtedly explain his possessonship of the key as well as his whereabouts last night to your entire satisfaction. But I hope it will not even be necessary to hurt his pride by questioning him."

LeDuc leaned forward with deep interest in his face. "Then if there are but four keys to the front door known to be in existence, and as your uncle has his own as well as the one which you formerly possessed, and as Mrs. Tebbets still has hers, the only one remaining to be accounted for should be in the possession of your other cousin, Miss Winton. If she still retains hers, then the one Bruce had must of necessity be a duplicate, and a duplicate could not have been made without the maker having for a time had one of the originals. That phase of the matter we will take up, if necessary, when we come to it, but what we want to know now is regarding the originals. And to ascertain that we must know whether Miss Winton has parted keepership of hers. I must see her at once."

"Perhaps it would be as well for me to call her up over the wire and ask her to come here," I suggested. "Uncle will be glad to see her, and I know she will dance with anxiety to come when she hears about this." He nodded his acquiescence, and going to the telephone I briefly put her in possession of the news with the request that she come to us immediately. In her excitement and eagerness she dropped the ear instrument instead of replacing it upon the hood, and I could hear her as she rushed about the room calling upon her mother for her hat and gloves. Fifteen minutes later she was ringing at the front door, LeDuc shot me a look full of significance.

"Did you say that she and Bruce are engaged, or something to that effect?" he inquired, referring to a remark which I had dropped a few moments before. I nodded.

"So Bruce intimated to me. I knew they were desperately fond of each other, and he told me that had he not been wiped out he would have married her. At any rate, she does not seem to have her key with her this morning," was my answer. Down stairs we heard Mrs. Tebbets opening the door, and a moment later with a patter of feet and a rustle of skirts Clare bounded in upon us. Her eyes were dilated and she seemed almost ready to burst from suppressed excitement. Her first words were about Uncle Abner and as to whether he was now entirely out of danger. I assured her that he was and then introduced LeDuc, requesting that she seat herself a moment with us before going into the other room. She dropped upon the edge of a chair, fidgeting and nervous. LeDuc, immediately all courtesy, laid aside his cigar.

"I will detain you but a moment, Miss Winton," he apologized, his faint habitual smile breaking into an affable one. "But as I am investigating this affair in the interests of your uncle and in the hope of recovering more or less of his money, I am going to assume that you, as one of the family, will be glad to give me your assistance. At the present moment I am devoting my attention to locating the keys of the house, it being evident that the premises were entered by the front door, as the back door was bolted from the inside. Will you be good enough to let me have yours for a few moments?" Clare moved nervously.

"It's queer about that key; I can't find it," she said hastily. "I always carry it in my purse, but when I searched for it a few moments ago on my way over here it was not there. For the life of me I cannot imagine where I could have misplaced it, for I have been very careful to always keep it in that one place. I simply know I have not lost it, but it is just as strange as it can be." She squirmed like a worried schoolgirl.

"Suppose we go back a little. When do you remember of having it last?" he pursued. Her forehead wrinkled with thought.

"Three or four days ago when I came over here. I have not had occasion to think of it since until Tom called me up a few moments ago. I am as worried about it as I can be, but I am certain that I have not lost it."

I saw LeDuc's gaze run over the graceful form of the girl and then settle upon her face with an expression that was beyond doubt one of unequivocal approval. That Clare whose heart was as open to the world as is the heart of a flower to the light of the sun, could harbor any secret as dark as this was preposterous to one who knew her. I had never met a girl with sounder morals or better instincts, and her character was of spun gold. And even though she loved Bruce and had always defended his frailties, I did not believe that she would have shielded him had she believed him guilty of as unnatural a crime as this, matter of history though it is that one can never tell what heights or depths a woman will achieve to save the man who carries her heart. Quietly I asked her when she had seen Bruce last, and knowing her mannerisms as I did became instantly aware that my question had put her on the rack, for a faint shadow flitted cloudlike across her face. Yet she answered me with her accustomed frankness.

"Day before yesterday—and I do not understand it either. He was to see me yesterday evening, but he neither came nor sent word as to why he broke the engagement. It is not like him to do such a thing, and while I suppose there is some good reason back of it, I do not know what it is. Anyway, I am worried." She dropped her eyes and tapped gently on the floor with her toe. "I wish you would try and get him on the wire, Tom, and find out if he is all right. That is all I care to know at present."

I assented and started for the telephone, but had made but a step or two before I heard his familiar ring at the door and a moment later his equally familiar voice from the hall below. Then up the stairs he came and at the first footfall I halted, listening. Usually he mounted something after the fashion of a scurrying cat in a series of light leaps, but now his feet pounded the boards with heavy uncertainty. I opened the door before him, but at the sight of his face I stepped back.

He advanced to the doorway, faltered there with one hand braced against the jamb and the crimson flushing his face as he saw Clare amongst us. His eyes were as red shot as a bloodhound's, and the hand that hung by his side was aspen. The unmistakable marks of an evil night were stamped about his mouth, and his usually clear face looked puttyish and mottled. I heard Clare gasp as she arose and slowly approached him with unbelieving eyes. He stepped aside as though to avoid her, his glance falling to the floor.

"I have heard about it—it is in the papers. Tell me the particulars," he said with a hoarse intonation. From the bottom of my heart I pitied him as I gently pulled the girl back to her seat and answered him in matter of fact tones.

"There is nothing to tell at present except that the safe was burglarized last night and the $40,000 stolen. I spent the night downtown and found Uncle Abner bound and unconscious when I returned home this morning. He was not much hurt and is all right now. This is Mr. LeDuc, who has been engaged by Uncle Abner to try and ferret out the matter. I think that is the whole thing in a nut shell." He stood as if in a half daze, his gaze rambling over us.

"Any clues?" he mumbled at length. I made no spoken reply, merely bowing in the direction of the detective. And at the signal LeDuc immediately assumed vocal command.

"The only thing we have learned as yet which seems to be of any particular interest is that Miss Winton's key has mysteriously disappeared. All the others have been accounted for, and we are anxious to locate hers. She is unable to offer any explanation, and we therefore turn to you as one who is frequently in her company in the hope that you may offer a suggestion. Can you offer any thought along that line?"

He shook his head decisively and without hesitation, and I leaned back in my chair with a long breath of astonishment. I had been thoroughly confident that he would at once admit his possession of it and offer some explanation that would immediately satisfy everybody. LeDuc was looking steadily at him, apparently as puzzled by his answer as was I. To all outward appearances there was something hidden beneath the skin here, and I determined to make a quick thrust at the heart of the matter, bleeding him of his secret for his own good.

"Where were you last night, Bruce?" I asked quietly. The pallor of his cheeks took on the unhealthy hue of wet ashes and he stood mute with an unpleasant narrowing of his eyes. For a long minute the silence was unbroken. LeDuc scanning him impatiently and Clare, her pupils expanded, leaning far forward in her intentness. Then he shifted sullenly upon his feet.

"I have no reply to make to that question at present."

I signalled to LeDuc, who instantly caught the cue. "But perhaps if the young lady would pardon us—" he murmured with a courteous bow to Clare. She arose upon the instant, and glancing neither to right nor left, passed into my uncle's apartments, while Bruce glooming after her with tightened lips moved no muscle. As the door closed behind her I made another effort in his behalf.

"I wish you would be reasonable in this matter, Bruce. You ought to know that you can trust us implicitly when I give you my word as I now do. If you have any reason—any man's reason— to think that your whereabouts last night if known to Clare would distress her, Mr. LeDuc and I will bind ourselves upon our honor to keep your communication confidential. Later on you may make such explanation to her as you may desire, but in view of certain statements which you made to me it is necessary that our mutual friend here should know where you spent the night. Will you tell us?" A pale glow of passion, phosphorescent like, appeared deep behind his eyes and he answered me doggedly, almost defiantly.

"No. It is a matter which at present concerns only myself. Nor do I understand your insinuations when you say it is for my own good that I make confidants of you. What do you mean by such attempted intimidation?"

Ignoring the gathering storm, I answered him in a calm tone:

"Bruce, I trust you implicitly and tell you now that it would take nothing less than a bombshell of absolute proof to shatter that belief. That being the case, when I assure you that I have reason to believe that it is for your own good to do so, I think you might honor me with your confidence. Along that same line I am going to ask you another question. Do you object to showing us the contents of your pockets — everything?" He turned a dull red, seemed about to explode with the heat of his passion and then growing suddenly cold bowed frigidly and began laying before us the contents of his clothes. It was the usual miscellaneous assortment of a man's personal carryings and when he had finished a glance told us that the object for which we were searching was not among them.

"The pockets of your overcoat please," purred LeDuc. With mocking deliberation Bruce began turning the folds and crevices of that garment inside out. Nothing of interest was exposed to us, and when he had finished we sat eyeing each other with silent lips. I broke the hush.

To be continued.

Brantford Liberals Chose Him to Fill Harris' Place.

Brantford, Aug. 21.—Mr. T. H. Preston, editor of the Expositor, was unanimously chosen Saturday as Liberal candidate for Brantford.

The convention at which Mr. Harris had declined the renomination, and Messrs. J. J. Hurley and L. F. Heyd were tendered the candidature, was adjourned from the previous week. In the meantime Mr. Preston was approached by representative men of the party. Saturday's adjourned gathering could have filled comfortably the largest public hall in the town. The Reform Clubroom and the hall outside were crowded when President J. A. Messecar called the meeting to order, and said the convention was open again for nominations.

The only name, proposed by Mr. John Muir, a prominent manufacturer, and Mr. C. W. Gurney, a well-known farmer, was that of Mr. Preston, and the unanimous invitation was given to him amid loud cheering.

Mr. Preston, in thanking the delegates, said he would have liked Mr. Harris to accept the nomination. He was so thoroughly in sympathy with the Laurier Government, except on the one question of reciprocity, that it would have amounted to Mr. Harris sinking his own views after the voice of the people had been made plain. The Liberal party was broad and strong enough to contain men of independent opinion like the ex-member.

Motor Jumps Bank.

Port Robinson, Aug. 21.—An automobile party from Welland, consisting of William Phillips, William Reed and Race Garner, while approaching the Chippawa Creek bridge here at 12.30 yesterday afternoon, met a rig on the bridge, the horse of which became frightened, and William Reed, who was driving the car, stopped, and in backing out of the way, was unable on account of the brake failing to work, to stop. The rear wheels getting over the brink of the steep embankment, the car tumbled down and turned completely over. Garner and Phillips escaped uninjured, but Reed, the driver, fared less fortunately, being seriously injured. He was taken from under the wreck and removed to the residence of J. B. Hyslop near by, and his injuries attended to. Reed later on was taken to the Welland Hospital in an ambulance. It is feared he is injured internally. The auto was badly wrecked.

The Premier's Plans.

Montreal, Aug. 21.—During the coming week Sir Wilfrid Laurier will make Montreal his headquarters, going out every day to various ridings in the neighborhood of Montreal where meetings will be held. On Monday he goes to St. Julienne in Montcalm County. During the week he speaks at Joliette, Farnham and a number of places throughout the eastern townships.

Rogers Enters Fight.

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—It is reported here that Hon. Robert Rogers will probably take the Conservative nomination in Provencher, Man., against Dr. Molloy. Provencher was about the one seat in Manitoba which the Liberals had set aside as absolutely safe, but with Bob Rogers in the running their calculations would have to be considerably revised.

Daring Horse Thief.

Cornwall, Aug. 21.—A daring horse thief carried off a team of horses from the barns of P. N. Tait, Mille Roches, Friday morning. He was seen by a neighbor riding one of the animals and leading the other and riding fast It is thought that the animals were ferried across the river to American soil, but so far they have not been recovered.

To Retain Dr. Rutherford.

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—As a result of a conference between Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, and Dr. Rutherland, Veterinary-General and Live Stock Commisioner. Dr Rutherland will remain in his present position until the first of October Dr. Rutherford handed the Government his resignation some time go to take effect on the last day of August. It is rumored that arrangements are being made whereby Dr. Rutherford will be retained permanently by the Government.

After investigating the feasibility of reclaiming the marsh lands in the neighborhood of Bradford, Mr. W. D. Watson has organized a company and intends devoting his time to that undertaking.

"BARGAIN" GLASSES ARE DANGEROUS GLASSES

This Editorial in the Ladies' Home Journal gives timely warning against these "Eye Destroyers" advertised as "Exceptional Values."

A woman who was hunting "bargain glasses" finally succeeded in "fitting" her eyes with what she enthusiastically declares was "just the thing." And immensely pleased with herself, this woman had brought about the gravest danger a woman could invest in, for she had bought two pieces of glass crudely ground, but magnifying strongly, and with them she can see "better to read"—That seeing better will mean an intense strain upon the her eyes, but she will not realize what the trouble is, nor the injury the glasses are doing. Some day she will be under the care of a Specialist, probably for the removal of a cataract, which will cost considerable, to say nothing of the suffering entailed, and she will be fortunate indeed if she does not suffer partial or entire loss of sight for the remainder of her life.

We have every qualification for giving your eyes a thorough examination. We fit you with the finest ground lenses, and at a very reasonable cost. Thousands of our citizens can certify to the care, skill and thoroughness of the examination, and the good results they had in wearing the glasses we prescribed. ALL WORK GUARANTEED.

YOUTHFUL STRANGER WAS RELIEVED OF HIS MONEY

Police Get Local Youths and Charge is Proven—Busy Session of Court.

The unusually large police court docket this morning would indicate that there must have been a mischief making epidemic raging in Peterborough yesterday, and to-day. As the apprehended ones filed up the police court steps and into the court room one wondered at the lengthy procession.

William Armstrong," came the voice from the magisterial chair.

"Found drunk in a public place this morning; guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty, sir."

Armstrong was up the other day on a similar charge and was found guilty, and assessed $2, but had not the necessary. The same sum was added to-day, and in the event of not paying he will sojourn fifteen days on the hillside stronghold.

A VAGRANT SCOT.

James Muir was the next on the list charged with vagrancy. He hails from the land of the heather, and has been in Canada about five years.

Evidently James abhors manual labor, as he was offered work at the Canadian General Electric works, but turned it down.

"I don't want to work; I won't starve," James is said to have remarked.

"I'll give you time to leave the city," said the magistrate, "but remember if you come here again on the same charge it will be six months in Central prison."

BENEFIT OF DOUBT.

"Herbert Hodgins, drunk in a public place yesterday; what have you got to say for yourself?"

"I'm guilty, sir."

"Where do you come from?" was the query.

"From Norwood, but I have been working for the Bell Telephone company."

As it looked like a first offence he was fined $2 with time to pay it in.

A BAD PAIR.

The next on the list was a case of theft, charged against Ernest Lowes and James Wright. Both were found guilty and judgment reserved till August 24th.

It appears that a young eighteen-year-old chap named James Rivers, of Minden, came to Peterborough yesterday on an errand for his employer, Dennis Harten. He carried $10 in a purse, the property of his employer. He had heard about the sawmills of Peterborough and crossed the C.P.R. bridge to look at them. Here he was accosted by a stranger named Wright, who asked him for a match. He was asked to go and get a keg of lager. This Rivers refused to do. There were three other young fellows there also, and it was not long before Rivers had been relieved of his ($10). He came over to the police station and notified the police, while the four others went to Hogan's hotel, in east city. Detective Newhall and P.C. McGinty went over and found them in the bar absorbing, and effected their arrest. They were brought to the police station and searched, and most of the money found on them.

Lowes pleaded guilty and Wright's guilt was proven.

The other two of the party were named Keegan and Carey.

The recovered money was returned to young Rivers, and he was advised by the magistrate to go home.

SPLENDID REPORTS AT HIGH COURT SESSION OF A. O. F.

Twenty Eight New Courts for the Order — Welcome by Mayor Morrow.

The eighteenth session of the High Court of the Ancient Order of Foresters was opened by the High Chief Ranger, Bro. John Young, of Hamilton, at the Collegiate Institute this morning at ten o'clock and credentials from 101 members were received.

The attendance of delegates was large and much interest was taken in the proceedings.

Mayor Morrow welcomed the delegates to the city in a neat address. With Ald. Graham his Worship was a committee from the council.

The report of the High Chief Ranger, showed that 28 new courts had been instituted and 1200 members reported. The various funds of the Order were prosperous and showed increases. The savings in the management expenses amounted to $12,000.

Dr. L. Secord, High Chief Medical Examiner, of Brantford, reported in a most interesting document, that the applications for memberships amounting to 5703, had been approved of during the past two years. The average age was 26. The number of deaths in the same period was 203. Extended sick payment amounted to $10,884 and this amount was paid out to 167 members for 5046 weeks. This is an increase of 20 per cent. in the past two years.

The Recording Secretary, Bro. W. Williams, of Toronto, reported that 4753 policies amounting to $5,000,000, had been taken since January 1st, 1090. Past assets were $232,580. Sick and funeral receipts during the past term were $61,860 and expenses $15,563.

The report of Bro. N. G. Butt, Superintendent of Organization, was distributed among the delegates and will come up for consideration at a later session.

Court Stanley A.O.F., extended an invitation to the delegates to take a trip over the lift lock and High Court adjourned at three o'clock in order that the invitation might be accepted.

The headquarters of the Executive Council is at the National Hotel.

MR. BURNHAM AT YOUNG'S POINT

Conservative Candidate Will Address Meeting To-night

Mr. J. H. Burnham, the Conservative standard bearer for West Peterborough, will address a meeting at Young's Point to-night. He will be accompanied by Mr. Peck and Mr. Kendry, who will also speak. Mr. Burnham's campaign is on in earnest and he is assured of a large attendance at his meeting to-night.

Pope Pius has so far improved as to be able to sit up and receive friends.

LOCAL Y.M.C.A LOSES MR. TAIT

Boys' Secretary Goes to Toronto West End "Y"

The many friends of Mr. Frank Tait, until recently Boy's Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., will regret to know that he has resigned his position here and has accepted a position in the Toronto West End Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Tait during his sojourn here has made a large number of friends, especially among the boys, and he will be missed around the local "Y." He made good in the boy's department and his departure will be a distinct loss to the boys, who looked forward to a revelation of new stunts again this season. Mr. Tait takes with him the good will of his Peterborough associates.

IMPROVEMENTS TO POLICE STATION

Council Passes By-law Authorizing Work Being Done

The city council put through a by-law last night authorizing the expenditure of nor more than $5,000 by the City Trust Commission for alterations and improvements at the police station.

The council was willing that the work should be proceeded with as soon as possible, but Mr. Moore remarked that all the city's money held by the commission has been handed over to the council in debentures.

Ald. Butler kept his promise and had a by-law to repeal the city's milk by-law, which was passed some time ago, by the council. It was suggested that the by-law be laid over till another meeting and the Peoples Candidate was agreeable.

SMALL BLAZE

Started in Rubbish Pile Near Canoe Factory

The fire department had a workout this morning when a blaze started in some sawdust and rubbish near the C.P.R. siding at the rear of the Canadian Canoe Co.

The fire was rapidly proceeding to the vicinity of the boathouses, when the firemen arrived but they were able to extinguish it by the use of water from the river.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Ed Fredenburg

The death occurred this morning at 2.30 o'clock, in St. Joseph's Hospital, of Celia Katherine Tobin, wife of Mr Ed. Fredenburg, of 193 River Road, north, following a sudden and severe illness which necessitated an operation. The late Mrs. Fredenburg was the daughter of Mr. Thos. Tobin, of Douro, and was 29 years of age. She was well and favorably known and her sudden demise will be greatly regretted. To mourn her loss are left three small children and her husband. Six brothers and two sisters with her parents also survive. The brothers are Messrs. Maurice, Leo, Joseph, Austin Thomas and William, and the sisters, Mrs. Ed. Kendry and Miss Alma Tobin all residing in the city.

The funeral will take place to-morrow morning at nine o'clock from the late residence, to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to St. Peter's cemetery.

Mrs. Mary Quigley

Mrs. Mary Walsh, relict of the late John Quigley, passed away in St. Joseph's hospital this morning, after an illness of about three years' duration.

The late Mrs. Quigley, who was 60 years of age, was a resident of Hastings during her early life.

Deceased is survived by three sons.

The remains will be taken to Hastings via the 6.03 G.T.R. train to-morrow.

BIRTH

COUNCIL AND CONTRACTORS FAILED AT A SETTLEMENT

No Proposition as to How the Sewer Work Will be Completed

The city council was a very much surprised body last night when Contractors Conroy and Bogue failed to present any proposition whereby the sewer work, in connection with the pumping station would be continued and brought to a satisfactory completion as the agreement called for.

Mayor Morrow called the meeting to have the matter settled one way or the other, but nothing definite resulted so far as the contractors were concerned and they were given until time to come to a settlement and meet the council again to-day.

Mr W. H. Moore, K.C, was present for Mr. Conroy and Mr. G. N. Gordon for Mr. Bogue.

Mr. Conroy took the contract in the first place. His health became poorly and when he appeared before the council and asked for permission to hand over the work to Mr. Bogue, he was accommodated, after signing an agreement which was to the effect that he would be responsible for the work.

Mr. Bogue then took hold of the sewer and struck quick sand and for the past few weeks very little has been done.

Mr. Conroy was given a set time, in which to proceed with the work, and Saturday was the last day of grace.

When asked for a statement last night, Mr. Moore said that the contract had been transferred to Mr. Bogue and he looked to Mr. Bogue to do the work.

Mr. Willis Chipman, chief engineer, came down from Toronto at the request of the Council and stated that practically nothing had been done in the last three or four weeks. He sized up the situation that the contractor was either unable or unwilling to complete the sewer. He believed that the work was not started right in the first place.

Mr. Gordon on behalf of Mr. Bogue, remarked that the machinery has been placed in the pumping station and this stopped the contractor from using such for draining the sewer. He said that he was given to understand that the work had been taken up with the city, with no better results. The contractor was willing to co-operate with the city with the end in view of completing the work. Mr. Bogue had protested at the time against the machinery being installed. Also the payment had not been made on the presentation of certificates and the city had taken possession.

Regarding the certificates the city clerk answered that they had been issued Saturday, but had been refused by the contractor.

The assistant engineer stated that Mr. Bogue had been given other work on the understanding that he was to bring forward some proposition as to how he would go ahead with the sewer, but the latter was not forthcoming.

Mr Moore held that the sewer had been started at too low a depth at the initial point and that later Mr. Chipman had been asked to make some suggestion but had not replied.

Mr. Chipman pointed out that the sewer and the pumping station were two different works and Mr. Conroy had nothing to do with the latter. Had the station been used, the machinery would have been ruined and at that the claim of Mr. Bogue had not been made until a short time ago. Mr. Bogue should have known what he was up against regarding the nature of the earth and he (Mr. Chipman) had not interfered. He thought that the trench had not been excavated wide enough, nor had the proper sheeting been used.

Mr. Chipman held that the work could be finished. "It is not impossible to do it, and I said so a month ago," he remarked.

Mr. Conroy said that he had discussed the matter with Mr. Chipman last fall. "We figured on getting the pumping station," said Mr. Conroy, "and it was ridiculous to take the station away from us."

The discussion continued without any progress being made. Asked if he would agree to allow the present level to be raised, Mr. Chipman answered that this was not advisable if the city was to get the best out of the station.

WHAT WOULD BROWN SAY?

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—In an account of the "Roof-Raising Rally Saturday night at Mr. Stratton's Committee Rooms," which appeared in this evening's Examiner, a man by the name of W. C. Austin gave a GREAT TALK, and credited the Hon. (?) J. R. Stratton of having done almost everything except create the heavens and the earth, and had J. R. lived in those days, no doubt Mr. Austin would have given him credit for that also. Well, if J. R. has done all he is given credit for, perhaps he can tell us what Brown would say to the following proposition:

Brown and Jones are two farmers living side by side. Each owns 100 acres of pasture land. Brown has 8 cows on his pasture and Jones has 90 cows on his. There is a good high fence dividing these two properties. In the course of time Jones' cows have eaten all the grass of their pasture and are getting pretty thin, whilst Brown's cattle are up to their knees in good juicy grass and are fat. Jones meets Brown, and in a very friendly (?) way says: "Brown, let us take down that fence and give our cows a greater runway." Will the Hon. (?) gentleman tell us what Brown, or any other man, would say to a proposition like that?

No doubt the farmers will be able to size this up and apply their answer in a telling way to Reciprocity, as she is produced by the Taft, Fielding, Patterson Company, Limited, when they are asked to take down their fences on the 21st September next.

Yours truly,
A NO "GREATER RUNWAY" OF THAT KIND.

AGAINST STREETS BEING OPENED

Ald. Bradburn Holds that Practice Should be Stopped

Ald. Bradburn made an objection last night at the council meeting to the practice of the city giving permission to reopen streets after they have been repaired.

The case he cited was that of the Peterborough Light and Power company, who opened Aylmer street recently, and just after the city had completed its work, permission having been given.

The engineer was instructed to take up the matter and see that there is no repetition.

The company was allowed to open streets on the understanding that the roadbed be left in its natural condition.

P. C. I. NINE TO PLAY AT HASTINGS

Game is to be Played Friday Afternoon

The P.C.I. baseball team goes to Hastings Friday afternoon to play a Hastings aggregation. Cresswell will be on the mound for the Central Park nine, and the Hastings hard hitters are expected to be handed a few surprise packets.

The locals made a good showing in their game with Campbellford here, and they are expected to put up a good argument on Friday.

The line-up has not been settled yet, but it will be announced later.

REGULARS AND THE YANNIYANS

Cresswell and Rahmal to Meet at Riverside Saturday

The regulars and Yannigans will have a work-out on Riverside Park Saturday afternoon. Cresswell and Rahmal will be the opposing twirlers, and it should be a pitcher's battle all the way.

The last time these two nines were pitted against each other Cresswell's team came out on the top of a 5—4 score, but he did not have much on Rahmal, who showed good form.

TORONTO MADE IT THREE STRAIGHT

Birds Were Downed Again by Hard Hitting Leafs

Toronto, Aug 22.—With Tesreau and Bachman handing out the shoots, the Leafs gave Baltimore their third consecutive beating yesterday with a score of 7—6. The Birds used three heavers, but Kelley's men could not be stopped. Jordan, Fitzpatrick and O'Hara had home runs. Should Toronto win to-day's game the Leafs will be only two points behind Baltimore.

To Head Off Powers.

Pekin, China, Aug. 22.—The transfer of Prince Su, chief of the Naval Department, to the board of dependencies is taken to mean that China will attempt to develop Mongolia and Thibet, as well as Manchuria and convert them into provinces, with the object of saving them from ultimate foreign domination. The prince visited Mongolia in 1906 and made an investigation of its industrial and commercial conditions.

China is planning to allow the office of Dalai Lama of Thibet to lapse by not authorising the appointment of a successor, and so to control Thibet without a religious intermediary, but the rapid and effective fulfilment of this program is not to be expected.

Oil Refinery Burned.

West Toronto, Aug. 22.—About five o'clock on Saturday evening fire broke out in the oil refinery and ice house at Gunn's abbattoir, corner of St Clair avenue and Albany road. About $10,000 damage was done to the building and about $5,000 damage to the refrigerator cars belonging to the Grand Trunk and C.P.R., which were on the siding loaded with beef at the time.

Loses an Arm.

Cornwall, Aug. 22.—Early yesterday morning, John Burgess, an employe of the Dundas Cotton Mill, while attending to his duties, had his arm drawn into a picker. The limb was so crushed that it had to be amputated.

was announced to-day. Beginning with a meeting in Montreal on Tuesday, Aug. 29, from Montreal the Conservative leader goes down to the eastern townships, holding two and three meetings a day. Wednesday, the 30th, he speaks at Farnham, Granby and Waterloo. Thursday at Richmond and Sherbrooke. Friday at Cookshire and Lake Megantic.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier will complete his Quebec tour this week, and will leave on Saturday for the Maritime Provinces, where he will remain a week, after which he will go to Toronto.

The Liberal convention Wednesday night will select the candidate for St. James' division, Montreal. There is some talk that Hon. Rodolph Lemieux may run, as there is a feeling in Liberal circles that a Minister should seek election in a metropolitan division. In that event a picturesque fight will be certain if Mr. Henri Bourassa could be induced to oppose him.

To Contest South Toronto.

Toronto, Aug. 22.—Four hundred enthusiasts gathered at the Labor Temple last night and nominated Controller J. J. Ward as the Liberal candidate for South Toronto in the coming Dominion elections. J. E. Atkinson of The Star, moved the nomination, J. P. Magann seconded it, and the crowd "hollered" for the close of the nominations. This was done immediately, and the speech-making commenced, followed by lots of assurances and predictions that J. J. Ward would be the next representative from South Toronto in the Federal Parliament.

Mayor Bleau In Provencher.

St. Boniface, Man., Aug. 22.—The convention of Provencher Conservatives, held here yesterday afternoon, chose Mayor J. A. F. Bleau as the candidate to oppose Dr. J. B. Molloy.

King For Waterloo.

Waterloo, Aug. 22.—Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King was nominated yesterday afternoon by a gathering of delegates that crowded the Town Hall, and the four hundred delegates gave the young Minister a big ovation.

The afternoon's list of nominations began and ended with the name of the Minister of Labor. It was presented by Mr. Wm. Snider, president of the Waterloo Manufacturing Co., and the Millers & Manufacturers' Fire Insurance Co. Mr. J. W. Hartleib, a well-known farmer and stock-breeder of Wellesley Township, was the seconder.

Hon. Mr. Fisher Chosen.

Montreal, Aug. 22.—Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, was yesterday afternoon, by unanimous vote, chosen again as the Liberal standard-bearer in Brome county.

The convention was held at Knowlton. Mr. Fisher will be opposed by Major G. H. Baker, a young lawyer from Montreal.

Johnstone Benefit Meet.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—A wind that reached 30 miles an hour at times prevented all but a few aviators from trying to get into the air at the benefit performance for the widow of St. Croix Johnstone yesterday. It had been announced that all the rules of the International Aviation Meet would be declared off and that the fliers would be at liberty to risk their necks in any aerial feats they chose, and as a consequence it was expected that the exhibition would be more spectacular than any during the meet.

The wind proved too gusty and for several hours no one attempted to fly. Then Lincoln Beachey arose, circled the field, descended and declared the wind was too strong for safe flying. An hour later Beachey, Gill, C. P. Rodgers and James Ward gave short exhibition flights.

Get Up and Hanged Himself.

Smith's Falls, Ont., Aug. 22.—Harvey Wilton, aged 23, an employe of the Frost & Wood Co., was found dead in his room, having hanged himself to his bedpost by means of an elaborate arrangement of straps.

He was sitting on the verandah of his boarding-house in conversation with a friend, when he arose suddenly and went to his room. Some hours later he was called, but gave no response. The chief of police was summoned and, breaking into his room, found the body.

There is said to have been a woman in the case.

Togo Interested In Hydro.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 22.—Admiral Togo left here aboard the private car "Canada" last night, after spending two days within hearing of the mighty cataract. He said before leaving that he was much impressed with the beauty of the falls and the wonderful power development. He was much interested in the Hydro-Electric scheme. He left Toronto for the west on the Canadian Pacific transcontinental express at 10.20 last night. He spent the entire day with Japanese Consul-General to Canada Nakamura, who accompanied him to Toronto.

Barn Burned.

Chatham, Aug. 22.—The barn, shed, implements, 500 bushels of newly-threshed wheat and the season's crop of other grain and hay on the farm of William Sturgis, 4th concession of Dover, were totally destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon. A threshing machine belonging to J. Glover, which was in the barn at the time, was also burned up. There was insurance on the threshing machine and the barn, but none on the grain. The fire was caused by a spark from the threshing machine.

Painted Him Red.

Chatham, Ont., Aug. 22.—A well-known young man from Chatham was set upon recently by a number of farmers' sons while returning from visiting a country girl down the river. His clothes were stripped from him and he was painted from head to foot with red ochre, a paint used for coloring brick. No informations have yet been laid against the men who attacked him, and an effort is being made to hush the affair up.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Aug. 21.—There was a fair enquiry from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat, but owing to the sharp advance in prices in Winnipeg all the bids were away out of line at the close. The local market for oats continues strong and prices here scored another advance of ½c under a good demand and small offerings. A fair business was done in spring wheat flour for export account, and the country demand was good at fair prices. Demand for bran and shorts is good. Cheese and butter are fairly active and firm. CATTLE MARKETS.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Aug. 21.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 110 cars, consisting of 2053 cattle, 489 hogs, 1018 sheep and lambs, 43 calves and 20 horses.

Exporters.

E. L. Woodward bought 154 export cattle, 1250 lbs. each, at $6.05 average price, or $6 to $6.20 of a range in prices.

Butchers.

Prime cattle of export weights were bought for butchers' purposes at $5.90 to $6.20, which was as high as for exporters. Choice butchers' weights sold at $5.70 to $5.85; loads of medium to good, $5.40 to $5.65; common, $5 to $5.35; cows, $3.50 to $5.25; bulls, $4 to $5.

Milkers and Springers.

A limited supply of milkers and springers sold at $45 to $70 each.

Veal Calves.

Veal calves were in demand at from $3 to $7.25 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Ewes sold at $3.50 to $4.25 per cwt.; lambs sold at $6.25 to $7.25 per cwt.

Hogs.

The hog market was higher, selects fed and watered selling at $8.10 per cwt.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Aug. 21.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, west end market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Aug. 19, were 2550 cattle, 2200 sheep and lambs, 2425 hogs and 400 calves. The offerings on the market this morning were 1000 cattle, 1500 sheep and lambs, 825 hogs and 1200 calves. A feature of the trade was the stronger feeling in the market for cattle and prices since this day week show an advance of 20c to 25c per hundred pounds. The gathering of buyers was large, including some from Quebec, and as the weather now is more favorable for keeping stock the demand was good, notwithstanding the fact that some of the large packing concerns bought the bulk of their supplies in the Toronto market at the latter end of last week at much better prices than they could have purchased here to-day. The trade throughout was fairly active and sales of choice steers were made at $6.15 to $6.25; good at $5.75 to $6; fairly good at $5.25 to $5.50; fair, $4.75 to $5; common, $4.25 to $4.50 per 100 pounds.

The market for live hogs was firm, owing to the small supplies that were offered, for which the demand was good, and an active trade was done with sales of selected lots at $7.85 to $8 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars. There was a good demand for small meats, and the market was active with a firm undertone. Sales of lambs were made at 6½c to 6¾c, and sheep at 4½c to 5c per pound. Calves were scarce, and in demand at prices ranging from $3 to $10 each as to size.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Aug. 21.—Cattle—Receipts 3375 head; market active and steady; prime steers, $7.15 to $7.25; butcher grades, $5 to $7; cows, $3.50 to $5.25.

Calves—Receipts 1500 head; market active and steady; cull to choice, $5 to $9.25.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts 11,000 head; market fairly active, lambs 25c lower; sheep steady; choice lambs, $6.40 to $6.50; cull to fair, $5.50 to $6; yearlings, $4.50 to $5; sheep, $2 to $4.

Hogs—Receipts 20,300; market active 10c to 15c higher; Yorkers, $8.10 to $8.20; stags, $6.50 to $6, pigs, $8; mixed, $8.25 to $8.20; heavy, $8.15 to $8.25; roughs, $6.75 to $7.10.

Chicago Live Stock.

UNION STOCK YARDS, Chicago, Aug. 21.—Hogs—Receipts 26,000; market 5c to 10c higher. Mixed and butchers, $7.20 to $7.95; good heavy, $7.20 to $7.90; rough heavy, $7.05 to $7.20; light, $7.25 to $7.95; pigs, $5.75 to $7.80.

Cattle—Receipts 20,000; market 10c lower. Beeves, $5.15 to $8.00; [illegible] $2.25 to $5.90; stockers and feeders, $3.25 to $5.40; Texas, $4.50 to $6.45; calves, $6 to $8.75.

Sheep—Receipts 28,000; market weak. Natives, $2.25 to $3.90; westerns, $2.65 to $3.75; lambs, $4.25 to $6.85; westerns, $4.85 to $6.60.

"Pushed" a Barber's Face.

London, Eng., Aug. 22.—Sir David Bruce, who served in the South African war, and who is an authority on sleeping sickness, was at Abergele Denbighshire, on Saturday fined half a crown for assaulting a barber.

Sir David was being shaved in a barber's shop, when the barber cut his cheek. He said that he slapped the barber's face, considering it the best form of chastisement and that it would do him good.

Denies Steel Merger.

Bethlehem, Pa., Aug. 22.—Charles M. Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Steel Co., last night denied the report that his company would be merged with the Lackawanna Steel Co. and the Republic Iron & Steel Co. to fight the United States Steel Corporation. He said that no such step was contemplated. "We are solely interested in the development of our own company," he said.

Cotton Tariff Bill Passed.

Washington, Aug. 22.—The cotton tariff revision bill was passed by the House late yesterday. The bill was signed by Vice-President Sherman and Speaker Clarke and sent to President Taft, who will veto it.

The Senate adjourned until noon today, and Congress, after hearing the President's veto message, will finally adjourn at 3 p.m.

Heat Affects the Pope.

Rome, Aug. 22.—There was another heat wave here yesterday, and in consequence the Pope, who was reported to be convalescent from his recent attack of gout and heart weakness, suffered a slight relapse.

He was weakened to such an extent that he was unable to go into the Vatican gardens, as he had intended.

Edward Whitten of Flesherton has successfully raised 60 lbs of ginseng roots valued at $400 to $700 in a twenty-foot garden plot.

MISERABLE WITH STOMACH TROUBLE

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" BRINGS THE HAPPINESS OF HEALTH

"Fruit-a-tives" cures Stomach Troubles because it cures the Liver, Kidneys, Bowels and Skin.

Indigestion etc. is not usually the fault of the stomach itself. The bowels are irregular—the kidneys are weak or strained—the skin is inactive—and consequently the blood is impure. It is the impure blood that really makes bad digestion.

"Fruit-a-tives" purifies the blood by making all the vital organs active and healthy—which in turn relieves the stomach. Take "Fruit-a-tives" if you want to get rid of all Stomach Troubles and faults of Digestion.

A RAW POLITICAL DEAL

Toronto News.

In the Farmers' Bank inquest held in the Toronto police court, Mr. Travers, the former General Manager, was a witness. Counsel for the crown led him up to the time when he was in Ottawa securing Government authority to launch the unsound institution. Counsel introduced the name of Mr. Calvert, then Liberal member for West Middlesex and chief Liberal whip, asked if he (Mr. Travers) had seen Mr. Calvert and got any aid from him?

Mr. Travers replied—I told him (Calvert) there was some delay in getting the certificate, and asked him to give me some assistance. He took me down to Mr. Fielding and we had an interview there for fifteen minutes and perhaps half an hour or so.

Question—Did he assist you? Answer—He said everything favorable to me he could at the time. Did everything he could to induce the Minister.

Question—Did you give him (Calvert) any money? Answer — Not then.

Question—Since? Answer—Yes.

Question—How much? Answer—I could not tell you, perhaps $5,000.

Question by Magistrate—Has it been repaid? Answer—I believe it was all repaid but $560 at the time the bank failed. I have since heard the balance was paid.

Question—He did a favor to you and you loaned him? Answer—Well, I loaned him in the way of business.

Question—It was long after? Answer—It was long after.

Here we have the Finance Minister in a peculiar position. He had received notice from a group of subscribers to the bank's stock that part of the statutory deposit of money which Mr. Travers was making with the Government had been obtained by indirect and fraudulent methods. On being paid off these subscribers withdrew their protest, but their very withdrawal should have placed Mr Fielding on his guard. At the same time Mr. E. B. Osler, M.P., was warning the Minister not to issue a certificate to such an irregularly conceived enterprise.

The Minister had these and other notifications, but friends of the bank and its promoters were laboring with him. Mr. Calvert, the Liberal whip went down with Mr. Travers and helped him to persuade Mr. Fielding. The Minister acted on the advice of Travers and Calvert, and the bank opened its doors. On the day after the certificate was issued the Finance Minister received a further communication from the Canadian Bankers' Association. Even then it was not too late to act, but nothing was done. Approved by the Government the institution began to take in the farmers' money. Well informed people recognized the enterprise as rotten from the outset, and its failure was expected to occur long before it really did. But the Department was blind, and no steps were taken to protect the public.

Naturally some of the victims are meeting and passing resolutions asking the government to protect the depositors upon the ground that the bank should never have been given a certificate to do business, that it was insolvent from its inception, and that the hundreds of losers, who were innocent in the matter, should be taken care of. The farmers of Canada should not take much stock in a trade arrangement fathered by a Minister who should have prevented one of the worst banking disasters in the history of Canada—and did not.

LAKEVIEW ITEMS

Special Correspondence.

Lake View, Aug. 21.—We are glad to know that the Benefort correspondent has agreed with the Lake View writer and acknowledged to his wrong statements regarding the pasturing of cattle on the highways. But we are sorry to learn that such statements were being placed in circulation that were undoubtedly untrue and without any foundation whatever. Seems that he has been in conversation with some of the authorities who probably have more knowledge of the township's affairs than he could possibly conceive. Now we have a faint idea of the knowledge that our worthy friend had of the township's affairs, he being a life-long resident of the place. But I think he was only trying to work up an argument, as his talk was only futile and without any bottom in it, and he at last was forced to submit to Lake Views.

That old common firecracker accident, which should have died away long ago, the old coal is being kindled by the Benefort correspondent. Now I would like to make a statement which is plain but true. The Benefort correspondent is stating untruths, and I am ready to prove it, and if such statements continue to appear I will meet him face to face, and I tell you I'll make it warm for him.

There have been persistent rumors that new interests have obtained control of The Halifax Chronicle, and that this may have an important bearing on the election campaign.

Riots, growing out of the strike of newsboys, were renewed in Dublin yesterday. The contents of several newspaper wagons were burned and there was some stone-throwing.

A cigar stump carelessly thrown away by a smoker is believed to have been the cause of a serious fire at Mountain Grove, near Sharbot Lake, early yesterday morning. The loss was $8,000.

Because Ernest Joufret married three times and attempted to enter into the bonds of matrimony the fourth time, he was sent to jail in Toronto yesterday to be examined by the city physicians.

Samuel Fowler of the editorial staff of The Kingston Standard died after a few days' illness from a stroke of apoplexy, aged 62 years. Deceased was a son of the late John Fowler of Cobourg, in his day an eminent railway contractor.

The body of the world's largest woman was laid to rest Sunday in Toronto. Borne in a casket specially constructed, being 3 feet 6 inches wide, 3 feet 6 inches deep and 6 feet long, the remains of Mrs. Letitia Campbell, known professionally as Dolly Varden were taken to Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

One Was Drowned.

Montreal, Aug. 22.—While crossing the railway bridge at Terrebone on Sunday night, two boys met with a terrible accident, which resulted in the death of the younger, Joseph Martin, aged 11 years, and serious injury to his older brother, Emile Martin, 13 years.

The boys were half way across the bridge when they saw the lights of a locomotive approaching. Losing his head completely, the younger brother plunged into the river and was drowned. The older one crowded himself against the rails at one side of the track and was struck by the passing train. Help soon arrived, and Dr Rochette of Terrebone, attended the wounds of the injured boy, who was reported yesterday morning as likely to recover. The younger boy's body was found yesterday.

Roosevelt Out of It.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 22.—Former President Theodore Roosevelt in a letter to Alex. P. Moore, editor of The Pittsburg Leader, made public yesterday, says:

"I must ask not only you, but every friend of mine I have to see to it that no movement whatever is made to bring me forward for the nomination in 1912. I should esteem it a genuine calamity if such an attempt were undertaken."

The Leader has been advocating the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt for President in 1912.

Revolt Failed In Equador.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Aug. 22.—The garrison at Chone, in the Province of Manabi, yesterday repulsed an attack by 50 armed supporters of Gen. Flavio Alfaro. One of the rebels was killed and two others were wounded.

Detailed news from Quito announces that the city has returned to its normal quiet, following a week of panic and rebellion, which began when the supporters of President Alfaro sought to proclaim a dictatorship. Public opinion failed to support the movement.

MR. DILLON'S ANSWER

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir—Mr. Burnham in the Review of yesterday says he will comply with my request, when I name two of four clergymen to whom he will submit the evidence. Why does he want clergymen to act as judges, or why are four required? Four might cause a deadlock. I suggest a much simpler arrangement. This is not a question of theology, but a question of fact. Let us then choose a man who is accustomed to sift evidence, and an expert in arriving at the facts of a case. I therefore agree to let His Honor Judge Huycke decide this case for us. Mr. Burnham can have no objection to him, and I am perfectly satisfied to abide by his decision. So now Mr. J. H. Burnham deposit your $100.00 with any bank manager in this city. You make the choice, my money is ready. Just go right ahead and submit your evidence. It will be an excellent opportunity of showing the public what unreliable statements you are accustomed to make.

DENNIS DILLON.

NOTE—This letter is printed only because of the desire of the Review to deal fairly by its subscribers and readers. We do not think that there is anything to be gained by a continuation of the controversy, which in itself is not an issue of the campaign. After publishing this, only as a measure of fairness to each party, the Review will decline to permit the use of its columns to a continuation of the letter writing on this subject — Editor.

TO THE YOUNG MAN

MacLean Publishing Company, Toronto, are looking for a local representative for their MacLean's Magazine also Farmer's Magazine. This is an excellent opportunity for any ambitious young man to greatly add to his regular income. Both of these magazines are up to the high standard of the other MacLean publications and would have a large circulation in this district if brought to the attention of readers here.

To the Young Man of the right type there can be no doubt as to his success. It not only means a greatly increased revenue for him but a training in salesmanship which would be difficult to secure from any other source.

MacLean Publishing Company have their own salesmen in every province of Canada. Every man joining the staff is given a training in salesmanship which is of inestimable value no matter what line he may engage in later. Their staff includes not only the most expert salesman in Canada but the highest priced men also. Their staff includes the very best circulation men in the Dominion.

Arrangements can be made with the Circulation Department of the MacLean Publishing Company, Toronto, for the above representation—but only men with ambition should make application.

REPORT ON DICKSON POWER PROPOSITION ON THE WAY

Mayor Morrow Remarks That Cost of Development Will be Very High—Business Transacted by Council.

At a special meeting of the city council last night, Ald. Bradburn read a report from the Power committee, which recommended that the council do not reaffirm their resolution made some time ago asking the department of Railways and Canals to give the Otonabee Power Co. a lease of No. 4 dam.

Regarding the Dickson company proposition, Mayor Morrow informed the meeting that the report of Engineer Ross had been made and that it had been forwarded to the Hydro Electric Commission to be reported on. Both reports will be sent here shortly and a special meeting called to consider the same. Mayor Morrow remarked that the cost of development of power at the Dickson dam would be very high for the city.

There were present at the session Mayor Morrow and Aldermen Buller, Metheral, Bradburn, Edgar, Kerneghan, Duncan, Anderson, Morgan and Graham.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the secretary of the Department of Agriculture, acknowledging the receipt of a copy of the city's milk by-law, and stating that the same would be given to the Minister on his return from England. Several suggestions were also made.

Mark Pengelly's application for the position of caretaker of the new pumping station was referred to the Board of Works.

It was decided to send to the secretary of the Peterborough Fair a letter from J. S. Bell, who stated that he had property in Otonabee for sale, which would be suitable for fair grounds.

Secretary Hall, of the Peterborough Industrial, asked for permission to erect advertising streamers on the streets, and the request was granted.

Another request for an additional grant to the fair in view of the heavy expense incurred in the erection of a new steel grandstand was sent to the Finance committee.

Complaints were received from T. Kinnear and Co. and B. F. Ackerman regarding the flooding of their premises through defective drainage. Both threatened legal proceedings if the city neglected to take such action as would remedy the trouble.

A Cobourg resident sent a picture postcard to the effect that visitors to the city could not be expected to find their way about under present conditions, there being no street names at the corners. He claimed that Cobourg was bad, but that Peterborough was still worse.

CLAIM FOR DAMAGES.

W. H. Moore, K.C., sent in a claim on behalf of John H. Briggs, for injuries received by Mr. Briggs when he was knocked down near the corner of Brock and Alymer streets, during a practice of the firemen, some hose under water pressure having dropped and struck him.

PIGEON CREEK BRIDGE.

The county clerk, Ed. M. Elliott, wrote regarding the Pigeon Creek bridge, which is now closed and awaiting repairs, and it was decided that Aldermen Metheral and Anderson be a committee to meet the county council and the committee from the Victoria council in an endeavor to come to some agreement whereby the repairs would be proceeded with. The council committee will report back.

POLLUTION OF RIVER

Inquiry was made in a communication by Dr. McCullough, Chief Health Officer for Ontario, as to the reason why the city had not complied with the request from a resident of South Monaghan regarding the pollution of the Otonabee river. It was pointed out that no agreement had been made and that Dr. McPherson was taking samples of the water to be analyzed, at the order of the council, and that his work was not yet completed. As soon as this is done the question will be taken up. Several members remarked that the refuse from the gas works was still entering the river, and the Peterborough Light & Power company will be again asked to have this evil remedied.

Charles P. Murphy, Cedar street, wrote to the effect that he should be assessed for Separate school tax instead of for Public school, as was now the case. The mistake will be rectified.

The city solicitor sent in an itemized account of the cost to the city in the appeal in the Hatton case. The bill is $870.43.

That he was willing to withdraw the bonus clause of a previous letter, when applying for the position of Industrial Commissioner, if given the appointment, was what W. H. Meldrum wrote. No action was taken.

On motion of Ald. Bradburn and Anderson, it was decided to give the committee of the 57th regiment $50 to assist in defraying the expenses incurred in putting on the sports program on coronation day.

The Court of Revision recommended that a cheque for $4.31 be issued to Alex. Grieve to correct the error in his taxes for this year at No. 184 Lisburn street. The change will be made.

BOARD OF WORKS.

Ald Metheral reported as follows;—To the Council of the City of Peterboro';

Gentlemen,—Your Board of Works beg leave to report as follows;

We purchased a gasoline engine and pump from the Smart, Turner Co. for use on the sewer work, at $216.95 on the recommendation of Mr. Chipman and Mr. Hay.

We received a request from the Wm Hamilton Co. for permission to lay a 1 1-2 in. pipe across Reid street and upon a report from the City Engineer that he saw no objection to granting the request we gave the company permission to lay the pipe, they to leave the street as it then was after carefully packing the refilling.

We recommend that a petition for a catch basin near the corner of Weller and Walton streets be left with the chairman and city engineer with power to act.

We recommend that the city engineer be instructed to report on the cement sidewalks that should be constructed next season with all particulars required by the law as soon as he can after this season's work is done.

The matter of constructing a storm water drain on the east side of George street north from Simcoe street was referred by your Board to the chairman and city engineer with power to act.

We recommend that the city engineer report on the paving of Chambers street with 2 1-2 inch asphalt blocks, the city to pay 30 per cent of the cost and the property 70 per cent.

We left the matter of repairing a drain on Argyle street to the chairman with power to act.

We recommend that the request of the Peterborough Light and Power Co. for permission to put up eleven poles on Hunter street east of Concession street be granted.

We granted permission to the Bell Telephone Co. to open parts of George, Aylmer and Charlotte streets for the purpose of laying conduits.

We authorized the Chairmen and city engineer to take precautions to prevent the plant required for the construction of the sewer in the southern part of the city being removed from the work either by having policemen protect it or by engaging men for that purpose.

We instructed the city engineer to take a few loads of gravel from Water street, south of Sherbrooke street and fill up the south end of Aylmer street and Townsend street between Rutlidge and Stewart streets.

We recommend that a catch basin be put in at the corner of King street and Pearl avenue and connection made with the Park street drain.

We recommend that the request of the Bell Telephone Co. to erect six poles on the south side of McDonnel street between Cambridge street and the Monaghan road be granted.

We recommend that the payment for gravel from the Hunter street pit be confirmed, and that any purchase of gravel in future be paid for on the certificate of the city engineer.

We recommend that a crossing be laid from the end of Munroe avenue to the east side of Knox street, and that a broad sidewalk be laid on the east side of Knox street, both to be constructed of old material.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ALD METHERAL,
Chairman.

LONG SESSION OF CONGRESS ENDED

Washington House Sat for Eighty-Seven Days

Special to the Review.

Washington, Aug. 22.—An extra session of Congress terminated this afternoon. The House was in session for eighty-seven days.

MR. BURNHAM REPLIES

Mr. Burnham who is very busy, requests the Review to state that when Mr. Dillon names half the committee of reference as proposed and puts up his money, he will do the same. Mr. Dillon is unknown to the Conservative candidate and is expecting too much when he expects to be allowed to run the whole affair. The Secret Councils of Vigilance Mr. Burnham referred to are not law councils, and this may help Mr. Dillon to understand.

A copy of Mr. Burnham's reply to Mr. Dillon's challenge, was sent to the Examiner, which promised to print it, but hitherto it has been overlooked. A copy of this statement has also been forwarded to the Examiner.

Brockville's street mail delivery has now gone into effect.

WHAT WE HAVE WE SHOULD HOLD

The Bulk of Canada's Natural Products Consumed at Home—Why Sacrifice a Reality for an Uncertainty?

Can the farmers of Canada afford to risk the breaking up of their home market? The market of the United States is in the hands of big and powerful trusts, who fix prices with little regard to the interest or wishes of consumer or producer. What will be the effect of taking down the tariff fence and permitting those trusts to extend their sphere of influence over Canada? Let us look into this thing and see what the home market means to the Canadian farmer. Of $289,000,000 of Canada's largest and most easily shipped crops in 1909, the whole outside world took less than $85,000,000 worth. The home market consumed over two hundred and four million dollars' worth of grain more than we sold to all the rest of the world.

Now let us look at the conditions as to root crops. The home market consumed $53,500,000 worth, and the rest of the world bought $1,069,637 worth of our principal root crop, such as is used in every home.

Hay is another of our big crops, and one which is always in demand. In 1909, Canada raised 11,877,100 tons, valued at $131,644,000 worth, while the rest of the world bought from us 55,884 tons, or something over $600,000 worth.

What about live stock? The official returns show that Canada had, in 1909, $278,789,000 worth of horses and exported $367,256 worth. Indeed, we imported $941,767 worth. Our horned cattle, other than milch cows, in 1909, were valued at $126,326,000, and we only exported a shade over $10,000,000 worth. Of $34,368,000 worth of swine raised we only exported $4,000 worth. Of $15,735,000 worth of sheep raised we exported but $500,000 worth.

VALUE OF AN INDUSTRY

Its Great Monetary Worth to the Community Where It is Located

An interesting and accurate calculation has been made of what an industry employing 1,000 hands means to a community:

It increases the population by 5,000 consumers.

It adds $90,000 to the value of public utilities.

The assessment is increased by $600,000.

It pays out annually in salaries and wages $559,800.

It represents through its buildings and the houses of its employes an investment of $2,000,000.

The annual expenditure in food would be $63,000 in meat, $9,600 in potatoes, $5,000 in sugar, $18,250 in milk, $65,700 in butter, and $27,600 in eggs.

Summed up, this means that an industry employing 1,000 hands is worth $221,600 a year to the farmers of the district.

The expenditure in clothing would be $168,750.

With the annual payment of taxes added to the total expenditure on buildings, food and clothing, you have in all $2,428,350 turned into the town in one year through the coming of one great industry. In conclusion, one may again note the prodigious results which are affected by the presence in Canada of some 435,000 artisans. In round figures these men would mean at least $1,056,322,250 to the Dominion.

An industry employing 1,000 hands may be regarded as a large one, but the same percentage of results would follow in larger or smaller plants, so that one can easily begin to reckon for himself what any particular industry would mean to a town or city.

BRIGHT NEWS FROM LORENZ

Lorenz, Aug. 22—Messrs. Norman and Fred. Jewison were to the Cobourg Horse show last Thursday, also Mr. Len O'Hara, our local cheese-maker spent the day there.

Mr O'Neil was in Peterboro last Thursday and Friday and put in the time of a Duke but what a race for the train for Fraserville.

Don't vote for Free Trade. It is the ruin of England and it will be the ruin of Canada, because the Yankees don't want anything unless they are going to get the biggest share of a dollar. Vote Tory and you will swim. Vote Grit and you sink like a dead log with a chain round it.

Some of the people are wondering what Laurier will do with the white wash brushes. Will he give them the Fielding to make a bank with, or will he let Oliver sell them.

The Tories are now wearing broad smiles. No wonder, while the Grits are mooching about like a lot of dogs without a master. Burnham is the winner. Stratton is the sinner.

The new correspondent has arrived. This is his first gospel so look for more.

Mr. J. Gainer had a half day threshing last week to make room for more grain. He had to draw in the barn. After supper was served the usual argument between the Grits and Tories was observed, so we all chimed in, and I am pleased to say, under the leadership of Mr J. Gainer the Tories sent the Grits away with little comfort.

Mrs J. Gainer, Mrs. T. Bradshaw, Mrs. C. Wicks and Mrs. D. Jewison Mr. William Jewison, were imbibing the city air last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Merney are on a visit to Rochester, N.Y.

Mr. Tom Bradshaw has gone to the West to visit some friends including Mr. Sid. Rutherford, who was farming in this district a few years past.

Miss N. Waterman of Fraserville has returned home after visiting friends around here.

Detective Hector Jewison was scouring the neighborhood last week in search of a fugitive from justice, but up to the time of writing this report, he had not been successful in his hunt.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Robt Rankin, Port Hope, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lavenia, to the Rev. J. E. Gibson, M.A., rector of Ascension church, Toronto. The wedding will take place at St. Mark's church, Port Hope, early in October.

Miss Florence Dormer and Miss Effie Fowler have returned from a two weeks' visit to Hamilton, Niagara and Buffalo.

Miss Margaret Lynch, of Montreal, who has been spending a few days at her home here, leaves to-morrow for a trip by boat from Collingwood to Sault Ste. Marie and Fort William. Miss Lynch will return to the city for a few days before leaving for Montreal again.

HON. CLIFFORD SIFTON SCORES IN ATTACK ON RECIPROCITY

Points to the Pulp Wood Clause as Designed to Coerce the Provinces—The Laurier-Taft Alliance.

Ingersoll, Aug. 23.—Hon. Clifford Sifton, former Minister of the Interior, now chairman of the Conservation Commission of Canada, dealt a smashing blow to the reciprocity cause in a speech delivered before an audience of fifteen hundred people here last night in the interest of Donald Sutherland, Conservative candidate for the South Riding of Oxford County. It was a speech that will be remembered long by those who heard it. Not for flambuoyant oratory or jingoistic sentiments, but for the cool dispassioned arguments of a man who spoke from knowledge, from experience, from convictions.

It did not take Mr. Sifton long to expose the inequalities of the reciprocity agreement. He at once characterized it as class legislation and showed the farmers how in recent years the average price of farm products had increased 35 per cent. and the price of what the farmer wanted to buy 11 per cent. He made it clear that the Canadian commission went to Washington under protest from many Liberals as well as himself.

"The United States treated Canada for forty years with a sort of indifferent contempt," he declared. "And," he added, "in view of the progress of the negotiations, that Canada discriminated against the United States, was absurd. At the time of the Albany conference, Mr. Sifton asserted there was a string to the outcome and that was an understanding that the Canadian Government should be willing to take up the reciprocity question at an early date.

"The Canadian Government was coerced into making this reciprocity agreement," he affirmed. The Liberal members had the alternative to accept reciprocity as the tariff policy of the party or dissolve their allegiance to that party.

Mr. Sifton quoted from an article by President Taft in Leslie's Weekly on the subject of "Pulpwood," which pointed out that the Canadian provinces controlled their own lands and to promote the pulp industry had placed an export duty on pulpwood. The article went on to say that the duty on crown lands pulp had been retained, "in order to induce the Canadian provinces over which the Dominion can exercise no control to lift the reduction on the exportation of their pulpwood."

"What do you think of that?" asked Mr. Sifton vehemently.

"What do you think of the Government of Canada entering into a combination with the Government of the United States to make a contract for the purpose of forcing the hands of the provinces of Ontario and Quebec and compelling them to let the United States have our forests whether they will or not. That is the position."

"There is not an intelligent man in Canada who does not know that the Province of Ontario is right. There is no justification, there can be no justification for the agreement and I trust when the facts are known there will be many men in Canada who will have the loyalty and determination to cast their party alliance and destroy this iniquitous act.

A large number of Liberals were in the audience.

The platform was filled with prominent Conservatives from all parts of western Ontario and a large deputation came over from West Oxford. Dr. J. B. Coleridge, Ingersoll, was in the chair.

MESSAGE SENT AROUND GLOBE

New York Times' Short Message to Circle World.

New York, Aug. 23.—In order to ascertain the speed at which a commercial message could be sent around the world by cable, The New York Times filed a despatch, reading: "This message sent around world," in the telegraph room, on the seventeenth floor of The Times Building, exactly at 7, and the reply was received by the same operator at 7.16.30 p.m.

The time occupied in the journey of 28,613 land miles, including sixteen relays, gave an average speed of twenty-nine miles a second.

When the Pacific cable was opened eleven years ago a special message was flashed around the world in 9 1-2 minutes. The Times' message, however, was handled without previous preparation.

DURBAR WILL BE POSTPONED

Drought and Famine and Plague in the Way.

New York, Aug. 23.—A London cable to The American says:—

In Parliamentary circles it is now considered probable that the Delhi Durbar will not be postponed, but will be altogether abandoned. The proposed coronation of the King in India was from the first intensely unpopular with the Indian Government, which dreaded the enormous expense involved, and also felt uneasy concerning the safety of the monarch. George, however, insisted and the Government could not well discourage him.

But the King himself has now suggested the abandonment of the affair in view of the drought famine and terible ravages of the plague. Moreover, with the working classes of Great Britain seething with discontent, the King feels that the pomp and expense of a Durbar would be altogether out of place.

VAGRANT HAD $7,000 ON HIM

Chicago, Aug. 23.—A man, apparently eighty years old, decrepit and ragged, who has been wandering around the streets for several days, was taken to the Chicago avenue police station, where $7,000 was found on his person.

While walking past the prisoner's cell, a deputy noticed the old man shuffling a roll of bills, which he could not reach around with both hands. After a while he began throwing the bills through the bars, as though dealing a pack of cards.

A search of his clothing brought forth more than $3,000 in bills, and bank books showing deposits of $3,800.

He mumbled in Norwegian that he had come from Canada, and said his name was Torsten Isaacson Aagaard.

Going West.

Toronto, Aug. 23.—Officials at the Union Station had a busy time yesterday in handling an unexpected rush of homeseekers for the northwest. They had prepared to handle about 400, but by two o'clock 700 had gathered seeking reservation in the cars.

The party was made up of men, women, and children from Western and Northern Ontario districts. It required two special C.P.R. trains to accommodate the party. To-day it is expected that about 4,000 harvesters will leave the Union Station for the west.

Excursion Steamer Burned.

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 23.—More than 250 women and children excursionists were imperilled when the Tourist, a new passenger boat on the Calumet River, was burned to the water's edge while running from Hammond to Riverdale, Ind. The boat was beached to save the passengers.

Fire broke out in the hold of the boat, near the engine rooms, while the craft was in midstream. Flames pouring out of the portholes precipitated a panic among the passengers, who fled to the upper deck. Many jumped overboard into shallow water and waded ashore.

NEARING THE END OF THE LONG TRIP BY AEROPLANE

Atwood Makes Another Stage in His Long Trip.

Fort Plain, N.Y., Aug. 23.—Another remarkable spin through the air on his aeroplane flight from St. Louis to New York brought Harry N. Atwood, the aviator, from Belle Isle, five miles west of Syracuse, to Fort Plain, late yesterday afternoon, and landed him 96 miles nearer his destination.

He is now 1,065 miles from his starting place and exactly 200 miles from his proposed alighting point in New York.

His actual flying time yesterday was two hours and ten minutes, and was made without a stop.

"The air was as dead calm as a pool," said Atwood. "Most of the time I kept my hands in my pockets or read a timetable."

Atwood believes he possibly may make New York to-day, but more probably to-morrow, because, on account of the rough and wooded country from Albany down the Hudson River he may be compelled to descend in difficult places or effect landings in the water.

Woman Killed by Auto.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 23.—Miss Gertrude Davis died yesterday from injuries received by being run down by an automobile at a street crossing at Plymouth Monday night. Andrew Raub, a wealthy mine owner, was also struck, and is in a critical condition. The auto driver is under arrest.

CANADA'S CANAL TRAFFIC BEHIND

Falling off of Nearly 4,500,000 Tons for Year

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, Aug. 23—Traffic on the Canadian canals to the end of July shows a decrease of nearly four and a half million tons, compared with the same period last year, owing chiefly to a smaller movement of lumber on the Ottawa and Chambly canal and ore on the Soo.

OPENING DAY AT CHICAGO AVIATION MEET AND STARS TAKING PART

MR. EARLE L. OVINGTON.
MR. THOMAS SOPWITH.
OPENING DAY AT GRANT PARK.
MR WALTER BROOKINS
MONS RENÉ SIMON.

Chicago is surely enjoying fine sport during the aviation meet now in progress at Grant Park. Last Sunday was the banner day for attendance, when 350,000 spectators witnessed hair raising, neck to neck races, in which airplanes swept around the aerodrome in closer run than many a Derby. The meet will continue until August 20.

HAVE YOU REGISTERED?

The registration booths are open to-day, and will be open to-night. It is important that every man of over 21 years of age who can qualify should see that his name is on the list. It will mean dozens and perhaps hundreds of votes for the Conservative candidate. See that you are registered.

The hours for registration are from 10 o'clock to 12 o'clock and 2 until 6 o'clock, and from half-past-seven until nine o'clock.

Registration is being conducted to-day, and will be continued to-morrow, Friday and Saturday. See that you are registered.

The places where you can register are:

Ward 1—Spry's shop, 214 Stewart street.
Ward 2—Council Chamber.
Ward 3—Police Court.
Ward 4—Mrs. Lee's shop, George street.
Ward 5—East City, village hall.

Any man over 21 years of age, who has been in the province for a year, in Peterborough for three months, and is a British subject, born or naturalized, is entitled to register. Get busy!

DO YOU WANT RECIPROCITY WITH CONDITIONS LIKE THESE?

San Francisco, Aug. 22.—It was announced at the offices of the Southern Pacific Railway here yesterday that 6,000 men would be dropped from the payrolls of Harriman railroads before the end of September.

OWEN SOUND GIVES LEADER BORDEN A CIVIC WELCOME

Audience of 3,000 Cheers the Conservative Leader to the Echo—Mayor Presents an Address—Dangers of Reciprocity.

Owen Sound, Aug. 23. Owen Sound set a new fashion for the tour of the Conservative leader. For the first time since the campaign began, a special civic reception was held. At Berlin an address of welcome was made by the mayor at the evening meeting, but here the civic reception was distinct and was tendered on Mr. Borden's arrival.

Mr. Borden was met at the station by the mayor and by the Conservatives of the town. A procession was at once formed and proceeded to the market square. Here Mayor Lemon read the address of welcome, which was entirely non-partisan, though very cordial. Mr. Borden in reply expressed his sincere appreciation of the welcome.

The meeting in the evening was held in the capacious roller rink, where three thousand people gave Mr. Borden a spontaneous and enthusiastic reception, which lasted while he walked up the aisle and took his seat.

James McLaughlan, Mr. Borden's host while here, was in the chair and on the platform were Dr. Sproule, ex-M.P. for East Grey, W. S. Middlebro, ex-M.P. for North Grey; George M. Boyd, ex-M.P.P. for North Grey, and Mayor Lemon. The civic welcome was not the only unusual feature of the reception here. Another unusual element was the presence on the platform of a considerable number of ladies.

W. S. Middlebro, the candidate, began by expressing his pleasure at being on the platform with "our next Premier." He closed with a warning as to President Taft's object in seeking the agreement in order that Canada might be drawn into the United States.

The chairman, as president of the Conservative Association of North Grey, read an address of welcome to the Conservative leader, and then Mr. Borden opened his address.

Mr. Borden in the course of his address told his audience that he had come to warn the people of North Grey of the national danger involved in the reciprocity agreement. "You cannot," he said, "build up a nation on material prosperity alone, you must be touched and quickened by a sense of responsibility in this country and in this Empire. For the last forty years we have been trying to build up a great nation within this British Empire. President Taft says we are at the parting of the ways. We know the path of Canadian unity and British connection. President Taft says there is another path. I ask you that on Sept. 21 you send a message to President Taft and to Sir Wilfrid Laurier that you intend to continue in the old path of Canadian unity and British connection."

Threw Himself Under Train.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—George Richey of Pittsburg, Pa., said to be a member of a wealthy family there, threw himself in front of a Nickel Plate flyer at Hammond, Ind., and was cut to pieces Monday night.

Richey tried three times within the space of a few hours to be run over by a fast train. Twice engineers saw him lying across the rails and avoided killing him by stopping. He let a number of freight trains go by him.

LAURIER ON MR. BOURASSA

Premier Hands it Out to Nationalist.

St. Eustache, Que., Aug. 23.—In the shadow of a church, bullet-scarred by the English in the rebellion of 1837, Sir Wilfrid Laurier held one of the best meetings of his Quebec campaign yesterday afternoon in the village of St. Eustache. Sir Wilfrid spoke with a fire and vigor, astonishing many old men who had cheered him to victory during his first appearance in the district in 1896.

Reciprocity was but lightly touched upon, but Sir Wilfrid took occasion to dissect the naval law, obviously to offset the vigorous campaign waged by Mr. Bourassa in this district against this plank of the Liberal platform. The Premier replied to the attacks of Mr. Bristol of Toronto Centre. Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux was in fighting form, and attacked the Nationalists without mercy.

There were about 3,000 at the meeting. Preparations were elaborate, the town being decorated, and Sir Wilfrid was met by twenty-five mounted youths and a band.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier remarked that it was his second appearance before the electorate of St. Eustache, the first occasion having been in 1896. He pointed out that when the Liberal Government had replaced the Conservative Administration ruin had not overwhelmed the manufacturers, as the prophets of the day had promised. The most partisan of Conservatives, he said, must admit that the country had never enjoyed such prosperity as to-day. He quoted statistics on natural products, showing what Canada would save by the removal of the tariff duties.

With stinging phrases Sir Wilfrid characterized Bourassa as a falsifier and deceiver. Mr. Bourassa had tried to persuade the people that conscription would follow the navy. In this he lied and knew that he lied. Mr. Bourassa did not know his own mind on the question of reciprocity, but Mr. Bourassa could be quoted to show that he had once, and that not very long ago, been an advocate of reciprocity with the United States.

The Premier also referred to Clifford Sifton, saying that he differed with that gentleman only on the reciprocity question. He said he was amply avenged for Sifton's turning against him by seeing him forced to occupy the same bed as Bourassa and watching the pains which both took to lie as far apart as possible.

White Frost In West.

Winnipeg, Aug. 23.—While the Dominion Government's meteorological readings for the past 24 hours show no traces of actual frost, special despatches from western points show that a white frost has fallen at four or five points. It was in no case very severe, and most of the cutting was already finished in the districts visited. Official reports have been issued from the office of agriculture for Saskatchewan stating that the damage done Sunday and Monday night will not seriously affect the general yield. Five thousand harvesters arrived last night and this morning. Harvesting will be general in Southern Manitoba by the end of the week.

Fatal Auto Wreck.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 23.—In a triple collision of automobiles in Park Heights avenue last Monday night, F. Holmes Hack, jr., well known in Baltimore society, was killed. Six other persons were slightly injured.

Hack's car was running at a high rate of speed, when it collided with another auto, turning upside down. Hack was instantly killed. Thirty minutes later a third automobile ran into the second car, and also turned turtle. [illegible]

Assails Lloyd George For Discrimination.

Accuses Him of Playing Against Men.

London, Aug. 23.—There was a lively passage between James Kier Hardie, the Socialist leader, and David Lloyd-George, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, during yesterday's session of the House of Commons. Mr. Hardie accused the Government of taking the side of the railway directors in the strike and said if the Government had brought the same pressure to bear on the directors as it had on the men there would have been no strike. He declared vehemently that the men who had been shot down by troops during the strike "were murdered in the interest of the capitalistic system." As a protest against the conduct of the Government he moved as an amendment to the motion for adjournment that the House of Commons adjourn to August 29 instead of October 24.

Mr. Lloyd-George replied that the great conflagration had been put out but that there were still smouldering fires here and there about the country, which at any moment might burst into flame. He declared he knew nothing which was more likely to bring about such a disaster and perhaps cause the men to fling away what their leaders had claimed was a triumph for them than "such grossly inaccurate statements" as had been made by Mr. Hardie.

The Chancellor said there was "not a syllable of truth" in the allegations of Mr. Hardie that the Government had sided with the railway directors. He asserted that it was due to pressure brought to bear by the Government on the directors that induced them to meet the representatives of the men face to face. The Government, he added, had used its whole power to see that justice was done both parties to the dispute.

GOOD POSITIONS GET IN LINE

The Peterborough Business College is a worthy link in a chain of seven Business Colleges located in the cities of London, Peterborough, Welland and the towns of Orangeville, Walkerton, Wingham and Clinton. Owing to its high-grade work it is affiliated with the Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. It is freely admitted that owing to these connections, its students get the very best positions. Fall openings are on Aug. 28th, and Sept. 5th, but at this school each student is instructed privately at his or her own desk, students may enter any day. Many students study all at home and others partly at home and finish at the College. As Spotton Colleges are the largest trainers in Canada and have thirty years experience, it would be well for young people to get their training there. Last year Mr. Spotton trained over 1200 students and placed them in good positions. What he has done for thousands of others he can do for you. 12d

SENT UP FOR TRIAL

Frank Burrows Out on Bail of $4,000

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Aug 23— Frank Burrows, whose automobile caused the death of Samuel Horton, on the Lakeshore Road, was sent up for trial on a charge of manslaughter, but is out on bail of $4000.

Endangers British Food?

London, Aug. 23.—The Evening Globe, referring to reciprocity, says: The Imperial Government has deliberately assisted in a conspiracy to give the United States something like a corner in transatlantic wheat. When the Americans have firmly established themselves in Canada, and are passing Canadian wheat through Minneapolis mills, the English market will be at their mercy. Our workers are grumbling at the rise of food prices. Even now when the independence of the Canadian source of supply is operative in keeping prices down, but if the great American trusts succeed in making this source subordinate to their own interests the British food supply will be seriously threatened.

FORMER BANK OFFICIAL DEAD

Mr. Ford Williamson Passed away This Morning

Special to the Review.

Huntsville, Aug. 23.—Ford Williamson, son of Mr. J. A. Williamson of Lindsay, and until recently manager of the Dominion Bank at Hespeler died early this morning. The funeral will take place at Belleville from the home of his father-in-law, Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, K. C.

SCIATICA

EXPECTED DEATH ANY DAY

Another Case Where Life Was Saved and Health Restored by "Nerviline."

It is because he feels it his solemn duty to tell to the world his faith in Nerviline that Victor P. Hires makes the following declaration: "For three years I was in the Royal Mail service, and in all kinds of weather had to meet the night trains. Dampness, cold, and exposure brought on sciatica that affected my left side. Sometimes an attack would come on that made me powerless to work. I was so nearly a complete cripple that I had to give up my job. I was in despair, completely cast down because the money I spent on trying to get well was wasted. I was speaking to my chemist one day, and he recommended "Nerviline." I had this good liniment rubbed on several times a day, and got relief. In order to build up my general health and improve my blood I used Ferrozone, one tablet with each meal. I continued this treatment four months and was cured. I have used all kinds of liniments, and can truthfully say that Nerviline is far stronger, more penetrating, and infinitely better than anything else for relieving pain. I urge everyone with lumbago, neuralgia, rheumatism, or sciatica to use Nerviline. I know it will cure them."

CURED SIX YEARS

There isn't a more highly-esteemed citizen in Westchester than Mr. Hires. What he says can be relied upon. For six years since being cured he hasn't had a single relapse. Don't accept anything from your dealer but "Nerviline." 50 cents per bottle, trial size, 25c; sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR

The Daily Review

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 23, 1911.

A FINE OUTLOOK

Advices from the Conservative headquarters indicate a very rosy prospect for the campaign. It is confidently expected that Ontario will give Mr. Borden a majority of about fifty members, and with Laurier losses in Quebec of about twenty seats, and the remainder of the Dominion holding about the same as at present, there is every indication that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's days of power are at an end.

This is no idle boast. It is no campaign poppycock. This is the conservative estimate made by the organizers, who, while they may be mistaken in some cases, are brimming over with optimism and confidence that reciprocity will be the knell of Laurier.

Apart from the Nationalist movement in Quebec, the Conservatives expect a clear majority from the country, so that the Third Party from the lower province will not control the situation, and may ally itself either with the Conservatives or with the Liberals. It is not likely that the latter course will be adopted, but as the party in power, the Conservatives will have their straight policies, inviting the support of any Nationalist or Liberal who cares to join in.

The prospects for Conservative gains in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick are peculiarly bright. Good men have been nominated, and it would indeed be not much of an achievement to increase the present Conservative representation, consisting of a half dozen members from Nova Scotia and one or two from New Brunswick. The west will not vary more than two or three seats either way, probably. In fact, the Toronto Star cannot see more than two Liberal gains in the whole west; which means that the Liberals do not regard the situation there at all hopefully.

However, as Sir John Macdonald used to say, "An election is worse than a horse-race." It is certainly most evident that reciprocity has failed most utterly to find the general acclaim that was confidently expected by Laurier. It has developed bitter opposition, not only in the Conservative ranks, but in the Liberal ranks, and the "time-honored" policy of "both parties" is doomed to defeat by the electorate. This is the Twentieth Century, as Sir Wilfrid has so proudly announced. Let us forget the policies that were doing duty in the nineteenth, and pursue a twentieth century policy—which is the preservation of Canadian raw material for Canadians, and a distinctive and separate national development for this country. Let us assert, at the beginning of this century, that we are determined to grow to maturity and strength not as an appanage of the United States, a commercial dependent, but as a strong and self-reliant nation, surrendering our fiscal freedom neither to Uncle Sam or anyone else.

THE SOUTH AFRICA CONTINGENT

In these days when so much is being said about loyalty and patriotism, we often find the Liberal speakers and newspapers claiming (outside of Quebec) that the Laurier government is the loyalist of all loyal governments, that it introduced the British preference, that Sir Wilfrid sent troops to South Africa, and that he did sundry other things possible only to a ministry and a government of super-patriotic qualities.

The South African troops incident is often referred to, and Sir Wilfrid is held up as the man who sent the Canadian boys to the South African veldt, to take their part of the fighting for the preservation of the empire in South Africa.

It will be remembered that Sir Wilfrid was in Chicago when he was called back home because of the tumult aroused in Canada over the government's slowness in sending a contingent. Public feeling was thoroughly aroused. On October 4th, 1899, however, there appeared an interview with Sir Wilfrid in the Toronto Globe, which may be assumed to be quite authentic, and Sir Wilfrid said then, when the question was just arising:

"There is no menace in Canada, and although we may be willing to contribute troops, I do no see how we can do so. * * * We should have to summon parliament * * * and so it is, we have not offered a Canadian contingent to the home authorities. The militia department duly transmitted individual offers to the imperial government."

On Quebec 14 Le Temps, a French newspaper of Quebec, and a supporter of the premier, in a strong editorial, said: "NOT A MAN, NOT A CENT."

On the same day as this was published, forced by the indignation all over Canada at the inaction, Sir Wilfrid had issued an order in council for the mobilization of a Canadian contingent for South Africa, after the other Dominions had moved in the matter, and had their preparations largely under way.

And in issuing that order, Sir Wilfrid Laurier's lieutenant, J. Israel Tarte, said: "We have consented to what England has asked of us, but in the order in council, which I hold in my hand, and which will be published one of these days, it is said that what we have done is not a precedent. The precedent will not be created by me."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Aw, wats de use! Let stratton finish his work!

Youthful Mr. Kerr seems to be conducting a hole-in-the-corner campaign in East Peterborough. It is quite a suitable training for after Sept. 21.

Borden and British connection is good enough for Canadians who don't want to run the risk of inviting Uncle Sam to visit us a while.

"Things I have done for Peterborough," by J. R. Stratton, is a most interesting volume of reminiscences. We wonder if there will be a volume coming entitled "Things I have done for Peterborough's Parliamentary representative."

Leader Borden will hold a reception at the Oriental on Thursday evening from seven o'clock until eight, to meet the Conservatives of the district. It is safe to say that the Oriental will never be so popular again for a long time—and that's no knock at the Oriental.

We hear a good deal these days from the Stratton organ about its leading citizen. Perhaps Mr. Stratton as a leading citizen might be induced to join in giving a fitting reception to Mr. Borden, a national figure. It isn't often that Peterborough is honored so much. Surely all leading citizens ought to join in the welcome!

OTONABEE HAD HER TROUBLES

Last night about 8.15 the steamer Otonabee steamed up the river from Peterborough with about 250 excursionists on board. The craft had much trouble navigating the channel, and encountered all sorts of encumbrances. When in the vicinity of Horn Bros.' woollen mills, the boat ran up on a boom of logs and had great trouble in extricating itself. A brave attempt was made to reach the town wharf, but this was not accomplished until between ten and eleven o'clock. The passengers disembarked on the west side of the river, this side of Horn's mill.

This morning a number took in the trip to Orillia, and will return home by train.—Post.

Latest Quotations in Grain Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Yesterday's bulge in wheat, occasioned in part by predictions of weather inimical to the crop, was more than lost to-day when the prophecies failed of fulfillment. December wheat closed ⅝c to 1c lower. Good weather sent corn down, December finishing ⅝c to ⅞c down. The close in oats was ⅛c to ⅜c under yesterday, and the decline in provisions ranged from 5c in January lard to 7c in September pork.

Liverpool closed ⅛d to ⅛d higher than yesterday on wheat and unchanged on corn. Paris wheat closed ⅛c higher, and Berlin ⅜c higher.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Aug. 22.—Business in grain over the cable was very quiet owing to the fact that the prices bid were generally out of line. The local demand for oats is fairly good and sales of round lots of No. 3 Canada white were made at 43½c and 44½c ex-store. The offerings from the west are light and buyers find it difficult to make purchases for futures shipment. American corn is weaker, but the demand is fair at the decline, and sales of No. 3 yellow to arrive were made at 69½c. A fairly active trade continues to be done in spring wheat flour for local and country account, and there is also a steady demand from European sources. The demand for bran and shorts is good, but supplies are very small. The trade in dairy produce is good and provisions are fairly active.

The Lash of Circumstance

"Bruce, you had a key to the house yesterday. You pounded upon the table with it as we sat together downtown and then put it back in your side overcoat pocket. I noticed it distinctly. Now Cleer's key has disappeared, and it is impossible for us to overlook the coincidence. Where did you get the one you had and which you do not now show us? We have a right to know, and for your own good you should tell, bearing in mind that we are all your friends and believe in you beyond telling." His eyes narrowed.

"You mean to say that I had a key to this house yesterday?" he returned with slow distinctness. I bowed.

For a moment he stood looking at me with an expression I had never seen him wear before creeping over his features. Then he turned away abruptly.

"I make no reply beyond saying that you are a very badly mistaken individual. Neither do I understand what you mean by all these intimations, and furthermore I am indifferent. I have nothing more to say. You may both present the devil with my compliments for all I care."

Pausing not at all, he went thumping down the stairs, while I sa tstaring at the detective, who in turn sat smiling queerly back at me.

CHAPTER X.

The expression on my companion's face remained unchanged as the sound of my cousin's footsteps was cut off by the bang of the closing door. The smile seemed to have grown into his features, so unaltered did it remain, and tiring of its monotony, I arose, and without apology, passed into the next apartment. Clere was sitting beside the bed of Uncle Abner, stroking one of his gorilla-like hands as he rolled his head from side to side with weak whisperings. Most of the lines which now harrowed his face were unfamiliar to me. Heretofore he had always appeared as a fairly well-preserved man of nearly forescore, but now his face was as wrinkled as one's palm. He shot a sidewise glance full of apprehension as I entered, but seeing it was only I resumed his mutterings. Clare's face was unwontedly serious. Her lips were tight fitting and thinned by compression; the laugh had entirely deserted her eyes, and altogether she was the picture of one who suffers uncomplainingly. Of course it took no wizardry to guess the cause of her unhappiness. Bruce, to whom she was engaged, and to whom she therefore must be devoted, had broken his faith with her without explanation or apology; and if that had not been enough in itself, his appearance had been sufficient to shock any one who had pride in him. I knew Clare as I knew the alphabet. There never was a woman more generous, nor one who once having decided to give gave more freely. Therefore, I knew that having bestowed her heart upon Bruce she had done so without stint or reservation. Her nature lay close to the surface, and what might have been a superficial wound to another would hurt her to the core of her being. Sympathizing deeply with her, I approached her from behind and took her cheeks in my palms. "It is bound to come out all right, Clare," I half whispered.

She freed her face by a slight forward movement, and Uncle Abner, closing his eyes wearily, lay for the moment inert on the pillow. They seemed to be ignoring me in their silence, and unable to think of anything to do or say which might relieve the situation, I turned away and left them to themselves. LeDuc had gotten upon his feet in my absence, and hat in hand, appeared to be waiting for me to go with him. The whole atmosphere of the place was offensive to me, and as I led him down the stairs and out into the open I filled my lungs to the uttermost, as a convict might who breathes the pure air of freedom after long confinement in a fetid cell. It was quite a while before either of us saw fit to speak.

At the end of the block he threw his cigar into the street. "The police—you did not tell them about seeing your cousin have the key yesterday?" he said, half interrogatively, half assertively. I told him I had not. His next question was, "Why?"

"Because of several reasons. First of all, they did not ask me; second, because I have no idea that Bruce is guilty in this matter; and third, because I did not care, under the circumstances, to put his reputation in their hands. Also, I assumed that he would immediately acknowledge his possession of it and give an adequate explanation. You will readily understand that I did not want the newspapers to come out with a sensational story, and I, therefore, reserved that bit of information for my own investigation. You may be sure, however, that I had intended to mention it to him privately when we met again, and only volunteered the information to you because I knew you would work up to it eventually and corkscrew it out of me. Furthermore, I know I can rely upon you to suppress details, which although as yet unexplained, in all probability have no real bearing on the issues." His reply came without hesitation.

"Tom, you have known me for years and you know that even as a boy I always played fair. Now, I have no more use for a professional criminal than I have for a mad dog or a venomous serpent. They have shot me, stabbed me and laid in ambush to assassinate me, and when I think of them I am imbued with a great and righteous wrath. But when I come across a young fellow of good instincts who has fallen because of a reckless step, I would a whole lot rather give him a boost than a kick. I want you to get me right on that statement."

I signified my comprehension. As he himself said, LeDuc had always been a fair, even a generous, fighter, and his last assertion was wholly in accord with my understanding of the man. Glancing about to make sure that we were safely beyond earshot of any possible listener, I broached a matter about which I had been thinking for some little time.

"Billy, there is another thing which the police did not bring out and which I did not volunteer, but which you ought to know. My excuses for not having stated it before are practically the same as those I gave in Bruce's case, namely, because I do not believe it has anything to do with the crime and because I wish to shield a certain individual from annoyance and publicity. Under the same understanding that you are to consider it as a privileged communication I will tell it to you. It is this: There is one more person, at least, who knows that Uncle Abner occasionally had considerable sums of money on hand, and to whom I imparted in a casual conversation the circumstance of this particular amount being in the house. I had a little visit with her yesterday on my way down town after my quarrel with my uncle. In it I told her of Bruce's misfortune. Also, I once left my keys at her house through an oversight, and they remained there several days. And while I should bitterly resent even the intimation that she was a conscious party to the crime, it is nevertheless a crevice through which the information may have leaked. I suppose you would like to hear me out on this line." He slipped his arm through mine, drawing me closer to him.

"By all means. It may prove decidedly interesting. My promise goes to this angle of the case as well as all others. Shoot ahead."

"Then I do not mind telling you that I am in the habit of calling upon a lady who is—well, we will call her an exceedingly good friend of mine. I care a great deal for her, respect her thoroughly and believe she is fond of me. I have incidentally told her about Uncle Abner and his strange ways, and one evening left my keys in her apartments after having opened a bottle of wine with a corkscrew which I kept attached to my key ring. It was several days later that I called her attention to my oversight and received them back from her. While I trust her implicitly, yet she has a yellow maid who is inscrutable to me and who always seems to be hovering within earshot. To my mind it is not impossible that this maid was in possession of the keys while they were on those premises—infact, her mistress so intimated when she returned them to me. That the maid through outside acquaintances might have taken advantage of my information which she chanced to overhear is within the realm of possibilities. You understand I merely offer this as a suggestion."

"And do you know anything of the character of the maid's acquaintances on the outside?" was the swift interrogation. I bit my lip.

"No. But I do know this. I know that Richard Mackay is the business agent of the girl's mistress—Mrs. Dace, of the Arcadia—and that he sometimes calls upon her. And knowing his reputation as I do, it has occurred to me that stranger things have happened than that this girl might be under his influence and reveal secrets to him that she has become possessed of. I understand there is practically no limit to the man's machinations."

LeDuc brought me to a sudden standstill. "Do you mean Richard Mackay, 'Coughing Dick,' the boodler and arch conspirator?" he cried, his hand gripping my arm like a trap.

"Yes. You will remember the fact that uncle mentioned the fact that the man who choked him cleared his throat in a peculiar manner."

The grip upon my arm loosened and for a moment my friend stood staring into my face. Then with a soft whistle he drew me on again. It was several moments before he once more broke the silence.

"Bye the bye, you had better give me your card with your telephone number on it so that I may be able to reach you over the wire in case of necessity," he suggested reflectively, and I felt in the pocket in which I always carried my card case in order to comply with his request. The case, which was an unusually handsome affair, had been presented to me by Mrs. Dace, and I would not have lost it for a great deal, but at the end of a couple of minutes' search, which exhausted every nook and cranny of my raiment, I was compelled to give up the quest in despair.

"I must have lost it," I announced deeply chagrined. LeDuc looked at me with a question in his eyes.

"And you had it last—when?" were his words. I ran the course of my actions during the past few days through my mind until I recalled the occasion of its last use.

To be continued.

CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Made Safe by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing woman's ills such as inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

The transfer of Prince Su, chief of the naval department, to the board of dependencies is taken to mean that China will attempt to develop Mongolia and Thibet, as well as Manchuria, and convert them into provinces.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The damage to the Niobe is more serious than was at first reported.

Franco-German negotiations on the Moroccan dispute are giving rise to war rumors.

Leonardo da Vinci's masterpiece, "La Giacondo," has disappeared from the Louvre, Paris.

Mrs. Allen Kern died at London from injuries received in jumping off a moving street car.

Burney Goodall of Beamsville has been arrested on a charge of sending threatening letters to Miss Annie Black.

John D. Rockefeller has given another $1,000,000 to the Rockfeller Institute of Medical Research, according to an unconfirmed report.

It may now be said that Pope Pius is entirely convalescent. Doctors Marchiafava and Petacci have ceased their visits to the pontiff.

Bids for the construction of the new navy are still being considered at Ottawa, and it is not likely that the contract will be awarded for some time.

There are persistent rumors that Archbishop Bruchesi is to receive a cardinality at the next consistory or earlier if necessitated by the pontiff's illness.

J. E. Baudet has been forced to retire as Conservative candidate owing to severe illness, and L. H. Huard, a prominent local merchant, has been chosen to contest Megantic County.

New Terminal Assured.

Montreal, Aug. 23.—C.P.R. officials yesterday confirmed the report of the building of a new terminal near Western Junction, ten miles out of this city.

The official report reads: "The Canadian Pacific Railway has started work on another huge undertaking in connection with their Montreal transportation facilities. Out near Western Junction the company is building a new terminal headquarters, which consists of a large twenty-four stall engine house, a machine shop, a turntable, a coaling plant, a stores building, a rooming and lodging house capable of accommodating one hundred men, and a car shunting and storage yard of two thousand cars capacity. Eventually the new terminal will have a capacity of four thousand cars.

Canada's Possibilities.

New York, Aug. 23.—Frank Coffee, one of the wealthiest men in Sydney, Australia, arrived in New York Monday, and among the first places he visited was Park Row, where, thirty years ago, he was a compositor, "sticking type." Since going to Australia, Coffee has made a fortune of more than a million dollars in publishing enterprises.

Coffee, who is making a business trip around the world, said yesterday: "New York is a wonder beyond description, and my adopted country, Australia, is another marvel, but Canada, which I have just visited, has possibilities undreamed of. Vast fortunes will be made there every year."

Death of Popular Teacher.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 23.—Word was received here yesterday of the death at her parents' home in Thornhill of Miss Marie Harrison, teacher of the junior fourth class in Simcoe street school here. Heart failure caused her death while on her vacation at her old home.

Arrested at the Bridge.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 23.—John Thompson, wanted in Windsor for robbing a Chinese restaurant of $80, was sent back for trial by the provincial police last night, having been arrested at the bridge.

Perjury in Camorra Trial.

Viterbo, Italy, Aug. 22.—After much contradictory testimony had been given at the Camorra trial yesterday, the King's prosecutor announced that all witnesses suspected of perjury and of bearing false witness would be prosecuted when the murder trial was concluded.

Judge Farsone yesterday testified that he was satisfied from private information, that Lucia Anastasi, one of the states witnesses, was confident of the carabineers. Capt. Fabroni denied that this was true.

Their Dreams Shattered.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug 23.—Armed with cap pistols, a plentiful supply of nickel novels and $11 in cash, Albert Van Tossel and Albert Stinchombe, both fourteen, had their dreams of being real bandits shattered when Chief Kimmins sent them back to their homes in London, Ont., yesterday. They were arrested when attempting to enter the States.

FIREMAN MENZIES WILL BE NEW DEPUTY FIRE CHIEF

If He Makes Good in Two Months' Trial—Three Applications.

At a meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee held last evening in the fire station, Fireman Bruce Menzies was appointed deputy fire chief on two months probation, after which, if satisfactory, he will be appointed permanently.

There were present Mayor Morrow, Ald Morgan, (chairman), Graham, Metheral and Kerneghan and Chief Howard.

In reply to Ald. Morgan's advertisement there were three applications read as follows,—Fireman Archie McBride, ex-fireman A. Ringer and ex-fireman J. Reynolds.

Ald. Morgan read a letter from P. C. Kidd, who was formerly on the local brigade and had a number of years experience on a brigade in Liverpool, Eng., regretting that he did not see his way clear to apply as requested by some of the aldermen.

Mayor Morrow stated that the men who had stayed with the department deserved promotion, if there was anyone the chief could recommend as suitable.

The Chief mentioned Firemen Ward and Menzies as the most capable, but as Ward was incapacitated for desk work his name could not be considered by the committee.

After much discussion Fireman Menzies was called before the committee. When he had retired Mayor Morrow made a motion to the effect that the approval of the committee be given for the appointment of Fireman Menzies as deputy chief for two months and if he proves satisfactory at the end of that period he may be given a permanent appointment. Ald. Graham seconded the motion.

The matter of the placing of the hydrants, one on Concession street adn one on Victoria avenue, was left in the hands of the chairman and Ald. Morgan.

INCREASE FOR MISSION WORK

What the Methodist Church Gave Last Year

The income of the General Missionary Society of the Methodist Church for the year closing June 30th, was $648,908 16, which shows a net increase of $54,186.12 over the previous twelve months. Of this amount the sum of $569,225 66 was derived from subscriptions and collections in the various Conferences, the increase in that department being $42,509 25. Various legacies produced the sum of $73,447, 46. All the conferences, with the exception of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, advanced in their missionary givings.

Bay of Quinte Conference had an increase of $5,390.90. Despite the large increases for the society the expenditure was exceeded by about $30,000.

TO EXHIBIT AT TORONTO FAIR

To-day the G. Walter Greene Company are forwarding a car load of machinery to the Toronto Fair, where it will be erected and shown in Machinery Hall. The exhibit includes saw, shingle and lath mill machinery of the most modern design and manufacture. It is expected that the greater part of the exhibit will be sold will be sold while on the grounds. In addition the company will send, next week, another car load to be shown at the Ottawa fair, and the exhibit be thoroughly representative of the lines turned out. Both exhibits will be in charge of Mr. T. O. Donaldson of the Company's staff, who thoroughly understands the handling of such things. If not disposed of at the Ottawa fair the machines will be taken in charge by the local agents of the firm and handled in the usual way.

Ward 4 Committee Rooms

In Ward 4 Mr. Burnham's committee rooms will be in the rear of 700 George street (entrance from Smith street), Mrs Lee's shop.

"BARGAIN" GLASSES ARE DANGEROUS GLASSES

This Editorial in the Ladie's Home Journal gives timely warning against these "Eye Destroyers" advertised as "Exceptional Values."

A woman who was hunting "bargain glasses" finally succeeded in "fitting" her eyes with what she enthusiastically declares was "just the thing." And immensely pleased with herself, this woman had brought about the gravest danger a woman could invest in, for she had bought two pieces of glass crudely ground, but magnifying strongly, and with them she can see 'better to read'—That seeing better will mean an intense strain upon the her eyes, but she will not realize what the trouble is, nor the injury the glasses are doing. Some day she will be under the care of a Specialist, probably for the removal of a cataract, which will cost considerable, to say nothing of the suffering entailed, and she will be fortunate indeed if she does not suffer partial or entire loss of sight for the remainder of her life.

We have every qualification for giving your eyes a thorough examination. We fit you with the finest ground lenses, and at a very reasonable cost. Thousands of our citizens can certify to the care, skill and thoroughness of the examination, and the good results they had in wearing the glasses we prescribed. ALL WORK GUARANTEED.

CITY AQUATIC CHAMPIONSHIPS

To be Decided Under Auspices of Y. M. C. A.

There are a number of good swimmers and paddlers in the city, but it is not known who is the champion. Therefore the Y.M.C.A. physical department has decided to have city aquatic championships on Saturday, September 9th, when there will be various events, such as men's 100 yard swim, 220 yards for men, 100 yards for boys, single blade canoe, etc., for which which suitable prizes and medals will be given.

The program has not yet been arranged as yet, but will be announced at an early date.

It is the intention of the management to ask for permission to hold the events at a convenient point along the canal, and if it can be satisfactorily arranged a couple of springboards will be installed, from which an exhibition of fancy diving will be given.

This undertaking is a very commendable one and should the support of the citizens. The swimmers and paddlers of the city will no doubt welcome this chance to compete for city championships, and it should bring out the best material.

STATEMENTS ARE NOT TRUE SAYS MR. BURNHAM

Mr J. H. Burnham, the Conservative candidate, denies the statements made by Liberal speakers to the effect that he did not pay his election expenses, when a candidate at the last last campaign. "The statements are untrue," said Mr. Burnham to the Review to-day, "and I wish this to be clearly understood by the public."

MR. BURNHAM SPEAKS AT LARGEST POLITICAL MEETING EVER HELD AT YOUNG'S POINT

Farmers Came From Far and Near and Heard Convincing Arguments Why the Laurier Government Should be Defeated on September 21

Mr. Burnham's meeting at Youngs Point last-night was a decided success, the large hall being filled with a most attentive audience of electors some of whom came a considerable distance. It was the largest political meeting ever held in Young's Point. The three speakers, Mr. Peck, Mr. Burnham and Mr. Kendry were cordially received and the arguments they brought forward made a convincing impression on the meeting.

MR. E. A. PECK

The chairman, Mr. Wm. Davis, of Young's Point introduced Mr. E. A. Peck as the first speaker. Mr. Peck pointed out that the great issue before the people at this election was the question of the adoption of the reciprocity arrangement, negotiated by Fielding, and Patterson with the President of the United States. The speaker remarked that the arrangement was one of a very extraordinary character and it would be unwise to confirm it, unless it could be clearly demonstrated that it was for the general advantage of Canada. The fact that we had had a somewhat similar arrangement with the United States between the years of 1854 and 1864 was not an argument in its favor as circumstances had completely changed. Canada at that time had very indifferent means of transport, had practically no factories and consequently was compelled to seek a market for its own material in other countries. Now with our improved means of communication and our numerous factories, no necessity arises for making such sacrifices in order to obtain a market. The suggestion that farmers of Canada would obtain a market for her produce amongst an additional 90,000,000 people was unsound, as there were at least as many farmers in proportion to population in the United States as in Canada. It could not be demonstrated that the farmers were going to be really benefitted in pocket by the adoption of the arrangement and if reciprocity perniciously affected our manufacturing industries, the loss of his home market would certainly have a serious effect on the farmer. The Conservative principle was by all reasonable means to encourage the building up of industries on this side of the line, to manufacture the raw products of this country. The principle underlying the reciprocity arrangement was the encouragement of the carriage into the United States of our own raw products to be manufactured by American instead of Canadian workmen as goods once manufactured were liable for a duty. If a manufacturer could obtain his raw material from Canada, in the United States without duty, it was clear that it would be to his advantage to carry on his industry on the other side of the line, where he would have for finished product, a larger market than he could in Canada. President Taft did not go into the arrangement without full information on the subject. A commission had been appointed which had gone thoroughly into the subject and he had a report of that commission before him, when the conference with Canadian representatives took place. It is needless to say that he did not present this report to them. They entered in to the arrangement without any definite information on the subject. It was not desirable, the speaker held to enter into any arrangement, which might possibly cause friction with the United States at some future time. We were good friends now and that friendship was likely to continue if we decided to go on as we have been doing. We were a young, growing and vigorous country with ample resources, and ought to be well satisfied to continue the present status.

MR. BURNHAM

Mr. Burnham was next introduced by the chairman, and said it was a mystery to him that so far it had not been explained why the Canadian government, without consulting anybody at all, had negotiated a pact and tried to force it on this country without the knowledge or consent of the Canadian people. There could be no question that it was Sir Wilfrid Laurier's pet scheme, and what was behind it would remain for the history of subsequent years to show. So far as the speaker was concerned, he was unable to believe that Sir Wilfrid had wholly in mind the trade interests of Canada when he pushed this pact through. The circumstances were still more suspicious when he wished to do it without going to the people. The pact certainly was not in the interests of the Canadian employer or wage-earner since the rivalry of the United States was greater than Canadian industries could stand. We were unable to bear it not on account of the difference in price to the consumer, but on account of the more rapid turnover and the larger capitalization of U.S. concerns. This was an age of trusts in all branches. Trusts had secured a firm grip on the United States, and were looking with watering mouths upon the greater natural resources of Canada, which remained to be exploited. Should these great natural resources be for the benefit of Canada or the U.S.? President Taft has also said that the present is the proper time to detach Canada from the British empire. This is no mere insinuation. It is laid down by President Taft in those exact words. It is a challenge to the people of Canada which there is every indication they will promptly respond to. As for the farmer, with possibly a few minor exceptions, he stands to lose immensely by the pact. Let us take a few examples. Last year the American farmer shipped thousands of tons of hay to Canada; hundreds of thousands of bushels of potatoes; immense quantities of fresh vegetables; tens of thousands of bushels of apples. In the language of the Moline Daily Dispatch: "There are only a few items of agricultural produce that Canada takes from us in the natural state. With the entire omission of the duty it is reasonable to expect that our market in Canada for these products will be vastly increased." This journal then goes on to point out how in cattle, sheep and hogs they will be able to supply all Canada. It is impossible, the speaker concluded, for anyone to make out a case in favor of the reciprocity pact for Canada. There may be a few things in some localities that by reason of geographical position will have some small advantages, but in the vast total there is no comparison whatever. The United States will collar us body and bones. When the rights of foreign nations to participate in the reciprocity pact were also taken into account, it would be seen that the United States was really endeavoring to form a gigantic trust of nations to break up the British empire and force Britain to heel up to the United States. It would then be necessary for Canada to join the United States or take the natural consequences. This was, in the speaker's opinion, the real object of the pact on the United States side.

MR. KENDRY

Mr Kendry was the last speaker and was received with applause. He spoke of former contests in which he had been elected member for the riding and he thanked the electors for their confidence in him. He remarked that men go into politics, some to make a lot of money. Others go into politics and make nothing or less, and he was one (laughter.) He recalled the days of the great famine between 1874 and 1878 when the people could get nothing for their produce in the way of a price because the home market was not in existence. There was nothing for it but to ship anywhere and take what you could get. Do the farmers want those days back? Reciprocity, especially that, foreshadowed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier at Simcoe would put the whole market in competition with the great American trusts which would put them out of business in no time. The prices to the consumers in Canada and the United States were nearly the same and there could be no complaint by our manufacturers. To criticize them on that or any other score was silly. Great men like Sir Edward Blake, Sir Oliver Mowat, and Sir George W. Ross were against reciprocity. R. R. Hall and J. R. Stratton were in favor of it. Which will you have? (laughter.)

The meeting closed with cheers for the King, Mr. Borden, the candidate and the chairman.

TURF EVENTS ON TWO DAYS OF PETERBOROUGH INDUSTRIAL

Entries to be Made Before September 14—Purses of $700.

Seven hundred dollars have been put aside for the turf events to be pulled off on two of the three days of the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition of 1911 and the horse races which have been gaining increased favor during the past few years, promise to be distinct feature of this year's big Fair.

The directors are named as Messrs. R. B. Denison, R. J. Munro and Dr. King, all good men for the job, and there is no reason why the popular slogan should not be "Are you going to the Peterboro races?"

This has become a rattling fine district for entries but the most important item for the horsemen is that they co-operate with the Fair people to the best of their ability, and they may rest assured that they will receive every consideration.

The dates of the Exhibition are Thursday, Friday and Saturday, 14, 15 and 16. The ring events are—

1. Trot or Pace—2.22 class; prize $150.00. One mile heats, 3 in 5. Entrance 5 per cent. and 5 per cent. additional for winners.

2. Trot or Pace—2.18 class, prize $200.00. One mile heats, 3 in 5. Entrance, 5 per cent and 5 per cent additional for winners.

SATURDAY

1. Trot or Pace—2.30 class; prize $150.00. One mile heats, 3 in 5. Entrance, 5 per cent. and 5 per cent additional for winners.

2. Trot or Pace—Free for all, prize $200.00. One mile heats, 3 in 5. Entrance, 5 per cent. and 5 per cent additional for winners.

Horses eligible on 1st September, 1911. No horse entitled to more than one division of prize. Usual weather conditions. Right to change order of races reserved. Hopples allowed. National Trotting Association Rules to govern. Trotters allowed 4 secs. Five to enter, four to start.

Entries to be made with the Secretary on or before September 14th, 1911. This rule will be strictly enforced. The Secretary will be at R. Denne's store up to 10 p.m. on the 14th, to receive entries.

All prizes will be divided 50 per cent., 25 per cent., 15 per cent, and 10 per cent.

LOCAL SHOTS AT BIG D.R.A. MEET

Lt. Ackerman and Capt. Watt Were Prize Winners

The prize winners at the D. R. A. meet at Ottawa for the first days include Lt. O. H. Ackerman and Capt. R. P. Watt, of the 57th regiment, in the Macdougall match Lieut. Ackerman scored 65 points and won $8, while Capt. Watt had 58 points and won $4. Weather conditions were not of the best on Monday, the wind being very tricky.

It costs over $600 a day to conduct the big D.R.A. meet. There are 200 employes and the officials of the treasurer's department estimate that the salary list for the week will run about $200 every 24 hours.

LAWN TENNIS

An invitation from Belleville to the City Lawn Tennis Association will likely be accepted on Saturday. Six members of the association may go.

ARMENIAN SETTLERS

Proposal to Bring Persecuted Christians Out West

Plans are under way for the placing of between four and five thousand Armenians on the land in British Columbia. It is announced by a party who proposes to stimulate this immigration that the Armenians in view are all Christians who have suffered persecution at the hands of the Turkish officials because of their religion. The Armenians are said to be principally agriculturists, and it is understood the British Columbia Government has been approached to ascertain what its views are in respect to the project. It is proposed to land the Armenians at Vancouver.

FARMER JONES AND HIS CITY PARTNER

The Folly of Living High on the Geese That Laid the Golden Eggs—Might Lose All

"When a man has learned to walk and has trusted his legs for a couple of score years, it is no time for him to be experimentin' with fancy crutches or flyin' machines."

Farmer Jones, in homely but practical style, thus went on record as to the course his country, Canada, should pursue. He remembered the hardships of pioneer days when there was no railroad or town at his door, and when there was no such modern conveniences as the telephone.

"The other day," said Farmer Jones, "I looked over an old newspaper containin' the Toronto markets for July, 1880. What did I see? Butter, 15 cents a pound; eggs, 12 cents a dozen; dressed hogs, $6.50 to $7 per hundred; chickens, per pair, 30 to 40 cents; hay, $7 to $13 a ton; straw, $4.50 to $6 a ton."

"Queer difference now," soliloquized his thin friend, sitting on a keg.

"Ain't there?" exclaimed Jones, picking up a Toronto paper. "Listen: Butter, 25 cents a pound; eggs, 25 cents a dozen; dressed hogs, $9.75 to $10.25 per hundred; chickens, dressed, 16 to 18 cents per pound, spring, 30 to 35 cents; hay, $16 to $20 per ton; straw, $6 to $8 per ton loose, $13 to $14 per ton bundled."

"Jee-rusalem," said the thin man. "It makes me sick to think of the good old times."

"I see they're paying from 12 to 14 cents a box for raspberries, from 16 to 17 cents a box for thimble-berries; $1 to $1.25 for tomatoes and cucumbers, and $6 a barrel for new potatoes," read Jones. "Do you remember when raspberries and thimble-berries grew so thick in the woods that the people in the villages could go out and pick all they wanted for nothing. Now the woods are gone, the villages are cities, and the berry-pickers are working all day in factories and paying us to grow their berries and vegetables for them."

"It's odd," said the other, "plumb odd."

"There's reasons for it," replied Farmer Jones, "many reasons. More people, more arms to work, more mouths to feed, growth of factories, development of trade, but there is one big reason—tariff."

"I don't know what to think about that critter," said the thin man. "Some yell things about him in my left ear and others yell different things in my right."

"Stop your ears and use your brains," advised Jones. "Those old prices paid for our goods were the prices of the period before the National Policy, which all governments, Grit and Tory, have been wise enough to continue. Here's my position. I judge the tariff by its results. I'm not workin' as hard to-day as I was thirty years ago. I couldn't, I'm not as economical. I couldn't be. Yet, thirty years ago I was scratchin' like a hen on a hot griddle to get three slim meals a day and a hard bed at night, and to pay the interest on a mortgage. Now I work about eight hours a day, own my land, have money in the bank, eat the best food, wear as good clothes as town people, go to the city when I like, and take an annual vacation just like the preachers. I've a piano, and a spare driver. Two of my sons are at college, and my eldest daughter is studying music in one of the city conservatories. What's made the difference? Markets. In the old days we had none. Most of the people in the country were farmers, and we did not want one another's stuff. Britain was too far away when we had no fast liners and cold storage, and the United States shut their door in our faces. We had to sink or swim, and we splashed a bit, but we floated. When we got a tariff our towns and cities began to boom. Factories attracted laborers who had to have food and clothing. They had no time to grow their own vegetables or go to the woods to pick berries. In the old days we labored like Turks to grow stuff which spoiled on our hands. To-day we can't raise enough. The cities and towns of Canada are cryin' for our goods. The British isles are roarin' for our fruit, meat and dairy produce. Prices are being paid that would have lifted the hair off my old father's head.

"Wipe out the great manufacturing centres and where are we? Back to the good old days when our eggs sold at 12 cents a dozen. I suppose we might have a tariff fixed in Canada that would be entirely in favor of us farmers and would skin the city and town people out of their eye teeth. That looks to me like living high on the goose that laid the golden eggs. In a short time we'd have neither eggs nor goose."

"Nor down to feather our nests," interrupted the thin man.

"What we farmers want is a square deal," went on the other. "This tariff of ours should be like a genial sun in the sky, givin' light and heat to the whole country without scorchin' anyone. I want a tariff which lets us all live. Don't I appear to be livin'? Look at my farm."

"Why are the farmers shoutin' for tariff reductions and practically asking for free trade?" asked the thin man. "Why are these big deputations of farmers going down to Ottawa scarin' the government and opposition, too?"

Farmer Jones sat silent a moment before replying.

"There are various kinds of intoxication," he said finally. "But they all have one thing in common. They make their victims act foolish. The farmers of Canada at present are drunk with prosperity. They're makin' a rough house at Ottawa to show how strong they are. But when they begin to get the bills for broken glass and smashed furniture, when the mischief is done, it will be the cold gray dawn of the morning after for them."

TAKE OUR WHEAT TO THEIR MILLS

President Taft Says the By-Products From Canadian Cereals Will Help the American Farmer

With regard to importations of natural products from Canada President Taft said in a recent speech: "The only real importation of agricultural products that we may expect from Canada of any considerable amount will consist of wheat, barley, rye and oats. The world price of these four cereals is fixed abroad, where the surplus from the producing countries is disposed of, and is little affected by the place from which the supply is derived. Canadian wheat nets perhaps ten cents less a bushel to the producer than wheat grown in the Dakotas or in Minnesota, due to the fact that the cost of exporting that wheat and warehousing it and transporting it to Liverpool is considerably greater than the cost to the Dakota farmer of disposing of his wheat to the millers of Minneapolis or sending it abroad. If, now, the duty is to be taken off wheat and the Canadian wheat can come to the millers of Minneapolis and other places, it can and will be made into flour, because the capacity of the American mills is thirty-three per cent. greater than is needed to mill the wheat of this country. Canadian wheat can be imported and ground into flour without materially reducing the demand for or price of American wheat, and the surplus will be sent abroad as flour. The price of Canadian wheat will doubtless be increased a few cents by access to the market nearer at hand, but the access to the market nearer at hand will not reduce the price of his wheat to the American farmer. A very material benefit to all the farmers of the country, especially the stock and cattle raisers and the dairy farmers, will be the by-products of bran and shorts from the flour mills likely to follow the free export of wheat from Canada to those mills. These by-products are now so scarce that many farmers are unable to procure them. What is true of wheat is true of the other cereals."

A DARING PROPOSAL

Why Canada Should Reject the Approaches from the United States

In knocking down tariff walls and entering into the arena of competition on equal terms with the rest of the world, young Canada would be doing a very daring thing. With her own home market safeguarded, it is all very well for her to attempt to place her surplus products in competition with the products of European countries, but when, as has been shown frequently before, she will have to fight to hold her own market, it will be a very different proposition. Already a surprising amount of foreign produce is imported into the country despite existing tariff protection. With more of this coming in, the Canadian farmer will find prices for domestic produce declining. There will not be the same profit in selling at home, nor can he make up for the loss in the foreign markets, for there he will be subjected to an even more severe competition.

It will take some years for wages to adjust themselves to the new conditions, for the rate of wages in Canada depends more on the supply of laborers than on the cost of living. The farmers of the West will not find it any easier to get labor when prices drop than when they are high, and for a time at least they will have to pay prevailing prices for their help. This will leave them open to the competition of the farmers of all these other agricultural countries where wages are much lower.

HOW A TARIFF HELPS

Instances of How Protection Worked to the Advantage of Labor

In the eighties Gresson and other French kid leather manufacturers were sending to the United States $5,000,000 worth of shoe leather, charging for it 60 cents per foot. A protective duty of 20 per cent. was put on. Gresson kid did not go to 72 cents per foot. It dropped to 45 cents, and then to 40 cents, 35 cents and 30 cents. Thousands of men from France and elsewhere were put to work in the kid factories of the United States. Was Protection worth while? J. G. Cleghorn, of England, manufactured linings for coats and employed in his factories 3,000 men and women. The United States put on a protective tariff and the Cleghorn factories were shut up. Three thousand were given employment in United States shops, making coat linings. Mr. Cleghorn's comment to a United States inquirer was: "You have the wise statesmen to keep your people employed." Then there is the case of men's gloves. The largest English manufacturer of gloves lost 80 per cent. of his business with the United States when a duty was put on this item. What was the result? Before the tariff was enacted these gloves sold for $1.25 a pair. Afterwards the price was $1 for the same glove. Pearl buttons were imported into the United States in immense quantities. A protective tariff was put on and the banks of the Mississippi hummed with the industry of many pearl button factories. The whole industry was transported to the United States and the shells which lay for generations valueless were turned into articles of commerce. And the price dropped below what it was before the tariff was put on. Canada is entering upon her industrial career. Such lessons as these from the United States are illuminating.

CONVENTIONS IN MUSIC.

Rules Which Song Composers Seem to Feel They Must Follow.

Why is it that all our musicians in writing a nautical song invariably use a portion of the best known hornpipe as the introduction, "vamp," or counter-melody? Why do the open fifths in the bass always appear in rustic songs? Because it can't be helped, it seems. Our popular Irish songs always have a bar or two of a well known old Irish melody or a drone bass, otherwise they wouldn't be Irish. The exhausted old Turkey and his partner, the straw, come to the rescue of every "rube" song or dance that is perpetrated, and our national airs must run all through the accompaniment of patriotic songs to give them "flavor."

Because all of these things are "not" they are conventions. Why must every song end on the tonic note, with the preceding tone either the second or seventh of the scale, unless we except the detestable third or the hollow fifth? Because our audiences expect it.

Should one of your composers in a moment of bravery or recklessness produce a score in which he disregarded these many conventions his first night hearers would go away remarking that the music was crazy. They do not realise that they expect to hear the same old thing, served up a trifle differently, of course, but still the same.—From "Where Have I Heard That Tune Before?" in Metropolitan Magazine.

Shot Wild Cat.

Montreal, Aug. 22.—Constable Trudeau, 1,415 St. Denis street, leaning out of his window yesterday morning saw two exceptionally large feline creatures occupying a branch of one of his trees. Taking a shot, he brought one down, the other escaping. On inspection the dead animal was found to have been a wild cat. It is thought that the pair escaped from the Barnum and Bailey circus.

DO YOU USE PILLS?

If In Doubt About the Right Pills to Use Read the Following Letter Carefully:

"I am one of those persons whose system requires aid," writes Mr. Young Gledhill, from Picton, "but it is so easily affected by reason of the great sensitiveness of the bowels that ordinary drastic pills inflict great injury to the delicate coating, and excite such persistent activity as to be with difficulty checked.

"I wish in the highest terms to express the great value of Dr. Hamilton's Pills in cases like mine, and I am sure also for elderly people and the very weak there is no pill like them.

"Speaking of my own experience with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I can say they have proved the most stimulating pills for the liver I have found. I have proved their tonic action upon digestion, and the same results have been secured by friends upon whom I have urged their use. The manufacturers are to be congratulated upon possessing so valuable a prescription, and the public should know that so valuable a remedy has been placed at their command."

No other pill for constipation, for liver, kidney, or stomach trouble, compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are mild and sure always to restore health. Refuse substitutes. Sold by all dealers, 25c per box, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston Ont.

ANOTHER MOTOR DEATH.

Toronto Workman Is Killed by Car Passing Through Subway.

Toronto, Aug. 23.—While returning from his work at the Swanzea Pumping Station, Samuel Horton was struck by the lamp of a motor car, owned by Frank Burrows, 68 Roncesvalles avenue, at Ellis avenue subway, on the Lake Shore road, at 11.30 Monday evening, and so seriously injured that he died at the Western Hospital, where he was taken in the car which struck him, a few hours later.

Horton was an engineer at the pumping station. He had been riding his bicycle, but was walking through the subway, and just as the car was within a few feet of him, he stepped to the middle of the road to pick something up, and had not time to reach the side of the road again before the motor struck him.

Beside the owner of the car, who was driving, two men named Watson and Stewart, were in the motor. Immediately after the accident, the three men did their utmost to save Horton's life by hurrying him to the nearest hospital and placing a special physician in charge of him. It is said that the car had no light at the time.

In the Police Court yesterday Burrows was charged with manslaughter and remanded, without bail.

Queer Freak of Lightning.

Mansfield Centre, Conn., Aug. 23.—A bolt of lightning threw itself into the hip pocket of Joseph Barrow, a farmer, as he was sitting in the kitchen of his home here Monday night.

The bolt came into the house via the stovepipe, and was attracted to Barrow's hip pocket by the presence there of an iron monkey wrench and a big jack-knife. It passed down his leg, burning him severely, and then careened over the floor, upsetting a tub of water and splitting a huge chopping block.

In Barrow's pocket, the end of the wrench and the blade of the knife were fused into a solid piece of steel.

Mr. Austin of Picton was in town on business Wednesday.

Mr. J. A. Peacock of Hamilton was home over the week end.

We are in receipt of the prize list of the Millbrook Central exhibition for 1911. The colored cover in display lines and the excellent photogravures of the president and secretary, combined with the neat arrangement of matter and the clear type mark it as a work of superior merit and highly artistic printing executed by Mr. G. W. Richards of "the Mirror."

Mr. Edwin Elsom of Peterboro called on his many old friends here on Saturday.

There was a large delegation of Conservatives went up to Lindsay on Saturday to the nominating convention, which again endorsed the candidature of Col. Sam Hughes as the standard bearer in the present Dominion election for Victoria. About 40 tickets were sold at the single fare return rate.

Miss E. Feir of Peterboro is the guest of Omemee friends.

Dr. T. G. Brereton of Bethany, with a party of friends came over to Omemee on Friday in the doctor's auto.

Our local fishers are quietly pursuing the finny tribes of which they are capturing an average lot of fine specimens. Most of the summer tourists have returned to their homes.

Mrs. J. Oakes with her children, Zelma and Reginald, of Rochester, N. Y., who have been visiting friends in Cavan and Mariposa townships, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Elliott and have visited with Mr. and Mrs. T. W. McLean.

After an absence of 21 years, Mr. Robert Sanderson of Winnipeg is in town again visiting his many relatives and friends who are pleased to see him after so lengthy an absence and to know he has made good in the hardware business in that Western metropolis.

Mr. Samuel Graham was a visitor to Lindsay on Saturday.

Mr. Phelps relieving manager of the Bank of Toronto, has returned to Toronto

Our schools will re-open on September 5th.

The taxidermist's art of protrayal along natural lines is nicely demonstrated in a four weeks old specimen of a seal that was brought home from Newfoundland by Mrs. T. A. McPherson, as a souvenir of her recent trip to that island colony of the British Empire. To a person not familiar with the species, it seems large for a baby seal, and is covered with a pure white fur. The pose of the different visible organs is perfect and unique curio has many ardent and verbose admirers.

Miss Thain of Campbellford, who at one time conducted a dressmaking establishment in our town, is calling on her numerous friends in town.

Rev. Robt. and Mrs. Burns are away on a holiday trip. Dr. Thompson occupied his pulpit in the Methodist church on sabbath morning, and Rev. Mr. Lane of Bethel circuit, delivered an earnest and eloquent discourse in the evening.

Rev. Alex. Evans from the United States is calling on the many friends of his boyhood and early school days which were spent in Omemee. All are glad to see Alex. again and to learn of his success.

Mrs. J. B. Hayes made a visit to Lindsay on Saturday.

Rev. Walter Nugent of New York, with his wife and child, are guests at the home of his father, Mr. Henry Nugent

Mr. Thomas Yellowlees of Toronto delivered an interesting sermon from the pulpit of the Presbyterian church on Sabbath morning. He preached at Mount Pleasant and Lakevale also. It is expected that the pastor, Rev. D. H. Currie, who has been off for his holidays will resume his work in the different charges of the circuit next Lord's Day.

Mr. Wm. Perritt of Ida was in Omemee on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Best and Mr. Hubert Gardiner of Mount Pleasant were visitors to town the first of the week.

Mr. James H. Best of Emily south, drove into town on Monday.

Work on the new town hall was suspended on Monday. Inability to procure material sufficient to employ the staff of workers was given as the reason.

Our main street is again overladen with dust which is becoming rather disagreeable. Mr. Reeve will you please give the mandate for another baptism of oil.

There are many opinions to the contrary of an average apple or potato crop in this part. Coarse grains have been a fair average and seeds are at a discount.

BOARD OF EDUCATION GRANT INCREASE TO ASSIST TEACHERS

Special Correspondence.

Norwood, Aug. 22.—The Board of Education met in adjournment on Monday evening of this week. Members present: Messrs. E. E. Pakenham (chairman), D. MacNaughton, W. H. Cuthbertson, T. Burkell, J. A. Finlay, F. Anderson, J. Doherty, J. F. Elliott, E. C. Squire, G. H. Niebel, E. P. Cuffe.

Mr. Finlay, chairman of the Finance committee, laid the estimates before the board. The amounts to be levied for high school, $1,961.00; for public school purposes, $3,035.00.

The question of salaries in the public school was then considered.

Moved by Messrs. Squire and Niebel, that the board increase the P.S. assistants' salaries $50.00 each per year.

Moved in amendment by Messrs. Cuthbertson and Doherty, that the salaries be increased $25.00 each from September 1st. The amendment carried.

Moved by Mr. Doherty, seconded by Mr. MacNaughton, that if Miss Kirkpatrick furnish a substitute agreeable to the inspector, and also to the board, to teach the full term, that she be granted leave of absence to January 1st, 1912, as requested in her communication at last meeting. —Carried.

Insurance policies from Messrs. Drain and Richardson on public school, $2,250 by the Liverpool and London and Globe, were laid on the table.

Moved by Mr. Cuffe, seconded by Mr. Cuthbertson, that the insurance policies be left in the hands of the chairman of the Finance committee for verification.—Carried.

Mr. Doherty laid before the board the deed of the agricultural plot. The matter was left in the hands of Mr. Doherty to satisfy himself as to the title.

A communication from Miss Cook asking for her release from her agreement with the board was read from the chair

After considerable discussion Mr. Doherty moved, seconded by Mr. Niebel, that Miss Cook be released and that we advertise for another teacher.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Squire, seconded by Mr. Elliott, that the board refuse to grant Miss Cook's release unless she agree to pay the expense the board may be put to both as to advertising and any increase in salary for the fall term. —The motion carried.

Request from Mr. English through Mr. Anderson, for rebate of high school fees paid last term by his daughter, who was unable to attend school on account of illness, and that the fees be allowed to pay the fall term tuition to his other daughter, who has just passed the entrance.—Request was granted.

The following accounts were passed: John Doherty, expenses to Peterborough re lease, $1.45; Jas. Meikle, work, $4.00.

Board adjourned

Mr. Andrew Scott, who has been in the west for the past several years, is home visiting his father, Mr. Hugh Scott, Pine street, and other friends.

OBITUARY.

Jean Hilda, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Stewart, Pine street, Norwood, passed away on the 20th inst. after an illness of only a few hours. The little one, only two years of age, was taken suddenly ill with acute indigestion, accompanied by convulsions, which resulted in her very sad and untimely death. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon at 2.30 to the Norwood cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Davidson, who have been to Stony Lake for the past month, returned home last evening

Mr. J. S. Finlay went to Toronto this (Tuesday) morning on business.

Mr. J. A. Sexsmith, M.P., was in Norwood on Monday of this week.

Mr. E. J. Laing, village clerk, and Mr. Chas. O'Reilly have been appointed deputy returning officers for Norwood for the polling on Sept. 21st.

Miss Mollie Johnston spent a few days last week visiting friends in Havelock.

Constable J. L. Johnston took the contract of fixing a driveway through the creek at Mr. George Peters' corner on Alma street, and discharged his duties to the satisfaction of all concerned. The money for the work was raised by subscription, and therefore cost the village nothing. The watering place will be much appreciated by all drivers of horses, as it fills a long felt want. The work was done for the moderate sum of ten dollars.

Mr. Cummings, section foreman on the C.P.R., has returned from Indian River, and in future will reside in Norwood.

LIGHT CROPS.

The threshers are at work again and report the crops as not turning out as well as expected. There will be a lot of light oats in the county this fall, caused by the very dry weather ripening the grain too fast.

Some of our Norwood sports went to South Lake on Tuesday of last week and succeeded in bringing home their full complement of bass. They report fishing as extra good.

Mrs. McLarry, who spent a few weeks camping at Trent Bridge this year, was so well pleased with the popular summer resort that she purchased a fine building site from Mr. A. White a short distance below the bridge on the north shore of the river.

KEEP CANADA FOR CANADIANS

Our home market we have. It has grown and is rapidly growing. We can keep it for our own people. It is upon the development of the home market that the future of the Canadian farmer depends, and that development lies in the encouragement of home industries, instead of inviting outsiders to compete with them.

William E. Parker, claiming Toronto as his home, is charged at Morristown, N.S., with false pretences.

The Famous Band of the Coldstream Guards, pictured above, crosses the ocean to play a two weeks' engagement at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto. The Coldstreams are Household Musicians of His Majesty George V., and are under the leadership of Lieut. D. J. The Least Fuel. The Most Satisfaction

It Was the Best 25 Years Ago—It is the Best To-day

You have all heard of the Happy Thought Range, and most of you know some one who owns one. One of the first ranges made exclusively for the Canadian market, it is still first in the estimation of the Canadian housewife. The

HAPPY THOUGHT

Range has maintained its leading position through the determination of its makers that nothing short of the very best was good enough to put into it.

The best material, the best workmanship, the best ideas. Every year has seen it a better range.

Every new idea in range making has been thoroughly tested and when found to be an advantage it has been added to the Happy Thought.

By this means alone could its supremacy be maintained—and that it has been maintained is testified to by the enthusiastic praise of the thousands of housewives who use it.

Come and see one at our store. In appearance, as in general worth, it leads.

More than a quarter of a million "Happy Thoughts" are in daily use in Canada.

OMEMEE MAN VISITED BY DOUBLE MISFORTUNE

Two Sons Are Injured and He Loses Building by Fire

Special Correspondence.

Omemee, Aug. 22.—About 1.30 p.m. Saturday an alarm of fire was sounded when it was discovered that a stable belonging to Mr. Redmond Carey, was ablaze. The citizens responded quickly and worked nobly but the building could not be saved and a horse that was inside, was overcome with the smoke and could not be rescued. The fire spread to a small dwelling adjacent to the stable and consumed it. The horse was owned by a Jewish junk dealer, who had been using the stable for his headquarters. The animal was valued at $150. Mr. Carey's loss is a serious blow as he had no insurance on the buildings or their contents. The origin of the fire is conjectural.

FALL OFF ROOF.

Mr. R. Carey was hurriedly summoned to Peterborough on Friday because of a message that his two sons had been injured in an accident. Later particulars elicited the information that the boys fell off the roof of a building, one falling on a manure heap was slightly shaken up and the other falling on the hard ground was seriously injured.

HIGH COURT A.O.F. TAKE UP OLD AGE PENSION FUND

Resolution Follows General Discussion of Question—Report at the Next High Court.

The proceedings at the 18th annual convention of the High Court of the Ancient Order of Foresters were resumed this morning at nine o'clock in the Collegiate Institute Assembly Hall.

The first order of business was the receiving of reports of the various committees which were appointed yesterday afternoon. The following were the committees appointed —

Finance Committee—F. Abbott, A. Dynes, W. H. Benson, T. P. Wood and S. Halliday.

State of the Order—A. Martin, W. G. Rook, A. J. Harvey, Mr. Martin and W. Douglas.

Beneficiary Committee—Bro. Little A. Wonton, S. Grey, T. C. Taylor, and G. J. Jackson.

Committee of Appeals—W. E. Julton, J. Fields, A. R. Wickett, E. J. Barnsdale and S. A. McNutt.

Mileage per diem Committee—A. E. Dupont, A. Llafaure, W. Harris, H. Porter and H. Smith.

Printing Committee—A. Martin, W. G. Rook, J. E. Lillie, J. Dewie and A. McPherson.

The reports were received and discussed and much benefit derived from the opinions put forth.

The resignation of W. J. Vale, Past H. C. R. as chairman of the Laws and Judicial committee, which position he has held for twenty-five years was received with regret. The report of the Finance committee showed the balance to the credit of the sick and funeral management committee to be largely increased. The Beneficiary fund committee report was most favorable and was referred to in terms of unlimited praise, including the efforts which had been successfully put forth to attain the permanent folvency of this fund.

Seven hundred and eighty four new policies have been issued during the etrm.

The chief recommendation of the committee was that the fund under the supervision of the organization departments and its agents be paid an increased commission on policies secured.

The nominations for the various officers have been made and the elections will take place this afternoon.

OLD AGE PENSION.

An animated discussion on the Old Age Pension Fund occupied considerable time and resulted in the following resolution:

That this High Court is of the opinion that the time has now arrived for the establishment of an old age pension fund, and that a committee be appointed to formulate a plan to that effect, and that a committee be appointed to report at the next High Court in reference to the proposal. The question at issue was what would be the best method for creation of such a fund.

A FLAG INCIDENT.

The attention of the delegates of the High Court has been forcibly drawn to the fact that no British flag has been displayed in the city, with the exception of the one brought here by the delegates themselves. In one instance a flag was floated from one of the hotels by the delegates, but it was removed by the proprietor with the remark that its being displayed was not agreeable to the feleings of some. The flag bearing the initial letters of the court now flying at the Collegiate is the only one shown.

The committee in charge wish to thank the citizens for the courtesy, however, which is being extended to them, and for the general kind treatment which has been accorded to them.

TOOK TRIP OVER LOCK

Yesterday afternoon the members marched in a body to the Wolfe street wharf, where they embarked on the steamer Stoney Lake, and were taken for a trip over the lift lock and up the canal. They greatly enjoyed the trip. In the evening they were the guests of Court Stanley on a moonlight excursion, which was also very successful and much enjoyed.

WEDDING BELLS

HODSON—CORNALL.

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday evening, Aug. 19th, in St. James' Methodist church, when Mr. John Hodson and Miss Louisa Cornall were united in the bonds of holy matrimony, the pastor of the church, Rev. J. G. Brown, officiating. The couple were unattended, the ceremony being witnessed by the more immediate relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Hodson will take up their residence on Romaine street.

WHITE—MENZIES.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Isabel Menzies, 18 Stewart street, at 2 o'clock this afternoon, when Miss Lillian Menzies was united in holy wedlock to Mr Frank White, of Havelock, by Rev. Charles Carpenter.

The bride, who was very popular amongst a large circle of friends, was the recipient of many beautiful presents.

Mr. and Mrs. White left on the 4.28 C.P.R. train on a trip to the coast.

TO SERENADE MR. R. L. BORDEN

Band Will Meet at Hall on Simcoe Simcoe Street

The full band of the 57th regiment is requested by Bandmaster Gliddon to meet at the hall on Simcoe street to-morrow night at seven o'clock in uniform.

The band is to take part in the reception to Mr. R. L. Borden, who speaks at the opera house, and will serenade the great Opposition leader.

OBITUARY

The Late Miss M. Fitzgerald

Miss Margaret Fitzgerald, aged 51 years, passed away in Hamilton Monday evening.

Deceased had been suffering from heart trouble for some time. She leaves to mourn her loss three brothers, Michael, Edward and John, of Otonabee, and one sister, Miss Mary, Toronto.

The remains arrived in Peterborough this morning via the 7.26 C.P.R. train, and the funeral took place to Sacred Heart church, and thence to St. Peter's cemetery.

Parents Bereaved

The two months' old child of Mr. and Mrs. James Davis, 147 Lake street, passed away yesterday evening after an illness of a month's duration.

The funeral took place this afternoon to Little Lake cemetery.

The Order of the Moose is in convention at St. Thomas, with delegates from many places in Canada and the United States.

BEAUTIFUL EYES

are made beautiful by long, silky lashes, and well defined, lustrous brows. Eyes, like diamonds, depend on their setting. The beauties of the face are lost if the eye brows are thin and scanty; and the lashes are short and lifeless. Parisian Lash Lustre grows beautiful, soft, silky lashes. It has done so for society women throughout Europe, and it comes here well recommended to do the same for you. Parisian Lash Lustre is not a dye or colorator, but a scientific preparation for beautifying the eye lashes and brows. Our guarantee goes with every box of Parisian Lash Lustre. A two weeks' treatment will bring beauty to your eyes that you have never before possessed. By mail, prepaid, in opal boxes, on receipt of price, fifty cents. B. V. DELEGATES SAW FIRE EQUIPMENT

Display for the Visitors at Central Park

At 3.45 p.m. to-day the fire department turned out to answer to a call sent in from the vicinity of Central Park for the purpose of giving the visiting delegates, who are here in connection with the Ancient Order of Foresters' convention, an exhibition of the efficiency of the brigade.

The chief, accompanied by Ald Morgan, was the first to appear on the scene. One section of the apparatus arrived via Murray street, in charge of Deputy Chief Menzies and two lines of hose were laid from the hydrant at the Armories.

At the same time another truck came up McDonnel street and two lines were laid near the Collegiate Institute and the truck proceeded to George street, where the last two lines were attached. Thus were six lines in play on the park.

There was no hook and ladder display and the engine was not put into commission, but these departments were present.

The members of the Fire, Water and Light Committee were present at the demonstration.

GOD SAVE THE KING.

RULE OF THE ROAD.

Decided Abroad by the Sword and Here by the Gun.

Several travelers were seated in the hotel lobby discussing the difference in customs of the various countries they had visited. "What struck me as most peculiar abroad," said one, "is the custom of keeping to the left instead of the right, as we do here. Why is the rule reversed?"

"I think I can explain that," said a reserved looking man in the corner. "In medieval and later periods abroad men were in the custom of wearing swords. The sword was worn, as it is now, on the left side. Consequently in drawing their weapon it was done with the right hand, and to get quickly upon guard a man had to have his right side to his opponent; hence the custom of keeping to the left.

"In America when every man carried his life in his hand on account of savage Indians all men carried guns. The easiest and most natural way to carry a gun, either afoot or mounted, is over the left arm with the muzzle pointed outward, and it takes but a very slight movement to throw the butt against the right shoulder. For that reason the early settlers kept to the right of the road so their weapon could instantly be brought to bear on any mark that was necessary."—Philadelphia Times.

MR. R. L. BORDEN, CONSERVATIVE LEADER, WELCOMED TO PETERBOROUGH

The policy of protection has made Peterboro. Will you vote for a free trade measure to undo the work of two decades?

CONSERVATIVE LEADER MET BY RECEPTION COMMITTEE

Mr. Borden Speaks at the Grand Opera House This Evening.

Afternoon Spent at the Residence of Mr. Kendry—The Speakers for To-night.

The Conservative leader, Mr. R. L. Borden, who arrived in the city on the 11.26 C.P.R. train this morning from Toronto, was given a reception by a number of prominent Conservatives this morning among whom were Mr. Jas. Kendry, ex-M.P., president of the Liberal-Conservative Association, Mr. J. H. Burnham, Conservative candidate for the Dominion House, Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., Mr. J. A. Sexsmith, M.P., Mr. E. A. Peck, provincial candidate for West Peterborough; Mr. Jas. Edgar, secretary of the Liberal-Conservative Association, Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., ex-Ald. H. Phelan and others. Mr. Borden was quietly received in accordance with his wishes, owing to his fatiguing duties in connection with his tour.

He and the party autoed about the city and to the Oriental Hotel for luncheon. Mr. Borden spent a quiet afternoon, preferring to rest and reserve himself for this evening when he speaks at the Grand Opera House. At his meeting in Toronto last night Mr. Borden spoke at Massey Hall to an immense crowd, which was wildly enthusiastic. Great interest is being shown in the meeting to-night at the Grand Opera House and a large crowd is anticipated. The meeting commences at eight o'clock.

And the public are advised to go early as the Opera House will in all probability be filled in a short time after the doors are open.

At seven o'clock Mr. Borden will be tendered a reception at the Oriental and the 57th band will be in attendance.

THE SPEAKERS

The speakers to-night will include besides Mr. Borden, Mr. Burnham, Mr. Sexsmith, Mr. Peck. An address of welcome will be read.

BURNED TO DEATH IN FIRE

Three Children Perish when Home is Destroyed

Special to the Review.

New York, Aug. 24—Three daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt, Chamberlain street, outside the city limits were burned to death yesterday in a fire that destroyed the Schmidt home. Two other children had narrow escapes. The dead are Ella, aged sixteen, Louis, eight and Marion, five.

REMINDERS

Are you going?

Borden and Burnham—two busy B's.

Plenty of room for the ladies at the meeting to-night. And for Liberals too.

There won't be much to eat, 'tis true, but still it will be a Borden house.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Peck will not hide his light under a bushel, either.

As a wise man from the east, Mr. Borden enjoyed dinner in true Oriental style to-day.

Borden and British connection. If anyone has a doubt, he will be convinced at the Opera House.

What does reciprocity mean? Get the answer to-night from the man who knows, and who puts it in language you can't help understanding.

Makes us sad to think of it—this is the last time you will have a chance to hear the leader of the opposition speak. (Next time he will be Prime Minister.)

There will be both flowers of speech and verbal bouquets to-night—a regular conservative-ory of them. And some strong convincing logic for those who like to think.

The Conservative leader was here three years ago, but my, the changes since then. The enemy is now on the run, but Longboat still lives. The Farmers Bank has gone an' done it, but Stratton is still here. Stratton has been the member for West Peterborough, but the biggest change is now on its way—wait for Sept. 21st.

LAURIER WAS COERCED INTO TAKING UP RECIPROCITY PACT

Hon. Clifford Sifton Deals With History of the Negotiations.

Tillsonburg, Aug. 24.—Hon. Clifford Sifton addressed a large audience here last night in opposition to the reciprocity pact.

Reviewing Canada's past tariff conditions Mr. Sifton said that the principle of protection brought about by the national policy had not been destroyed by the 1897 tariff revision. Its continuance through such a lengthy period was the basis of the general prosperity of which, he believed, the farmer was getting his full share. The building up of an industrial population furnished the farmers' great home market. The conditions under which reciprocity was negotiated were reviewed.

"Great friendliness is claimed for the United States," said Mr. Sifton, "but I say the Government of Canada was coerced into this arrangement, and that Government showed no friendliness in its actions a year ago when the imposition of the maximum tariff was threatened, because of an alleged discrimination made by Canada against the United States, that is, on the face of it, an absurdity.

Following the general lines of his Ingersoll speech, Mr. Sifton reviewed in order the arguments advanced for the trade agreement: First, Sir Wilfrid's plea that former Canadian statesmen favored reciprocity; second, Hon. Mr. King's plea that the consumer will secure lower prices; and, third, the general argument that the Canadian farmers will secure higher prices.

Goodall Had Revolver.

St. Catharines, Aug. 24.—When examined yesterday by Constable Tufford, Bernie Goodall, charged with threatening to kill Annie Black of Beamsville, was found to have in his possession a revolver loaded with cartridges, which were of the same kind as one received by the girl in a letter.

GOOD POSITIONS GET IN LINE

The Peterborough Business College is a worthy link in a chain of seven Business Colleges located in the cities of London, Peterborough, Welland and the towns of Orangeville, Walkerton, Wingham and Clinton. Owing to its high-grade work it is affiliated with the Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. It is freely admitted that owing to these connections, its students get the very best positions. Fall openings are on Aug. 28th, and Sept. 5th, but at this school each student is instructed privately at his or her own desk, students may enter any day. Many students study all at home and others partly at home and finish at the College. As Spotton Colleges are the largest trainers in Canada and have thirty years experience, it would be well for young people to get their training there. Last year Mr. Spotton trained over 1200 students and placed them in good positions. What he has done for thousands of others he can do for you. 12d

TORONTO TENDERS ROUSING WELCOME TO LEADER BORDEN

Notable Gathering in Massey Hall Last Night—Power and Enthusiasm of Reception Never Exceeded—Mr. Borden's Telling Arraignment of Reciprocity.

Toronto, Aug. 24.—Massey Hall has been the scene of many notable gatherings, but none ever exceeded in power or enthusiasm that which greeted R. L. Borden, the Conservative leader, last night. It was a great meeting. It was a great triumph. Mr. Borden shared honors with W. T. White and the very frankness of the latter's remarks won for him a friend in every seat. Mr. White's speech was a gospel, spoken for Canadians of the present and future. In simple terse language he made his case and drove home his points, and not content with that he clinched every one. His open avowal, "In my opinion this is not a question of party politics," produced a round of cheers.

"It is a great economic and national issue in which all minor political differences are absorbed and merged," said Mr. White. "It is a question above parties and above individuals." Reciprocity was not a simple question, it was a difficult and complex question. To talk of larger markets on the one hand and reduced cost of living on the other was not sufficient. A man who had a dollar in his pocket and had to pay thirty cents for his dinner was better off than the man who had no money and had to pay twenty-five cents for his dinner. "The United States produces more than the United States consumes; it has an exporting population."

"Canada," Mr. White went on, "was in an infinitely better position than the United States. He pointed to the three transcontinental railways, the like of which no other country had. The bank deposits per capita were ahead of any other nation. "You get your money from the money centre of the world—and there is only one money centre of the world—that is London and not New York."

Citing out the pitfalls incident to reciprocity Mr. White referred to the series of panics which were continually occurring in the United States. The cause was fundamental, he declared; it was constitutional. "The constitution of the United States was an anachronism, with presidential elections every four years and other elections every two years. These have a disturbing effect on business." No wonder they looked to reciprocity to get rid of these evils. Pointing to the National Transcontinental Railway, Mr. White said the country was spending $170,000,000 upon the construction of the road. "What do you think of a proposal when a road is in the construction stage that we should enter into an agreement that will have the effect of diverting the wheat traffic to the south, although this road is built to carry it?

"By implication the agreement to which the Canadian Government is a party censures the policy of the provincial governments in imposing an export duty upon pulpwood in order to insure its manufacture here." (Hear, hear.)

Then Mr. Borden rose to speak. The entire audience sprang to its feet. The Conservative leader received a tremendous ovation. Cheer followed cheer, hands, handkerchiefs and hats were waved. For one, two, three, four minutes the enthusiasm continued, and after subsiding, the acclaim broke out again.

He dealt with reciprocity from the national, rather than the economic standpoint, and directed the attention of his hearers to the effect on imperial connection.

Before concluding, Mr. Borden made a passing reference to the position of Hon. Geo. E. Foster, which has been assailed by Liberal newspapers. In a few sentences Mr. Borden said the electors of North Toronto were entitled to choose their own candidate to represent them in Parliament. There was no czar within the Conservative party, and those who were associated with Mr. Foster in the former Conservative administration testified of him as having a scrupulous regard for his public duties and unswerving in his devotion to the country. "And when sitting upon the Treasury benches of Canada, we will be the servants of the people and not dictators to the people of Canada."

His Neck Was Broken.

Cornwall, Aug. 24.—John Lawrence, the 11-year-old son of Elias Lawrence, who lives near Spencerville, was found dead the other day in a pasture, with a heavy gate on top of him. It is supposed that the boy climbed on the gate and that the hinges gave way. His neck was broken.

ALBATROSS GOES DOWN

Barge Lost and Tug is Missing in Storm.

Passengers and Crew Escape in Open Boat.

Byng Inlet, Aug. 24.—The barge Albatross of Midland, Captain Dean, foundered in the Georgian Bay, off French River, on Monday night, and it is feared that the tug C. C. Martin of Midland, Capt. Vent, which had the barge in tow, has gone to the bottom also. The tug carried, besides the captain and his wife, a crew of eight. What gives ground for the apprehension that the Martin has become a prey to the waves, is the story brought by those on board the barge, who reached Byng Inlet safe yesterday morning after enduring the hardships of a night and a day adrift on the bay in small boats during one of the worst gales that ever blew.

The shipwrecked party include Capt. Dean, his wife, his niece, Mrs. Alex. Buckanan of Moose Jaw, her two children, a two-year-old girl and a two-months-old baby boy; Miss Clementine Labelle, another niece, of Ottawa, and one sailor named Joseph St. Peter. They were brought up the river by Capt. Louis Lamondie, light-house-keeper, whose wharf they were able to make Tuesday night in an exhausted condition, and at whose hands they received all possible care. They had not had a bite to eat for thirty-six hours. The thirteen-foot yawls in which they had been buffeted about in a raging sea were more than half-full of water, and the condition of the party was most pitiable.

The story of the shipwreck in brief is that the barge sprang a leak and was fast sinking, when all on board managed to pile into the small yawl before the vessel sank. She was in tow of the tug as she settled, and this circumstance leads Capt. Dean to believe that in foundering she drew the tug down with her."

"I could not get the tug to notice our signals," the captain says, "otherwise she might have altered her course and pulled us out of the trough, in which our timbers were being pounded in. She did not know, I fear, the sinking state of the barge in time to cut adrift and save herself."

G.T.R. BRAKEMAN LOSES HIS LIFE

Toronto, Aug 24—Samuel Curtis, Grand Trunk brakeman, was terribly crushed in the Don yards as a result of falling asleep under a car and he died this morning. His home was on Brant street.

CLIFFORD IS JUMPED ON

King's Prize Winner Not Allowed His Usual Position.

Replies to Criticisms Rather Sharply at D.R.A.

Ottawa, Aug. 24.—There was not quite as large an attendance as usual at the president's luncheon at the D.R.A. building. Col. Burland of Montreal presided.

In responding to the toast to the King's Prize winner, Private W. J. Clifford took the opportunity of defending his position in shooting which had been condemned at the meeting the night before. "I am afraid that you are going to steal this position from me. I certainly could not do the same again in any other position. An organized bunch got in at last night's meeting and condemned my position. I feel as if I had not won the King's Prize at all, but had stolen it, in the light of last night's action."

"No! No!" came from the listeners.

"Of course, I realize that the contortions that some of the competitors go through is unsportsmanlike, and I think if there was a regulation which would compel the competitor to grip the rifle with his left hand, it would mend matters. Lord Kitchener commended my position, and I think it is pretty queer that the riflemen here go up against it like that."

Lieut.-Col. Helmer did not think that any reflection on or criticism of Clifford was meant the night before. He thought that Clifford's position should be satisfactory. He said that if the rules changed, however, to allow that position, but debar using the sling with both hands, it would be much better. Too many men, he said, take the recoil on the sling or on the ground. Private Clifford takes the recoil on the shoulder. The meeting seemed unanimous in the opinion that Clifford's position should be allowed.

The officers elected for the ensuing year are: President, Lt.-Col. Sherwood, C.M.G., Ottawa; first vice-president, Lt.-Col. Davidson, 8th R. R., Quebec; second vice-president, Major McRobbie, St. John, N.B.; third vice-president, Major Hayes, London; secretary-treasurer, Mr. Frank Beard, Ottawa; auditor, Capt. Bell, 43rd Regiment.

The members of the council were left to be selected by the executive with the exception that Lt.-Col. Ross' name was added to the Ontario list.

At Tuesday night's meeting of competitors it had been decided, by a majority vote, to ask council to prohibit vote, to ask the council to prohibit marksmen from letting the butt of the rifle rest on the ground while shooting. This is the position that Private Clifford, who won the King's Prize, uses, and is also used by many other members of the D.R.A. There was a big vote on the question, and the room was about equally divided. However, the chairman ruled that the majority was in favor of doing away with this position. It was also decided to do away with the figure target entirely.

A feature of the meeting so far has been the success attending the sailors of H.M.C.S. Niobe and the cadets.

After the chairman, Lt.-Col Tilton, had congratulated Pte Clifford on his Bisley success, Col.-Sergt. Perry, 6th D. C. O. R., Vancouver, who won the King's Prize some years ago, explained that he was Canadian-born, although papers had represented Clifford as the first native to win the prize.

ATWOOD LANDS AT COLDSPRINGS

Made Flight of 82 Miles in Two Hours

Special to the Review.

Coldsprings, Aug. 24—Aviator Atwood alighted here at 9.42 o'clock this morning, after a flight of eighty two miles from Castleton, which took him exactly two hours. He expects to resume his flight of fifty two miles to New York this afternoon.

During a windstorm, about 70 feet of brickwork of the upper story of the new addition to the Durham furniture factory was blown to the ground.

THE ENGLISH CHALLENGER FOR THE BRITISH INTERNATIONAL CUP

THE TYRELESS III

One of the three challengers selected to represent Great Britain in the forthcoming races for the British International Cup is the speed boat Tyreless III., owned by Mr. F. Gordon Pratt. She will be shipped to New York. The trials have given satisfaction and shown a speed of more than thirty nautical miles an hour. She is a displacement boat, resembling a fast runabout of heavy build. The other challengers are the Maple Leaf III., owned by Mr. E. Mackay Edgar, and the Pioneer, belonging to the Duke of Westminster. The races have been postponed from August 24, 25 and 26 to September 4, 5 and 6.

Catarrhozone

Cures Permanently BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, CATARRH

Throw medicine to the dogs. At best they are unpleasant, often useless. You are suffering from some disease of the throat, nose, or lungs. Doctors call it Bronchitis, Asthma, or Catarrh, or it is a slight or severe cold. Germs cause these diseases—they have a common root.

Catarrhozone destroys disease germs, but it does more, it heals disease tissue.

CATARRHOZONE is little drops of healing carried by air to the exact place where Catarrh exists. Observe Catarrhozone not only destroys the cause, but immediately repairs the result of diseased condition.

Catarrhozone means little drops of healing carried by air and placed over the lungs, throat, and nasal passages.

Catarrhozone is endorsed by doctors, druggists, and by thousands of Canadian people who have used it.

Catarrhozone

Yes, Sir, it is taken in air.

"Little drops of healing" carried by air to weak places in the lungs, throat and nasal passages.

Three sizes: 25c, 50c and $1.00, at druggists, or by mail postpaid from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y. and Kingston, Ont.

MR. BORDEN HERE

Mr. Borden, leader of the Conservative party, is in Peterborough to-day, and this evening will speak on the issues of the campaign in the opera house. Mr. Borden is in fine fettle, in spite of the tremendous strain that a leader undergoes in a campaign, especially a hot one, such as this is proving to be.

Robert Laird Borden, K.C., is one of the great men of Canada. Not merely great because he has been chosen to lead one of the two great political parties; not merely great because he is an able successor to the old chieftain, Sir John Macdonald, but great because of his own high personal merit, his statesmanlike breadth, his keen insight into the great and complicated economies of the day. He is great not merely because of the splendid ability with which he has been endowed, but because of the energy and virility he has shown in giving of it freely and without measure to the service of his country.

Mr. Borden is engaged in a big work. Whether a man be friend or foe, he cannot but realise that Mr. Borden is actuated by great sincerity, great conviction, great enthusiasm, and an impelling desire to do what is best for his native land.

There will be an immense crowd in the opera house to-night. It is to be hoped Mr. Borden will receive close attention, and his arguments thought and consideration. That is all that is necessary. Vive a Borden!

WHICH MARKET?

We now sell more natural products to Great Britain than to the United States. John Bull is the Canadian farmer's best customer outside of the home market.

Laurier proposes to substitute for John Bull as our best outside customer Uncle Sam, who is both nearer and has a bigger population.

Suppose that Laurier were to succeed. We would drop very largely our energy bent toward widening and maintaining John Bull's business; and cultivate Uncle Sam's trade. We might perhaps do just as well in selling Uncle Sam instead of John Bull for a time.

But what if Uncle Sam got nasty, about something we wouldn't hand over to him, and stopped being our best customer. What if he put us out, so that we couldn't sell him as under reciprocity?

We would have to go back to John Bull, of course, to sell our surplus. But in the years that Uncle Sam took our surplus products, we would naturally pay little attention to John Bull's business. It would be easier selling to Uncle Sammy. And when we were forced back to trying to sell John Bull, these years of neglect would mean that we would have to start all over again the wearing down of competition of the nations that would take Canada's place.

Is it worth the while.

Is it worth the while exposing ourselves to the American food trusts, that will surely have to invade Canada and corral Canadian production, in order to maintain their monopoly of food distribution of the United States? Is it worth inviting all the dangers that lie like sharks in the wake of free trade with the United States?

Is it not a safer, sounder policy to keep on growing and expanding and prospering without a step that must invite evils that Canadians have fortunately been largely free from so far? This is a big question. It is a sincere question. Can the Canadian see no farther than brans, in his contemplation of the future?

TUPPER'S OPINION

Sir Charles Tupper was one of the Macdonald regime. Sir Charles went several times to Washington in connection with Canadian matters, and as the representative of the Macdonald government living to-day, what he says in regard to reciprocity may be taken as the voice of Sir John Macdonald's ministry.

The Liberal newspapers who used every epithet in their vocabulary at Sir John when the old chieftain was living, and who cannot find enough praise for his administration and his ideas now, because it happens to suit their purpose—will no doubt be surprised to learn that Sir Charles Tupper condemns reciprocity now. Not that Sir Charles' opinion really means a great deal now, but it is like a voice from the dead and buried past to hear the veteran speak.

In writing to a friend in Montreal Sir Charles says:

> Dear Sir,—I was very glad to receive your letter and to learn that a great many of the most influential Liberals were taking an active part in opposing the reciprocity agreement, which I consider fraught with danger to British institutions in Canada. The open avowal of the President of the United States that it is the only means of preventing the consolidation of the British Empire by mutual preferential trade ought to be sufficient to arouse the active hostility of all British subjects against it. Now that the question is referred to the electorate I hope this will induce all who value connection with the Crown to show their determination to stand by the Empire.
>
> "Yours faithfully,
>
> CHARLES TUPPER."

(Would it be too much to assume that if Sir John were alive to-day, and could speak as well as his old colleague, he would also be opposing the present reciprocity deal and the translation of Canadian interest to American affairs?

EDITORIAL NOTES

Borden to-night.

All roads lead to the Opera House to-night.

Attend the Conservative reception from seven o'clock until eight at the Oriental to-night. Mr. Borden's right hand is in good training.

There may be one or two "leading citizens" who will be found missing from the line-up of welcomers to the Conservative leader to-night, but this proves that no man is indispensable.

Owen Sound presented Mr. Borden with a civic address, the mayor reading it on behalf of citizens of all shades of opinion. Mr. Borden is in Peterborough to-day, but where, oh where is Mayor Morrow?

It is safe to say that if Messrs. Turner could each night of the theatrical season, fill their fine opera house with such a crowd as will fill it to-night they would be the happiest theatre owners in the country.

A frantic appeal is being made in Toronto for Liberal speakers for the campaign. The article in the Star says that the cabinet ministers cannot do all the work. It will need quite a raft of Liberal speakers to convince the people of Canada that reciprocity does not spell the forcing of Canada into a very unpleasant dependence on the good will of the United States.

Here is something that everyone may not know. You can very often read the Examiner political editorials the evening previous in the Toronto Star, and save a day. There is no indication of how two political writers happen to hit on precisely the same topics and actually the same words, so closely together. We fancy that some of these days the Star writers will be having sent prepaid to the Examiner organ a few lines set thusly

(From the Toronto Star.)

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Aug. 23.—There was some enquiry from foreign buyers for new crop Manitoba spring wheat, but as the prices bid were one cent per bushel out of line no business was done. A fair business is doing in oats for local consumption, and the undertone to the market is firm. The demand for flour is good and the market is fairly active at steady prices. Supplies of bran and shorts are small, for which the demand is good. Cheese and butter are fairly active, and the demand for eggs is good. Provisions in fair demand.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Aug. 23.—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market the offering this morning were 600 cattle, 1150 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 300 calves. A steady feeling prevailed in the market for cattle and prices showed no further change owing to the fact that the demand was good from local butchers and supplies were not in excess of the requirements.

A fairly active trade was done with sales of choice steers at 6¼c; good at 5¾c to 6c; fairly good, at 5¼c to 5½c; fair, at 4¾c to 5c, and common at 4¼c per lb. Cows brought from 4c to 5½c, and bulls at from 3c to 4¾c per lb., as to quality.

Owing to the increased supplies of sheep and lambs coming forward a weaker feeling developed in the market and prices declined ¼c to ½c per lb., but at this reduction the demand was good, and an active trade was done. Lambs sold at 6c, and sheep at 4c per lb.

The demand for calves was good, and sales were made at prices ranging from $3 to $10 each, as to size and quality.

The market for hogs was weaker, and prices ruled lower on account of the larger offerings. The demand was fair with sales of selected lots at $7.50 and mixed and heavy lots at from $6 to $7.25 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Aug. 23.—Cattle—Receipts 175 head; market fairly active and steady. Prime steers, $7.25 to $7.75; butcher grades, $3.00 to $7.15.

The Lash of Circumstance

Harry Irving Greene

"Last evening. After the theatre I gave the friend who was with me one of my cards with the request that he call me up some evening when he was lonesome. But I have a distinct recollection of putting it back in my upper vest pocket. I would not have lost it for many times its value, and it was a rather expensive trinket at that." Ruefully I continued my search for the fourth or fifth time as he sympathized with me, following his condolences with the remark that a pencil memorandum in his book would answer the same purpose. Therefore I gave him the number orally and noted that he wrote it down correctly. Then with an apology and an excuse of urgent business he darted aboard a passing car with a farewell flirt of his hand.

CHAPTER XI.

I went back to the house. Clare had left my uncle's room and I heard her voice mingled with Bruce's on the lawn below. Uncle Abner had arisen and was carefully examining his papers as he rearranged them in their customary order. He had been hurt but little, and now that his blood was circulating freely again and the stiffness was disappearing from his limbs, he was not suffering bodily to amount to anything. But his humor was beastly. The look with which he greeted me as I entered was almost carnivorous.

"This is what comes of housing fly-by-nights who spend their money staying in hotels when they should be at home in the beds which they have already paid for," he snarled. "If you had been here it would not have happened. I don't believe there was more than one thief, and he could not have held you if you had any fight in you."

"He probably would not have tried it. At any rate, had I resisted I would have stood an excellent chance of being killed. Men who enter the houses of others to commit a crime at night know that they hold their own lives in the hollow of their hands and are prepared to meet resistance with bloodshed," I returned somewhat icily. But the coolness of my tones only made his wrath flame the hotter.

"It don't make and difference. It was your business to be here when you knew there was so much money in the house instead of running away like a coward and leaving me to protect it all alone. And I suppose you expect you will inherit some of it after I am gone, but I'll show you," he yelled. The direct intimation that he would ignore me upon his death bed, and that he considered my life of less consequence than a fraction of his wealth, turned me from him without a word.

I went to my own room, where I stood at the window looking upon the grounds below. Bruce and Clare were wandering aimlessly about, and even at that distance I could see the worry that lay upon her face. As for Bruce, he seemed to have recovered a good deal of his old-time assurance. But presently he turned away with a curt nod while she stood for a moment watching him with a pathetic little clasping of her hands; then turned and came hurriedly into the house. I intercepted her at the head of the stairs and signalled for her to come into my apartments. She did so, seating herself in a chair that I drew for her. "Well," I said inquiringly. She shook her head.

Sympathetically I continued: "It is really too bad and I don't understand it either. Nobody in the world has more confidence in Bruce's honesty than I have, and if he would only speak I would believe him against a host of circumstances. But there are certain things which he as a man should come forward and explain. He did not produce the key and denied ever having had it, while I know it was in his possession yesterday. The only thing we could get out of him was his permission for us to go to an uncomfortable place. Have you any idea of how he became possessed of the key to the house which I saw him have yesterday?"

"I have not—assuming that you are right. We have been talking that same matter over and he says he had no key in his side coat pocket and never carries one there. I know that I never gave him mine, and its disappearance at this time can be nothing more than a strange coincidence. He also denies that he ever at any time had possession of my key, and I am satisfied that he did not, for the reason that if he had had I should have missed it. I don't care a snap what anybody thinks or says; I know Bruce is as puzzled over your charge that he had it as you seem to be over his denial." Her mouth set defiantly and I knew she would defend him to the last ditch should I attack him, which, of course, I had not the remotest idea of doing. Instead, I became even more mollifying, hoping to reason him out of his stubbornness through argument advanced to her.

"I know that his denial proves nothing any more than does the fact of his going broke on 'Change, or his making that silly remark that he was going to get $10,000 some way. Neither would his refusal to tell us where he spent the night prejudice me, although it might seem somewhat singular, and under the circumstances be sufficient to arouse suspicion in those who do not know him. But the combination of all these things places him in a position before LeDuc which I regret to see him occupy. You and I have often discussed his outspokenness, and you have said that he did not know that there was a back door to anything. It is his present complete reversal of form and his evident desire to cover up something that ought to be revealed that puzzles me. Why don't he come out as he has always done before and tell us where he was at the time this happened? If for any reason he does not care to tell you, he at least might confide in me, knowing as he does that any secret would be safe in my keeping. Then I could investigate his statement merely as a matter of form, and having found it true I could satisfy LeDuc or anybody else without going into particulars. If on the other hand there is any reason why he don't care to take you or me into his confidence, he could at least talk to LeDuc, who would keep his secret, and we would be none the wiser. I sincerely regret his obstinacy, for even though it does not get him into any particular trouble it may compel him to go through an ordeal that may be unpleasant for us all. I know LeDuc well enough to believe that he will get at the bottom of this affair if he possibly can, no matter whom he uncovers as he digs."

She breathed a little sigh. "Of course I appreciate all that, and I have tried to reason with him, but he would not listen to me any more than he did to you. He almost swore when I begged him to ignore me and tell you men all about himself. While I would stake my life upon his innocence of all complicity in this matter, I can explain it to myself in only one way, and I cannot force myself to believe even that." Our eyes met squarely.

"I am certain there is no other woman in the case; Bruce is not that kind," I stated positively.

She reddened, and her hands became tight little fists. "No, I will not believe such a thing of him," she cried with a slight quivering of the lips. Quickly she arose and passed into my uncle's apartments with head on high. It seemed too bad that I had been obliged to mention such a distasteful thing, but I knew well enough that despite herself it was hovering in her mind, and I wanted to add my convictions of his moral honesty to her own. It distressed me to see her unhappy, but deeming it best to let her have a little time in which to compose herself I did not follow her, leaving the house almost immediately thereafter, and in fact avoiding any further contact with my uncle that day. A little later I had gotten Mrs. Dace on the telephone and told her that I would like to see her as I was the possessor of rather startling news. She asked me to come to her at once.

She did not seem to be as surprised or interested at my recital as I thought the tale warranted. To be sure her eyes quickly arose to mine when I told her of the crime, and she gave me her undivided attention until I had finished; then seemed to be turning the affair over in her own mind, for, she allowed several minutes to elapse without comment.

"Whom do you suspect—I mean you personally?" she then asked me. I requested that she pledge herself to secrecy, which she did with a little laugh that told me that she considered such a formula superfluous.

"I suspect absolutely no one. Yet I am puzzled and worried by Bruce's conduct. I do not attach much importance to his denial of having the key and our failure to find it, although I cannot account for the denial part of it. Neither do I give great weight to his words about his going to get hold of a large sum of money. I take it for granted that when he said he was going to raise it somehow or other it was with the mental reservation that it was to be done honestly of course. Also when it comes to his absolute refusal to tell us where he was last night I can imagine a solution of that, for when a man is under the influence of liquor he will sometimes do things that he would not think of were he in his right mind. It is also on record that sleep walkers sometimes commit burglaries when they are in a trance and are utterly irresponsible for their actions. Take that recent case that everybody was talking about. The person involved attended a dance and became very tired, fell asleep on the way home, skilfully broke into his own house and robbed himself of money that he had hidden away, and the next day remembered nothing about the matter. It was long afterwards that he happened to stumble across the money where he had secreted it in his semi-conscious state."

She did not appear to be particularly impressed by my statement. "I am inclined to believe that whoever robbed your uncle at least thought he knew what he was about," she answered with what I imagined was a faint suggestion of sarcasm. "However, Bruce, being somewhat indisposed and in an excited state, might have unconsciously let fall a remark in some public place, which, in connection with his perhaps exhibiting the key, led to its being stolen from him and the perpetration of the crime by someone else." I acquiesced.

"I have thought of that as a possible solution of the reason as to why he will not reveal his whereabouts, and I am certain it will not escape LeDuc. Perhaps Bruce is conscious of having been indiscreet in his speech or actions and is ashamed to tell about it. But this much is fairly certain. It is too great a stretch of the imagination to conceive that the attack upon the safe at this particular time was made at hap-hazard. The one who did it knew to a certainty that the money was in the house. And so far as we now know but four persons in the world had that knowledge, namely, Uncle Abner, Bruce, myself, and—" I paused, clearing my throat and giving her an opportunity to interrupt me if she chose. She did so promptly.

"You told me," she said sweetly. "Therefore it seems to lie between Bruce and myself." The opening that I had been feinting for was now before me and I thrust at it.

"Is it not barely possible that Janet, the maid, might have overheard me mention the fact of uncle having a large sum in the safe and thoughtlessly repeated it to some acquaintance of hers?" Although not a muscle of her face moved, in some mysterious way I knew that my companion was smiling inwardly.

"No. Janet hears nothing that is not spoken to her, and I do not permit her to have lovers. Besides, you say the thief had a key to the front door. How do you account for an outsider possessing that?"

I wondered if she had forgotten the incident of my keys having been for some days in the possession of the maid and the possibility of duplicates easily made from the original. I hesitated for a moment as I idly turned the pages of a book that she might have time to recall this circumstance, but she merely sat placidly surveying me, and I thought it would be better taste not to mention it. Her confidence in Janet seemed to be complete, and of course in matters of this kind if the maid was guilty her mistress would be the last one in whom she would confide. I therefore decided to abandon the subject for the time.

"I do not attempt to account for it," I returned slowly. "But, as must be apparent to you, my cousin Bruce is under suspicion in some quarters, and believing from the bottom of my heart that he is innocent, I am trying to evolve a theory which will let him out despite his own obstinacy and seeming determination to keep himself in. I was merely trying to discover all possible leaks through which the information might have escaped. I have told Mr. LeDuc everything and you need not be surprised if he calls upon you. But he is a gentleman and you need have no hesitancy about talking to him freely."

To be continued.

William E. Parker, claiming Toronto as his home, is charged at Morristown, N.S., with false pretences.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The remains of two more victims of the Porcupine forest fires have been found in the woods.

Canal traffic shows a falling off for July, chiefly on account of the decline in ore shipping.

Fully one thousand retail grocers and their friends of Port Huron were in London yesterday spending their annual excursion.

The A. O. F. Grand Lodge, meeting at Peterboro, endorsed the proposal for old-age pensions and appointed a committee to prepare a plan.

The Government steamer Earl Grey, while proceeding to Murray Bay to take on the Governor-General and party, collided with a tug below Quebec.

Constable Trainer was shot in the lung and Constable Brown was fired at fifteen times by three housebreakers, whom the officers were trying to arrest in Winnipeg yesterday afternoon.

An operation was performed yesterday by Drs. Raymond and Grinda on Prince Jaime, the second son of King Alphonso and Queen Victoria of Spain, for the relief of a nose and throat affection.

Bees Invade Grocery.

Ottawa, Aug. 24.—A curious incident occurred here yesterday when a swarm of several thousand bees, supposed to belong to the experimental farm, attacked a grocery store owned by Geo. Hopper, in the centre of the city, a couple of miles from the farm, and took possession.

Several children were stung, and business had to be suspended while the bees sampled everything sweet in the place. Rev. G. Watt Smith, of the First Congregational Church, who is himself an apiarist, finally succeeded in luring the visitors into a large box, solving the problem for the storekeeper.

Burglars at Chesterville.

Chesterville, Ont., Aug. 24—Burglars during the night looted four stores, getting away with upwards of $800.

From the jewelry store of W. Lauchien alone one hundred rings, twenty watches, and other jewelry, amounting to almost $400, was taken.

In the store of Sauler and Casselmen they smashed all cash registers, and fitted themselves out with clothing. Razors and knives were also taken in large quantities.

Will Adopt Savings Bank Idea.

Montreal, Aug. 24—The establishment of public savings banks wherein each scholar may deposit spare pocket money, whether it be a penny, a nickel, a dime, or a quarter, will be a feature of the Catholic schools of the city when they reopen for the fall term next month.

Died In Chicago.

Kingston, Aug. 24.—Within five days of each other, two former Kingstonians passed away in Chicago—John Crowley and his wife. Two daughters and one son survive. Crowley was born at Kingston Mills sixty years ago, and attended the old boys' reunion here a few weeks ago.

After Winnipeg Railway.

Winnipeg, Aug. 24.—Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann are in the city to meet once more the representatives of the city, with regard to the proposed purchase of the street railway by the city. What is expected to be the final conference will take place to-day.

Fatal Hotel Fire.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Aug. 24.—One person is dead, two fatally hurt, and the Chancellor Hotel is damaged to the amount of $50,000 as the result of a fire which started on the seventh floor of the hotel here yesterday and spread so rapidly that for a time it was believed the entire business section was endangered. Joseph Hall, a colored boy, was killed and Mrs. Ball, also colored, and Roy Dewa, aged 12, were fatally hurt by falling walls. Search is being made in the ruins for other bodies.

Lost 250 Chickens.

Kingston, Aug. 24.—P. D. Lyman, a well-known poultry fancier, reports that he has lost 250 chickens this summer through "growing light," one of the most fatal diseases among pigeons and chickens. The disease appears to be caused by varying extremes of weather.

Owing to the newsboys' strike no evening papers were sold in Dublin yesterday, and all the newspaper offices are under police guard. Rioting was renewed.

"BARGAIN" GLASSES ARE DANGEROUS GLASSES

This Editorial in the Ladie's Home Journal gives timely warning against these "Eye Destroyers" advertised as "Exceptional Values."

A woman who was hunting "bargain glasses" finally succeeded in "fitting" her eyes with what she enthusiastically declares was "just the thing." And immensely pleased with herself, this woman had brought about the gravest danger a woman could invest in, for she had bought two pieces of glass crudely ground, but magnifying strongly, and with them she can see 'better to read'—That seeing better will mean an intense strain upon the her eyes, but she will not realize what the trouble is, nor the injury the glasses are doing. Some day she will be under the care of a Specialist, probably for the removal of a cataract, which will cost considerable, to say nothing of the suffering entailed, and she will be fortunate indeed if she does not suffer partial or entire loss of sight for the remainder of her life.

We have every qualification for giving your eyes a thorough examination. We fit you with the finest ground lenses, and at a very reasonable cost. Thousands of our citizens can certify to the care, skill and thoroughness of the examination, and the good results they had in wearing the glasses we prescribed. ALL WORK GUARANTEED.

MR. ED. WADE ON THE JOB

City Engages Him to Take up Sewer Work

Mr. Edward Wade the well known contractor has taken in hand, the sewer work for the new pumping station, Messrs. Conroy and Bogue having failed to come forward with any proposition for the completion of the contract

The account will be charged up against Mr. Conroy, he being the contractor liable to the city, which has engaged Mr. Wade.

The work will be proceeded with as rapidly as possible and Mr. Wade having had a large experience in construction work, should give satisfaction although it must be admitted that the task is no easy one.

AT THE GRAND

"THE COUNTY SHERIFF"

"The County Sheriff," Lem B. Parker's new show, as presented at the Grand last night by O. E. Wee's company, was a good success.

The story seemed to glint and gleam with life and vigor. It was delightful in its humor and stirring in its adventure, while the romance was of a very high order, and the sympathetic audience was very enthusiastic over the work of the clever cast, which included Jack Whiteside, Miss Evelyn Morrison, Miss Georgia Fraggas, J. F. Malloy, and others.

Changes to the interior of the Grand were noticeable, painters and decorators having but recently completed their work, and Peterborough's handsome playhouse is now open for the season.

TABLETS FOR THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Standard for Butter Fat in Milk to be 3 per Cent

Property Committee of Council Held Short Session

The city property committee held a short session last evening and settled a few minor items of business.

Mayor Morrow moved that the chairman of the Public Library Board and the chairman of the property committee be authorized to erect tablets in the public library, one commemorating the donation made by the late Mrs. Nicholls of the site, on which the library was erected, and the other in honor of Andrew Carnegie, who gave the funds for the erection of the building. The motion carried.

A letter was read from Robert Wilson, caretaker of the city buildings, asking for two weeks' holidays, which request was granted.

In future the percentage of butter fat in the milk delivered in the city will be 3. Some complaints had arisen about the high standard which has been compulsory hitherto.

The chairman was instructed to have the King Edward park lawn cut and reseeded and put in good shape.

A hedge and fence will be built also around the public library and the lawn reseeded wherever necessary.

There were present at the meeting Mayor Morrow, Ald. Duncan (chairman); Ald Graham, Ald. Bradburn and Ald. Morgan.

MR. SEXSMITH'S BIG MEETING AT WARSAW WAS A WINNER

Haughton Lennox, M.P. for East Simcoe, Mr. Sexsmith and Mr. Thompson Spoke—The True Facts of Reciprocity Are Shown Up—The Scandals.

A big and enthusiastic meeting in the interests of Mr. J. A. Sexsmith was held last night in Warsaw town hall, which was crowded to the doors. The farmers of East Peterborough gave their representative a rousing reception and applauded the remarks of the speakers to the echo as point by point was made against the government, and against reciprocity.

Mr Haughton Lennox, one of the chief lights of the Opposition, and member for East Simcoe, was present, and gave a vigorous address of about an hour. He dealt with the matter of the Grand Trunk Pacific scandals, the over classifications on which he is an authority, and with the Oliver $69,000 campaign fund scandal. He told about the revelations that Oliver had in the last election received $69,000 in a campaign fund from some United States source. Where did it come from?

Mr. Lennox told of the hasty dissolution of the house, so hasty that even the Liberal members of parliament did not know that it was coming. The distinct pledge of the government had been violated by this hasty dissolution, decided on at a cabinet meeting, at which it was admitted there was a warm quarrel. Why was the house so suddenly brought to an end? Was not the Laurier government afraid that the Oliver investigation on the succeeding Tuesday would create a sensation? Did it not decide that it was better to spring a dissolution on even the Liberal members, rather than risk the exposure of tremendous importance it feared would come first?

Mr. Lennox dealt with the national aspect of the reciprocity agreement, with the high-handed attempt of the Laurier government to force the pact on the country, reversing its fiscal policy, without even the consent of the Liberal members of parliament. He told of the determination of the opposition that the people should have an opportunity of voting on it, and said that if Canada settled down to free trade with the United States, it was settling down to a continentalism that must bind this country to the United States for all time, because we would not be free to reverse that policy when the United States found it working so well.

Mr. Sexsmith made a strong speech full of practical points for the consideration of the farmers. He handled reciprocity from purely the economic side, showing that the letting down of the bars would simply open the good Canadian market to a flood of cheap American products, besides letting in free the products of many other countries that Canada could not compete with—countries like Australia and New Zealand. Mr. Sexsmith showed where, in spite of a duty, a train load of Australian butter was dumped into Canadian markets this spring. He showed where 300,000 dozen eggs were brought in in April and March in spite of the duty. He showed how it would be possible for the American farmer with his greater resources, and his cheaper production, to undersell the Canadian, and in a free trade market, as conditions are now, the Canadian farmer was going to lose, and lose heavily. Mr. Sexsmith dealt in most emphatic manner with many questions arising out of the reciprocity pact, and his points appealed in striking manner to the farmers. Being a farmer himself, and knowing exactly what he is talking about, and not relying merely on newspaper press quotations, but using government statistics, Mr. Sexsmith is proving to the East Peterborough farmers at least that the Rich American market will really, in practice, mean a rich Canadian market for the Americans and other outsiders.

The meeting was closed by James Thompson, M.L.A., who dealt in an able way with the adverse features of reciprocity. The chairman was Michael Barr, and the audience sat listening eagerly until the close of the meeting after eleven o'clock.

PROGRAM FOR AQUATIC CHAMPIONSHIPS FOR CITY

All Events Are Open—Life Saving Competition for Lech Shield.

The Peterborough aquatic championships will be held on Saturday, Sept. 9th, under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. this was the decision arrived at by the committee last evening.

PROGRAM

Swimming, 100 yards, any style, city championship, open to all.

50 yards, any style, junior championship, 16 years and under.

Single blade canoe championship.

440 yard swim, any style.

220 yard swim, any style, (junior.)

Canoe fours.

Life saving competition for the handsome Wm. E. Lech shield.

If a suitable place can be secured for a springboard, the above program will be supplemented by some fancy diving.

It is the intention of the committee in charge to hold the above sports at some convenient part of the canal or river that will afford a good view for spectators.

Any further information may be secured from Physical Director Thompson at the Y.M.C.A.

The events are open to all, the Y.M.C.A. only taking up the question feeling that local athletics looked forward to such a program and will appreciate it the more accordingly.

It has not been decided just where the events will be pulled off, but the above the lift lock is suggested.

URGENT CALL NECESSITATED PROMPT ACTION BY DOCTOR

But Magistrate Imposed a Fine of $10 for Exceeding Auto Speed Limit.

Dr. E. V. Frederick was fined $10 in Police court this morning for exceeding the speed limit in his automobile on Charlotte street yesterday evening.

Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the defendant.

P. C. Kidd in his evidence said he was standing on the corner of Charlotte and Lewis streets at 7.48 p.m., and saw Dr. Frederick going west on Charlotte street in his car, and judged the rate of speed to be about forty miles an hour. The physician was compelled to stop at Bethune street as the gates were down and the officer got his number by following him to the crossing.

AN URGENT CALL.

Dr Frederick said he had received a telephone call to a residence on Albert street, his patient there needing immediate attendance, and probably a couple of lives would be endangered by his dallying on the way. As the lady telephoning to him was very much excited she hung up the receiver without telling him exactly where to go. A second later another person called and gave him the name and number of the place where he was wanted. He was probably going twenty miles an hour but the case he considered was a very urgent one.

Miss Lena Darrah was the second young lady who telephoned and when called she corroborated the physician's statement as to the nature of the message he received.

Mr Gordon contended that there should be some provision made for doctors who were responding quickly in the interests of humanity.

His Worship in imposing a fine of $10 said that he intended putting an end to this speeding on the public highway. There was too much of it prevailing in the city at present.

Mr Gordon intends appealing the case in the interests of his client.

DINNY KANE GOES TO REGINA

Peterboro Boy Gets Send off From Galt Friends

The Galt Reformer says:—Mr. Dennis Kane on Saturday noon severed his connection with the Reformer and left in the afternoon for Regina, Sask., where he has accepted a position on the Regina Leader. A number of his fellow printers and friends saw him off Saturday afternoon. He was an expert linotype operator and the staff of the Reformer regretted to see him go as well as his many friends. Mr. Kane came to Galt a little over three years ago from Peterborough and during his residence here he made a host of friends. Dinny will be greatly missed but his many friends will wish him luck in his new western home.

Dinny is a son of Mr. Patrick Kane, Rubidge street.

STOLE TO KEEP FROM STARVING

Wife of Consumptive Husband Tells Sad Tale

Toronto, Aug. 23—With the death of her consumptive husband expected to occur before noon, and her little two year old girl crying at home for food, Mrs. Lyla Bray, 253 Ontario st. appeared in the police court this morning on a charge of shoplifting from the T. Eaton Company, Limited, yesterday.

The story told by the woman to the police when placed in custody was a sad tale of her vain fight against poverty and neglect.

"I took the things to keep my child and myself from starving," she sobbed. "I did not steal them because I wanted to wear them I took them to sell so that I could buy food."

The court officials were touched by her grief and knowing that the woman could secure no bail, her own bond for $200, was accepted, and she hurried to the bedside of her dying husband.

This morning she elected to be tried by the County Judge, and waived examination. Again her own bail was accepted, and owing to the sad circumstances surrounding the case she was called at the beginning of the court, so she could be with her husband at the time of his death. Arrangements have been made to bring the prisoner before Judge Denton on Friday next in the County Court, where she will plead guilty and trust to the mercy of the bench.

YOUNG FARMER OF DUMMER HAD ARM BROKEN

Norman Payne Met With Painful Accident While Driving

Special Correspondence.

Warsaw, Aug. 24.—At the home of her stepfather, Mr. Albert Batten, of Cottesloe, on Wednesday evening, Aug. 23rd, Miss Laura Webster was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Richard Martin, of Marengo, Sask.

Mr Harold Darling was groomsman, and the bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Mary Ellen Webster, while the wedding march was played by Miss Effie Webster, another sister of the bride. Miss Ruby Bolton was flower girl.

The groom is a prosperous farmer in the western province. Best wishes are extended to Mr and Mrs. Martin for a bright future.

On Saturday, Aug. 19th, while returning home from a threshing, Mr Grenfield Sanders, of Cottesloe, fell from the mill, where he was riding, and had his leg broken just below the knee by the wheel passing over it.

Mr. Norman Payne, of North Dummer, had his arm broken Monday night. He was returning home from McCracken's Landing, where he and a lot of other young men had been engaged fighting a fire that is doing considerable damage in that part of the country. He was running past another buggy, but not having turned out far enough his buggy struck the other one, throwing the occupants of both buggies to the ground, with the result above named.

Mrs. Albert Smithson, formerly of this village, has returned to renew old acquaintances.

Thaw's Money Ties Him Up.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 24.—Harry Thaw, through counsel, yesterday filed an answer to a petition of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, in which he will oppose the appointment of a committee to take charge of his person and estate.

Thaw's answer will set forth that he is not insane, but is capable of transacting his own business, and, in fact, is transacting his own business.

"I have just come from Matteawan," said Attorney W. A. Stone yesterday. "I confered with Thaw for two hours regarding the petition of Evelyn Thaw. There is no doubt that Thaw would have been discharged from Matteawan some time ago had it not been for the fact that officials there hesitate to give him a certificate fearing that it would be said that his money had influenced them.

"I talked with Thaw for two hours on various subjects, and if I am capable of judging of a man's mental condition, he is perfectly sane and rational."

Mail by Fast Freight.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Arrangements have been perfected by the Postoffice Department whereby second-class mail matter, consisting of magazines and periodicals, heretofore transported in railway mail cars, will be carried by fast freight, beginning Sept. 1. The order was issued yesterday.

The publishers are to be permitted to print on the wrapper of each copy or bundle of their publications, as a part of the address, instructions as to the date on which delivery is to be made.

Publishers have assured the Postmaster-General that they generally will be satisfied with the arangement, and assurances have also been received from the railways that the mail can be delivered promptly. The expense of transporting and delivering will be far less than at present.

Shaughnessy's Denial.

Montreal, Aug. 24.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy yesterday gave for publication a statement in connection with the published reports that he, with other C.P.R. officials, will campaign the northwest of Canada in opposition to the proposal. Sir Thomas dictated the following:

"Accompanied by three or four members of the Board of Directors, I am leaving to-morrow on the annual inspection trip over the lines between Montreal and the Pacific coast. Fully occupied as we shall be with other matters, I regret exceedingly that we shall have no time to give to politics."

Died Suddenly.

Brantford, Aug. 24.—Dr. Almon A. Babcock, for 14 years a prominent dentist of this city, died suddenly here yesterday from epilepsy, to which he was subject. A widow and two children survive.

PETERBORO FORESTER ELECTED TO OFFICE OF HIGH COURT

Juvenile Federation of A.O. F., in Session — Montreal Man is H.C.R.

The Juvenile Federation of the A.O. F met in the Collegiate Institute last night, with a large number of delegates present and keen interest was taken in the proceedings.

The recommendation of the permanent secretary of the Federation that the levy be raised from 10 to 20 cents, per year was discussed and ultimately adopted by a large majority.

A strong resolution was passed urging the incoming executive to assist the Federation by interest and advice and by organizing new branches.

The revision of the present and the preparation of a new ritual was left in the hands of the newly-elected executive.

The greater part of yesterday and part of to-day's session was taken up with the election of officers which thus far resulted as follows;

High Chief Ranger—E. Ramsey, Montreal.

H.S.C.R.—W. R. Woods, Toronto.

Per Sec.—W. Williams, St. Marys.

H. C. Treas.—H. C. Wilson, Toronto.

H.C.M. Ex.—Dr. L. Secord, Brantford.

H.C. Sr. Woodward—A. Webber, Winnipeg.

H. C. Jr. Woodward.—A. Martin, Hamilton.

H. C. Sr. Beadle.—H. McPherson, London.

H.C. Jr. Beadle—J. R. McWilliams, Peterborough.

Auditor—F. Abbott, Meaford.

The discussion on the report of the committee on the state of the Order was resumed this morning. The H.C.R. spoke on the advisability of appointing an Inspector to examine the books, where and whenever necessary. This suggestion was carried.

It was also decided to appoint a representative of the Order with headquarters in Winnipeg, to take charge the work in the western provinces. The election of members of the Judiciary Committee and selection of the next place of meeting of the High Court will take place this afternoon.

The many Toronto and other delegates who are at the Montgomery House, feel that they were accorded the most patriotic hotel in the city, it being the only one to fly the Union Jack.

SIX MONTHS IN CENTRAL PRISON FOR TWO LOCAL YOUTHS

Judgment Reserved in Case of Blacklister — Drunk Assessed $2 — Doig Case Adjourned

There was a lengthy session at Police Court this morning. As the court room is being used as a registration booth His Worship Magistrate Dumble heard the case in Chief Thompson's office.

SIX MONTHS EACH

Ernest Lowes and Albert Wright, against whom judgment was reserved until this morning, were each sentenced to six months in Central prison.

The prisoners who were convicted yesterday on the charge of relieving James Rivers, a young eighteen year old lad from Minden, of $10, have a bad record. They have been before His Worship before on a similar charge and Wright spent a month in jail about three years ago.

A drunk was assessed the usual sum of $2 for imbibing too well.

BLACKLIST CASE

G. N. Gordon appeared for a local man, who is on the prohibited list and who, P. C. Meharty claimed, was drinking last night.

His worship reserved judgment.

Another local man who was in the company of the blacklister, was arrested with him and charged with supplying liquor to the man on the prohibited list. Through Mr. Gordon he pleaded "not guilty."

On the Indian list being called, it was proved that the defendant received whiskey from the blacklister but did not supply him with any.

The accused was acquitted.

The Doig case was adjourned until Friday, Sept. 1.

MR. STRATTON GETS THROW DOWN

Electors Tell Him They Will Vote for Burnham

Mr. J. R. Stratton it appears, is not finding the personal canvass of city concerns a bed of roses, in fact the thorns are very much in evidence as be well known as a result of some of his experiences to date.

That habitual movement of the right hand (particularly at election time) has been strenuously objected to on the part of many electors, not a few of whom supported him on former occasions.

The Review is informed that he received an emphatic throw-down at a local concern on Tuesday, after being piloted there by one of the officials of the company. He was told in answers prompt and to the point that the votes which he was seeking would go to Mr. Burnham.

REGISTRATION YESTERDAY

423 Names Added to the Voters List

Four hundred and twenty three registrations were made yesterday. The police station booth headed the list with 113 and Spry's in the south ward was next with 101.

Business was rushing last night and the officials were busy men.

This morning a man passed middle age walked into the booth at the Tax Collector's office and registered to vote for the first time. He stated that he had lived in Peterboro practically all his life.

The official figures at the five booths for yesterday are—

Police station—113.
Tax Collector's Office—87
Lewis Spry's—101.
Village Hall—62.
Lees—60.
Total—423.

Charged With Shooting.

Brantford, Aug. 24.—William Winegardner, a Hatchley man, is in jail here, charged with shooting his son-in-law Thomas Rowe, with intent to kill. Rowe ran away with Winegardner's daughter, and on the return of the couple the alleged shooting took place. In the prisoner's possession were found a revolver and several rounds of cartridges.

Never Saw the Will.

Kingston, Aug. 24.—In a statement to the lawyer looking after her interests, Mrs. Abbie George, widow of the late Joseph George, says that she never saw the will of her husband, which has just been found under sensational circumstances. She not only never saw the will, but never heard of it being in existence.

Beer Was Too Strong.

Brantford, Aug. 24.—Max Harris, a local foreigner, was fined $100 and costs here yesterday for a breach of the License Act, in selling lagerine made at Waterloo, which contained 3.62 per cent. of alcohol, instead of 2.50, the legal requirement. Magistrate Livingston said he had no course left but to impose the fine. An effort will be made to have it remitted, ten days being granted.

WHO'S COMING AND GOING

Mr J. V. Hayes, of Peterborough, was in town Tuesday.—Lindsay Post.

Mr. James Callaghan of Pittsburg, is visiting at his home on Elm street.

Miss May Laing is spending a few weeks at Niagara Falls, the guest of Miss Ethel Maund.

Mr. Harold Burns has returned after spending his vacation in Owen Sound and Toronto

Mr. H. V. Duggan, late Industrial Commissioner of the city is here today.

Mr. and Mrs. Haines and Mr. and Mrs. Sherwin of Philadelphia are visiting at Mr. Jas Beatords.

Miss May Trembley has returned after a two week's visit with friends in Hamilton and Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. William Goodwin and daughter Jessie, of Prescott, Ont., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Cox, North Monaghan.

Mr. J. N. Gould manager of the Sterling Bank at Uxbridge, who has been visiting in the city, left this morning for Uxbridge.

The following item from New Westminster, which appears in last week's Vancouver, B.C., Saturday Sunset, will be of interest to many in Peterborough;—"Miss Mactiowan, who has been the recipient of much attention socially during the past fortnight, was the guest of honor at a delightfully arranged shower tea given by Mrs. C. Balmer McAllister on Tuesday afternoon of last week, when a large number of guests were entertained. Mrs. McAlister wore a stunning gown of white marquisette embroidered in blue with touches of black, while her sister Miss Barnet, was charming in a hand-embroidered white frock. The guest of honor looked very lovely in pale pink satin with lace trimmings and large pink hat. In the dining-room Mrs Lawford Richardson poured tea from a daintily appointed table centered with a huge bowl of white sweet peas. Mrs. J. Gracey cut the ices and others assisting were Miss Briggs, Miss Corbould and Miss Josephine Martin. Mrs. McAllister also entertained at dinner on the same evening for Miss Macgowan and Mr. Babcock: covers were laid for ten, several additional guests coming in for bridge later. Miss Barnet, of Renfrew, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Balmer McAllister, for the past six weeks, left for her home on Tuesday afternoon."

SKEETERS DEFEATED TWICE; LEAFS LEAD BIRDS AGAIN

McConnell Won His 26th Game of Season for Hustlers.

Toronto, Aug. 24—The Kelleyites stung the Skeeters twice in the same place yesterday and passed Baltimore in the league race. Four to one was the verdict in each case, with Lush and Bachman the winning heavers, and this pair had a little on their opponents in each encounter.

Frill and Lush worked the initial game, but, as usual, the former was gifted with "charities" at different stages, and some of these came home to roost. On the other hand, Lush was invincible after the first inning and had the visitors eating out of his hand.

Jack Thorney, the former Toronto favorite, received a great ovation from the spectators on his first appearance at the bat, and "The Bullet" showed that he has still a good eye, even if possessing a lame wing, by pounding out a single. Breen dropped a Texas Leaguer over second, and Roach sacrificed. Deininger bounced a bad one down to Bradley, and was thrown out at first. Thoney scoring. This was the Skeeter's only run in the first game.

Rochester, Aug. 23—The Grays used Pierce and Crystal this afternoon, and nearly all of the Rochesters in uniform got in on the good things making all kinds of hits, and winning 13 to 3. The victory is the 26th of the year for pitcher McConnell. Score— (

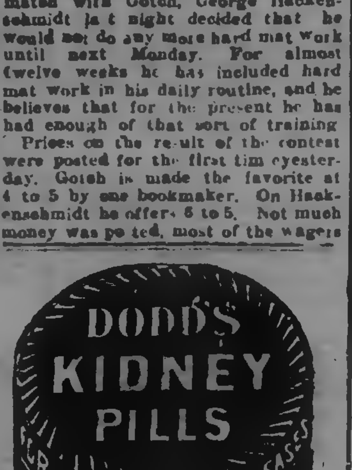
GOTCH FAVORITE OVER RUSSIAN

Both Wrestlers Fit for Labor Day Struggle

Chicago, Aug. 24—Fearing that he might go stale before the time of his match with Gotch, George Hackenschmidt last night decided that he would not do any more hard mat work until next Monday. For almost twelve weeks he has included hard mat work in his daily routine, and he believes that for the present he has had enough of that sort of training.

Prices on the result of the contest were posted for the first time yesterday. Gotch is made the favorite at 4 to 5 by one bookmaker. On Hackenschmidt he offers 6 to 5. Not much money was posted, most of the wagers accepted being of the short order. It is not expected the event will be a big betting affair, despite the fact that it is a championship event.

Humboldt, Ia., Aug. 23—Frank Gotch the champion wrestler, now weighs close to 207 pounds, and when he steps upon the mat in Chicago on Labor Day to meet George Hackenschmidt he expects to be three pounds lighter. In his previous match with Hackenschmidt, Gotch only weighed 197 pounds.



CONSTABLE ON STAND.

Policeman Tells Story of Wilkie Tragedy at Inquest.

Toronto, Aug. 24.—Coroner Graham resumed the inquest into the death of Mrs. Ellen Wilkie, who died after an alleged assault by her husband, yesterday afternoon, at which time the evidence of Constable Smith and Miss Lillie Reynolds, daughter of deceased, was taken.

The constable said that on hearing cries of murder he rushed into the house and found Wilkie standing at the foot of the stairs with his hand on Mrs. Wilkie's throat. He separated them and Wilkie proceeded to the back yard. Meanwhile his wife requested the constable to take charge of her husband and offered to go to the station and lay a charge of assault against him. She put on her coat and then said she could not go then. A moment later she dropped to the floor and died almost immediately.

Miss Reynolds said she arrived home shortly after 6 o'clock on the night of the tragedy and found her mother and stepfather in the back yard. Presently the mother came into the house and Wilkie went away on his bicycle.

About 11.20 the stepfather came back. At this time the woman was sitting on the front doorsteps. Her husband told her to go inside, and on refusing to do so he proceeded to drag her in by the hair. A row ensued, and shortly afterward the Italian, Perry, came in. Mrs. Wilkie tried to defend herself by striking at her husband, but missed him and struck the Italian. Perry struck her back, and then Wilkie seized her by the throat.

At this point the woman cried out, and Policeman Smith entered and separated the combatants.

The hearing was adjourned.

HAMILTON'S LIBRARY.

Corner-stone of Carnegie Gift Is Laid at Big Function.

Hamilton, Aug. 24.—Lieutenant-Governor Gibson before a fair-sized crowd yesterday afternoon laid the corner-stone of the Hamilton new public library building, which, when completed, will cost close to $200,000. Of this sum, $100,000 has been contributed by Andrew Carnegie and the balance will be raised by the public library board.

The Lieutenant-Governor in his remraks referred to the question of the distribution of wealth, which he admitted was very unequally distributed. It would be difficult to collect from each person his equal share of wealth required for the establishment of such institutions as the public library, the corner-stone of which he laid yesterday. His honor added that he hoped that some method more utopian than that prevailing to-day for distributing wealth would be eventually discovered.

Other speakers of the occasion were John Milne, chairman of the public library board; Judge Hardy, chairman of the Brantford public library board; John M. Brown, trustee, and H. B. Whitton, trustee, and the father of the public library in this city.

The library, when completed, will be known simply as the Hamilton public library, and Mr. Carnegie's name will not be officially connected with the institution. A memorial bust of the city's benefactor will, however, be erected in the building.

Good Crop Weather.

Winnipeg, Aug. 24.—Weather bulletins from widely diverse points in the western provinces substantiate the forecasts of Tuesday night in so far that ideal weather for grain-ripening and harvesting obtains. Warmth is once more general, and the depression which followed in the wake of Sunday's storm is largely dispelled. A fairly accurate estimate of the damage caused by the week-end storm is now obtainable and it appears damage was very largely confined to the immediate path of the windstorm. In this route cutting had been mostly completed and the resulting loss by storm is not more than five per cent.

FARMER JONES AND HIS CITY PARTNER

The Folly of Living High on the Goose That Laid the Golden Eggs—Might Lose All

"When a man has learned to walk and has trusted his legs for a couple of score years, it is no time for him to be experimentin' with fancy crutches or flyin' machines."

Farmer Jones, in homely but practical style, thus went on record as to the course his country, Canada, should pursue. He remembered the hardships of pioneer days when there was no railroad or town at his door, and when there was no such modern conveniences as the telephone.

"The other day," said Farmer Jones, "I looked over an old newspaper containin' the Toronto markets for July, 1880. What did I see? Butter, 15 cents a pound; eggs, 12 cents a dozen; dressed hogs, $6.50 to $7 per hundred; chickens, per pair, 30 to 40 cents; hay, $7 to $13 a ton; straw, $4.50 to $6 a ton."

"Queer difference now," soliloquized his thin friend, sitting on a keg.

"Ain't there?" exclaimed Jones, picking up a Toronto paper. "Listen: Butter, 25 cents a pound; eggs, 25 cents a dozen; dressed hogs, $9.75 to $10.25 per hundred; chickens, dressed, 16 to 18 cents per pound, spring, 30 to 35 cents; hay, $16 to $20 per ton; straw, $6 to $8 per ton loose, $13 to $14 per ton bundled."

"Jee-rusalem," said the thin man, "It makes me sick to think of the good old times."

"I see they're paying from 12 to 14 cents a box for raspberries, from 16 to 17 cents a box for thimble-berries; $1 to $1.25 for tomatoes and cucumbers, and $6 a barrel for new potatoes," read Jones. "Do you remember when raspberries and thimble-berries grew so thick in the woods that the people in the villages could go out and pick all they wanted for nothing. Now the woods are gone, the villages are cities, and the berry-pickers are working all day in factories and paying us to grow their berries and vegetables for them."

"It's odd," said the other, "plumb odd."

"There's reasons for it," replied Farmer Jones, "many reasons. More people, more arms to work, more mouths to feed, growth of factories, development of trade, but there is one big reason—tariff."

"I don't know what to think about that critter," said the thin man. "Some yell things about him in my left ear and others yell different things in my right."

"Stop your ears and use your brains," advised Jones. "Those old prices paid for our goods were the prices of the period before the National Policy, which all governments, Grit and Tory, have been wise enough to continue. Here's my position. I judge the tariff by its results. I'm not workin' as hard to-day as I was thirty years ago. I couldn't, I'm not as economical. I couldn't be. Yet, thirty years ago I was scratchin' like a hen on a hot griddle to get three slim meals a day and a hard bed at night, and to pay the interest on a mortgage. Now I work about eight hours a day, own my land, have money in the bank, eat the best food, wear as good clothes as town people, go to the city when I like, and take an annual vacation just like the preachers. I've a piano, and a spare driver. Two of my sons are at college, and my eldest daughter is studying music in one of the city conservatories. What's made the difference? Markets. In the old days we had none. Most of the people in the country were farmers, and we did not want one another's stuff. Britain was too far away when we had no fast liners and cold storage, and the United States shut their door in our faces. We had to sink or swim, and we splashed a bit, but we floated. When we got a tariff our towns and cities began to boom. Factories attracted laborers who had to have food and clothing. They had no time to grow their own vegetables or go to the woods to pick berries. In the old days we labored like Turks to grow stuff which spoiled on our hands. To-day we can't raise enough. The cities and towns of Canada are cryin' for our goods. The British Isles are roarin' for our fruit, meat and dairy produce. Prices are being paid that would have lifted the hair off my old father's head.

"Wipe out the great manufacturing centres and where are we? Back to the good old days when our eggs sold at 12 cents a dozen. I suppose we might have a tariff fixed in Canada that would be entirely in favor of us farmers and would skin the city and town people out of their eye teeth. That looks to me like living high on the goose that laid the golden eggs. In a short time we'd have neither eggs nor goose."

"Nor down to feather our nests," interrupted the thin man.

"What we farmers want is a square deal," went on the other. "This tariff of ours should be like a genial sun in the sky, givin' light and heat to the whole country without scorchin' anyone. I want a tariff which lets us all live. Don't I appear to be livin'? Look at my farm."

"Why are the farmers shoutin' for tariff reductions and practically asking for free trade?" asked the thin man. "Why are these big deputations of farmers going down to Ottawa scarin' the government and opposition, too?"

Farmer Jones sat silent a moment before replying.

"There are various kinds of intoxication," he said finally. "But they all have one thing in common. They make their victims act foolish. The farmers of Canada at present are drunk with prosperity. They're makin' a rough house at Ottawa to show how strong they are. But when they begin to get the bills for broken glass and smashed furniture, when the mischief is done, it will be the cold gray dawn of the morning after for them."

A cigar butt caused a fire, which destroyed Loyst's hotel and two cottages at Mountain Grove, Ont.

Men Sent Ultimatum.

London, Aug. 24.—Hopes that the labor troubles at Liverpool would be settled quickly have again been disappointed. Tom Mann and other strike leaders arrived in London yesterday from Liverpool and held a conference with representatives of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, as a result of which an ultimatum was sent to Premier Asquith, Sidney Buxton, President of the Board of Trade, and the Lord Mayor of Liverpool, practically demanding the reinstatement of the Liverpool tramway men by noon to-day. In the meantime the situation is so acute that George R. Askwith, comptroller-general of the labor committee of the Board of Trade, has gone to Liverpool to try and arrange matters.

Mann declares that it is the intention of the leaders to bring about a national strike unless the corporation yields.

"I COULD NOT LIVE"

WITHOUT "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Writes The Treasurer Of Caledonia Township

FENAGHVALE, ONT., Jan. 29th, 1910.

For thirty-five years (and I am now a man over seventy) I have been a terrible sufferer from Constipation.

No matter what remedy or physician I employed, the result was always the same—impossible to get a cure.

About two years ago, I read the testimonial of Hon. John Costigan regarding "Fruit-a-tives" and I decided to give this fruit medicine a trial. I have used "Fruit-a-tives" ever since. They are the first and only medicine that suited my case. If it were not for "Fruit-a-tives", I am satisfied that I could not live." JAMES PROUDFOOT.

The liver controls the bowels by giving up enough bile to make the bowels move. The only possible way to cure constipation is to make the liver active and healthy and thus store up sufficient bile to move the bowels.

"Fruit-a-tives" acts directly on the liver—ensures an abundance of bile—and causes the bowels to move regularly and naturally. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

BENSFORT NEWS

Special Correspondence.

Bensfort, Aug. 22.—Mr. Harold Nurse has commenced running his engine, having threshed at Mr. Howard and Ernest Barnard's on Tuesday of last week.

A party of people, comprising Mr. and Mrs. Wesley and James Thompson and families, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and family, and Mr. and Miss Taylor spent Wednesday on the river at the eastern extremity of our community.

Election day is coming, and with it comes the patronage of the government. We hope on the verge of an election to get our share, in having rural mail delivery installed in our township.

Lightning road agents are still traversing this section and reaping the harvest of their labors. Mr. Thomas Dodd is among the latest in having his buildings undergo this apparently necessary form of protection.

Mr. and Mrs. George Meharry have been visiting friends in Rochester, N. Y., during the past week.

Miss Geale, of Omemee, is visiting at Mr Lancelot Nicholson's.

Miss Annie Kerr has been visiting friends in Toronto during the past week.

Some Americans are now living in the house vacated by Mr. Nelson Nurse and Mr. W. A. Nurse, who has spent the summer months in Otonabee, is now touring them around our waters in his steam launch, "Mayflower."

Sunday school, which has been held in No. 2 school, was closed for a few weeks while the building was being repaired, but re-opened on Sunday, 20th. Mr Harold Fry has been putting a cement wall under the building, which is greatly improved as the result of his labors.

Mr. John Kerr has returned after visiting friends in Lindsay.

Rev. Thomas Dodd conducted the services at the Centreville Presbyterian church on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wood spent Saturday in Peterborough.

Mr Robert J. O'Heir has purchased a building from Mr. Thomas Dodd and is converting it into a workshop on his premises.

What is known as Bensfort bridge, across the Otonabee, is closed for traffic during the week between 7 a.m and 6 p.m. It is being replanked. Mr. R. J. O'Heir and Mr. John Reid have the contract, which is superintended by Reeve Waterman.

Miss Jessie Everson, of Toronto, has been home during the past week.

Mr. Headen, president of the S.S. Association of the townships of Monaghan and Cavan, visited the Sunday school on Sunday.

LANG ITEMS

Lang, Aug. 22.—Miss Annie Bowie left last week for Forest City, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Reesor, Toronto, are visiting Mrs. Reesor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Eason.

Mrs. Mills and daughter, Miss Muriel, who have been visiting at Mrs. Jeffrey Dinsdale's, left Saturday morning for their home in Winnipeg.

Marguerite Bowie and Gladys Eason are visiting friends in Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. Brain, formerly of the vicinity of Stony Lake, have moved into the house lately occupied by Mrs. Shearer.

Miss Leottie Hogan, Peterborough, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Leenor Bowie.

Mrs. A. Bowie spent a few days last week with friends in Peterborough.

Mrs. William Speirs is spending the week with friends in Lakefield.

HOW GOVERNMENT REVENUE IS RAISED

GOOD AND BAD TAXES.

The Dominion of Canada raised during the year 1910 the sum of $60,154,134 in the form of customs duties, and the sum of $15,353,353 in the form of excise. Few people realize the importance of this fact. We are so much accustomed to think of the tariff in terms of the well-worn controversy between free trade and protection, and to hear it spoken of as a form of particular privilege in favor of the manufacturing classes, that we are apt to lose out of sight the larger or fiscal aspect of the tariff system. Take for instance, some of the items: In the year 1910 the duty paid on machines and machinery (a charge which, by the way, came largely out of the pockets of the manufacturers themselves), amounted to $3,084,067. The importing jewellers paid to the government $447,870. The duty collected on fancy goods amounted to $1,077,361. Electrical apparatus contributed a revenue of $909,482. Drugs and chemicals contributed $604,313.

We see here the broad contrast that there is between direct and indirect taxation. Indirect taxation is the name given to such charges as customs and excise, which are paid in the first place, not by the consumer himself but by the importer or manufacturer.

Direct taxation includes such charges as property taxes, income taxes, poll taxes, and so forth, which are levied directly upon the citizen in respect to the property which he actually owns.

How the Tariff Helps the Provincial Revenue.

Now, public revenue has got to be raised in one fashion or another. If we do not raise it by means of the tariff we must fall back upon direct taxation. If Canada were to abolish the whole of its tariff system to-morrow, we should have to raise some sixty or seventy million dollars by some other plan. More than that,—and the fact is not generally appreciated,—our Canadian provinces, though they levy no customs duties, in reality draw a very heavy revenue out of the proceeds of the national tariff system. In our plan of government the Dominion of Canada distributes to the different provinces each year very large sums which practically come out of the proceeds of this indirect taxation. In the year 1910 the government paid out $9,361,388 in this fashion. Evidently, then, if the Dominion government had not its tariff system on which to rely for this money, the provinces would have to raise it as best they could for themselves, and the only way in which this could be done, would be by having recourse, to a greater or less extent, to direct taxation of the citizens.

The Rigor of Direct Taxation.

Now, no doubt direct taxation is not without its advantages. The citizen who has to confess to the tax gatherer exactly what is the value of his property and then pay a percentage on it, or who must make a sworn statement of his year's income and pay an annual tax on that, is at any rate in a position to see at first hand just what an expensive thing government is, and he learns to watch the progress of public expenditure with a vigilant and interested eye.

Its Inequalities.

But, perhaps, the difficulty with the direct tax goes even deeper than this. Whatever may be its merits in theory, it is extremely difficult in practice to apportion and levy any such charge in a just and equitable manner. Direct taxes in theory ought to fall on all forms of property alike. In practice, some kinds of property suffer much more than others. Property which is visible and tangible, as for instance, farm lands and buildings and live stock, cannot possibly escape. Property such as balances in the bank or the earnings of professional men readily slips through the net thus held out by the tax gatherer, and, of course, the more one kind of property escapes, the more heavily do other of property contribute.

Direct Taxation in the United States.

If one wishes to see the difficulties encountered in direct taxation, one has only to turn to the existing situation in the different States of the American Union. They receive no subsidy as our provinces do from the customs receipts of the Federal government. The state, county, and township authorities draw a very large proportion, in the case of the two latter practically all, of their financial support from the proceeds of a direct tax laid on all forms of property. The tax applies both to real and personal property—land, houses, buildings, horses, carriages, furniture, stock and shares, mortgages, bonds, etc. At its origination it seemed eminently reasonable. The States were forbidden to levy import and export duties, and to levy excise duties would tend to drive out manufacturers to a more favored locality; they therefore, of necessity, fell back on direct taxes. And of all such, a single tax, laid on all forms of property alike, seemed to commend itself as the most uniform and equitable. In practice it has shown itself to be distressingly inequitable.

The Distribution of the Tax.

This is due in part to the manner of the assessment, which is made as follows: The State authorities compute the amount of the direct tax needed for their purposes, and divide it among the counties in the proportion of the value of assessed property in each. To the sum thus called for each county adds the amount needed for its own use and then distributes it in like manner among its townships, again according to the proportional value of the assessed property in each. To this sum the township adds what is needed for its own purposes, usually the largest amount of all. The total thus reached is distributed among all the property holders of the township according to their proportion of assessed property; in other words, the total of the assessed property is divided by the total tax to be collected, and a tax rate is thus obtained, which is levied on all property. If, for example, the total of the property was worth $5,000,000, and the total tax to be collected was $100,000, then the rate tax would be put at one-fiftieth, or two per cent. Under such a system, then, everything turns on the assessment. If one county has been assessed for very much less property than it actually has, then the amount of the tax assigned to it by the state will be very much less than it should be, but at the expense of the other counties, for the rate all round will need to be higher in order to supply the fixed quantity of money asked for. Or again let us suppose that in one of the townships the property is assessed for very much less than it is worth. Then, the township in which the assessment is too low is given less than its share of the county tax, but always at the expense of the other townships, on account of the rate being of necessity higher than would be needed if the assessment were larger. Finally, within the township itself, precisely the same thing happens among individuals.

The Honest Man Suffers.

Anyone whose property is put at too low a valuation, or not valued at all, escapes, at the expense of his neighbors; and the more the property in general escapes assessment and remains invisible, the higher becomes the tax rate. Hence has arisen what is called competitive under-assessment. The assessors, moreover, being elective officers, elected in most cases for a very short term, are personally interested in not making the total property of their area stand at too high a figure.

The upshot has been that while the system was originally devised as the most equitable form of universal taxation possible, in its actual operation nothing could be more vicious and inequitable. For it is to be observed that it in reality discriminates most unfairly between different kinds of property. Real estate, for example (lands and buildings), is much less easy to conceal than such forms of property as shares in bank stock, bonds, debentures, etc. In illustration of this it may be mentioned that in the assessment of property in Brooklyn in 1895, real estate constituted over ninety-eight per cent of the total values. Some years ago (1884), a tax commission in West Virginia reported in reference to personal property. "Things have come to such a condition in West Virginia, that as regards paying taxes on this class of property, it is almost as voluntary, and is considered pretty much in the same light, as donations to the nighborhouring Church or Sunday school."

A School for Perjury.

In addition to this, a premium is put upon dishonesty, since people of a pliable conscience will find it easier to dodge the assessment than those of a more uncompromising morality. Even some of the measures intended to prevent this, as, for example, the adoption of a schedule of property made out and sworn to by the owner, and the penalties (legal and spiritual) for perjury, etc., accentuate the evil rather than lighten it. The worst feature of all is that, when underassessment once sets in, it moves forward at an accelerated pace. For the higher the rate rises, the more imperative does it become for each individual to understate his property. But the more the property is understated, the higher the rate rises, and thus the worse the situation is, the worse it tends to become. In some cases the rate becomes so high that to tell the literal truth, and pay the full rate tax, would mean absolute ruin. Thus in some of the "towns" of Chicago, previous to the reform of the assessment system a few years ago, the rate stood as high as eight and nine per cent. Now, it must be remembered that this means, not the contribution of eight per cent. of one's income, but eight per cent. of one's capital property. To actually pay this and continue in business would not, for ordinary enterprises, be found possible. The result is that both the assessors and the assessed adopt a rough scale of depreciation, accepting as accurate a figure that is perhaps one-fifth or one-tenth of the probable actual value of the property concerned. Meanwhile, the incentive to dishonesty remains, and a vast amount of property escapes untaxed.

Direct Property Tax Condemned.

Throughout the entire United States opinion is agreed as to the inefficiency and iniquitousness of the general property tax. It has been condemned by a long series of state tax commissions held within the last forty years, and by all the highest authorities on the subject of public finance. "Instead of being a tax on personal property," said the New York commissioners of 1872, "it has in effect become a tax upon ignorance and honesty. That is to say its imposition is restricted to those who are not informed of the means of evasion, or, knowing the means, are restricted, by a nice sense of honour from resorting to them." The Illinois commission of 1886, spoke of it as 'a school for perjury, promoted by law?' The New York report of 1893 says: "It puts a premium on perjury and a penalty on integrity." The recent industrial commission in its final report (vol. xix), quotes as illustrative of the general feeling the words of a special committee on taxation which reported to the California senate in 1901: "From Maine to Texas and from Florida to California, there is but one opinion as to the workings of the present system. That is, that it is inequitable, unfair, and positively unjust. Theoretically all property is called upon to bear a share of the public burdens in exact proportion to its present value. In practice, that end is admittedly not even approached. Scarcely a fractional part of the property in any commonwealth is brought to the tax rolls."

PROTECTION NEEDED

A Reduction in Duty Practically Wiped Out the Fine Leather Industry

That a protective tariff is necessary to the industrial welfare of Canada and the lack of sufficient protection has been the cause of numerous business disasters within recent years may be proved by many examples. One of the most conspicuous of these, however, is the collapse of several flourishing branches of the Canadian leather industry since the Albany treaty of March, 1910, when Hon. Mr. Fielding, representing Canada, agreed with the United States on a reduction of 2½ per cent. in the duty on upper and fine leathers, the duty formerly standing at 17½ per cent. This reduction was all the more remarkable in that there was absolutely no vestige of agitation for it in Canada. Not only did the Canadian users of these leathers not ask for the reduction, but they have since expressed strongly against it on the ground that it would wipe out the Canadian manufacturers of these fine and upper leathers, thus forcing them to buy from the American trust, which, of course, means ultimately much higher prices. The manufacturers of these leathers were not consulted in any way whatever before the reduction, and in the absence of any discussion of this item it struck them as a bolt from the blue. It is evident that the pressure resulting in the lower duty was exerted by the American tanners.

As a result of that sacrifice of Capital and Labor in Canada, importations of fine leather have increased over 100 per cent. in the last year as the direct result of the lower tariff which has allowed the over supply of American leather goods to be dumped into the Canadian market. At least six flourishing Canadian industries, in the aggregate employing upwards of 500 skilled mechanics, were forced to close the departments of their factories given up to the manufacture of upper and fine leathers because they could not possibly compete with the wealthier and more powerful establishments in the United States.

In the fiscal year 1910 the imports of calf kid or goat, lamb and sheepskins, dressed, waxed or glazed, into Canada from the United States amounted to 195,054 pounds, valued at $184,493, while in the fiscal year 1911, with the lower duty the imports amounted to 404,821 pounds, valued at $341,832, or an increase of over 100 per cent.

Surely an example such as this should sober the reckless agitator for free trade. Surely it points a moral: Reasonable and stable tariff protection for Canadian industries.

WHY HIT THE WEST?

Western Factories Have Been Developing, Why Snuff Them Out?

The enormous development in manufacturing west of the Lakes in the past three years was emphasized by a leading business man of Winnipeg when speaking in Ottawa last January. He said: "Not only Winnipeg, but practically every other town and city in the West is rapidly developing manufacturing industries. Brandon has a number of important manufactories; Medicine Hat has established an American clay product factory which is being successfully conducted. Rolling mills are building at Medicine Hat by the American people who built the rolling mills at Winnipeg, now in successful operation. Calgary has large cement works, flour mills, and so on. And all these towns and cities are straining every nerve to build up manufacturing industries to assist in taking care of the population which is unemployed during the winter. Manufactories will naturally go where the market is, for close proximity to the market overcomes many other obstacles. It is true, we are somewhat remote from the sources of our material; but that is largely compensated for by having a market at our doors and being in close touch with our customers. It is our opinion and, I believe, the opinion of the West, certainly of the manufacturing industries, that any lowering or interference with the Tariff would be a serious blow to us and what we have been endeavoring to accomplish. Speaking particularly for the Western manufacturers, I hope that nothing of that kind will be done. The country now is not suffering. Any honest, able-bodied man in the West can get employment at the highest wages, I believe, in the civilised world. The revenues of the country are buoyant and its credit is high; the machine is in good operation."

TOWARDS CONTINENTALISM

What a Chicago Paper Says of Reciprocity

That Reciprocity with the United States would imperil Imperil unity, and would compel Canada to adapt itself to American continental ends, rather than to British imperial ends, is according to The Chicago Tribune, one of the most important newspapers in the United States, a reasonable supposition. To quote its own words: "The British tariff commission contends that American and Canadian Reciprocity would imperil Imperial unity. It is alleged that it would do so by diverting Canadian trade from British into American channels. It would compel the Dominion to adapt itself to American continental ends rather than British Imperial ends. These are reasonable apprehensions, which furnish a good argument for the confirmation of the Reciprocity agreement. No senator should be so interested in Imperial unity as to vote against the Reciprocity Bill so as not to imperil it. No senator should be willing to vote against a measure calculated to expand American at the expense of British trade, by making Canada a still better market for American products."

OTONABEE'S OLDEST BARN REPLACED BY NEW STUCTURE

Was Built by Thomas Fife 78 Years Ago—Successful Barn Raising.

Special Correspondence.

Jermyn, Aug. 23—The oldest frame barn of Otonabee has ceased to exist. This barn was erected by Mr. Thos. Fife on the east half of lot 26, concession 5, 78 years ago this summer. Mr. Fred Fife, who is the present owner of the place, had the old barn taken down two weeks ago and has replaced it by a more commodious and modern structure.

Mr. Hugh Fife's barn, which was burned recently, was also erected the same summer, but two months later. It will also be replace by a brand new one in the near future.

Mr. J. Fife's barn is 108 feet long by 40 wide, while Mr. H. Fife's is 112 in length by 46 wide.

Mr. F. Fife's raising took place last Thursday. About 50 of the neighbors gathered for work in the morning, and under the capable management of Mr. H. J. Fife, the contracter, were soon working to the best advantage. The plates were on and some scaffold poles were up when the chief cook appeared on the scene with the information that it was chuck time.

Fifty hungry men made a rush for the tables, where they did justice to the hearty meal provided. True, one or two of the boys tried to sicken themselves that they might require the services of the trained nurses that were among the spectators. Failing in this, they swore that they would jump off the beams but their nerve failed them. Work went on again after one o'clock, and the last rafter was in place at 5 o'clock. Another hearty meal was partaken of on the lawn, and then came the fun. Mr. Nichol, of Norwood, was on hand, requesting that everbody wear their Sunday best, and took a few photos of the barn with the ladies in the foreground, and the lords of creation among the rafters.

An athletic program was then run off. Following is the list of events and names of the winners:

Tug of war. The Monsters succeeded in pulling the Peterits.

Mile run—1, Fred Fife; 2, H. Weir; 3, P. Armstrong.

Putting the shot—1, G. Elmhirst; 2, H. Fife; 3, W. Patterson.

High jump—1, R. Hope; 2, W. Patterson.

Running jump—1, H. Weir; 2, F. Fife; 3, W. Patterson.

Buck and kick the pole—1, W. Patterson.

Hop, step and jump—1, Weir; 2, R. Hope; 3, Norm Patterson.

Blockhead race—1, Fletcher; 2, W. Patterson; 3, P. Armstrong. strong.

Prizes were awarded and the proceedings brought to a close.

Jermyn, Aug. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. R. Eason, W. Silver and Ed. Crowter left for points in western Canada during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Kidd spent Sunday in town.

Miss Patterson and Miss Mowat, of Rochester, are the guests of the former's mother here.

Mr. Pallin, of town, is reported to be enjoying himself in the west.

Dr. Fife and family, of Toronto, spent a few days here recently.

MANVERS LADIES HELD MEETING

Session of Women's Institue and Other News

Special Correspondence.

Manvers, Aug. 22— The Women's Institute of this place held a very successful lawn social on the lawn of Mrs. Alex. Palts, on the afternoon of the 15th. A baseball match between Pontypool and Millbrook teams resulted in Millbrook team being winners. During the game music was furnished by the band from sunny Italy, and Bethany band. Tables were spread and were well laden by everything that would tempt the appetite. After the tables were cleared a choice program was given. Mrs. Rev. Wilson of Pontypool was called upon to take the chair. Several numbers were given by Bethany band and the Italian band instrumentals by Miss Wilson of Lifford and a solo by Rev. Mr. Patterson of Lifford. Mrs. F. Irwin, of Perrytown, district president being called on gave a very interesting address along the line of institute work. She outlined the benefit the institute was to the members of the community. Her address was listened to with wrapt attention. The grounds were brilliant with all kinds of Japanese lights and other decorations. The proceeds amounted to $69.00 with 64 complimentary tickets. The committee in charge is to be complimented on the success of their undertaking.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson of Pontypool were guests over Tuesday and Wednesday last, of Mrs. Alex. Watts.

Miss Marion Beatty of Elizabethville is visiting Mrs. S. Fallis.

Mrs. F. Irwin of Perrytown was the guest of Mrs. Wm. Johnston while here.

SOME QUERY FOR J. R. S.

Copy of a Letter Sent to the Examiner by Elector

The following is a copy of a letter to the Examiner, sent to the Review in order that, if publication is refused by the Examiner, it may at least reach the public and not be suppressed.

Peterboro, Aug. 23, 11

To The Editor of The Review.

Sir—It seems to me that you have twisted my letter up to such an extent that I can hardly recognize it, except by the non-de-plume, "H.M.S. Thunderbolt."

It is quite true I submitted four questions for the Hon. J. R. Stratton to answer. He has not done so. Still I am quite satisfied if you will answer them instead of Mr Stratton. I will not strike below the belt at any time. I will act fairly, and as squarely as I possibly can with you, also the Hon. J. R. Stratton. All I ask you to do, is publish your comment side by side in your columns(re Aug. 21st)with my letter and let the public judge, if you have not twisted up my letter, into such a manner as to construct a different meaning. I will point out the difference between your comment and my letter, etc.

Sir, let me also inform you, your judgment is entirely wrong as regards myself and H.M.S. "Thunderbolt"

I am not an Englishman.

I am not a new comer.

I arrived in Canada in the nineties.

I have been in Peterborough several years, and voted for the Hon. J. R. Stratton at the last election.

I take both papers, Review and Examiner.

I am not serving any partisan at present.

I am only tring to seek information by truth, facts, judgment and advice, and when papers, all over Canada, both Liberal and Conservative, are all contradicting each other, can you blame me for doing so? Still I do not think it quite fair that you should butcher my letter up to such an extent, that it now contrives a different meaning, and that I can only recognize it by the non de plume."

"SS. You also state, that H.M.S. 'Thunderbolt" is a type of hundreds of British battle-ships that are cruising every sea, every day and night to protect Great Britain's trade, that is done with all the world.

"This is based on conditions that do not exist.' I am only informing you for your own safety, in case the Editor of the Review may have you for $100. No such a vessel exists in H. M. navy as M.M.S. "Thunderbolt."

I remain,
Yours, etc.,
H.M.S. "THUNDERBOLT."

WHAT HAPPENED ON THE SABBATH

Rev. J. A. MacDonald Started Reciprocity Talk

It was on a Sunday that Rev. Mr Macdonald, chief editor of the Toronto Globe, brought President Taft and Hon. W. S. Fielding together in the city of Albany, N.Y., to discuss the question of reciprocity, and as reported by the Toronto Star, a devout Liberal newspaper, the hearty President slapped the reverend editor on the back, saying, "So you have brought your man all right."

This meeting was the beginning of the conferences which resulted in the reciprocity compact.

As an evidence of good will and appreciation of the President's warm handshake and genial smile Mr. Fielding at once reduced the Canadian duties on thirteen classes of articles coming from the United States. The reciprocity compact enlarges the free list, giving the farmers of the United States and twelve other foreign countries as well as the food exporting British colonies free entrance to the Canadian market. It must be admitted that the Sunday "conversation" in Albany had very important consequences.

It has been reported that while preaching on Sunday recently in one of the churches of England Rev. J. A. Macdonald defended the reciprocity compact in the pulpit.

We believe that Rev. J. A. Macdonald is one of those who were responsible for the strict Sabbath laws that make it impossible for the good people of Toronto to eat ice cream when the thermometer was 101 degrees in the shade one Sunday recently. If the Sunday laws were not so strictly enforced in Ontario we might expect to hear of Rev. Mr. Macdonald holding reciprocity meetings in the churches during the election campaign. There are still five Sundays before the 21st of September, when the people must decide.

However, we don't think the electors of Canada will consider the reciprocity compact any more sacred because it originated on a Sunday and has been defended in the pulpit than if the first meeting in reference to it had occurred on Monday.—Canadian Century.

$500 REWARD FOR ARKANSAS MAN

The authorities throughout the Dominion have received a notice of a reward of $500 being offered for the capture of J. F. Holcomb, former cashier of the Bank of Dwight, of Arkansas, who is charged with embezzling the funds of the bank and departing on May 1st.

The description of the person wanted, which is circulated by T. B. Rogers, sheriff of Peak County, is interesting. It follows:—Age, 35; light complexion, dark hair, blue eyes, the white being unusually large, downcast look, medium build, smooth shaven, dish faced, fine, whining voice; height, 5 feet 10 inches; weight 165 pounds. It is thought that Holcomb would engage in either banking or mining business.

A MONSTER CROWD CHEERS MR. BORDEN TO THE ECHO

IT WAS THE GREATEST PUBLIC MEETING EVER HELD IN PETERBOROUGH

OPERA HOUSE JAMMED TO DOORS; BUT ONLY HALF THE CROWD WAS ACCOMMODATED

Strong Presentation of Reciprocity Evils by Conservative Leader—Candidates and Mr. Broder Speak—Address Read by Mr. W. H. Moore—A Rousing Rally in Conservative Interests.

It was a great night for Liberal-Conservatism in Peterborough county. There is no one of the thousands who packed the opera house last night; who crowded all available spaces not having by law to be kept clear; who crowded all the platform and in the wings, and stayed around in the street—not one who can recall the scene last night without at least some degree of enthusiasm.

"It was undoubtedly the finest gathering we have ever had in Peterborough," said one representative citizen, and his opinion received general endorsation. The great pity of it was that there was not capacity in the house for the accommodation of the people, so great was the crowd. Long before the speaking was due to start, the front doors has to be closed, only to be later reopened to fill up the chinks and crannies where a human being could find a foothold.

The remarks of the speakers brought forth round after round of hearty applause, and it was to be noted that the applause came from the convictions and the truths driven home with the telling power of logic. It was not merely "flag-waving"—as the Liberals call patriotic references. The sincerity of the speakers, the evident conviction that they were handling grave questions of great moment to the Canadian people, found an echo and a response in the bosoms of the throng, and their cheers were the testimony of strong approbation of the remarks of the leader and of the other speakers.

MOST NOTABLE GATHERING.

It was in every way the most notable political gathering in the history of Peterborough. From the time that Chairman Kendry made his opening remarks to the cheers for the King and others, the audience was in a receptive mood, and not the least inclined to interrupt, or give other than a most attentive and cordially enthusiastic hearing. In the audience were hundreds of ladies—a feature which the speakers did not neglect to mention—and the fair sex were by no means behind in expressing their sentiments of approval. In the audience of about two thousand people, were old and hoary farmers from the farthermost parts of the riding, and with them were the new ones from the old land who have just found work in Peterborough factories, and the staid old mechanic whose daily labor makes the wheels of business life go round.

The able speeches made, the clear presentation of the reciprocity pact's boundless aspects, culminating by the witty and clever speech of Andrew Broder, the late representative of Dundas county, made a deep impression, and when Mr. Borden expressed the hope that the good intentions of the audience would be translated into action, and that the people of Peterborough would on September 21 be in unity with the remainder of Canada in declaring for the British policy, the roar went up, "We will." The election of Burnham and Sexsmith from the Peterboroughs, already conceded by many of the knowing ones, is cinched by the great gathering, if cinching be needed, at was a great meeting.

On the side of the boxes to the right and the left of the platform were streamers, one bearing the popular motto, "Canada for the Canadians," and the other "What we have we'll hold." And British banners decorated the rear of the stage, though the crowd was so thick that they were almost hidden from view.

RECEPTION AT ORIENTAL.

Prior to going to the opera house, Mr. Borden held a reception at the Oriental hotel, where he met many of the old stalwarts of the party. He received them in a parlor upstairs, in the company of Mr. Kendry, while outside the Fifty-seventh band attracted a large crowd and gained much applause by playing national and patriotic airs. The serenade by the military boys was much appreciated.

Mr. Kendry did not take long to get the program under way when he arrived with Mr. Borden. The opera house was already packed, and quite settled, and had been for half an hour previous. In opening Mr. Kendry referred to the great occasion, to the many fine qualities that Mr. Borden had displayed, and to the great esteem and respect which he commanded from all classes of people. Mr. Kendry said that he hoped the other speakers would arrange their time so that Mr. Borden would have full opportunity to deliver his message. This reciprocity question was one of immense importance, and he felt sure that when Peterborough people went to the polls to cast their ballots, they would not fail to remember that Burnham and Sexsmith stood for Borden and the continuation of the old National policy and the preservation of Canada within the empire. (Cheers.)

MR. BURNHAM'S RECEPTION.

Mr. Burnham was the first speaker called, and he was given an uproarious reception. The cheering lasted for a couple of minutes, showing conclusively that the Conservative candidate in the west riding is enjoying the confidence, and the backing of the electorate in general.

MR. BURNHAM

In opening, Mr Burnham dealt with the flimsy manner in which the Liberal speakers and newspapers were presenting the case for reciprocity,

The question of the British connection and expecting people to be persuaded. tion and the effect on Canada as a nation were ignored. The Conservatives did not call the Liberals disloyal, but they did say that their policy would pass us into the hands of and control of the great nation to the south. (Hear, hear.) But the Liberals were not calculating on the strength of the British sentiment in Canada—on the hearts that turned in proud affection toward the old sod, and to the old flag that had braved the battle and the breeze for a thousand years.

Canada should be the last of the colonies to haul down the British flag (cheers.) All the argument

MR. J. H. BURNHAM,

ESTIMATES THE NUMBER AT 2,500

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons estimate that there were nearly 2500 people in the opera house. The ordinary seating capacity of the theatre is about 1500, but the number of people standing, and the number crowded on to the stage and in the wings would make the total reach considerably over the 2000 mark, and probably nearer 2500.

The doors were closed before half-past seven, there being a capacity house. Some people went as early as half-past six in order to get a seat.

Mr. Turner estimates that about 2000 people were turned away from the doors. The crowds kept coming all evening.

GOOD POSITIONS GET IN LINE

The Peterborough Business College is a worthy link in a chain of seven Business Colleges located in the cities of London, Peterborough, Welland and the towns of Orangeville, Walkerton, Wingham and Clinton. Owing to its high-grade work it is affiliated with the Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. It is freely admitted that owing to these connections, its students get the very best positions. Fall openings are on Aug. 28th, and Sept. 5th, but at this school each student is instructed privately at his or her own desk, students may enter any day. Many students study all at home and others partly at home and finish at the College. As Spotton Colleges are the largest trainers in Canada and have thirty years experience, it would be well for young people to get their training there. Last year Mr. Spotton trained over 1200 students and placed them in good positions. What he has done for thousands of others he can do for you. 12d

TRACED HER LOST HUBBY

Saw a Newspaper Item About Him Swimming.

He Left Her Four Years Ago in Montreal.

Montreal, Aug. 25.—Through seeing a despatch in a local newspaper about Captain Jack Williams of Montreal, a man of 77 years of age, who had performed the remarkable feat in St. Louis, Mo., of swimming a distance of thirty-three miles, Mrs. Catherine Williams of No. 80A. St. Maurice street, had been at last informed of the whereabouts of her husband, whom she had given up as dead.

Four years ago Captain Jack Williams, an athletic old man, well known locally for his remarkable abilities as a long-distance swimmer, and as the swimming instructor at the Grand Trunk Boating Club, left Montreal for Detroit by way of Toronto. His wife, whom he had left well supplied with money, and the house rent paid in advance, did not worry much when she heard nothing from him for several weeks. But when the weeks became months and the months years, she became satisfied that he had died without being able to communicate with her.

For several years past she has been supporting herself by washing, but the infirmities of old age are coming upon her and her power to work is decreasing as is her old age. Her husband, she thinks, is making money by his swimming and she will now seek to obtain his help.

ATWOOD TO START ON LAST FLIGHT

ADDRESS TO MR. BORDEN

To Mr. Robert Laird Borden, K.C., Leader of His Majesty's Loyal Opposition in the Parliament of Canada.

HONORED SIR,—

Permit me, on behalf of the Liberal Conservatives of West and East Peterborough, and also, on behalf of the electors in general, to tender you a warm welcome to Peterborough to-night. Whatever may be the political opinions, whatever the party affiliations of those who to-night will listen to the discussion of the campaign issues, I believe that I am entirely representing them all in saying that they appreciate to the fullest the elevated tone, and the statesmanlike conduct of your lofty mission.

To yourself it has been given to lead the historic Liberal-Conservative party for many years. You have, in all the changes and vicissitudes of political life, demonstrated how worthy the brow to wear the heavy crown, and we in Peterborough and District can do no more than assure you that your leadership has always been an inspiration and encouragement to us to put forth our best efforts in the good cause you have advocated with preeminent ability.

The Liberal-Conservatives of the Peterborough Ridings in the past have followed your banner with every confidence that it was only a matter of time before your personal qualities, and your strong and national policies, would again bring into power the Conservative Party—the party which under that grand old Leader, Sir John Macdonald, laid the foundations of Canada's present prosperity, and which stands again to-day as the up-holder of national integrity.

We most sincerely hope, and it is our strong conviction, that in a few short weeks we shall have the keen pleasure of acclaiming you, our honored leader, as Prime Minister of Canada, and the guider of Canadian destiny.

The issues of this campaign are the most important since Confederation, for they involve our relations as a nation with the motherland, and with that great branch of Anglo-Saxons to the south of us. The strength and power of your convictions on these issues has stimulated us in Peterborough, and we assure you that your views will receive careful consideration by all classes of the electorate; and may we add, in conclusion, our deep desire that yours shall be a wide-flung message of patriotic purpose, carrying conviction to the countless Canadians whose one abiding and steadfast sentiment is loyalty to the Canadian national ideal, and to the British connection.

SIR WILFRID SAYS HE WILL QUIT PUBLIC LIFE IF BEATEN

Premier Seems to Feel the Defeat in the Air—Will Not Lead the Liberal Opposition—Had Well Earned a Rest.

St. Jerome, Que., Aug. 25.—In the midst of his speech here yesterday and just at the conclusion of a vehement attack upon the Nationalists, in which he repudiated the statements that service in the navy would be obligatory and that the navy bill was just another scheme to gain him more honors from England, Sir Wilfrid Laurier startled his audience by announcing that, if defeated in the coming elections, he would retire at once and forever from public life and would not lead the opposition in the next Parliament. "Rest to me is sweet now," said the Premier, "and if defeated not a word of reproach will pass my lips." Sir Wilfrid stated that if he was twenty years younger, he would continue in Parliamentary life regardless as to whether Liberals or Conservatives gained the victory, but that at his age, and with his record, he considered that he had well-earned a rest.

It was Sir Wilfrid's reply to the statements that have been circulated by the Nationalists that led up to his announcement. After characterising the story of compulsory naval service as a baseless lie, he referred to the charge that he sought imperial honors. "No king," he said, "can give me the honor that I most prize, the love and respect of my countrymen." The popular verdict which he had already so often gained, Sir Wilfrid continued, was that which he considered the highest honor.

It was strange to hear the Premier speak of age and frailty, for he stood erect and firm as ever, and his voice was clear and resonant despite his many recent speeches, while his young colleague, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, made a brief address owing to hoarseness, which he has contracted during the past few days. Sir Wilfrid spoke for thirty-five minutes.

The Premier, in making his address, realized that there were many Conservatives in the audience and at one time addressing these, warned them not to be led into an alliance with the Nationalists, whose policy was ambiguous and led nowhere.

THE MEETING

It is regrettable indeed that a large number of Peterborough people who wanted to hear Mr. Borden last night, should have been unable to get into the opera house. Big as that building is for ordinary occasions, it was entirely insufficient to contain the throngs of people who wanted to join in the big demonstration.

Those who were unfortunate enough not to be able to get an entrance missed a great treat. Mr. Borden's speech was one worthy of deepest consideration. He does not play to the gallery—that could not be expected of a man of Dominion calibre. He uses only the deep and the sound arguments, takes the broad and statesmanlike view of matters, and he depends not on epigram or pleasantry, but on sound logic and great knowledge, for his effect.

Mr. Burnham's speech was a happy effort, and so was that of Mr. Sexsmith. Mr. Broder was the kingpin of the evening in putting the great audience in a happy frame of mind by his witty remarks, and cleverly told stories. Andrew Broder has a national reputation, and it is well deserved.

It was a meeting unique in the annals of Peterborough, and it should be, as Mr. Borden said, a happy augury of the day soon to come when Peterborough will be in line with the remainder of Canada in declaring for the Conservative party and its policy of preserving intact our British connection.

MR. JAMES SPEAKS

Ontario farmers, who owe so much to C. C. James, C.M.G., Deputy Minister of Agriculture, will be interested in getting his views on reciprocity. Mr. James as a Government official would not express an opinion upon a question that formed an issue between contending political parties. But in 1904, when there was no thought of this country being led into such foolishness, and while he was an official of the Ross Government, Mr. James made some remarks that should have great weight with the farming community throughout the whole Dominion.

In an address on "Recent Agricultural Progress" before the Natural Science Association, in 1901, Mr. James reviewed the great prosperity which had followed in Ontario after the McKinley and Dingley tariff shutting Canada out of the American market. He laid particular emphasis on the development of the beef, bacon and pork and cheese industries, and then used the following striking words as quoted in the Canadian Agriculturalists' Annual for 1904:

"The day may come when we shall feel so grateful to our neighbors to the south as to erect a national monument to the memory of the McKinley tariff bill. If we do, we might reserve a niche for the Dingley tariff bill of 1897. Our trade relations with the United States are very interesting. Where they have endeavored to shut us out from their own markets, they have but stimulated our trade in other directions that have in time proved more remunerative and often when they have excluded us from their market, they have driven us to the great neutral market, where we have had a perceptible influence in setting the prices for their own exported surplus and therefore their whole crop.

"The United States tariff has forced us to look across the Atlantic for our markets, and there we have sent our products into competition with the products of the United States.

"If we were looking for other arguments as to the unintended benefits to us of United States tariff opposition we might say, that the development of self-reliance and independence may outweigh even the enlargement of our British trade. To a certain extent we were in leading strings to the United States. We have been developing a Canadian national feeling, and increasing our self reliance."

We may be sure that there is nothing that lies closer to the heart of Mr. C. C. James than the prosperity of the farmer. He has spent the better part of his life time thinking for them, and his remarkable success has given him a world wide reputation. The farmers of Canada can be depended upon to reflect most carefully upon the advice of so true and tried a friend.

AN ANNEXATIONIST

The Ohio Farmer, an agricultural magazine published weekly in Cleveland, Ohio, says editorially in its issue of Aug 19th, 1911.—

ANNEXATION OF CANADA.

We call special attention to communication on opposite page by Mr. Herbert Williams, advocating annexation of Canada to our country. Mr. Williams is a very close observer and a man of very broad information. If our markets are to be opened free to Canadian farm products it is surely desirable that the country should be annexed and share in all our affairs of government and expense. This may have been the unexpressed object in view of our President and statesmen in the negotiation of the reciprocity treaty.

Here follows the letter from Mr. Williams to which the Ohio Farmer editorially refers;

CANADIAN ANNEXATION.

Now that Canadian reciprocity has been ratified by our Congress and is likely to be ratified by the Canadian Parliament, do you not think we should begin our campaign for complete annexation of the Dominion? Two peoples so similar and so near to each other do not need the useless expense of two governments; with Canada a part of us and contributing to our national expenses the opposition to reciprocity would lose its force; there has long been a strong sentiment in favor of annexation in this country; in the past we have annexed many times, and have usually taken territory occupied by people far different from us—the Phillipines, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Panama, and even the Floridas and the Louisiana Purchase and the territory acquired in the Mexican war were distant and occupied by different people when taken under our flag.

Great Britain is now trying to defeat reciprocity in order to hang onto Canada, many of us are opposed to it for other reasons while Canada remains alien. I read from Canadian papers that American capital has practically built up the Dominion, and that is just what British capital did in South Africa before the Boer war, which annexed that territory to Britain. Of course we do not want a war of conquest, nor any other war, but should we not do all in our power to bring about the peaceful union of these sections of the world? With Senators and members of Congress from Ontario, Quebec, and other new "states," we would command the St. Lawrence River as we do the Mississippi, and England's North American base of war operations against us would be limited to the Bermudas, which she holds as a chip on her shoulder and as a club at our front door—a naval station which she is as ready to use against us as she ever was and which she could not hold without Halifax.—Herbert Williams, Ashtabula, Co., O.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Largely because buyers were holding off, expecting lower prices to follow the Canadian vote on reciprocity, the wheat market to-day eased off. Latest figures were ⅛ to ¼ under last night. Other leading staples all showed an advance, corn ⅛ to ⅜, oats a shade to ⅛, and provisions 7½c to 25c.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ¼d higher than yesterday on wheat, and ¼d higher on corn. Antwerp wheat closed unchanged. Paris, unchanged to ¼d higher.

She appeared a trifle annoyed at this prospect, but after a moment's reflection, wherein her brow was clouded, she drew a long breath. "Poor Bruce," she said sympathetically. "It would be a shame if he should somehow get dragged into this. In the few times I met him I learned to admire him very much. It is impossible that he is guilty—I simply know he is not. I sincerely hope that he may clear himself without publicity."

"Amen," I responded heartily.

CHAPTER XII.

A few days later there happened a little incident so inexplicable and irritating in its character that it caused me considerable annoyance and thought. It was one of those peculiar occurrences that one does not care anything about in itself, yet which exasperates him because of his inability to explain it. It so happened that I desired to wear a certain suit of clothes which I had purchased a short while before, and with that purpose before me went into the closet where I kept my spare apparel hanging in order to get it out. I could not find it. Growing more and more impatient as I searched among my things I at last removed all that the closet contained, article by article, and laid them on the bed. The suit that I was looking for was certainly missing.

I sat down and thought. I remembered distinctly the last time I had worn it, and had an equally clear recollection of replacing it in its accustomed place at the end of the day. I was positive that I had not touched it since that time, and its absence now, as far as I was able to reason, could only be explained on the theory of theft. I went downstairs to Mrs. Tebbets to question her about it, and happening to recall that she had expressed her admiration of it upon seeing it upon me for the first time, I now described it to her as the suit which I had worn on Derby day. She answered me very promptly:

"Why, yes. That is the one you sent me word about yesterday. I let the man have it as you told me to in the note."

I looked at her in mystification, knowing that I had sent her no note, and being at a loss to grasp her meaning. "What note—what man?" I demanded. She stood rubbing her damp hands with a towel and seemingly a little impatient at my stupidity.

"The note on your card which you sent me only yesterday saying that I was to give it to the tailor," she retorted. I could only repeat somewhat more emphatically that I had done no such thing.

She threw down her towel with a sniff, and began rummaging about among the odds and ends of a shelf. Presently she picked up a small piece of cardboard, which she handed me with an expression of triumph. "Very well. Just read it for yourself, then. If that is not your card and writing I cannot trust my eyes, and if I cannot trust my eyes the Lord knows what I can trust. And that is all I have got to say about that." I seized the piece of paper and glanced at it. It was certainly either one of my cards or a perfect imitation, and having satisfied myself on that point I turned it over and saw written on the back a few lines, which while certainly bearing a strong resemblance to my chirography when I scribble in a hurry, were as certainly not mine. They read: "Mrs. Tebbetts,—Please to deliver to the bearer, who is in the employ of my tailor, the suit of clothes I wore on Derby day that he may press the same. Thomas Halliday."

For a moment I was too surprised to do more than turn it over in mute incredulity. Then I turned upon her sharply.

"What kind of a looking man brought this?"

"He was short and fat. I guess he was about as old as you are. I thought at the time that he looked funny in the eyes, but I didn't let him in the house, and did not pay much attention to him. I am always careful about admitting strangers, you know. It is all right, isn't it?"

"No. There isn't anything right about it. It is a plain, unmitigated, unadulterated forgery. Did he say anything more to you?" Her chin dropped.

"Well, of all things! To think of the impudence of people nowadays. No, sir, he said scarcely a word and I never did like the looks of him. He just took the clothes and went away as fast as he could, and I never thought of it again. But that is certainly your card, isn't it, Mr. Tom? It looks just like those I used to see on your dresser." It was plain that she was beginning to be distressed and I hastened to reassure her.

"The card is either mine or a very clever imitation, I am not quite certain of which as yet. But in all probability it is one of mine. The writing is also a fair counterfeit. Anyway, it is good enough to fool almost anyone, and I do not blame you in the least for having been deceived. Don't feel worried about it, for it is not your fault at all. Nevertheless, there is something wrong about it and I don't understand it." I thrust the card into my pocket and returned to my rooms a great deal more perplexed than I had been when I left them. Hastily I attempted to run over in my mind the people who could by any possibility have had access to my private stationery, but was obliged to dismiss that thought when I realised that my cards were scattered throughout the entire list of my acquaintances and that my card case containing a number of them was still missing. The field of possibilities in this direction was too large for me to form even a remote conjecture, and I was drawn to the conclusion that it in all probability was the work of some clever sneak thief who had found my card case and then written the note upon it. But even that was an explanation which explained nothing. Granting that a petty rascal had picked up the cards containing my name and address, how was he able to so closely counterfeit my handwriting; and more mysterious than all else, how did he know that I had been to the Derby or had worn any especial suit upon that day? The more I cudgelled my brains over it the more benumbed they became, until at last I picked up my hat and rushed out of the house. Having but little idea that I would learn anything by so doing, I nevertheless immediately boarded a car and going to the shop of my tailor threw the note on the counter before him. "What do you know about that note, Johnson?" I demanded.

He picked it up, adjusted his eyeglasses and read it with a slowly forming and negative pursing of his mouth. Then he held it forth. "Nothing at all. What is there about it?" I took the card from him and replaced it in my pocket as I made my reply.

"Only this—that it is a forgery. And while I did not for a moment think that you had any information about it, I went to the pains of coming here to ask you. Neither do I suppose you know anythink concerning the whereabouts of the clothes mentioned." His answer furnished me the second surprise of the day.

"Oh, yes, I do. The suit is here all right. It was brought in yesterday by a strange man who said you wished me to press it for you. I have done so and it is now in perfect condition." I looked at him with the incredulity with which one faces a person who makes an incredible statement with a straight face and under the guise of seriousness.

"Let me see the suit," I ordered.

He did so, and I inspected it critically. I could discover nothing amiss with it externally, and searching the pockets, found they were empty. However, that was to be expected, as I could remember having nothing in them when I had hung it up, certainly nothing of any value to anybody but myself. I had only succeeded in thickening the mystery which enveloped this extraordinary transaction, and puzzled beyond expression, I arranged with the tailor that in the future he should allow none of my clothes which he happened to have in his possession to leave his hands upon an order ostensibly written by me unless the order contained a secret mark which we then and there agreed upon. Then instructing him that if any one called for the suit in question and presented an order for the same not bearing the minute token of its genuineness which we had just invented, that he was to detain him until he could summon an officer and have him arrested, I departed. What possible object any person could have had in wishing to secure possession of a suit of my clothes which contained nothing of the slightest worth, and who having secured possession of it should go to the trouble of conveying it from my house to the tailor shop was utterly beyond my comprehension. The forger had not injured the clothes, as some petty-minded enemy might have done out of a spirit of spite, and altogether I could conceive of no possible benefit or satisfaction any one could have derived from such an elaborate and criminal subterfuge. Utterly baffled, I determined to say nothing more about it for the time, quietly awaiting any new developments that might arise.

The next morning another strange thing had happened. I was dressing for the day at my customary hour for arising, when suddenly the housekeeper's knuckles fell upon the door in a series of nervous taps. She almost never came to the upper floor before the breakfast hour, and I therefore searched her face with some curiosity as I told her that she might enter. She immediately burst forth in an excited volley.

"Oh, Mr. Tom, the house has been burglarised again in the night. What on earth are we coming to with such people prowling all around in the darkness? I never was so frightened in my life. I declare I nearly fell in a faint when I discovered it. Please come with me and I will show you." Dumfoundedly, and with my necktie still dangling from my hand, I followed her squat figure as she climbed down the front stairs, waddled through the dining-room and kitchen and then, one foot at a time, descended the steep stairs that led to the basement. There was only one door entering from the outside into these lower regions, and that was never used—in fact, had been bolted ever since my occupancy of the premises. The aperture in the side of the house through which the coal supply was dumped from the drive into the bin was protected by an iron grating, which was always carefully locked after such an operation, and the low windows which admitted light to the furnace room had fixed iron bars on the outside. The police, LeDuc and myself had gone over this region thoroughly in our search and had found that the locks had not been tampered with nor the gratings disturbed; the dust and the rust had proven that beyond contention. Now, to my amazement, I saw that the door had been forced by some powerful instrument that had torn the receiving socket for the bolt bodily from its fastenings. My hair arose with a cold tingling of my scalp, much as it might have done had I been suddenly confronted by some uncanny object in the dead of night.

"And the door at the head of the stairs which leads from here into the kitchen, was that disturbed?" I asked her, as my first sensations faded. She was panting from excitement and the haste of her movements.

"No, the door was locked and just as I left it last night with the key still on the inside. He could not have gone up higher than the head of the basement stairs. I just happened to remember that I had left a broom down here yesterday, and when I came down after it I noticed this door right away. Who on earth do you suppose could have done it?" She was wringing her hands weakly, the perspiration of nervousness popping from her forehead.

To be continued.

The weather in the west for harvesting is now ideal.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Sugar was advanced by ten cents per hundred pounds.

Canada's trade returns continue to show large increases.

The Duke of Sutherland arrived in Montreal on his way west, where he has bought large tracts of land.

Hamar Greenwood, M.P., sailed for Canada on the Empress of Britain yesterday, for a short trip to the Pacific coast.

The Liberal convention for Ste. Anne's division, Montreal, last night nominated J. C. Walsh, prosecutor, to oppose Mr. C. J. Doherty, sitting member.

Manoel de Arriaga, a lawyer and Procurator-General in the Provincial Government, was yesterday elected the first President of the Republic of Portugal.

George Annett of St. Thomas, a G.T.R. brakeman, was instantly killed at St. Thomas yesterday afternoon. He jumped to the station platform and slipped.

Charles Norman, who fell down a stairway at the Tecumseh House, London, on Wednesday night, succumbed to his injuries yesterday. His skull had been badly fractured.

The British steamer Warwickshire, passing Perim, Arabia, signalled that all of the thirty passengers and crew who were missing from the steamer Fifeshire, had been saved.

Except in Bargoed, Wales, the anti-Jewish outbreaks have ceased. Public meetings have been held at Tredegar and other towns, at which citizens enrolled themselves as volunteers to help keep order.

While 3,000 men, women and children stood by, Peter Carter, a negro, was burned to death on a brush pile in the main street of Purcell at five o'clock yesterday afternoon. He had attacked a farmer's wife.

B Wilkem, K.C., Kingston, yesterday received a telegram from the Dominion Government, stating that they had adopted the model of new ballot boxes he had made, and that they would be used at the next election.

Three daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt, Chamberlain street, on the outskirts of Port Arthur, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their little house Wednesday. Two other children narrowly escaped the flames.

Where Is Mona Lisa?

Paris, Aug. 25.—M. Drioux, the examining magistrate, who is conducting the inquiry into the disappearance of Leonardo Da Vinci's great painting, "Mona Lisa," is at last in possession of a clue, which he hopes will prove the starting point of a more profitable investigation. A Parisian official has come forward with the information that on Monday morning last he saw a tall, stout individual, who appeared greatly agitated, carrying a large, panel covered with a horse blanket. The man jumped on the 7.47 express for Bordeaux as it was pulling out of the station. As the station is a few minutes' walk from the Louvre, the time corresponds with the time the picture is believed to have disappeared from the museum.

Another report that the picture had passed through Belgium is also being investigated, but the evidence in this instance is not so circumstantial as the Bordeaux clue. A thorough search is being made of the Louvre, which has been closed for three days for that purpose.

Girl Is in a Trance.

Montreal, Aug. 25.—Doctors and police are equally baffled by the mystery of the young and unknown girl, found apparently asleep on a St. Catherine street car at 12.30 yesterday morning.

All efforts to rouse her have proved futile, and for fourteen hours she has remained in a state of coma. The doctors say she was neither intoxicated nor drugged, and believe now that she is in a trance or prolonged sleep. There was nothing about the girl's clothes to identify her.

Drowning at Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, N.Y., Aug. 25.—In spite of the desperate efforts of the beach guards who went to the assistance of a group of six men who became distressed while bathing in the ocean yesterday, one of the group was drowned.

Toronto Man Elected.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—The annual convention of the International Stewards' Association was concluded yesterday. The vice-presidents chosen include Roy Parker, of Toronto.

It is reported that new interests have secured the Halifax Chronicle, Liberal organ.

Joy Riders, Beware!

Montreal, Aug. 25.—Chief of Police Campeau has furnished his special constable squad with stop-watches with which to time the speed of those who drive their automobiles at too rapid a rate through the city streets.

Twenty-five policemen and five lieutenants have been furnished with these time-recorders and have been told to go out and do their duty in this particular matter.

The chief's action has been prompted by the increasing number of complaints received at his office and also by the inability of his men to judge the speed of a fast-moving machine with an ordinary timepiece. It has been impossible heretofore for an officer to swear as to the actual rate at which a car has been moving, and of course this has made convictions for this offence hard to secure.

Engine Breaks Down.

Nyack, N.Y., Aug. 25.—Harry N. Atwood is working on the broken engine of his aeroplane on the crown of a hilly meadow near the Hudson River here. Close as this is to the finish of his flight from St. Louis, the young Boston aviator last night said he faces the most embarrassing predicament of his long journey.

His biplane is in an awkward box out of which only a south or southeast wind can help him, he says. It rests near a haystack on the small sloping meadow, 150 feet above the Hudson and about 2,000 yards from the water. Almost behind him is the Rocky Hook Mountain, rising 800 feet, and to the south and east nearby apple trees and some tall locusts make it a difficult place to take wing.

If you could obtain a guarantee that in case of being disabled by accident you would receive SIXTY DOLLARS per month up to twelve months, and if laid up by any disease or sickness you would receive FIFTY DOLLARS per month up to six months, and in case of death by accident or loss of two limbs or both eyes you receive SIX HUNDRED DOLLARS, and should the accident occur on a railway train or other passenger conveyance the above indemnities are DOUBLED.

FOR A MONTHLY PREMIUM OF ONE DOLLAR

would you take it? Does this appeal to you? If so, then call at W. H. HILL'S OFFICE, 159 Hunter Street, Peterborough, and we will give you full information regarding the above. There is no better combined Accident and Sickness Policy issued.

The above indemnities are graded according to occupation. Idemnity and Insurance can also be increased TEN PER CENT if desired.

"BARGAIN" GLASSES ARE DANGEROUS GLASSES

This Editorial in the Ladie's Home Journal gives timely warning against these "Eye Destroyers" advertised as "Exceptional Values."

A woman who was hunting "bargain glasses" finally succeeded in "fitting" her eyes with what she enthusiastically declares was "just the thing." And immensly pleased with herself, this woman had brought about the gravest danger a woman could invest in, for she had bought two pieces of glass crudely ground, but magnifying strongly, and with them she can see 'better to read'—That seeing better will mean an intense strain upon the her eyes, but she will not realize what the trouble is, nor the injury the glasses are doing. Some day she will be under the care of a Specialist, probably for the removal of a cataract, which will cost considerable, to say nothing of the suffering entailed, and she will be fortunate indeed if she does not suffer partial or entire loss of sight for the remainder of her life.

We have every qualification for giving your eyes a thorough examination. We fit you with the finest ground lenses, and at a very reasonable cost. Thousands of our citizens can certify to the care, skill and thoroughness of the examination, and the good results they had in wearing the glasses we prescribed. ALL WORK GUARANTEED.

FASHION WILL NOT BE FOLLOWED

Question of Corset Wearing Now Discussed

New York, Aug. 24—Although, as was told in a despatch printed yesterday, those experts who are in attendance at the fashion show in St. Louis have decided that American women will not wear corsets this winter, enquiry made of modistes in Fifth Ave. yesterday afternoon failed to disclose that unanimity of opinion which marked the decision of the St. Louis glasses of fashion and molds of form. According to dressmakers in this city it is yet a trifle early to say positively that the corset has, as it were, gone to stay.

An impression based upon interviews with some of the leaders is that although corsets will lose some of the hard and fast lines which have distinguished them in the past there will still be corsets. It will be a compromise—what might be called a corsetless corset. It will be a corset, but it will not look like a corset. Those modistes who said that they look for a modification in corsets based their opinion upon the ground that the fashion experts of St. Louis were not speaking for themselves so much as they were repeating an opinion now held to some extent in Paris.

HOTELMAN FINED $100

Inspector Got Him and He Pleaded Guilty

The proprietor of the Rockland Hotel at Bobcaygeon, appeared before Magistrate Moore in Lindsay yesterday on a charge laid by an inspector, that he did sell intoxicating liquor on August 4th, without a license.

To this charge the accused pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs, which amounted to $5.85.

A second charge was withdrawn, as the evidence was not forthcoming. Bobcaygeon is local option. This village is somewhat distinctive from others, it having a woman resident on the blacklist and she, some time ago, was fined for illegal selling of liquor.

CENTRAL SCHOOL IMPROVEMENTS

Many Changes Being Made Vandalism Has Ceased.

Upon the enquiry of a Review reporter this morning, regarding the completion of the improvements to the Central school property, Mr. Johnston, the contractor in charge, said that he thought the work would be finished in time for the opening on Sept. 5.

Mr. Johnston has been handicapped by the scarcity of laborers and he could not get masons when they were needed. He was delayed about two weeks on that account.

The vandalism by the boys has practically ceased. The culprits are no doubt paying attention to the warning of a few weeks ago.

The scholars will hardly know the old school so vast are the changes being made.

HORTICULTURAL COMPETITIONS

Society Has Not Yet Decided as Judge

The date for the judging of the lawns and residences in the competitions of the local Horticultural Society is approaching, but Mr. Frank Wise, secretary of the society, informed the Review that there was some difficulty in securing a judge, the official who acted last year being too busy at Toronto.

It is the desire this year to get a judge who will remain in the city for a longer stay, than has hitherto been the case, so that he might make an inspection throughout the city. Last year for instance, the judge was in the city for about a half day only. There are two good men in Toronto, in the opinion of Mr. Wise, and if neither can be secured, the probabilities are that capable local horticulturalists will make the awards.

Mr. Wise has just returned from a visit to Barrie where he was shown about the city by the president of the society. Gores have been constructed at points on the street in Barrie, with a view of bringing about horticultural effects. But notwithstanding all he has heard and seen of Barrie, Mr. Wise is disposed to give Peterboro, first place.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—Who is Mr. Harstone, who is on Mr. J. R. Stratton's platform?

He is a very respectable gentleman, who has invested large sums in the Northwest, and there is no doubt if all his wheat went to the Minneapolis mills it would raise the price of his farms. But what about Canada? Is the whole of Canada to be sacrificed because his lands are in easy reach of the Minneapolis mills?

MURDER IN THE HOME-MADE BREAD

Baker Says That Some Women's Efforts are Murderous

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 24—That the modern housewife, who attempts to bake her own bread produces a soggy article and is committing murder in allowing it to be eaten was the statement by Paul Schulze, of Chicago, president of the National Association of Master Bakers, at the second day's session of the annual convention of that body here to-day. He told of a Chicago woman who built up a business selling "health bread," her own product.

"I cut into a loaf of it," said Mr. Schulze. "I saw the centre was unbaked dough. I have been wondering since what effect that woman's bread had on the death roll in Chicago. She was unquestionably committing murder."

Thomas S. Stimson, a contractor of Wellington, Ont., died on a train entering Chicago.

POINT OF PICK THROUGH HAND

Mr. Harry Noyes Sustains Painful Injury

Mr. Harry Noyes, section foreman on the Grand Trunk, met with a painful accident yesterday afternoon.

While cleaning a tie bed, one of his men in an accidental manner put the point of a pick through his right hand.

Mr. Noyes went to Dr. McClelland, the G.T.R. physician here, and he is in charge of his men to-day but confines his work to directing operations.

OPERA HOUSE JAMMED TO DOORS

against the probable effect of reciprocity that the Liberals could offer was that it was nonsensical. But Mr. Burnham referred to the declarations that Mr. Taft had made as an evidence of the policy adopted by the United States. What sort of answer would the people of Canada give to announcement that Canada was at the parting of the ways? (Cheers.)

The Liberals were indulging in a lot of claptrap. There was nothing more in it, and they knew it. (Cheers.)

Mr. Burnham dealt at some length with the state pension system, whereby old men and old women would receive enough in their declining years to keep them from starvation and from charity—the bane of all people of spirit and hope.

It would, he held, be comparatively easy to set aside a few millions a year that was now stolen by the grafters, and it was due to ourselves as well as to them.

In conclusion he said: "The Examiner has a great deal to say of Mr. Stratton's usefulness to the riding, that he has got so much for it, and that he is of such a stirring and persistent energy that he is likely to be of much greater service to it than I can be. It has for years described me as a mere useless dreamer, and worse. I am about tired of these attacks, but I am not going to ask one human being to vote for me for what I have done for this riding. It is, however, but a common, and I think a mean prevarication, for the Examiner to say that I have not been of use, and I think very material service, not only to this riding but to the country at large. The Examiner knows perfectly well that a sense of common decency ought to preclude my referring to a society which I had the honor of founding in Canada, the Children's Aid Society, which has been of immense value, not only to this riding, but to the country at large. But let no man vote for me on that account, not one. I regret more than I can tell that repeated and long-continued attacks of this sort by the Examiner to which I never referred in this way before, have driven me at last to the desperation of self-defence. I hope my antagonist, Mr. Stratton, can say always the same. He has done much good, and no harm, I hope. And when he and I come to depart this life I hope it may be said of us both that we belonged to no company or corporation which brought poverty and tears and ruin to scores of widows and orphans, but that on the other hand, regardless of our own wealth, of our own political interest, and our own show, we sought always—not sometimes, but always—the comfort and happiness of those who are too young or too old and too defenceless to do it for themselves. It is in furtherance of a plan now to aid the old that I am so strongly advocating the introduction of the state pension system into Canada as it has been introduced into Britain and Germany. It has not pauperized the people there, as the Examiner loves to pretend it will do here. It is a system that has given hope and happiness and good cheer to thousands who, after a life of toil, find themselves but poorly provided for in their old age. Why should the state not pension its aged. Must all the plums go to the grafters and the already rich? There seems to be no dread on the part of the Examiner that they will be "pauperized" by all the plums they get. No. They are never tired of getting rich and richer, and bragging of their riches. I say let the toiler have a chance. Annuities are insurance that must be paid for by the individual. Pensions are not paid for by the individual, but by the state, which sets aside a fund of a few millions, the interest upon which provides her aged not with charity, but with a sustenance which as citizens of this country, they have already earned. It is time that the people—the plain people—of this world had a chance, and I am making this pension system the chief new item of my address.

MR. J. A. SEXSMITH

Mr. Sexsmith was warmly greeted. He said that the occasion was the first time in his life, that he had the opportunity to say a few words to such a gathering as was present, but would not take up more than a few moments. He was delighted to see so many ladies present, he said. He pointed out that it was not the resources of a country which made it great, but rather the character of the people. Of Mr. Borden, he said the Conservative leader was a man worthy of the confidence and support of all Canadians, and he was perfectly satisfied and convinced that Mr. Borden would be the premier of Canada within a few short weeks. Mr. Borden stood for Canada and British principles, closer relations with the mother country and the joining of the colonies of the great British empire. He was not for continentalism. His was not a policy for the Canadians to look to the south, the east or the west, where we might imagine we might gain a few paltry dollars.

The farmers had been told they were to be given a market of 90,000,000 people, but there is no proof that we are going to be benefitted. Now, one word of advice, said the speaker. There is a greater responsibility placed upon you than has been placed upon any Canadian people. Get out on September 21. Do your duty to Canada and you will elect Mr. Burnham beyond a doubt. In electing him, you have a man who is a follower of Mr. Borden, a follower who is a credit to West Peterborough, to Canada and the British Empire. (Applause.)

LEADER BORDEN

(Mr. Borden's voice was quite hoarse from the continuous speaking in the campaign, but it was heard in every part of the house in its deep resonance. When he was called on by the chairman, it was the signal for a remarkable outburst of cheering. The reception the Conservative leader got must have convinced him that Peterborough at least, stood right, and would vote right.

"I have to begin with an apology as to the condition of my voice," said he. It was not at all de trop, but the best he could plead was that the damage had been done in a good cause—a cause that the people of Canada would declare on Sept. 21 to be a good cause.

He was delighted to see so many ladies. It was a happy augury all over the country that the ladies were taking such an active interest in the issues.

Their interest was warmer and deeper in this election than it had been in years in Canada. He concurred in what Mr. Sexsmith had said that the standard of Canadian life depended to a great extent on the interest that the ladies took in it.

"You know that the standards of public life are just what the people make them," said Mr. Borden, "and on each of you is an individual responsibility."

Mr Borden referred to the pleasure he had before experienced in speaking on behalf of Mr. Sexsmith and Mr. Burnham, and he believed that it would be successfully in each case this time. He desired to congratulate Mr. Burnham on his manly, straightforward speech. He thought that both Mr. Burnham and Mr. Sexsmith were entitled to the confidence of the electors, for both were worthy men and would make creditable representatives. Mr Sexsmith's utterances in the house were listened to with great attention by both sides.

SHOULD BE ELECTED

"They have come forward, because you have asked them," said Mr. Borden, "you should now do your duty and see that they are both elected." No time or effort should be spared between now and election day to secure their return."

Mr Borden referred to the great increase in the faith, hope, confidence and assurance felt by all Conservatives in this campaign. There were thousands of good Liberal Canadians to-day who were going to forsake the ties of party allegiance. They preferred British unity to the bonds of party. It was a great thing for a man actively associated with a party to leave it on a great national issue, through his convictions. When the whole destiny of Canada and the empire hung in the balance, these Liberals should be thanked for their timely aid.

Another sign of the times was that the Liberal newspapers, which in 1904 and 1908 were inclined to be patronising, were furious, and with reason, for they knew that they were fighting a losing battle. Of the six cabinet ministers in Ontario not one had a safe seat but Sir Richard Cartwright and he was in the senate in unbroken slumber while the expenditures of the country mounted by leaps and bounds.

Mr. Borden dealt with the question of the dissolution of parliament while the Oliver charges were still pending. He charged that this was a distinct violation of honor, because pledges had been given that the investigation would take place before adjournment. He declared that there was no constitutional precedent for a government to dissolve parliament with such serious charges pending.

CONTEMPT FOR PUBLIC

"This was a manifestation of contempt for decent public opinion that ought to be heartily condemned," said Mr. Borden, (cheers.)

The leader dealt with the great growth and development of Canada since the early days, on the great heritage it possessed to-day. Dealing with the 1866 reciprocity treaty abrogation, he said that the treaty was cancelled because some of the provinces undertook to raise the duties on some articles, not included in the treaty at all. Canada was in despair but he believed that the abrogation was the best thing that could have happened Canada. (Cheers.)

To-day Canada had three trans-continental railways. She was in the full tide of prosperity, and where 25 years ago Canada possessed its decry-ers, to-day there was no faint heart, or poor spirit. The national spirit had been quickened. But it was true that no nation could be great by material progress alone. It needed ideals and sentiments. In the midst of Canada's abounding prosperity, why had the government introduced reciprocity, for which it had no mandate?

It was not because of the lack of prosperity, or hope for the future. Then why? Because reciprocity was acceptable in 1866 was no reason why it should be acceptable in 1911. Sir Wilfrid Laurier had answered himself in declaring that in 1867 Canada had built for 1867, and in 1903 it was building for 1903. In the years between 1899 and 1907 Sir Wilfrid had on four occasions declared that Canada did not want reciprocity, that it had said good-bye to it, and all hope was now centered on the British trade.

CALLING NAMES

It was a fact that the guns of the premier were being spiked one after the other, and the prime minister, like his journalistic supporters, began to call names. He phrased reciprocity as merely as the securing of a free market in the United States, the getting of a wider market. But the United States had always been our competitor in the world's markets, our strongest competitor. The United States was described as the best free market in existence. How could such a free market be filled by our goods when it exported $500,000,000 worth of produce, such as we proposed to send into it. The truth of the matter was that if we sent into the United States $50,000,000 worth of produce, its export would increase merely that $50,000,000. Our products then would become not Canadian products, but American products in the markets of the world. We had taken 25 years to build up our valuable British connection. If we were to try reciprocity for two or three years and drop our British connection—if we were to try reciprocity for two or three years, and drop our British connection, what position would Canada be in, if reciprocity did not hold? How long would it take us to regain what we have built up in the 25 years? (Loud cheers.)

The whole object and tendency of the pact was to destroy the turning out of the finished product in this country. It would send our pulpwood to the United States to be ground, and returned in the form of paper. It would send our wheat there to be milled into flour, and the American farmers would get the valuable by-products. The National policy of Sir John Macdonald which had been carried out substantially by the Laurier government, because it was afraid to change it, held that it was madness in a country to send abroad its raw material and its natural resources, and then send the boys after them to obtain the work of manufacturing them, and then money after the boys to buy the manufactures.

MEAN AND CONTEMPTIBLE

Mr Borden declared that there was nothing more mean and contemptible in his opinion than the efforts of some men to raise strife between those who were engaged in industrial life and the farmer. No appeal could be based on falser grounds than appeals of that kind.

Suppose that the industries of Peterborough had been wiped out by a change in the tariff, and that the city was desolated of population. The farmers for one hundred miles around would know and feel the loss of that best of markets, the home market. Mr. Borden read an extract from a Minneapolis manufacturer's pamphlet. It was an appeal to "Stop the Leaks"—those leaks being the establishment of 250 American branch factories in Canada in ten years, on the grounds as they meant lessened prosperity for the American farmer. The United States aimed to do the great manufacturing. We were to be content with what little we could get.

The Laurier government would have the Canadian farmer open his home market to the competition not only of $500,000,000 of American natural products export, but of other countries, and this a market that took 85 per cent of his product. This proposal of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the end meant exactly what was meant by Laurier in 1891, absolute and unrestricted free trade with one tariff for the United States and Canada, and that tariff to be made at Washington.

"I desire the best of relations with the United States," said Mr. Borden, "for I believe we have a mission to be a connecting link between Great Britain and the United States. But the best measure of friendship is to be independent and not interlock our tariff with that of the United States."

They made this country reduce its tariff on some items only last year. The United States brought Canada to its knees. "I think that in the best interests of Canada it would have been better to have fought out the issue then and there."

When the gigantic trusts have once secured a foothold in Canada, and found means to control Canadian legislation as it controlled the legislation in the United States, Canadians would perhaps begin to think some. Canada could not measure up to the gigantic stature of these trusts and fight them. The one way to keep them out was to prevent our home market being made free to them.

"Reciprocity in the empire is good enough for us," said Mr. Borden, amid loud cheering.

Then there was the question of national unity. Even if the Liberals could prove all the economic advantages that they claimed, he could not deal with the pact from that standpoint alone. A nation cannot live by cents alone. There must be ideals. Mr. Borden referred to President Taft's remarkable utterance about Canada being at the parting of the ways. "Has Sir Wilfrid Laurier told you what that pregnant utterance means?" thundered he. One path led to the empire. Where did the other path lead? President Taft said that the imperial bond was light and almost imperceptible, and Canada was at the parting of the ways. Did the audience understand English? Did they fail to comprehend?

President Taft had said that reciprocity would destroy all chance of an imperial trade preference. The opposition had fought this pact in parliament for months. It had braved the cry of obstruction and threats of closure. It had fought for the people's right to decide this momentous question. It was for the people now to decide. Which path did they wish to take?

Mr. Borden made an eloquent appeal

SPORT TALK

There should be a good entry for the city aquatic championships, which the local Y.M.C.A. physical director has brought forward. Here is a good chance for all young men and boys who take an interest in these sports. Each event is open and the swimming competitions should result in keen contests. Over sixty boys learned the art of swimming at the Y.M.C.A. this year while some twelve or more also took advantage of the course.

Twill soon be time to get into the rugby game if Peterborough is to loosen up and attempt anything along this line of sport. With such a large representation of soccer players in the city, there should be no difficulty in getting together a strong rugby team. The players who helped to make Peterborough famous, as a rugby town are scattered far and wide, but they had to learn and there is no reason why fourteen stalwarts could not be gathered together once again.

There has been a general kick for some time, that Peterborough neglected to put up a program to keep the people at home on a holiday. For Labor Day, the Trades and Labor Council, have gone to heavy expense in signing the Belleville Grand Trunks and the Peterborough nine for a ball game in the afternoon. Other sports will be put on and the program is one that should, and no doubt will, be patronized by the largest crowd ever present at Riverside Park.

Charged With Manslaughter.

Montreal, Aug. 25.—On a coroner's warrant, charging him with manslaughter, Phileas du Rocher, 58 Lagauchetiere West, was arraigned before Judge Lanctot yesterday morning and pleaded not guilty. Enquete was fixed for August 30.

Du Rocher was allowed out on bail, two bondsmen of $5,000 each furnishing the security for the man's appearance. It is understood that the men represent the company for whom Du Rocher was employed.

The warrant is the outcome of the death of Joseph Goudreau, employed as stevedore by the Thompson Line, who was working under a hoist when a bar of pig iron fell from the carrier, striking him on the head, causing injuries from which he died on Wednesday. Du Rocher, as foreman of the gang, was held responsible for not using the necessary precaution to safeguard the men employed about the ship, from accidents.

American Farmers Have Been Selling Canada Much Produce

According to the press of the Western States, free trade in natural products with Canada will mean a fine market for the farmers of Minnesota and North Dakota. A prominent paper in St. Paul says:

Hay is almost invariably higher in Canada than in this country. Last year we shipped 7,689 tons of hay to Canada. We sold Canada 215,000 bushels of potatoes; 60,000 bushels of apples; 215,000 pounds of cheese; 750,000 dozen eggs, and a vast quantity of other vegetables and fruits. Canada's purchases of fresh vegetables from us last year alone amounted to $585,000. The removal of existing duties on these products will make a big market in Western Canada for Minnesota, Dakota and other Northwestern States in vegetables, fruits and dairy products. Ontario now supplies Western Canada with these products, but they can be advantageously obtained from the United States.

OPERA HOUSE JAMMED TO DOORS

that the imperial ties might never be broken, and that Canada would say on Sept. 21st to President Taft and to the world that it would prefer to keep intact those bonds of love and loyalty, to stay by the old flag that had braved the battle and the breeze for a thousand years.

ANDREW BRODER

Andrew Broder, of Dundas county, got a rousing reception. Andrew is one of the wittiest speakers in Canada, and his stories illustrating his points were received with thunders of applause. He dealt with the aspect of the agreement from the farmers' side. Referring to the bitter spirit in which the campaign was being conducted by the Liberal newspapers, he said that the Toronto Globe was so crooked that its blood couldn't circulate through it. He showed that while the population of the United States was 90,000,000, the real market that Canadians had to consider was about 9,000,000, because of the 90,000,000 about 30,000,000 were farmers, 20,000,000 lived adjacent to the farmers, and could not be reached, and the millions in the south could not be considered.

He said that the home market which took 85 per cent of the Canadian product should be kept from competition. Yet Laurier proposed to jeopardise that 80 per cent market for the sake of getting a doubtful market for 15 per cent of Canadian products. Oh, you farmers! Mr. Broder referred to the old reciprocity treaty of 1866, when he ate more cornmeal than ever since. He dwelt on the necessity of preserving the identity and character of our products, and no entanglements.

The raw material, and natural products should be manufactured right here in Canada. And when it came Mr. Borden's turn to form a government, they would find that he would do as Whitney had done—give the country the best government it had ever had. Quoting figures on hogs, Mr. Broder referred to the fact that there were 3,000,000 hogs in Canada and 49,000,000 in the United States! Who said hogs? Who would control the price and the market? And eggs had been coming in to Canada by the million dozen. Mr. Broder referred to the necessity of preserving Canada's east and west trade, for which we had prepared at such expense.

His speech was a series of well timed and humorous remarks that caught immensely with the crowd, and at the end the popular opinion was that Andy Broder should be earning his living on the platform as an entertainer. But the solid points of his argument were not at all neglected.

Cheers for the king, Mr. Borden, the candidates closed the meeting about half-past ten.

NOTES OF THE FRAY.

The little Union Jacks with which the audience was furnished came in handy. There's nothing like the Union Jack for assisting in a good cheer.

Mr. W. H. Moore, K. C., read the address to Mr. Borden with fine effect.

Having set the record for a big political gathering, let West Peterborough set the pace by giving Burnham a rousing majority on Sept. 21st.

The signs, 'Burnham, Borden and British Connection,' and "Sexsmith, the farmers' candidate," were very appropriate.

Among those on the platform was Col. Sam Hughes, the doughty warrior from Lindsay. Col. Hughes dropped in to enjoy the scenery, and was greatly pleased.

Mr. Burnham's apt reference to the ladies, and his advocacy of their having a vote, caught with the crowd.

There weren't many arguments put forward to show the workingman why he should vote against reciprocity—the speakers apparently taking it for granted that the workingman could see the evils. But they will get all the information coming to them before election day—entitling them to vote for Borden.

No one will dispute the loyalty and patriotism of a Peterborough audience audience, at least.

Mr. James Kerdry, as chairman, told of the blue days before the National policy. Do the workingmen want these days brought around again?

One very enjoyable incident was when little Annie Hewitt Amys, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Amys, presented to Mr. Borden a beautiful bouquet when he arose to speak. Mr. Borden kissed the little girl in winning manner.

How the Canadian Farmer Disposes of his Year's Crop.

Canada as everybody knows is a very great food exporting country. We sent out in the year 1910 $21,607,693 worth of cheese, practically the whole of which was sent to the United Kingdom. We exported to the same destination $6,886,292 worth of bacon and ham. The wheat export of the Dominion of Canada which at confederation reached only 2,284,702 bushels, amounted in 1910 to no less than 49,741,350 bushels of which over 44,500,000 bushels was sent to Great Britain.

Our Canadian farmer is greatly interested in this export business and particularly in his connection with the British market, but it is not generally realised that this foreign or export market represents only a small part, not more than one fifth of the interest of the Canadian farmer as a producer. The statement has been very frequently made that 80 per cent of every thing that is grown upon our farms is consumed within our own borders. Some people have been inclined to challenge this. They have the general idea that the Canadian farmer is a grain grower and that Canada is a grain exporting country and have failed to appreciate the enormous growth of our own home consumption, and the vast quantity of farm produce that is necessarily consumed in a community of eight million people or by cities like Montreal and Toronto with about half a million of inhabitants each.

On examination there seems ample warrant for the statement that Canada consumes 80 per cent of this agricultural output. We may reach this result from the following calculations:

The Crop Bulletin for 1909 places the value of all the wheat, oats and barley grown in Canada that year at $289,144,000.00. To arrive at the home consumption of the crops we must deduct the net exports, i. e., the exports of such produce proper, less any imports entered for consumption. For the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1910, the exports (Canadian produce only) were:

Barley	$ 1,107,732
Oats	1,566,612
Wheat	52,609,351
Total	$55,283,695

For the same period the imports entered for consumption were:

Barley	$102,908
Oats	27,287
Wheat	55,61
Total	$185,807

Deducting one from the other it leaves the net exports $55,097,888. The balance therefore, $234,046,112, or 81 per cent. of the whole, represents what was consumed by the home market.

It will be noticed that the above example deals only with three commodities, wheat, oats and barley. The computation which follows embraces all field crops.

According to the Bureau of Statistics, the total value of Canadian field crops for 1909 was $532,992,100. For the fiscal year ending 31st March, 1910, our exports of field produce (Canadian grown only) were:

To the British Empire	$76,427,447
To other countries . .	14,006,300
Total	$90,433,747

Of this $20,083,950 was exported in a manufactured state, (flour, oatmeal, etc.), leaving the exports of unmanufactured field products $70,349,788. But again, to arrive at the net exports we must deduct imports of unmanufactured field products valued at $12,601,742, bringing the final amount down to $57,748,046. From these statistics the home market appears to have consumed 89—1-5 per cent. of the total production.

Neither of the above illustrations takes cognizance of animal products, and in the absence of an annual inventory showing the value of our live stock, it is difficult to furnish satisfactory figures. The following comparison however, is suggestive. For the fiscal year ending 31st March, 1910, our exports of unmanufactured field products as shown above were $70,349,788; to this add our exports of animals and unmanufactured animal products, $48,900,000, and it shows our total exports of unmanufactured farm produces to be $114,000,000. Lumping the two together they only amounted to 21 per cent. of the value of the field crop alone. As a matter of fact, the grain crop for last year of one province (Ontario) was worth $54,000,000 more than all the farm exports of the whole of Canada.

The Butter Trade of Canada.

In the year ending 1910 Canada shipped only 4,615,380 pounds of butter, worth $1,010,274. Canada's imports of butter on the other hand amounted to 687,454 pounds, worth $104,301.

These imports into Canada last year are given below, with the rate of duty that had to be paid on coming into the country; and also with the changes in that rate which would be effected under Reciprocity.

HOISTED UNION JACK ON REQUEST

Ottawa, Aug. 25.—An American pleasure yacht, the Ednada III., owned by George Thomas, jr., a Philadelphia millionaire, who is here with his family on a cruise, was found to be flying the American flag yesterday without also carrying the Canadian flag.

The matter was brought to the attention of the authorities by employes of the Militia Department whose building overlooks the canal basin, in which the yacht was lying. Mr. Thomas hoisted the Canadian flag on request, explaining that he was ignorant of the regulations. There was no unpleasantness.

An interesting point about the incident is that the complaints were referred from one to another by a score of Government and civic officials before they found the proper man to take action, the lockmaster.

Both Murdered.

St. Catharines, Aug. 25—The inquest at Beamsville into the death of Edna Comfort and her child, who were found drowned in Beamsville reservoir on July 5, ended yesterday, when the jury returned a verdict to the effect that both mother and child were murdered, though the verdict did not state by whom or in what manner. No new evidence was taken at yesterday's session, Crown Attorney Brennan informing the jury that Detective Miller had followed up every possible report and rumor which had reached his ears, but to no avail. The jury retired at 3 o'clock, returning with the verdict two hours later.

May Strike In Berlin.

Berlin, Aug. 25.—Labor troubles are making their appearance at many points in Germany, and the general belief is that men have become discontented with their present conditions since the success of the British railway strike.

The cigar workers are discussing what they call the inadequate rate of wages paid to them.

The dockers of Bremen yesterday decided to refuse to unload British vessels on which strike-breakers are employed.

The Saxon employers of metal workers have decided to lock out 60 per cent. of their men on Aug. 26.

POINTS ABOUT THE DEAL

OLD CONDITIONS HAVE PASSED

The Four Reasons Which Produced Continentalists Have Died Natural Deaths

By JOHN V. BORNE.

The drain of population from Canada to the United States was the fundamental reason for such organisations as the Continental Association, of which the late Goldwin Smith was president. Mr. Smith, in a letter accepting the presidency, gave four reasons for the propaganda of the Association:—

1. The population was standing still.
2. The backward condition of the manufacturing industries and the inferiority of their production.
3. The condition of agriculture, our farmers barely making a living, while tenant farmers were considered clever to make ends even meet.
4. The exodus of young Canadian manhood to the United States.

There were two factors in Canadian development which the Continentalists of that day did not appreciate, and which inevitably produced a third, which wrought considerable harm to the country.

In the first place the Continentalists did not see that the exodus to the United States would not continue indefinitely, because the unoccupied lands of the Republic would fill up, and Canada's turn would come. In the second place they did not really believe that Canada was a country of practically unlimited producing power.

These two things together inevitably prevented the Continentalists from having a great vision of the future of Canada. They thought she would always be commercially dependent on the United States. They saw no future in which Canada could be the lynch-pin of an Empire more spacious and more splendid than the United States could ever be. They said "Go to, let us make the most of our neighbor." They did not know how to say "Go to, let us make the most of ourselves."

THE HOME MARKET

The Loss of Reciprocity in 1866 Resulted in the Creation of Profitable Industries for Canada

By JOHN V. BORNE.

It is true that both political parties in Canada formerly desired a measure of Reciprocity with the United States. But that was when trade generally was small and depressed, and before proof had been given that, on the line of antagonism to Canadian prosperity, laid down by the United States, Canada could flourish as an exporter of farm and forest products and be essentially independent of the United States.

There was a Reciprocity Treaty between the two countries from 1854 to 1866, which advanced the price of Canadian farm produce. But the Crimean War in the first half and the United States Civil War in the second half of the Reciprocity period raised prices everywhere. The Canadian farmer came to depend upon the United States for his market.

He received a severe lesson when Reciprocity was withdrawn. But, instead of being ruined, he found a more stable market in Great Britain, which has persisted to this day. Instead of sending his crops across the border he fed them on the farm, retained and improved the fertility of the soil, and by selling dairy produce and cattle became more permanently prosperous than was possible under a delusively profitable market across the line.

In time the National Policy expanded the farmer's home market. The gold he received for his produce, instead of going out of the country to purchase goods, was kept in Canada by those who had begun to make things that formerly had been imported, and who bought things of him that otherwise would have gone abroad. This meant better prices for the producer, as it also meant greater earning and spending power in the manufacturing towns.

This change was slow, as men count time; but swift in the reckoning of nations. It was accompanied by a conspicuous disadvantage—young Canadians left Canada by the thousands for the United States, where Canada was regarded as a poor relation.

The bottom fell out of a carboy of nitric acid in the warehouse of the National Drug Company, at Hamilton, and two employees, Alex. Woods and Walter Mitchell are severely burned.

TUG IS STILL MISSING

Hope Abandoned For Safety of C. C. Martin.

No News Has Been Received Regarding the Fate of the Midland Boat, Which Is Believed to Have Been Lost In Storm When Barge Albatross Foundered—May Have Landed on Shore or Island.

Byng Inlet, Aug. 25.—The worst fears as to the fate of the tug C. C. Martin of Midland would seem to be only too well grounded. That the vessel is lost, with all on board, is the general belief, although some persons, in discussing the probabilities, are not unwilling to hope, if not believe, that the tug has gone ashore on some island, and having no yawl, the crew are unable to make their plight known, and must await the succor that will come later on from some quarter or another. This view of the situation is, however, hardly borne out by the facts as known. The Martin had in tow, in a tremendous sea, a big barge and the barge sprung a leak and foundered, sinking so quickly that those aboard the tug had no time to cut the tow-line and thus save their craft being dragged down with her consort.

The persons on board included Captain George Vent and Mrs. Vent. They have four children. Richard Melia, single; Robert Hook, Ernest Hughie, Charles Oliver; W. Martin, F. McQuinn, F. Busaume. It is thought there was another man on board.

The story of Captain Dean, master of the barge Albatross, is to the effect that the tug was laboring fearfully, with lights out, and that the distance which separated the craft, 200 feet, was too great for communication, even with the megaphone, so loud was the roar of the tempest. He tried in vain to signal the tug before he and his fellows on board the sinking barge climbed into their little yawl and cut adrift. Into this thirteen foot boat, a mere skiff, seven people piled, braving a sea running mountains high. With but two oars and they not mates, with only a frail girl using a tin pail to bail, the seven weathered the furious gale and were saved. The staunch little tug, built to stand a sea, new and well equipped and manned, was, it is believed, not equal to the fury of the storm, and sank into the depths, blotting out nine or ten lives.

Murder Over Dollar Bill.

Buffalo, N.Y., Aug. 25.—A quarrel over a dollar bill led to the murder of John Crane, 57 years old, an inmate of the almshouse, here yesterday. Chris T. Nolan, 50 years of age, another inmate, is charged with the murder. It is alleged Nolan beat Crane to death with a walking stick. He is believed now to be in Hamilton.

Burned to Death.

Cornwall, Aug. 25.—Miss Mabel Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Bailey of Massena, across the river from here, was the victim of a horrible accident at her parents' home. Miss Bailey and her mother were preparing supper with an alcohol stove, the fluid exploded, setting fire to her clothing, and she rushed from the house by the front door, a human torch. At the sound of the explosion, Mrs. Bailey rushed into the house, having heard her daughter scream, and proceeded to extinguish the flames, which were burning the curtains, but was not aware that her daughter's clothing was on fire. Miss Bailey threw herself on the grass on the lawn in an effort to put out the blaze, and neighbors rendered what assistance lay in their power.

Physicians were sent for and found the unfortunate girl was horribly burned from the ankles to the body and her arms nearly to the shoulders. Miss Bailey lived for twelve hours and suffered terribly.

Summer Hotel Burned.

Clayton, N.Y., Aug. 25.—The Hotel Frontenac, the largest in the Thousand Islands, was laid waste by fire Wednesday night. It is owned by Charles Goodwin. The structure was built about twelve years ago at a cost of $350,000. It is situated one mile from Clayton, and is the most fashionable hotel in the islands.

Several of the guests, it is said, were restrained by force from leaping from upper storey windows and were whisked down the stairways in safety. Guests who fled half-clad from the burning hotel, wrapped themselves in raincoats and bath robes, and went to other parts of the islands.

Steamer Hard Aground.

Cornwall, Aug. 25.—The steamer Riverside of Brockville is aground in Bergin Lake, above Mille Roches, and the water in the lake will have to be raised before the boat can be released. Tugs have been at work all day but have been unable to help the boat. The Riverside was chartered by the Beaver Lacrosse Club of Mille Roches to run an excursion from Cornwall to Ogdensburg yesterday, and was on her way to Cornwall when the accident happened. Her bow is about 18 inches out of water, and it is expected that some difficulty will be experienced in floating her. The excursion had to be cancelled.

To Reinstate Men.

London, Aug. 25.—The municipal street railway committee at Liverpool yesterday deciding to reinstate the strikers, thus ending the labor troubles in that city.

It took the committee nearly three hours yesterday afternoon to make up their minds to yield to the demands of the strike committee that no discrimination be shown against the strikers returning to work.

Sixty-eight thousand men, who are still on strike at Liverpool awaiting yesterday's decision on the part of the street railway committee, will now return to work.

A cigar butt caused a fire, which destroyed Loyst's hotel and two cottages at Mountain Grove, Ont.

LANCTOT FORGOTTEN.

Sir Wilfrid at Sorel Dodges Shipyards Episode.

Sorel, Aug. 24.—Three thousand people heard Sir Wilfrid Laurier discuss reciprocity, the navy bill and the Nationalists at the mass meeting of Liberals here yesterday afternoon.

Sir Wilfrid has suffered little from the past few strenuous days, speaking with fire and force, especially when he referred to Messrs. Bourassa and Monk. The Premier heartily endorsed the candidature of Arthur Cardin, who was chosen by the Liberal convention here in place of Adelard Lanctot, the late M.P. Mr. Lanctot was in town, but did not attend the meeting.

In discussing reciprocity, the Premier laid much stress on the markets which would be opened to the farmers, quoting prices for hay and vegetables in Montreal and in American cities, to show that, with the duty removed, the farmers would profit by selling to the latter. Referring to the Opposition, he ridiculed the hybrid alliance, which, he said, had but one thought, that being to beat Laurier.

On the navy question he spoke at length, emphasising the fact that service would be entirely voluntary and had always been intended to be so.

Constable Will Die.

Winnipeg, Aug. 25.—Harry Kelly and Frank Jones, the young bandits who participated in a spectacular street battle Wednesday with a score of policemen, were yesterday remanded pending the fate of Constable Traynor, who cannot live long as a bullet penetrated his bowels.

Restrictions have been taken off of immigration ports of entries in the west to aid the farmers in securing harvest help, and the country is being overrun with desperate young men. Traynor was fired upon repeatedly only a week ago by a young highwayman from the States, and he was unarmed. The police commissioners are contemplating changing the traditional policy of sending officers on patrol without firearms.

The battle Wednesday extended over a mile through a thickly-settled portion of the city.

Murderer on His Wedding Day?

Boonville, Ind., Aug. 25.—Wm. Lee, who is accused of murdering his parents and younger brother and then firing the house, it is said, ran out of the home at the time of the fire fully dressed and spread the alarm. He claimed that he was awakened by the blaze and barely escaped, not having had time to rescue the others.

Information has come out that Lee and his father had quarrelled frequently over money matters. William was engaged to wed Miss Myna Taylor, daughter of a wealthy farmer.

Had No Fire Escape.

Montreal, Aug. 25.—Seven proprietors and managers of factories were summoned to the recorder's court yesterday by Mr. Alcide Chausse, the building inspector, on charges of violating the fire bylaw by having no fire escapes on their buildings. Three were let off with costs, because they had complied with the law after having been summoned to court. The four others were remanded till next week, to permit their constructing escapes. The factories affected employ from twenty to two hundred hands.

Japanese Premier Resigns.

Tokio, Aug. 25.—Count Katsura yesterday tendered his resignation as Premier. He recommends the appointment of Marquis Saionji for that post.

The Cabinet, of which Count Katsura is Premier and Minister of Finance was formed July 14, 1908. The resignation of Count Katsura was forecasted nearly a month ago and it was known that many changes in the Cabinet had been under consideration for several months.

Sir William Whyte to Retire?

Winnipeg, Aug. 25.—The Tribune last night says:

"A rumor is current to-day in Canadian Pacific Railway circles that Sir William Whyte will, in the course of a few days, announce his retirement from active management of the railway system in Western Canada. The persistency of the rumor reads to the belief that it will be confirmed within a few days.

"Sir William will continue his relations with the company in a capacity similar to that occupied by Sir William Van Horne. The name mentioned in connection with the rumored vacancy is that of G. J. Bury, now general manager of western lines."

Frost Damage Light.

Winnipeg, Aug. 25.—The frost danger has, temporarily at least, passed eastward, for all over the west Wednesday night higher temperatures prevailed. The lowest was recorded at Calgary, where 44 degrees above was the minimum.

Excepting Emerson, where it registered 37, all other points stayed above 40. Present forecasts and indications promise still warmer weather and a successful garnering of the crops is again in prospect. Damage from recent cold, wind and rain is now known to be very light. In most of the sections where crops were beaten down they have already gained strength and are standing almost erect again.

In Search of Pointers.

Winnipeg, Aug. 25.—One hundred prominent Western Canada business men will visit the chief industrial cities of Great Britain during June next year. This was definitely decided at a directors' meeting of the Winnipeg Industrial Bureau yesterday. Leading financial and commercial men representing all western cities will be invited to accompany the Winnipeg party, covering six weeks itinerary abroad.

Lost Nearly $10,000.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Aug. 25.—Under Sheriff Bolier said last night that warrants had been sworn out for the arrest of the members of the gang that operated a fake pool room at Lewiston recently, where many Toronto men were fleeced. Warrants were sworn out by a man who is said to have lost nearly $10,000. The whereabouts of the gang are known and arrests are expected shortly.

HELPS THE FARMER DOES THE TARIFF

The Duty on Flax Nearly Wiped Out Imports But Multiplied the Exports

A prominent paint manufacturer of Montreal, speaking in Winnipeg in September, 1906, said: "Our flaxseed is shut out of the American market on account of a duty of 25 cents per bushel. Why do not our Canadian farmers ask our Government to place a duty on flax grown in Canada to give them the home market which they are justly entitled to? There is from a million and a half to two million bushels of flaxseed consumed in Canada annually by our Canadian linseed oil crushers, and why should a million bushels or more of foreign seed be used instead of buying 'Grown in Canada' flaxseed, and grown right here in the West, the best that can be produced?

"I wish to point out to the intelligent farmers of the West that the American farmers find flax more profitable to grow than wheat, and I hope that, when revision of the tariff takes place, there will be a duty placed on, flaxseed for the benefit of the farmer and that all flaxseed used in Canada will be 'Grown in Canada.'"

Up to 1907 flaxseed entered Canada free of duty and the figures, imports and exports, for the two years immediately preceding show that we were an importing country:—

Fiscal Year.	Imp'ts, Bush.	Exp'ts, Bush.	(Can.) Value.
1905	176,887	314	$479
*1906	711,136	2,324	$8,228

*(After deducting exports of foreign).

At the close of 1907 flaxseed was protected by a duty of 10 cents a bushel, and during the following three years, as will be observed from the figures, our imports dwindled down to practically nothing, while our exports jumped from nothing up into the millions:—

Fiscal Year.	Imp'ts, Bush.	Exp'ts, Bush.	(Can.) Value.
*1908	495,154	10,997	$15,098
*1909	288,468	693,779	$855,908
1910	4,344	1,997,648	$3,642,476

*(After deducting exports of foreign).

And yet it is still alleged on behalf of the farmers that a tariff on their products can be of little value to them.

A FRIEND OF LABOR

The Tariff is a Practical Friend of the Working Man

As the result of some investigations conducted by The Monetary Times (Toronto), it is known that at the present time at least 200 United States manufacturing companies are operating branch factories in Canada, representing an aggregate investment of $226,000,000. For this influx of capital, with all the benefits accruing to the Dominion therefrom, we must thank a tariff which made it worth while for those who hoped to sell us goods to come to this side of the line to manufacture. Had that tariff not been a protective one, those United States manufacturers would probably have enlarged their home factories to take care of Canadian business instead of building on this side, in which case we would now be using goods made from United States material with United States labor, instead of goods made from Canadian material with Canadian labor.

That our neighbors look upon this movement as a distinct loss to be remedied by Reciprocity with Canada is shown in the following extract from a speech recently delivered by Senator Beveridge, of Indiana:—

"There must be reciprocity with Canada. Our tariff with the rest of the world does not apply to our northern neighbor. That policy already has driven American manufacturers across the Canadian borders, built vast plants with American capital on Canadian soil, employing Canadian workingmen to supply trade. That capital should be kept at home to employ American workingmen to supply Canadian demand. We should admit Canadian wood pulp and Canadian paper free in return for Canada's admitting our agricultural implements, our engines, pumps, and other machinery free. We should freely admit Canadian lumber to American planing mills in return for Canada's freely admitting other American manufactured products to Canadian markets."

In this connection it is worthy of mention that certain wealthy United States concerns that recently acquired sites in Canada with a view to the immediate erection of extensive shops have suspended operations pending the outcome of the present negotiations, presumably in hopes that our tariff on the goods they manufacture will be so reduced as to make such a move on their part unnecessary.

FARM WAGES

Higher in Canada than in Other Agricultural Countries

The average wages paid on the farms of the following countries over periods as nearly co-incident as possible are as follows:—

Canada	$24.60	a week.
United States	24.00	"
Argentina	18.40	"
Russia	12.60	"
Hungary	12.33	"
Roumania	12.33	"
Bulgaria and Servia	12.33	"
Sweden	10.00	"
Denmark	10.04	"

All these figures are naturally approximate, but for the purposes of nearly accurate as necessary. Wages vary from month to month. In harvest time they are higher than in springtime and in springtime they are much higher than in winter. Moreover, a difference is made where the farmers include board in the contract. But generally speaking the above table indicates the difference between the cost of labor to the Canadian farmer and what it costs his competitors in the other great agricultural countries of the world.

ANNUAL CHEMONG REGATTA SCORED ITS BIGGEST SUCCESS

Large Attendance and Keen Competition in Events—The Prize Winners.

"The best yet," was the verdict rendered at the conclusion of yesterday's big regatta at Chemong Park, and it was undoubtedly a popular one. The prettily decorated yacht club house packed to the limit with interested spectators, surrounded by the high bank, seating those who could not gain admission to the club's verandahs, made a very fine background to the scene of yesterday's activities. Two excursion boats, one from Stony Lake and the other from Sturgeon Point, as well as the usual contribution from the city, helped to make possibly the largest regatta crowd in the history of Chemong Park. At two o'clock, the lake swept by a breeze which could not have satisfied better had it been made to order, was dotted with craft of all kinds. A capable committee handled the various events in good order, and this task was made easier than usual by the spectators, who kept well off the course, and by the entrants, who showed without exception a sportsmanlike spirit and a desire to win. The feature event was the dinghy race for the Kawartha Challenge Cup, won by Mr. Jack Hopwood, who was accompanied by Mr. Harry Cressman. A field of five contested this event, second place going to Vincent Eastwood, jr., a fifteen year old mariner.

The canoe sailing race went to Harold Matthews, with Bob Langford a close second. The duck race and greasy pole manoeuvreing were alone well worth the time and money expended. The former event, patented by Mr. Cyril Hill, is one that will no doubt be introduced at all the regattas next season. At any rate it will be a fixture at all future events of this kind at the Park. A live duck was liberated some distance from the shore, and it was immediately pursued by a band of eager swimmers. It was finally captured by Mr. Edwin Hooten, who took for his pains both the duck and the prize going with the event. The greasy pole walking stunt had a classy field of entries, who convulsed the crowd with their ludicrous attempts to bring home the bacon. After several of the youthful aspirants had taken the water, Master Orme Cavanagh, the young brother of Peterborough's old defence man, took a long slide and grabbed the flag. There was little fouling (except in the duck race) and only one or two upsets took place during the afternoon. The winners were as follows:

Canoe Sailing—1 H. Matthews, 2 R. Langford.

Open Sailing—1 J. Eakins, 2 J. Hopwood.

Dinghy race (Kawartha Cup)—1 J. Hopwood, 2 V. Eastwood.

Boy's Single Canoe—1 O. Cavanah, 2 Cavanah, 2 V. Eastwood.

Ladies' Single Canoe—1 Miss Knowlson, 2 Miss Flavelle.

Ladies' Single Skiff—1 Miss Knapman, 2 Miss C. Ray.

Men's Single Canoe—1 A. Nicholls, 2 J. Conway.

Men's Single Skiff—1 J. C. Acton, 2 D. Provost.

Mixed Tandem Canoe—1 Miss Knowlson and Mr. Wallace, 2 Mr. and Mrs. Ray.

Ladies' Swimming Handicap—1 Miss Jean Eastwood, 2 Miss Marjory Ball.

Boy's swimming—1 Ed. Hodson, 2 O. Cavanah.

Crab Race—1 H. Hill, 2 H. Warner.

Gunwale Race—1 H. Warner, 2 H. H. Wallace.

Duck race—1 Edwin Hooten.

Men's Tandem Canoe—1 Warner Bros., 2 Flavelle and Wallace.

Ladies' Tandem Canoe — 1 Misses Knowlson and Flavelle, 2 Misses Dean and Cummings.

Men's Single Canoe (open)—1 Harold Hill, 2 J. Conway.

Motor Boat (open)—1 G. C. Boyd, 2 Mr. Hopkins.

Motor Boat (handicap)—1 Goodwin, 2 G. C. Boyd.

Walking Greasy Pole—Orme Cavanah.

In the evening a dance was held in the pavilion and a large crowd patronized the affair. The 57th band led by Mr. Giddon, supplied music for the dance and also during the afternoon in the park.

The committee desires to thank the cottagers and merchants of the city and the village of Bridgenorth, whose generosity and co-operation made this splendid regatta possible.

HIGH COURT BUSINESS

Next Meeting Will be Held in London

Presentation of Union Jack to the New H. C. R.

At the A.O.F. High Court session yesterday Bro. W. J. Vale, P.H.C.R., withdrew his resignation as chairman of the committee, and the following members were elected: W. J. Vale, Toronto; W. Douglas, Owen Sound; J. Hoggarth, Hamilton; W. Richards, London; H. Chick, Toronto.

London, Ont., was selected as the next place of meeting by a large majority over Brantford and Toronto.

During the counting of ballots, the discussion of the committee's report on State of the Order, was resumed, the High Chief Ranger speaking on the advisability of appointing inspectors to examine court books, where and whenever necessary. The suggestion carried.

The recommendation of the Finance committee that the management try to raise to meet the necessary expenses of the organization department was carried.

Mrs. Rockwood, High Chief Companion, Companions of the Forest visited the High Court, and was introduced by S.H.C.R. elect Woodstock, and met with a most cordial reception. In well chosen phrases she extended the hearty greetings of the C. O.F. and bespoke for it the assistance (not financial) encouragement of the A.O.F. At the conclusion of her remarks she presented Supt. of organization, F. G. Batt, with a badge of honor, in recognition of the services that he had rendered thereunder.

At the opening of the afternoon session, Chief of Police Thompson, and Chief of the Fire Brigade Howard paid the High Court a visit and on behalf of the city officials presented High Chief Ranger elect Ramsay with a beautiful silk Union Jack. In a very pretty speech, Bro. Howard (both chiefs are members of the order) stated that the presentation was made in order to remove any wrong impressions as to the loyalty of the city of Peterborough, whose residents, he assured them, were thoroughly British and loyal.

The H.C.R. elect in accepting the beautiful flag, expressed his sincere pleasure in doing so, and in return presented both gentlemen with the Honor Badge of the Order.

Bro. Williams S. Seely was granted a well deserved three months leave of absence amid enthusiastic cheering of the delegates. The appointment of District Chief Rangers resulted as follows—

District, No. 1—W. Fairy, Halifax, N.S.

No. 2—No recommendation.

No. 3—McDowal, Ottawa.

No. 4—Sears, Ottawa.

No. 5—Milne, Trenton.

No. 6—Hyland, King.

No. 7—A. N. Wickett, Toronto.

No. 8—Geo. Batt, Toronto.

No. 9—W. E. Monk, Hamilton.

No. 10—G. W. Masterson, Brantford.

No. 11—Kenwood, Guelph.

No. 12—H. S. Millar, Severn Bridge.

No. 13—N. D. Little, Owen Sound.

No. 14—A. J. Cutmore, Clinton.

No. 15—F. L. Lancaster, St. Marys.

No. 16—Whitton, London.

No. 17—A. S. Nederland, Simcoe.

No. 18—Geo. Leach, Sarnia.

No. 19—A. Moses, Walkerville.

No. 20—F. Antulus, Port Arthur.

No. 21—S. Halliday, Winnipeg.

No. 22—Greenwood, Portage la Prairie.

No. 23—R. Barlow, Moose Jaw.

No. 24—G. Dupan, Lethbridge.

No. 25—G. Armitage, Calgary.

The recommendation of the Finance Committee that $101.00 be paid to the organization of each new court in the North West, subject to the approval of the executive council was adopted.

The recommendation to abolish the Laws and Judiciary Committee was defeated after considerable debate.

The report of the Laws and Judiciary Committee is now under consideration.

A quiet wedding was solemnized Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Brooks, Sherbrooke street, when Miss Lottie Brooks was united in holy wedlock to Mr. Harry Campbell, by Rev. G. W. Henderson, before only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties.

Miss Ola Tompkins, of Lindsay, attended the bride, and the groom was assisted by Mr. George Stenson, Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will reside in the city.

WHO'S COMING AND GOING

Dr. and Mrs. Buchanan have returned from New York.

Miss Moore of Rochester is visiting Mrs. Amos Jones of 115 Hilliard st.

Miss Catharine Morris of Vancouver B.C., is visiting friends in the city for a few days.

Mr. George Pratt, engineer on the G.T.R. flyer, who has been on a trip to the Western provinces has returned.

Misses Frieda and Ada Graham and Miss Mildred Mick were the guests of the girls of the Wee-A-Kan camp on Thursday.

Rev. J. C. Davidson was the guest of Lt. Col. Ponton, Belleville. He took part in a civic reception given to the delegates of the British Press, now touring through Canada.

CANOEISTS HAD TO SWIM ASHORE

Steamer "Manita" Runs Down Young Men in Canoe

A double drowning was narrowly averted in the Otonabee, Wednesday afternoon, when the steamer "Manita" ran down two canoeists, Mr. Bruce Patterson, the Charlotte street barber, and his cousin, Mr. Herbert Patterson of Rochester, N. Y., cutting the canoe in two parts and precipitating the occupants into the water, compelling them to swim to the shore.

Elijah White and Herb Allen, who were on the "Manita" at the time, went out in their canoe and rescued the paddles and furnishings.

The Pattersons were coming from Rice Lake on the "Manita" and disembarked at the Street Railway wharf, taking their canoe off at the same place. They started to paddle to Mr. Rye's boat house when the steamer ran them down.

There was great danger of their being swept underneath the large boat but fortunately they were strong swimmers and were soon ashore.

A hurricane has swept the lake districts in Italy, destroying many villages. Forty persons are reported drowned.

LAKEFIELD POWER PROJECT IS NOT FAVORED BY COMMITTEE

Council Refuses Recommendation to Drop the Option—Adam Beck to be Interviewed, or Invited Here.

The report of Messrs. Ross and Holgate on the Dickson Company power proposition at Lakefield, to the city, reached the council last night as did also, a report on it, by the Hydro-Electric Commission, following the recommendation of council.

The Power Committee had met earlier in the evening and its report recommended that in view of the cost of er delivered in Peterborough from Lakefield as shown by the report we cannot recommend that the option given by the Dickson company be taken up.

Also that this committee be authorized to continue negotiations with the Dickson Company to ascertain whether the property can be procured at a price at which the city can safely purchase it, and also to take such other steps as the committee deems advisable towards securing power for the city.

This report read by Ald. Bradburn, was not carried.

After the reading of the report and a discussion it was moved by Ald. Morgan and Edgar, that Hon. Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission, be asked by Ald. Bradburn to come to Peterborough to confer with the city council on power for power for the city, and if unable to do this, to meet the council in Toronto

Mayor Morrow held the opinion that the report of the commission on that of Messrs Ross and Holgate included information secured by its own engineers, but members of the council did not look at the report in that light, believing that it was only on the work of Ross and Holgate.

Ald. Buller asked what had been done by the power committee on other power propositions held in view by the city.

The people should know through the press what was what, he held.

Ald Buller and Ald. Duncan also wanted to know about the payment by the city for the services of the engineer in making the report.

Ald Buller said he understood the engineer took only about half an hour to go over the property.

Mayor Morrow showed some hesitation in replying to Ald. Buller's query as to what was being done by the power committee in regard to other power propositions, the newspaper reporters being present and the scribes feeling that nothing was to be gained by remaining, quietly withdrew, while several of the aldermen were busy framing up a motion to ask them to do so.

Got Great Reception at Campbellford

Opera House Meeting Turned Into Open Air

Campbellford, Aug. 26.—The east riding of Northumberland County was well canvassed by R. L. Borden and his association yesterday, the Conservative leader making in all five speeches. Leaving Peterboro at an early hour, Mr. Borden arrived at Hastings and made two speeches before 10.30 o'clock. Motoring thence to Warkworth, Mr. Borden met 1,500 people on the fair grounds in the afternoon. To Campbellford he then proceeded and as the procession of motors approached the outskirts of the town, a band suddenly appeared and led the Conservative leader to the centre of the place, while the shrill whistles of every industry proclaimed his arrival.

Mr. Borden addressed himself particularly to the effect of reciprocity to the farmers and the home market. Cheese, which is a staple product of this section of the country would at once lose its identity, he said. The resulting competition with all nations affected by the favored nation treaties would place the Canadian market for beef at the mercy of Argentine. By reason of the low cost of ocean carriage the competition was vital and threatening. "The one avenue of escape, which is open to you people of Canada," said Mr. Borden, "will be the 21st day of September next, when you cast your ballot. The traditions of the past and the hopes of the future call upon you to be on your guard at this crisis in your nation's history."

At Warkworth, Mr. Borden replied to a statement that if elected the Conservatives would suspend the public works now going on in the riding.

"There is absolutely no truth in the assertion," Mr. Borden declared vehemently. While not parsimonious in public affairs the Conservative leader said that every dollar should be spent in the interest of the people and a dollar's value given in return. He made the statement that $10,000,000 of the people's money had been wasted by the Liberal Government every year in useless expenditures.

The evening meeting at Campbellford was something of a surprise. Accommodation for a limited number had been provided in the opera house, but the crowd swelled to such an extent that arrangements had to be made for an open air meeting. Willing hands made quick work of the change and in a few minutes 1,500 people had gathered around.

Government Bribe for Halifax.

Ottawa, Aug. 26.—The Nova Scotia Construction Co. has been given a contract by the Government for the building of a pier 800 feet long, containing sheds for the I.C.R. at Halifax, R. L. Borden's constituency. Hundreds will be employed and the contract figure is $914,600. Work begins immediately.

GOOD POSITIONS GET IN LINE

The Peterborough Business College is a worthy link in a chain of seven Business Colleges located in the cities of London, Peterborough, Welland and the towns of Orangeville, Walkerton, Wingham and Clinton. Owing to its high-grade work it is affiliated with the Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. It is freely admitted that owing to these connections, its students get the very best positions. Fall openings are on Aug. 28th, and Sept. 5th, but at this school each student is instructed privately at his or her own desk, students may enter any day. Many students study all at home and others partly at home and finish at the College. As Spotton Colleges are the largest trainers in Canada and have thirty years experience, it would be well for young people to get their training there. Last year Mr. Spotton trained over 1200 students and placed them in good positions. What he has done for thousands of others he can do for you. 12d

THE MAN IN THE MOON, MR. STRATTON, AND THE FARMERS' BANK

At last Mr. Stratton has reached the Farmer's Bank, in the course of his public speeches. It is better late than never, the old saw says, but it is occasionally better never at all. Let us see if it is the case here.

Mr. Stratton made a speech in Smith on Wednesday night. In order that his account, his explanation, his defence, or whatever he calls his statement, may be given fullest justice, and due publicity, we reproduce in full the Examiner's account of his remarks:

> "What have I to do with it?" asked Mr. Stratton. "I am president of a Company which, on the security of good honest farmers' notes, loaned a sum of money to the Farmers' Bank, which the Bank misapplied. I have less real connection with the Farmers' Bank difficulties than the man in the moon. The Judges have said that they didn't know a more unjust and disgraceful thing than the subpoena that was served on me. I went to Toronto, sat all day in court and neither I, or my lawyer, had a chance to open our mouths. At the conclusion of this solemn farce Colonel Denison said; "There seems to be absolutely nothing against you, Mr. Stratton," and the case was discharged.
>
> "Why," asked Mr. Stratton, warming up, "don't they bring back the real villain in the play—Dr. Beattie Nesbitt. You can't hide a man weighing 275 pounds, with a nose like the Doctor's, in a bandbox. Why don't they bring him back? Why, because he could tell where the money came from. I can assure you I don't know. If I had known anything you may be sure Whitney, and Hanna, and Gamey, and that bunch wouldn't have rested until it was brought out. My speech and the records of the Court show that I didn't know anything about it. When I left the Parliament buildings in Toronto I said to my successors: "The books are here, the papers are here, the men are here that have worked with me in my department. Do what you like." And they have never done anything. Why, I repeat, don't they bring Dr. Beattie Nesbitt back? He is the one man, outside themselves, who knows what they don't want to be told."

Does Mr. Stratton tell you that he has been indicted by the grand jury of the Toronto May assizes on the charge of criminally conspiring to obtain by deceit and fraud from the treasury board at Ottawa a certificate to enable the Farmers' Bank to do business?

No. But the fact is not unimportant.

Does Mr. Stratton tell you that the charge on which he was dismissed by Police Magistrate Denison had to do merely with the hypothecation of farmers' notes to the Trusts and Guarantee company, a banking transaction in itself not extraordinary as long as one did not know that it was being done for fraudulent purposes?

No. But the fact is not unimportant.

Does Mr. Stratton tell you that when the charge of conspiracy to obtain the Farmers' Bank certificate came before Chief Justice Meredith at the May assizes in Toronto, after the true bill had been brought in by the grand jury, he and R. R. Hall presented affidavits of which the Toronto Globe of the next day's issue says "The affidavits of Mr. Stratton and Mr. Hall urged that the present condition of the minds of the public would make a fair trial of these cases impossible"?

No. But this, of course, has no relation to the "solemn farce" he refers to. That was something entirely different.

Mr. Stratton says that he has less real connection with the Farmers' Bank difficulties than the man in the moon. But the man in the moon is not out on his own recognizance. He is not called to appear again in court in September, to face this charge that waits the probing. That awaits Mr. Stratton, in spite of the fact that he has the man in the moon beaten to a frazzle, as Roosevelt says, "for innocency in connection with the bank affairs."

It will be left for a jury, probably, to deal with the grand jury's indictment. If Mr Stratton has so little connection with the affair, it might be asked; Why did he make the affidavit that he could not get a fair trial? Surely so innocent a man would be honorably acquitted in ten or fifteen minutes! Then why postpone the trial for a fairer hearing?

Perhaps in some of his public speeches later on Mr. Stratton will explain some of these trifling and unimportant matters.

LAURIER SAYS THAT IT IS ALL NONSENSE—ANNEXATION

Premier Tries to Throw the Quebec People off Their Guard — Refers to Sifton and Joe Martin.

Farnham, Que., Aug. 26.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier addressed an audience of 5,000 persons in English here to-day in the interests of the local candidates.

Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, made an address of unusual power, calling Mr. Sifton a timorous coward for his fears that reciprocity would lead to annexation.

About 5,000 persons attended the meeting, and acclaimed the Premier loudly. That many Conservatives were present was evidenced by numerous mild attempts at heckling.

Mr. F. W. Kay, the Liberal standard-bearer in Missisquoi, and Mr. G. H. Boivin, candidate in Shefford, both young men, were well received.

Hon. Sydney Fisher made a strong plea for reciprocity. If Great Britain was Canada's best market, why, asked the Minister, has Canada exported seven times the value of horses and a hundred times the value of sheep to the United States above the value shipped to England? The comparative prices of hogs in Toronto and Chicago were $8.83 and $9.11 respectively, showing the better market to the south.

Sir Wilfrid received an ovation.

"I have my revenge in seeing Mr Bourassa flanked on one side by Mr Sifton, whom he detests, but to complete matters, flanked by Joe Martin on the other side. If there is a man he hates more than Sifton, it is Joe Martin," said the Premier in the course of his address.

"The cry of annexation is simply rant and nonsense," he said. "Look at this manifesto of the Toronto Board of Trade, putting people on their guard against reciprocity, stating that after a few years of reciprocity Canada would be too much involved to withdraw from it. It is as sensible for some wiseacres to say to a man going into business. Don't put your money in; conditions may change five years hence; look for another market."

Ottawa Meetings.

Ottawa, Aug. 26.—Arrangements were completed yesterday for the holding of the first large anti-reciprocity meeting in Ottawa. It takes place on Sept. 5 in the Russell Theatre, with Hon. Clifton Sifton as the chief speaker. Other meetings are also being arranged for, to be addressed by leading Ontario Conservatives. Word was also received yesterday that Sir Wilfrid Laurier would come to Ottawa for a meeting in the Arena late in the campaign, probably on Sept. 18. On the afternoon of that day he speaks in Russell for Hon. Charles Murphy.

Reciprocity With Indies.

London, Aug. 26. Algernon Aspinall, secretary of the West Indian Committee, proposes shortly visiting Canadian cities, with a view to furthering reciprocity with the West Indian Islands. It is hoped that after the elections, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association will summon a conference about this.

Catarrhal Bad Breath

Corrected Quickly by the Use of

Catarrhozone

Catarrh is an inflammation. Where there is inflammation there is always more or less offensive secretion. Inflammation may be of the very active sort, but it is often of the slow kind, and this is the particular form in which the breath is rendered offensive and the presence of the sufferer becomes an offence to every person of delicate sensibility.

Bad breath is in itself sufficient to urge you to correct it, because one dislikes to be unpleasant to their friends, but this form of catarrh is dangerous because it supplies a hotbed for the development of Consumption or of other diseases of the throat and lungs.

Bad breath is an evidence that the microbes have found a good resting place and are carrying on their evil inroads into the health of the body.

Catarrhozone acts at once and destroys these minute organisms, but it does more—it heals the inflamed surfaces in which they found a nesting place and consequently removes both cause and effects of their action.

If we only highly estimated the value of prevention and used Catarrhozone at the beginning of a cold or just before it becomes well seated, the deadly ravages of Consumption would be stayed and the terrible agonies of sufferers of Asthma or Bronchitis completely abolished.

There is no remedy as effective for bad breath, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, etc., as Catarrhozone. Besides being healing and soothing it is germ destroying. Nothing ever offered to the public can compare with it in its promptness, efficiency, and permanency of action, and you can buy it from any dealer in medicine throughout the Dominion of Canada, 25c, 50c, and $1.00 sizes. By mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

The Daily Review

SATURDAY, AUG. 26, 1911.

IS IT TO BE SURRENDER

It has been pointed out in the Canadian House of Commons by one of its most distinguished members that during the past six years Great Britain has bought from Canada nearly $300,000,000 worth of goods more than we bought from her. But at the same time we have bought from the United States nearly $600,000,000 worth of goods more than the United States bought from us. The markets of Great Britain are of far more value to Canada than the markets of the United States. Canada has spent nearly a billion of dollars on railways and canals to promote interprovincial and European trade. Is this enormous sum to be wasted in order that we may hand over our country and its resources to American exploitation, that American mills may grind our wheat and American lumbermen possess our forests and American politicians control our fiscal policy!

BLIND LEADERS

In his speech in introducing the Grand Trunk Pacific Bill in the House of Commons in July, 1903, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said "The best and most effective way to maintain friendship with our American neighbors is to be absolutely independent of them, and further he stated "Such a line, (The Grand Trunk Pacific) is a necessity to our commercial independence." A year or two later, when Sir Wilfrid appealed to the country, his cry was then, "Let Laurier finish his work" and he and Messrs. Fielding and Patterson declared on platform after platform that the total cost of the Grand Trunk Railway to this country would not exceed $30,000,000. When Mr. Borden claimed that these figures were absurd, these three old gentlemen declared in most impassioned speeches, that while Mr. Borden was undoubtedly a most honorable gentleman, who knew a great deal about law, he knew nothing about railroad construction. The people believed that Sir Wilfrid was right and that Mr. Borden was wrong and the Grand Trunk Pacific deal was made.

Have subsequent events shown that Sir Wilfrid, Mr. Fielding and Mr. Patterson were right or do they show that Mr. Borden did know what he was talking about? The Grand Trunk Pacific has cost this country about $200,000,000 and the end is not yet in sight. Do Sir Wilfrid, Mr. Fielding and Mr. Patterson know any more about the effect that the reciprocity will have upon the welfare of this country than they did about the cost of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway? Have they studied the one as carefully as they did the other and if so how are we to know whether they are not making the same horrible mistake about the effect of reciprocity as they did about the cost of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

Why should we believe their statements upon a question of this kind in preference to the carefully considered judgments of men like R. L. Borden, Sir Edmund Walker, Sir William Van Horne, Sir George W. Ross, Honorable Clifford Sifton, the Premiers of Ontario, of Manitoba and British Columbia and the thousand of manufacturers farmers, bankers and leading men of both parties throughout the length and breadth of this wide Dominion who do their own thinking? If the best and most effective way to maintain friendship with our American neighbors is to be absolutely independent of them and we have spent $200,000,000 already on the Grand Trunk Pacific alone together with $800,000,000 more on other railroads and canals in Canada in order to accomplish the same purpose, why should we now seek commercial union with our neighbors and undo all that has been already accomplished? Are we not happy and prosperous and contented?

In seeking reciprocity are we not according to Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself doing the very thing which will make us less independent and which will cause much more friction between ourselves and the American people?

VOTE FOR ANNEXATION

The Cincinnati Enquirer is one of the most influential newspapers in the United States. Politically it is independent. It has the distinction of commanding a price of five cents per copy wherever it is sold. On the subject of the Knox-Fielding pact the views of a newspaper so appreciated by a large circle of thoughtful readers across the line deserve the attention of Canadians. The leading article in its issue of Monday last begins and ends with words of encouragement for the Continentalists, whose ultimate object is the annexation of Canada to the United States. This is what the Enquirer says in the first two sentences of its article;—

"The political campaign in Canada is at last in full action, and, as was evident from the first, the principal argument against reciprocity used by its opponents is that it is the first step towards annexation of Canada by the United States. They are doing the utmost to array the voters against such a union, and if reciprocity wins at this election in despite of such an argument it can rightly be claimed that the sentiment of the Canadian electors is not adverse to the proposition."

The concluding sentence of the article is as follows;

"The people of the various countries are understanding each other so much better as they become closely connected by commercial and social ties that the union of Canada and the United States is not either an impossible nor improbable event of the future."

What The Americans Can Teach Us

By ARTHUR HAWKES.

Next to being born a Canadian, I rather think I would like to be born in the United States. It is a wonderful country. It carries a wonderful people. They are an example to us in many things; a warning in others. Wherever they are admirable they are often excessive—it is a natural defect of possessing immense productive territory, vast populations, and a rather short political past. They can teach us very very much that we ought to know. Take four of their splendid characteristics:

One. Their love of country.

Heavens! How they boast; how they wave their flag. They insist on carrying it,—flaunting it, if you like—in every foreign country; and they get touchy as a bear with a sore head if you show your flag on their soil. They believe in their country; in its institutions. The flag is the symbol of all their strength, ambition, glory. There is a reason.

Millions of people have come from all the ends of the earth to the United States. They know little or nothing of the liberty and opportunity of which the States are full. They come to better their conditions; to place their children where they can grow into prosperous citizens. The flag has been made the emblem of all their hopes. It flies from every schoolhouse. The sight of it engenders a flood of patriotism in the native-born and the alien-born.

The American can teach us here. Our flag has flown a thousand years. His is a product of the day before yesterday. We have a tremendous variety of alien blood and alien speech in our midst. We impress too little upon them the magnificence of the things the flag has stood for and stands for, and will stand for. We are apt to forget that in patriotism.

Those who come to us have to be born again. If ever there was a country in which patriotism should burn with a vehement flame, it is Canada. Look to it.

Two. Their willingness to adapt themselves to changed circumstances.

Tradition is splendid, within limits. "As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be" is not an infallible political principle, for this is a progressive world.

There is danger, too, of falling into the habit of the fellow who said, "These are my sentiments; if you don't like 'em I'll change 'em." The wise man often changes his mind, the fool never; but the wise man does not change merely to suit somebody else.

The American is pre-eminent in the world for his readiness to change his method of regarding questions of trade and of politics. He thought he could freeze Canada to himself by a high tariff. It didn't work, so he tries Reciprocity—which we asked for long, long ago.

If we go back to it we show that we don't adapt ourselves to changing conditions. We have outgrown our notions of commercial dependence on the American. We must not be cajoled into going back forty years for our ideas. Sir Wilfrid Laurier leaps backwards over 1907, 1903, 1901 and 1897—years in which he emphatically repudiated reciprocity. He is like a venerable man who goes out to meet an old sweetheart and expects to find her young and blooming as she was forty years ago.

Three. Their unbounded faith in the future.

Sir Wilfrid has had his spells of this splendid quality. He once said, "The Twentieth Century belongs to Canada." In conformity with this he said, "The best and most effective way to maintain friendship with our American neighbors is to be absolutely independent of them." Last winter President Taft said, "Canada is at the parting of the ways." Canada is expected to make reply, "Thy way, not mine, O Taft."

On the reciprocity question Sir Wilfrid spoke again, only four years ago he declared to the Imperial Conference, "There was a time when we wanted Reciprocity with the United States . . . . We have said good-bye to that trade and we now put all our hopes upon the British trade."

The future was to be as the past had been—a development of commerce, of social and national sentiment, east and west, and not predominantly north and south. We expressed our confidence in the future. Nothing was to draw us into the seductive embraces of the United States. We began a new transcontinental railway that will cost three times as much as was intended as a proof of our distinctiveness from the big neighbor. And then we began to play his game. From turning our back upon him we began to turn our back upon ourselves. When you become afraid of your Future, good-bye to your Future.

Four. Their determination to Hoe their own Row.

I never heard of a man who chose hoeing as a holiday occupation. I never liked it when I was on the farm. But you can't have a garden without plentiful use of this familiar companion of the backache. It's the hoe that puts potatoes and beets, carrots and beans and all the vegetable luxuries on the table.

What was the hoe in the national development of the United States?

It was protection of young industries. The United States decided to make the most of their own resources by helping industrial expansion with a tariff. They became the greatest manufacturing country in the world. They have done it by hoeing their own row.

Canada took a leaf out of their book. She could not have had her big industrial cities any other way. Her home market would have been a negligible quantity if she had been content to be merely a getter of raw material for somebody else.

The Americans want her raw material. Let her learn of them and make the most of her own raw material. It will be wise learning.

CHAPTER XII., Continued.

Being in total darkness myself, I made no attempt to enlighten her as I carefully examined the place. Outside of the scanty supply of coal that remained from last winter's supply, the basement contained little save an accumulation of odds and ends and an old chest of mine that contained articles that I had stored away years before. However, I still retained the key to it, and I now opened it and made a careful inspection of its interior. So far as I could discover by a minute scrutiny the articles within it had remained untouched since I had last placed them there, and satisfied on that point, I shut and locked it again without having as yet received the faintest ray of light to assist my search. I must have spent at least half an hour in my examination of the place, and my questions of the housekeeper, but at the end of that time, was compelled to give up with absolutely nothing learned that I had not known to start with. Another thing that perplexed me somewhat was as to whether or not I should inform my uncle of this new crime. I did not see that anything would be gained by telling him, while it would most certainly agitate him and lead to further outbursts; therefore I decided to leave him in ignorance of it, and requested Mrs. Tebbetts to do the same. I also decided to see LeDuc and get his opinion on the matter, and repairing the outraged doors as best I could with hammer, boards and nails, and soothing the housekeeper by my assurances that the incident was a triviality to which she need pay no further attention, I went upstairs and sat down to my breakfast with Uncle Abner as usual. But an hour later when I had reached my office I telephoned the detective with the request that he meet me at the noon hour. He readily assented, and I then went about my daily work.

He met me at luncheon, and I explained the matter to him without prelude. He looked serious minded as I finished. "What do you think of it?" I asked. In his abstraction he delayed his reply for perhaps 30 seconds.

"It seems peculiar. But I am more inclined to consider it as a separate and distinct offence rather than as an aftermath of the original happening. Further than that I don't believe I have any theory to advance as yet. However, it may all come out in the final solution, provided there is one, and in the meantime I would dismiss it from my mind if I were you. If you find that difficult, you may look upon it in this light. If I remember, we had a sharp shower last night—the thunder awoke me. It is not unreasonable to assume that some back-yards prowler, caught in the storm, may have forced his way in merely to secure a dry nest in which to sleep." While I did not take much stock in that explanation, and so informed him, I added, that being in a receptive mood, I would file it in my mind for future reference, and then began interrogating him as to his own movements since we had last foregathered. But when it came to that he had little to say, and at first seemed disinclined to part with even that. Later on, as we ate, however, he became a trifle more communicative. Under the warming influence of tobacco and coffee he began to make more satisfactory replies to my quizzings, but if he had learned anything of importance he did not betray it. Since the day upon which he had taken an active interest in the case and I had heard his low whistle at the mention of Mackay's name, curiosity had filled my mind as to what his researches would be in that direction. I had gone to Mrs. Dace's with the mention of LeDuc's name that she might understand why I had repeated to him conversations which had occurred between herself and myself, that she might not feel that I had tattle-taled our private talks without explaining the reason to her. But though I had paved the way by which he might have had a confidential business chat with her, if he had availed himself of the opportunity, it had not come to my knowledge. That LeDuc might now have full information of what I had done, and feel at liberty to interview her should he desire, I now told him of my talk upon the subject with her; telling him that she had denied absolutely having repeated my half confidences to any one, and had seemed to be amused at the idea that Janet was anything more than an automaton. This information he received without comment, beyond the paradoxical remark that he could not remember that he had forgotten anything. "What else have you got to tell me?" I urged in finishing. He closed his lips so tightly around his cigar that it resembled a nail driven into a crack, and appeared to be filling himself to his toes with smoke as he reflected. Presently he expelled the smoke from his mouth, after the manner of a nursery dragon.

"I don't know whether I am acting wisely or not, but under your promise to divulge nothing you may learn from me without my consent, I am going to risk it. I know that you believe in your cousin Bruce's honesty."

"Implicitly."

"But do you happen to know that he has somehow or other managed to come into active control of enough money to resume his operations on 'Change on a rather liberal scale?" he queried with a thin smile. I was astonished, and told him so.

"Well, he has," he pursued, assertively. "Furthermore, he is carrying on his operations under some name which does not sound at all like his own. You look surprised. That's the way I felt when I first found this out."

I ruminated. "But certainly he would not be fool enough to openly and notoriously and under our very noses begin the use of money dishonestly obtained almost the day after the commission of a crime of which he knows he has not absolved himself of?" I cried. LeDuc looked at me queerly.

"That is what almost anyone would think under first impulse. But when you are dealing with criminals you must remember that they do not reason and act just as do honest men. When a sane man takes his life and liberty in his hand and commits a desperate crime, he is of necessity more or less regardless of consequences, as well as being driven by strong pressure. And in nearly all cases it is because of this recklessness that we catch him. He may commit the crime itself with a skill and caution that is almost more than human, yet the next day, is apt to go out and do something so foolish that it instantly attracts attention to him.

To be continued.

A Positive Cure For Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

A TERRIBLE RECORD OF CHILDREN'S DEATHS
As every mother knows the death rate of little ones in Canada during the hot summer months far exceeds that of any other season of the year. The reason for this is that the excessive heat brings on those dreaded troubles, cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery and other stomach and bowel complaints. These come on so quickly and with such little warning that often baby is beyond help before the mother realizes he is ill. During the hot summer months the mother must be continually on her guard to see that baby's bowels are working regularly and his little stomach is kept sweet and pure. Baby's Own Tablets should alwayd be kept in the home as they are the mother's greatest friend. A dose now and then will prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly they will be quickly banished by the Tablets. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SUFFERED FROM VIOLENT CATHARTICS
The Warning of Mr. Geo. C. Fox Is One That Should Be Heeded by All.
Few men on the road are better known than genial George Fox, whose friends throughout the West are legion. In the following letter he expresses gratitude for signal services rendered by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. He goes on to say: "Until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills and experienced their wonderful mildness and curative power, I estimated the value of every pill by its activity. Talking about this to a well-known physician I met on the train the other day, he explained there are different kinds of drugs that act upon the bowels, the most active being known as drastic. Except in extreme cases where the life of the patient depends upon speedy evacuation of the bowels, pills should never be drastic. Purgatives cause catarrh of the bowels and inflammation: their dose must be increased, causing even more harm. With such a clear explanation I could see why Dr. Hamilton's Pills are curative and not irritating, why they are mild, yet most searching.
"From my experience I recommend everyone that takes pills to give up the old-fashioned harsh, purging pill, and, instead, to use Dr. Hamilton's. They cure headache, biliousness, constipation, bad stomach, and keep the system in perfect condition."

CONDITION OF THE CROPS

Bulletin for Ontario Shows Fairly Good Conditions

The following statement regarding the condition of crops in the province, based upon returns of correspondents under date of August 5th, has been issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

FALL WHEAT.

According to the May bulletin this crop suffered more or less from winter-killing in many counties, and a considerable area of fall wheat land had to be plowed up or was resown with spring grains. Returns just to hand show a wide variation both in yild an uqality rdeeported, ranging from poor to good; but the average yield per acre will be decidedly less than usual. The excessive heat and drouth that prevailed at times in May and June caused the crop to be shorter in stand than usual, and some of the grain is described as having been shrunken by premature riepning. On the other hand some correspondents speak of the kernel being plump and a good sample, and claim that fall wheat is the best grain crop of the year. The straw, while short, is generally clean and bright. Smut was reported by only a few correspondents, but occasional mention was made of the presence of Hessian fly in every county west of York and Simcoe (inclusive,) except Grey, Bruce, Huron and Essex. Harvesting was earlier than usual, ranging from the 3rd to the 22nd of July, and weather conditions then were on the whole very favorable.

SPRING WHEAT

This crop like all the grains suffered from the drouth and unusual heat of the season. Although short in straw, heads have filled up well, and the grain is said to be of good quality generally. While some spring wheat was harvested in the last week in July, much of the crop remained to be cut when correspondents reported. There is less spring wheat grown in Ontario than formerly.

BARLEY

This crop will also be below the average in yield. The straw is described as being short but clean. While the grain will be rather lighter in weight than usual owing to the great heat and drouth, no complaints of discoloration have been received. Cutting ranged from the 10th to the 28th of July.

OATS

Oats have fared the worst of the grain crops, although some good yields are reported. Owing to the drouth and excessive heat during growth the straw is very short, although standing up nicely, but the heads are not well filled nor is the bulk of the grain as plump as usual. In several sections of the Province a heavy wind storm threshed out some of the ripening oats. Complaints of rust have come from different districts. While some are through harvesting oats, others have not yet begun cutting.

RYE

Where grow for grain this crop has been of fair yield and quality, although short in straw.

PEAS

The unusually high temperature prevailing at different periods of the growing season told severely upon peas, reports of the blossoms drying up owing to the heat and drouth. Some correspondents say a portion of the crop had to be cut for green feed owing to poor podding, although some good yields have also been reported. Only occasional mention was made of the presence of the weevil. While some of the crop is yet green and growing, a considerable portion has been harvested.

BEANS

There has been too much heat and too little rain for beans in the first stage of growth, but some correspondents are of the opinion that there is ample opportunity for the crop to pick up before it is ready for harvesting in the early part of September.

HAY AND CLOVER

Clover did not winter well, and in many quarters the excessive heat and drouth of May and June added to that drawback. However, while in the western half of the province the hay crop will average low. Good yields are reported in many of the counties in the eastern portion. The crop was well saved, generally speaking, and where not delayed too long in cutting is of first class quality. Red clover did not do so well as timothy. The crop has been remarkably free of insect pests this season. Cutting extended from the 20th of June to the end of July.

CORN.

Late planting, owing to drouth of May, was the greatest drawback to the corn crop. Once the young plants got a start, the heat, that was so trying to the cereal crops by unduly hastening ripening, rather stifled growth, except in a few instances where the drouth was almost too much even for corn. Recent rains will bring the crop forward with a leap, and a good yield is anticipated. Corn is steadily growing in favor as a fodder crop.

TOBACCO.

The ground was exceedingly dry at planting, and the crop did not get a good start, while the ensuing hot and dry weather was trying to growth. In some fields grubs also attacked the young plants, necessitating considerable resowing. Notwithstanding these drawbacks the present condition of the crop is described as being from fair to good, while the expected yield ranges from half a crop to a ton of dry leaf per acre.

POTATOES.

A light yield of small potatoes will be the general rule, as the season has been too dry and hot for best results. Early planted suffered most, and some correspondents claim that timely rains may yet redeem those later grown. The Colorado beetle has been more complained of than for years. Blight was reported in two or three places in some of the eastern counties, but no mention has been made of rot.

ROOTS.

All classes of roots experienced a poor start, on account of the drouth delaying or preventing the seed from germinating. Early sown turnips look better than those put in later, but the crop generally is reported to be doing poorly. Mangels are more promising, and with favorable growing weather may yet make a good show. Sugar beets are described as looking thrifty.

FRUIT.

Some correspondents claim that the unusually hot weather at time of blossoming affected the setting of fruit. Apples will be light in total yield, as in addition to poor setting a considerable portion of this and other fruits was blown off the trees by high winds late in July. Winter apples will be scarce in nearly every locality, but in most quarters there will be a fair supply of Duchess and other varieties. All classes of apples are much freer from spot or scab than usual. Pears, while greatly thinned by the wind storms, are yielding better relatively than apples. Plums range all the way from poor to heavy in yield, and have done best where sprayed. There will be a medium yield of peaches; the later varieties give the best promise. Cherries as a rule did well, although some complain of poor returns. Grapes so far have every prospect of success. Small fruits promised well early in the season, but failed to fulfil expectations owing to the intense heat prevailing just before ripening period.

BEAUTIFUL EYES
are made beautiful by long, silky lashes, and well defined, lustrous brows. Eyes, like diamonds, depend on their setting. The beauties of the face are lost if the eye brows are thin and scanty; and the lashes are short and lifeless. Parisian Lash Lustre grows beautiful, soft, silky lashes. It has done so for society women throughout Europe, and it comes here well recommended to do the same for you. Parisian Lash Lustre is not a dye or colorator, but a scientific preparation for beautifying the eye lashes and brows. Our guarantee goes with every box of Parisian Lash Lustre. A two weeks' treatment will bring beauty to your eyes that you have never before possessed. By mail, prepaid, in opal boxes, on receipt of price, fifty cents. B. V. Well Known Merchant Of Sarnia Cured by "Fruit-a-tives"
SARNIA, ONT., Feb. 5th, 1910.
"I have been a sufferer for the past 25 years with Constipation, Indigestion and Catarrh of The Stomach. I tried many remedies and many doctors but derived no benefit whatever.
Finally I read an advertisement of "Fruit-a-tives". I decided to give "Fruit-a-tives" a trial and found they did exactly what was claimed for them.
I have now taken "Fruit-a-tives" for some months and find that they are the only remedy that does me good.
I have recommended "Fruit-a-tives" to a great many of my friends and I cannot praise these fruit tablets too highly" PAUL J. JONES

Thousands now use "Fruit-a-tives. Thousands more will try Fruit-a-tives" after reading the above letter. It proves, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that at last there is a cure for Constipation and Stomach Troubles.
"Fruit-a-tives" is Nature's cure for these diseases, being made of fruit juices and valuable tonics

"BARGAIN" GLASSES ARE DANGEROUS GLASSES

This Editorial in the Ladie's Home Journal gives timely warning against these "Eye Destroyers" advertised as "Exceptional Values."

A woman who was hunting "bargain glasses" finally succeeded in "fitting" her eyes with what she enthusiastically declares was "just the thing." And immensely pleased with herself, this woman had brought about the gravest danger a woman could invest in, for she had bought two pieces of glass crudely ground, but magnifying strongly, and with them she can see 'better to read'—That seeing better will mean an intense strain upon the her eyes, but she will not realize what the trouble is, nor the injury the glasses are doing. Some day she will be under the care of a Specialist, probably for the removal of a cataract, which will cost considerable, to say nothing of the suffering entailed, and she will be fortunate indeed if she does not suffer partial or entire loss of sight for the remainder of her life.

We have every qualification for giving your eyes a thorough examination. We fit you with the finest ground lenses, and at a very reasonable cost. Thousands of our clients can certify to the care, skill and thoroughness of the examination, and the good results they had in wearing the glasses we prescribed. ALL WORK GUARANTEED.

SEWER WORK IN SOUTH END

Mr. Ed. Wade Gets $5 per Day as Superintendent

New Pump and Material Purchased by City

The action of the chairman of the Board of Works, Ald. Metheral, in appointing Mr. Ed. Wade to superintend the construction work of the south end sewer, Messrs. Conroy and Bogue having failed to give notice as to their intentions, either way as was expected as a result of the last meeting of the Council, was confirmed by that body last night. Mr. Wade is to be paid $5 per day.

Ald. Metheral informed the meeting that certain material and machinery, i.e. being a pump and steel sheeting, would be necessary and he was authorized along with the City Engineer to purchase such. The City Treasurer will pay wages and accounts, certified to by the Board of Works, Chairman and Engineer, all of which will be kept separate so as to insure the city against possible loss, when settling with Contractor Conroy.

Mr. Wade is now on the job and is confident of completing the work satisfactorily. The pump and fittings will cost in the neighborhood of $80.

MR. BURNHAM CONTINUES HIS SUCCESSFUL CAMPAIGN IN NORTH MONAGHAN

Conservative Candidate is Heard by a Full House and Makes Good Progress—Mr. R. J. Souen Also Well Received.

May's schoolhouse in North Monaghan was filled with an enthusiastic audience last night, Mr. J. H. Burnham, the Conservative candidate, holding a most successful meeting.

Mr. Burnham was accompanied by Mr. R. J. Soden, who gave a splendid address, being cheered repeatedly as he brought out his telling arguments.

During the evening Mr. Burnham was presented with a bouquet by little Miss Winnie Cooper, daughter of Mr. Frederick Cooper, and he responded by kissing the pretty donor.

Mr. Burnham said:—

That no one listening to Mr. Borden Thursday night could fail to be impressed with the failure of the Laurier government to grasp the full meaning of what they were doing. Had the government consulted people, experts, farmers or anybody out the cabinet they would have surely been able to learn something to their advantage. It is a mystery that cannot be explained on any reasonable ground, and now when Laurier was forced to go to the country he can't explain. The pact is just a mass of inconsistencies and absurdities. How can Canada compete with the U.S. in the U.S. market when the U.S. has an enormous surplus itself of food products? Some slight show of argument is put up with reference to barley, but what is the truth about barley? The government returns for 1910 and 1911 show that there were actually imported into Peterborough itself hundreds of thousands of bushels of barley in those years. Was that because Canada is a poorer market for U.S. barley than the U.S.? Take wheat. Taft says in his famous letter that the price of wheat and other cereals is fixed at Liverpool. And we shall lose the by-products as food for cattle, into the bargain! Are you prepared also to place Canada in the fiscal control of the U.S.? And of her great trusts? The only good thing about the pact, and it is frequently urged by Liberal speakers in defence of it, is that it can be possibly readily terminated. It should never have been begun. Canada has outgrown any benefit that reciprocity could ever have had for her. We must keep cultivating our trade with our best customer outside of the home market viz. Great Britain. But why do not the Liberals tell the whole truth about reciprocity? If it is to benefit the consumer how is it to be done? Let us hear more about that. Mr. Burnham also read extracts from President Taft's speeches showing how the U.S. were to reap the benefit all along the line, and Canada little or nothing. What defence could be made of the Laurier attempt to hand over our pulpwood to the U.S.? It was astounding that such a thing could be thought of for one moment. Hon. Mr. Graham, who will be here next Thursday, asks, "Who ever heard of taking the tax off food raising the price of it?" That also is your answer. Who ever heard of reciprocity pact like that in question raising the price of food products. Don't go past that question and that answer, Mr. Graham smashes the pact to pieces by that one blow. The same reasoning demolishes the wider market story. If the U.S. and Canada, both with a surplus, raise more than at present the price must go down must it not? This if not good for the farmer, and would appear to be good for the consumer, but where has the wage-earning consumer disappeared to meanwhile? He has been swamped by American competition and dumping and will be found most likely tramping the pike in a vain search for work, or else going to U.S. where they will have increased the number of their factories to apply the defunct Canadian home market.

The meeting was brought to a close with cheers.

TRIUMPHANT MARCH OF CONSERVATIVE LEADER

Great Crowds Hear Him at Hastings, Warkworth and Campbellford.

Mr. James Kendry and Mr. Harry Phelan, returned this morning from Campbellford, they having accompanied Mr. R. L. Borden from this city and both gentlemen speaking the most enthusiastic terms of the reception given to the Conservative leader, at Hastings, Warkworth and Campbellford.

Mr. Borden spoke to a great throng at Hastings yesterday morning from the verandah of his hotel and a procession of autos escorted him to Warkworth, where a band met him in the afternoon to another large gathering where he put forward figures and facts, in manner which brought responses from his audience full of significance.

A big demonstration awaited Mr. Borden at Campbellford, where a band and large crowds of people met him. Factory whistles blew and the leaders reception was a most hearty one. The splendid hearing he received at night, he will no doubt long remember. People packed into the Opera House, but it was totally inadequate to accomodate the large gathering. The meeting had to be turned into an open air one, and Mr. Borden gave his address from the steps of the building. The condition of his voice was greatly improved.

Mr. Kendry was also heard in a rousing address.

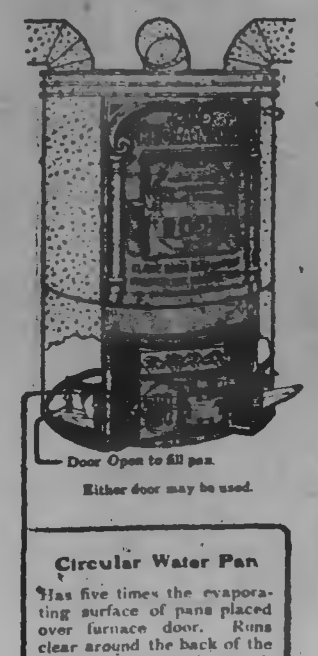
Moist Heat is the Natural Heat

YOUR HOUSE WILL "FEEL" WARMER AT 65° WITH MOIST AIR THAN AT 70° WITH DRY



Door Open to fill pan.
Either door may be used.

Adding moisture to the air in your home will give you the same heat for less fuel.

A consideration, no doubt.

But that is not all.

Warm dry air, however pure, is not healthful. The human body demands more moisture than is carried in the winter air.

The "Hecla" supplies this moisture in plenty. A large circular pan of water is placed where it will be easy to fill and where it will not be overlooked.

Circular Water Pan

Has five times the evaporating surface of pans placed over furnace door. Runs clear around the back of the furnace. Will hold enough water to last 24 hours. May be filled at either door, as shown above.

"Hecla" Furnace

SAVES ONE TON OF COAL IN SEVEN.

By actual test the "Hecla" saves one ton of coal in seven. That is, it is so constructed as to give the same heat for six tons of coal as you ever got from seven.

Do you want to know more about this furnace?

No Gas or Dust.

And it is just as important to keep the air free from coal gas and dust.

In the "Hecla" every place where experience has shown that gas might otherwise find an outlet, has been fused absolutely tight by our patented process. The same fused joints keep out the dust and smoke.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Peoria, Ill.—"I wish to let every one know what Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies have done for me. For two years I suffered. The doctors said I had tumors, and the only remedy was the surgeon's knife. My mother bought me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am a healthy woman. For months I suffered from inflammation, and your Sanative Wash relieved me. Your Liver Pills have no equal as a cathartic. Any one wishing proof of what your medicines have done for me can get it from any druggist or by writing to me. You can use my testimonial in any way you wish, and I will be glad to answer letters."—Mrs. CHRISTINA REED, 105 Mound St., Peoria, Ill.

Another Operation Avoided.

New Orleans, La.—"For years I suffered from severe female troubles. Finally I was confined to my bed and the doctor said an operation was necessary. I gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial first, and was saved from an operation."—Mrs. LILY PETROUX, 1111 Kerlerec St., New Orleans, La.

The great volume of unsolicited testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a remarkable remedy for those distressing feminine ills from which so many women suffer.

HIGH COURT CONCLUDED

Officers and Delegates Courtesies Extended to Them

At the concluding session of the High Court, A.F., held yesterday at the Collegiate Institute, the discussion on the Laws and Judiciary report was resumed and eventually passed, with but few alterations. A motion to instruct the executive committee to make a suitable presentation to Bro. Wale P.C.H.R. for his twenty-five years of service as chairman of the Laws and Judiciary committee was passed.

A hearty vote of thanks to Mayor Morrow, the Council and the citizens of Peterboro for the many courtesies extended to the delegates was passed, also a vote of thanks to the School Board for the use of the lecture room of the Collegiate.

The thanks of the High Court were tendered to Bro. F. G. Futt superintendent of organization, for his strenuous efforts to advance the interests of the Order.

It was decided that a report of the committee appointed in regard to the Old Age Pension Fund, be submitted to subordinate courts not later than May 15, 1913. It was decided that in future the reports of the various district High Chief Rangers, must be in the hands of the permanent secretary before July 15, preceding the date of the High Court meeting and that it be printed and placed in the hands of the delegates with other reports.

The High Court officers elect were installed by Bro. W. J. Vale, H.C.R. after which High Court closed with the usual ceremonies.

The officers and delegates, of the High Court, desire to express to the mayor and citizens of Peterboro, their sincere appreciation of the many courtesies extended to them and also for the kindness and consideration experienced by them during their visit.

LAKEFIELD POWER PROJECT IS NOT FAVORED BY COMMITTEE

has on the Dickson proposition. It was found that the existing dam is old and in bad condition, and a new dam would have to be built. The engineers recommend a site for the new dam further down stream at a point between Lock No 2 and the saw mill. They say:

We give below a table showing in the first column the minimum and the dependable all the year round flow of the river for present conditions and also for conditions as they should exist if the conservation of the upper waters be made.

In the second column is shown the electrical horse power which may be generated under these different conditions, making due allowances for losses in water wheels and electrical generators.

In the third column the power which can be delivered in Peterboro is shown under the same conditions of flow, with due allowances for transmission lines to and transformation at Peterboro—

	C.F.S.	Elec. H.P. Generated	Elec. H.P. Delivered
Present minimum flow	1400	1867	1634
Present all year power	1700	2267	1984
Minimum under conservation	2000	2667	2331
All year power under conservation	2400	3200	2800

From the above table it will be seen that the dependable flow for the year at present will yield at Peterborough 1984 horse power, while with conservation this will be raised to 2800 horse power all delivered at Peterborough on the distributing lines in the city.

POWER HOUSE AND MACHINERY

To meet the existing conditions we recommend the provision of a concrete and brick power house for a total capacity of 3000 horse power, with the installation at present of a sufficient capacity in wheels and generators to deliver 2000 horse power in Peterborough.

The generators of which two are to be installed at once will be wound for 20,000 volts, which is suitable for direct transmission without transformation at the generating station.

When conservation justifies the increase, a third unit giving an additional 1000 horse power can be installed. We have therefore allowed in our estimates for a plant sufficient for the delivery at the present time in Peterborough of 2000 horse power, and for the future a delivery of 3000 horse power, if required.

TRANSMISSION AND SUBSTATION

From the power house, near Lakefield to the centre of Peterborough a transmission line approximating 12 miles will be constructed, consisting of a heavy single wooden pole line with copper to carry 2000 horse power and with provision on the poles for a second similar circuit, which would probably be constructed when the third power unit was installed.

No allowance for cost of right of way has been made as it is anticipated that this can easily be obtained along the highways and the voltage being only 12000 can be transmitted to the centre of the city to a substation, located in the most favorable spot for distribution.

The substation is to be equipped at present with three 250 K.W. transformers, with a space allowance for the installation of three more, to take up the whole of the first development of 2000 horse power. This station will also contain the ten regulating equipments necessary to control the incandescent street lighting and is provided with the necessary switching for the transmission and distributing circuits. The station will also include a storeroom for meters and supplies and a small office at which accounts can be kept and bills paid.

DISTRIBUTION

From the substation located in a central position within a block or two of the corner of George and Hunter streets, the distributing circuits for street lighting, private lighting and power will be run.

In conformity with modern tendencies we have eliminated all arc lighting, and recommend on the main streets high candle power incandescent lamps in groups, and on the less important streets and especially on the streets that are heavily treed frequent incandescent lamps of lower candle power which will give a better distribution than the ordinary arc lamp and at a less cost.

Inasmuch as the city will have to be poled in all streets for this service no further poling will be necessary for the customer's requirements. The whole of the pole costs have been charged to the street lighting.

The supply of lighting to private customers has been estimated under two conditions viz. for 500 customers and for 1000 customers. The first being selected as being easily obtainable at first, the second as being probably obtainable later in view of the competition of two other companies and on the assumption that the city will get its proportionate share of the total customers available.

The incandescent and power circuits are charged only with the necessary wire insulators, cross arms, transformers, house connections and meters but no poles.

As the street lighting and private incandescent lighting for 500 and 1000 customers will total practically 500 horse power respectively, the cost of the distribution for these services has been worked out on the basis of 500 horse power, 1000 horse power.

With 1000 horse power utilized for street and private lighting there remains a possible 2000 horse power available for other purposes. A part of this may be used for incandescent lighting if more customers can be obtained, but the bulk will probably be sold to motor customers for power purposes, and we have therefore assumed in our figures that 1000 horse power, and eventually 2000 horse power may be sold as power to make up the total possible development at the power plant.

As it is impossible to estimate where or how this motor load will be sold, we have had to make an assumption, viz., that each power customer will take on the average 10 horse power, which will mean eventually 200 power customers, for which transformers and line will have to be provided, and the capital costs of this additional distribution in the city has been allowed for.

CAPITAL COSTS.

The table below indicates the capital cost under four conditions:

1. For 500 horse power for street lighting and incandescent customers only.
2. For 1000 horse power sold for street lighting and to incandescent customers only.
3. For 2000 horse power, of which 1000 is for lighting as above and 1000 for power.
4. For 3000 horse power, of which 1000 is used for lighting as above and 2000 for power.

The water power site has been taken in each case at $200,000.00.

The power station has been laid out for a present equipment of 2000 horse power with a later increase to 3000.

Lines and substation have been figured for 1000 horse power at the present, 2000 horse power later and 3000 horse power eventually.

The distribution has been figured for 500 horse power at the present, 2000 horse power later, 2000 horse power thereafter and 3000 horse power eventually.

It will be noted that several of the larger items are identical, so that the capital cost per horse power sold will be high for the smaller sales. To each item, with the exception of the water power site, has been added 10 per cent for engineering and contingencies, and it will be seen that even under the best conditions the capital required will be high, and this will be reflected in the fixed charges. This is due very largely to the high cost of the power site.

OPERATING COSTS

Under the same heading as before are indicated the operating costs for the four assumptions. These include wages, supplies, repairs and expenses of all kinds, chargeable to the plant, but independent of interests, sinking fund and depreciation.

We would call attention to the general expense, of which a large part is taxes, which we assumed at 1 per cent of the taxable property. If these be not imposed the item will be reduced, but we think it only fair to call attention to this point.

The total includes all items of management, office expense, etc., and appears to be fair for a proposition of this size, although very high in the first two columns considering the sales.

FIXED CHARGES

In the four columns on the same basis as before are arranged the amounts payable yearly for interest, sinking fund and depreciation. Interest has been assumed at 4 per cent., sinking fund 1 per cent, while depreciation is varied between the different items (except the power site, which should not depreciate in value) at from 1' to 6 per cent, depending upon the nature of the equipment.

REVENUES AND PROFITS.

Any estimates of revenues and profits under the competition of two other plants in the same city, is exceedingly difficult, and must be approached conservatively, and based upon previous experiences under somewhat similar conditions.

On this basis, but somewhat hesitatingly, we have figured the total revenues conservatively under the four conditions referred to above. For the incandescent street lighting we have assumed what we understood to be the case, viz., that you have about 250 arc lamps, which cost $50.00 per lamp per year. As a matter of fact, with the system we have laid out for incandescent lighting, the condition of the streets will be very much improved, and it would perhaps have been fairer to allow a higher charges for this service.

For incandescent customers we have allowed a fair revenue from our experience in similar places, under similar conditions, and for power customers we have taken them at the low average of $25.00 per horse power, considering the average customers, as before stated, as taking 10 horse power each on the average. These figures all appear on the sheets at the end of this report, and indicate that in order to cover all charges about 1000 incandescent customers will be necessary, plus about 500 horse power in motors, while if a total of 2,000 horse power can be sold for all purposes the proposition is on a very sound basis.

Yours very truly,
(Signed)
ROSS & HOLGATE.

HYDRO. REPORT.

The Hydro-electric report on the Ross and Holgate report is:

The Hon. Adam Beck, chairman,
Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

Dear sir,—Attached hereto is a copy of an estimate prepared by Ross and Holgate dealing with the cost of developing power at the Dickson dam at Lakefield and transmitting and distributing same in the city of Peterborough.

This estimate was prepared for the city council of Peterborough for the purpose of determining whether or not it is economically feasible for the city to procure power in commercial quantities from this point.

In Ross and Holgate's estimate it will be noticed that the new dam is assumed to be located at the point most suitable for the development of power. The location of this dam is altogether under the jurisdiction of the Trent Council authorities, but it will presumably be located where it can be most cheaply built to meet the requirements of the navigation. If the location shown by the canal authorities is not the one most suitable for purposes of power development the capital cost will be considerably increased as noted in the attached report.

The present minimum flow is estimated 1400 second feet, which is reasonable, in view of the existing facts as to the flow of the Otonabee River.

They have estimated the minimum flow under conservation at 2000 second feet with a probable dependable flow of 2400 second feet basing the latter estimate on the good facilities for peak storage available at Lakefield. In view of the present advanced stage of storage regulation in the Trent water shed the estimate of 2000 second feet is probably the extreme limit of minimum flow which can be safely considered.

The estimates of continuous electric H.P. capacity of the Dickson site as given for the present flow and ultimate conserved flow may, therefore, be considered reasonable; the 24 hour capacity under the present condition being 1867 E.H.P., and under conserved flow 2667 E.H.P. operating under a head of 16 ft.

The capital costs estimated by Ross and Holgate are safe and their estimates of annual charges are very liberal. As these figures stand they show that the scheme will not be on a paying basis until something like 2000 H.P. is sold at the rates set forth in their estimate of revenue.

With regard to the rates as estimated revenue for incandescent customers is largely in excess of what might be reasonably expected under conditions as they are at Peterborough at the present time. The same thing applies to the estimated revenue for power though not to so great an extent as in the case of incandescent lighting.

In the matter of revenue for street lighting, this class of service is non-competitive, and the city may charge itself any price which seems fair in proportion to the service rendered.

Yours truly,
P. SOTHMAN,
Engineer.

HIT BY EXPRESS.

Waterford Man Loses Life at Grimsby Level Crossing.

Grimsby, Aug. 26.—The dreaded level crossing claimed another victim in this section when Nathan Overbolt, a highly-esteemed and respected citizen of Waterford lost his life by being struck by a westbound express at the G.T.R. crossing at Grimsby Beach at 10.45 yesterday morning. Mr. Overbolt had just arrived from Waterford and had left his wife and grips at Frank Russe's store while he went to look up a boarding-house, where he and his wife could stay a couple of weeks in this district. He had made arrangements for board and rooms and was returning to the store to get his wife and grips when the accident happened. As he reached the tracks a freight train going east on the right hand track was passing, and he stood on the westbound track watching it pass. No. 9, one of the G.T.R.'s fastest trains, was running twenty minutes late and reached this crossing as the freight was going east. The engineer saw Overbolt on the track and whistled almost continuously for him to get out of the way, but he apparently did not hear the train, and before the engineer could stop it he was struck and thrown about 100 feet upon the station platform. The body was terribly smashed about the head and all down the left side; the skull was crushed in and the left side of the face all smashed, the left arm broken and left leg broken in two places.

Canadian Batteries Do Well.

Salisbury Plain, Aug. 26.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Almost ideal weather prevailed for the second day's artillery competitions, and substantial progress resulted in six out of eleven field batteries, including the Canadians, completing outright their respective series.

While it is difficult to forecast with any degree of accuracy the merits of the contestants, the Canadians, in the opinion of reliable observers, will be found to have cut quite a respectable figure, more especially in the matter of selection of gun position, accuracy of laying outlines of fire, and adherence to rules of ranging. Their work has been watched with the keenest interest by our officers and the inspectors-general of horse and field artillery, the latter of whom remained throughout the contest. They found the range speedily and accurately, greatly improving on Thursday, when a sultry sky and heavy rainfall compelled them repeatedly to cease firing. The results will be declared today.

Lucky Collapse of Rink.

Toronto, Aug. 26.—So rotted were the girders at the Mutual street rink, which collapsed two days ago, injuring two workmen, that it is a great wonder that a catastrophe did not occur during some hockey match, when there were 2,500 to 3,000 people resting their weight upon the decaying timbers. Why it did not crumble under the heavy pressure of one of the immense crowds that often thronged its galleries is beyond explanation and nothing short of a miracle.

It appears that none of the supports had been taken away at the time the building collapsed, but that some of the roof had been removed, lessening the pressure on the wall, which gave way.

Had the rink been allowed to remain as it was and used again this coming winter, a calamity would undoubtedly have occurred.

Set Fire to Barn.

Kingston, Aug. 26.—A little boy with a cigarette came very near being the cause of a serious fire on Wolfe Island yesterday afternoon. He had been smoking and threw the butt of his cigarette in a hay stack at the farm of Oliver Hawkins. The stack, which was destroyed, set fire to the barn, and neighboring farmers had a hard time in saving it.

POINTS ABOUT THE DEAL

SAID "GOOD-BYE RECIPROCITY"

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Justification of the Defeat He Sustained in 1891.

By JOHN V. BORNE.

The starting of industries, the building of a railway across an empty continent, left Canada in a condition of strain. The lack of faith, of which the Continental cry was a model expression, meant a lack of works. Few of the millions of people who desired to forsake the Old World learned of Canada. The population continued stationary. Progress was painfully slow.

But, in due time, the movement of people into Canada began. It was presently accompanied by a movement of capital, until, at last, everybody saw that the hour of Canada had come. The final proof of it was vouchsafed when the exodus from Canada to the United States was more than balanced by an exodus from the United States to Canada.

Right up to the time that Canada became known to the people of Europe there was a hankering after Reciprocity. In 1891 a general election was fought on the question, and the advanced Reciprocitarians were beaten. The issue was destined to keep away from the ballot-box for more than twenty years.

The Liberal party, in pursuance of a platform written in 1893, asked Washington for Reciprocity in 1897, and was repelled. The immigration tide then began to flow, and is flowing still. At that very time the instinct which had turned aside from the Reciprocity advocated in 1891 re-asserted itself this time in the unfamiliar guise of a Liberal Government—and in 1898 the offer of Reciprocity which had stood for many years on the Canadian Statute Book was repealed. The repeal was happily endorsed at the Imperial Conference in London by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who said:

"There was a time when we were wanting reciprocity with the United States, but our efforts were put aside. We have said good-bye to that trade and we now put all our hopes upon the British trade."

MONEY IN THE BANKS

And Great Increases in Trade Have Made Canada a Brighter Britain

By JOHN V. BORNE.

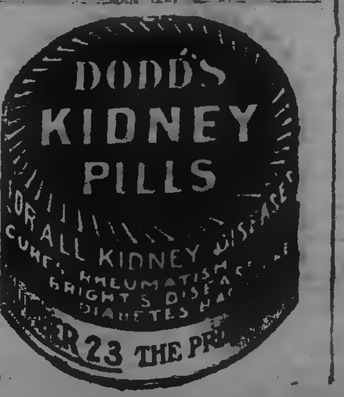
Sir Wilfrid Laurier's repudiations of Reciprocity with the United States beginning in 1898 and continuing until 1907, was endorsed by Liberals and Conservatives alike. The country was behind him. The future was before him.

Remember the difference between the Canada of that day and the Canada which Sir Wilfrid vainly thinks has turned back, with hungry eyes to the policy he so patriotically abandoned.

At the time of the joyful abandonment of the idea that the United States could be the main prop and stay of Canadian prosperity the Canadian people had $236,161,062 in the banks. To-day they have $926,000,000 in the banks. Then their trade beyond their own borders was $304,475,736 a year. Now it is $649,000,000.

Then the flow of British capital was so small that no returns were available. Last year $185,000,000 came from Britain to Canada, exclusive of individual amounts for investments, and the money brought by 112,000 people who came from Britain to Brighter Britain.

The magnificent point of this situation is that the turning away from the United States (which for thirty years had treated Canada as a commercial factor with good-natured contempt), and the new-found belief that Canada could march along the road to nationhood without regard to the business goodwill of the United States; were followed by an expansion of business that the firmest believer in her destiny would not have dared to prophesy in the days when Reciprocity was an Article of Faith and a veritable Promise of Hope to so many people.



Around the World in 40 Days.

New York, Aug. 26.—A Paris cable says: Andre Jagerschmidt, the journalist, will soon finish his tour of the world in record time. The Olympic, on which the lightning globe trotter sailed from New York last Saturday, reached Cherbourg last night. A racing automobile will be in waiting to carry him to Paris in the fastest possible time, and it is hoped he will arrive here at five o'clock this morning.

A delegation of globe trotters, geographers, journalists and others will meet him at Cherbourg, and another such delegation will receive him at the offices of the Excelsior.

If all goes well, he will have made the round the world trip in a few hours under forty days.

Held Up by Labor Troubles.

Kingston, Aug. 26.—Monday next the recruit class will report at the Royal Military College. Fifty-five passed the entrance examinations, but only forty can be accommodated. The college will have to worry along for another year minus dormitory space. It was the intention of the Department of Public Works to do the work necessary, but it was held up, owing to labor troubles here for two months.

Bad G.T.R. Freight Wreck.

Guelph, Aug. 26.—Word reached here yesterday of the destruction by fire early yesterday of the Grand Trunk car shop and road department storehouse at Palmerston. The loss will be $7,000.

The G.T.R. freight train about 7.45 yesterday morning ran off the track at Alma, and has delayed traffic so that trains are stopped running north and south. Seven cars are derailed and piled up on the right of way. Two were loaded with cattle, one with horses, two with cement and two with piledriving apparatus. Several of the live stock are reported to have been killed and others badly injured.

"My last wish will be," writes Harry P. Pollard, a well-known boot and shoe traveler of Hartford, "that everyone with a bad stomach may learn as I did before it's too late, that Nerviline is the one remedy to cure. Why, I was in mighty bad shape, my digestion was all wrong, and every night I would waken with a start and find my heart jumping like a threshing machine. This was caused by gas on my stomach pressing against my heart. When I started to use Nerviline I got better mighty fast. It is certainly a grand remedy for the traveling man, keeps your stomach in order, cures cramps, prevents lumbago or rheumatism, breaks up chest colds and sore throat—in fact there hasn't been an ache or pain inside or outside for the past two years that I haven't cured with Nerviline. Do you wonder I recommend it?"

Bookkeeper Stole In Order to Give to Charity.

New York, Aug. 26.—The story of a bookkeeper who embezzled $6,200 of his employer's money in four years' time, only to give almost all of it to charity, was made known in general sessions, when Richard Pachars, 36 years old, was brought before Judge Swann for sentence.

From the testimony of the bookkeeper himself, it appeared that he was possessed of a keen desire to gain social distinction. One of the members of the firm told the court that Pachars had used almost every cent of the embezzled money in giving picnics and outings to the children and old folks of the Oddfellows' Home and Orphan Asylum at Mamaroneck, of which he was a director. Many times he had paid for high-priced specialists for surgical operations for members of the institution.

It was stated that friends had partly made restitution, and that the firm would take Pachars back, knowing that he would make good the balance. The firm asked for suspended sentence.

"I've been a fool, judge," said Pachars, as tears streamed down his face, "and now when it's too late I realise it."

He was given a month in the Tombs to repent.

C.P.R. Absorbs Quebec Central.

Toronto, Aug. 26.—A controlling interest in the Quebec Central Railway has been provisionally secured by the Canadian Pacific Railway. The former's policy will not be affected by the change, although extensive additions to its lines are contemplated. The agreement between the two roads is subject to the ratification of the Quebec Central's security-holders.

The C.P.R.'s earnings for the week ended Aug. 21 show a considerable increase over the traffic earnings of the same period last year. This year they are $2,287,000, against $1,897,000 in 1910.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy is now on his annual tour of the C.P.R. system.

Customs Increase Overstated.

Toronto, Aug. 26.—"The reporter must have been indulging in a pipe dream," remarked J. H. Bertram, collector of customs, in reference to the statement in an evening paper to the effect that the customs revenue for the first 24 days in August had increased over half a million over the same period in 1910.

"The figures for 24 days in last August were $1,086,427, and this year's is $1,650,449, thus showing an increase of $564,022," states the article in question.

"I gave out no information or figures whatever," Mr. Bertram declared. "As a matter of fact the increase is not above $100,000."

World's Largest Steamship.

London, Aug 26.—The new Hamburg-American liner, which is being built in Stettin for trans-Atlantic service, is to be named the Imperator. She will be larger than any craft yet afloat.

The huge vessel appears something like the skeleton of an eleven storey skyscraper in course of construction as she stands fully a hundred feet high, is nearly ninety feet in beam and has a length of 710 feet.

The Imperator's displacement will be 50,000 tons and she will provide accommodation for 5,000 passengers of all classes.

Hotelmen Paid Fines.

Lindsay, Aug. 26.—W. C. Graham, proprietor of the temperance house at Manilla, was fined $20 and costs for keeping liquor for sale, on a charge laid by License Inspector Thornbury. James Thompson, proprietor of the Rockland House, Bobcaygeon, was charged with selling intoxicating liquor without a license, the charge being laid by License Inspector Lithgow. Two Dominion detectives were working on the latter case and secured the evidence. The accused pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs.

DISASTER ON LEHIGH

Thirty-Seven Killed and Sixty Are Injured.

Passenger Train Runs Into Spread Rail on a Trestle Near Manchester, N.Y., and Coaches Plunge Forty Feet Over the Bridge to a Masonry Embankment—Four Canadian People Are Among the Victims.

Manchester, N.Y., Aug. 26.—Speeding eastward behind time, Lehigh Valley passenger train No. 4 ran into a spread rail on a trestle near here yesterday and two day coaches from the mid-section of the train plunged downward forty feet, striking the east embankment like a pair of projectiles. In the awful plunge and crash at least thirty-seven persons are believed to have been killed and more than sixty injured. The injuries of several are so serious that it is feared they will die.

The following bodies were sent to Shortsville from Manchester in charge of Coroner Stoddard: Mrs. A. Zubeck, Buffalo; C. C. Madden, Trenton, N.J.; Mrs. C. S. Johnson, Cleveland, Ohio; Chas. Hicks, Newark, N.J.; R. S. Uncle and Mrs. R. S. Uncle, Southfield, N.J.; A. M. Hunsicker, Vineland, Ont.; E. Pangburn, veteran, Brooklyn; Jos. Hickey, Helen Pownall, C. P. Johnston, addresses unknown; nine unidentified women and one unidentified man.

Among the injured are Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Winterbury of Toronto, at the Hahnemann Hospital; H. E. Graston, 96 Chestnut street, Toronto, at the Homeopathic.

The wreck was the worst in the history of the Lehigh Valley line in this state and one of the most disastrous ever recorded on the system. Crowded with passengers, many of whom were war veterans and excursionists from the Grand Army of the Republic encampment at Rochester, train No. 4 made up of fourteen cars, drawn by two big mogul engines, was forty minutes late when it reached Rochester Junction, and from there sped eastward to make up time before reaching Geneva.

The engine and two day coaches had just passed the centre of a four-hundred-foot trestle over Canandaigua outlet, 150 yards east of the station at Manchester, at 12.36 o'clock, when the Pullman car Austin, the third car of a long train, left the rails. It dragged the dining car with it and two day coaches and two Pullmans, in this order, followed.

All bumped over the ties a short distance when the coupling between day coach No. 237 and the rear end of the diner broke. The forward end of the train dragged the derailed Pullman car Austin and the diner over safely, after which both plunged down the south embankment and rolled over. The free end of the ill-fated Lehigh Valley day coach, where most of the slaughter occurred, shoved out over the gulf and, followed by a Grand Trunk day coach, stripped the rear guard off the south side of the trestle and plunged to the shallow river bed more than forty feet below.

The end of the first day coach that went over struck the east embankment of solid masonry and, with the other sixty-foot cars behind it, both shot against the wall with terrific force.

Both cars were filled with humanity as the plunge was made, and in a few minutes the cars lay, a mass of crumbled wood, metal and glass under which a hundred men, women and children, many of whom were killed instantly, were buried. The most destruction occurred in the day coach No. 237, and a dozen persons were later taken dead from the second day coach, which, having followed the first over the trestle, snapped its rear coupling and thus saved the rest of the train from being dragged over.

This second day coach struck on the bottom and stood up, the rear end projecting a few feet above the top of the trestle. All of the passengers in this car were piled in a tangled mass of broken seats at the bottom of the car.

Indescribable pandemonium followed. The Pullman car, Emelyn, which remained on the bridge, with one end projecting over the gulch, and several cars behind it, derailed, and in immediate danger of going over on the mass of wreckage below, were soon emptied of all their passengers, and these, aided by gangs of railroad employes from the big freight yards at Manchester, rushed to aid. As the groans of the injured and dying were heard below, all possible speed was made, but it was several minutes before anybody reached the cars at the bottom to effect rescues.

The cars did not catch fire. Axes were secured and body after body was removed and carried by the rescuers knee-deep in the river bed to the bank on the west side of the trestle. There the dead and injured were laid out on the damp ground, while planks and timber, taken from buildings in course of construction, were requisitioned and a field hospital was established.

It was more than an hour before many of the injured could be removed, and special trains from both Geneva and Rochester brought physicians, nurses and medical supplies. Hundreds awaited treatment, and the railroad station at Manchester, a cider mill and an ice house were used to give temporary shelter and treatment to the refugees.

It was necessary to chop through the sides and bottom of the day coach at the bottom and the work of removing the victims moved with painful slowness. Death had come swiftly to many, a large number of the dead having had their skulls crushed in when they were thrown with terrible velocity against the car seats and projections. The mortality was high among the older passengers, most of whom were battle-scarred veterans of the Civil War and their wives.

Rumor Says Murder.

New Hamburg, Aug. 26.—A young man aged 20 years, named Robert Spahr, son of John Spahr, of Northeast Hope, was found dead upon the Grand Trunk Railway tracks about a mile west of New Hamburg about two o'clock yesterday morning. The deceased, who worked at home on the farm, attended Barnum and Bailey's circus at Berlin on Thursday. It is supposed that he returned on the G.T.R. flyer, which reached here about 10 p.m., and was walking home upon the tracks, or that he was killed jumping from the train opposite his home. His body was found about 2 a.m. by the crew of the way freight, whose train ran over the body. The engineer says that it was lying across the tracks, the head on one rail and the feet on the other. Coroner Marty of this place will hold an inquest.

There are rumors that foul play is connected with the case.

Extra Prizes For Riflemen.

Ottawa, Aug. 26.—Mrs. E. C. Whitney of Ottawa has made a grant of $100 a year for ten years to the Dominion Rifle Association to be devoted to extra prizes for cadets in the Grand Aggregate. The generous gift came quite unexpectedly to the D.R.A. officials yesterday. The grant will be made in a lump sum sufficient to form an annuity of $100 a year.

On various occasions Earl Grey has regretted that more of the wealthy people of Canada did not take an interest in assisting the rifle-shooting of this country which, he said, "formed the backbone of the defence of the nation."

In the Governor-General's, the first 150 get into the last stage. Possible, 105.

The D.R.A. silver medal was won by Captain C. R. Crowe, 30th Regt., 98.

Across America Flight.

Nyack, N.Y., Aug. 26.—Atwood, the aviator, yesterday said:—"My next move will be to try for the Hearst $50,000 prize for the flight from coast to coast. I shall try that flight some time before October 1st. It is my intention to use a brand new Wright-Burgess aeroplane, of the same type as the one in which I flew from St. Louis. I expect to travel from coast to coast in that one car. My plan is to go to the Pacific coast within a short time with the machine. I shall start from San Francisco, fly to Los Angeles, and then follow the Southern Pacific line into Texas. From Texas I shall work my way up to St. Louis, Cincinnati and Dayton, and thence to Syracuse, from which place I'll follow the same route as on this trip."

Mimico Brakeman Killed.

St. Catharines, Ont., Aug. 26.—B. New, a brakeman on a Grand Trunk freight train, was killed at Merritton yesterday morning by falling off his train. His home is in Mimico.

Dr. Jory, coroner, is investigating, and an inquest will probably be held. The body was brought to a local undertaker's.

At the G.T.R. Mimico yard office it is believed that the victim of the accident was A. H. New, who entered the service about six months ago. He was about 23 years of age, and boarded in Mimico.

Electrocution at St. Kitts.

St. Catharines, Aug. 26.—William Misson, an employe of the Jenckes Machine Co., was yesterday electrocuted at the works. He was carrying an electric lamp and in some way touched a live wire. He was 28 years of age, married and leaves one child. He was an Englishman and came here recently.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 25.—The market opened heavy, ⅛c to ¼c decline, and following the opening further declined. Advices from Russia were bullish, with rains in the southwest further delaying harvesting and expectations are for light Russian shipments this week, and prospects for a small Russian movement from the new crop. Argentine and Australian offerings are firmly held, and the political situation is again causing some apprehension. Pressure in the face of these bullish influences was attributed wholly to the fact that the strike at Liverpool is ended, releasing stocks at the quays.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Dread of frost damaging wheat in the Canadian Northwest to-night brought about a rally to-day in the market here. Closing prices were at a net advance of a shade to ¼c. Corn and oats finished within a sixteenth of last night's level.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Aug. 25.—There was an increased enquiry from European sources for Manitoba new crop spring wheat and old crop oats, but as the prices bid are still out of line with values here, no new business is being done. Local prices for oats are firm, and the demand is fair. A sale of 75,000 bushels of American No. 2 mixed corn was made at 84c per bushel over the Chicago September option c.i.f. Kingston. A more active trade was done in spring wheat flour for export demand. Sales of over 10,000 sacks were made. The demand for bran and shorts is good.

Owing to the increased demand for eggs prices have scored a sharp advance. Butter is active and strong under a good demand for export account, and prices have advanced. Cheese is also strong and higher in sympathy with the higher prices paid in the country.

REASON WHY WOMEN SUFFER MORE THAN MEN

Man Returns Home to Rest, While a Woman's Work is Never Done—The Kidneys Give Out and She is a Martyr to Backache—Booth's Kidney Pills Her Best Friend.

What woman does not know what tired, nervous backache days mean? But how many realize that the kidneys are the chief cause? Yet this this is so.

Many a wife endures patiently the daily misery of backache, pains, or blue nervous spells and urinary disorders, expecting no relief, because she doesn't know that Booth's Kidney Pills are guaranteed to give her relief.

It is not true that every pain in the region of the hips and lower abdomen is "female trouble." When the kidneys get congested and inflamed there is constant backache, headache, dizzy spells, bearing-down pain, urinary disorders and other pains which are easily mistaken for sex ailments, but which are due to the swollen, sick kidneys.

Such sufferers will find Booth's Kidney Pills a great boon. They strengthen sick kidneys, cure backache, drive uric acid out of the system and bring bright, happy days in place of a mere existence.

MISERABLE FEELING OF DEPRESSION DISPELLED.

Mrs. Martin Truax, of Marlborough street, Leamington, Ont., says: "For a long time I suffered with a miserable feeling of depression across my chest. Pains would catch me in the sides and extend around the small of my back. I was weak and languid, and lost much of each night's sleep. My condition, through the inactive state of kidneys, had left me unable to get around. Several doctors had told me I had Bright's disease, but none of them helped me. Booth's Kidney Pills were recommended, and I procured a box. The relief was quick, and continuing Booth's Kidney Pills, the depressive feeling had soon gone. My back has strengthened and I can now sleep right through the night and awake refreshed and strong. I feel grateful in recommending Booth's Kidney Pills."

Booth's Kidney Pills are guaranteed to relieve or your money refunded. Free trial sent, on application to the R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. All druggists sell at 50 cents a box, or postpaid from the proprietors. Address as above.

"Salvador" BEER

THE FAMOUS NATIONAL DRINK

There's a story behind "Salvador" beer —Canada's most famous brew—that carries us back to the year 1651

The Grand Duke Ferdinand, the Bavarian monarch of that period, established the now famous cloister brewery on the Nockerberg Mountain, near Munich, and appointed Father Sale the chief brewmaster.

The product of the royal brewery was first known as "Father Sale's Beer," until the more convenient title of "Salvador" was adopted, about a century later.

For over 150 years "Salvador" was brewed under the patronage of the Bavarian royal family. In 1806, Franz X. Zacherl acquired control of the cloister brewery and purchased the secret formula of the royal brew.

From that day to this the formula and sole European rights have been the most jealously guarded inheritance of the famous brewer's family.

The rich, mellow flavor of "Salvador" is only attained by a special aging process, and if the output of the cloister brewery was great enough the people of Bavaria would drink no other beer.

Mr. Lothar Reinhardt completed his extensive studies of German brewing in this famous cloister brewery, where he secured the secret formula and process for brewing "Salvador." He has the sole right under the Canadian Government Copyright and Letters Patent to manufacture this famous brew.

Reinhardts' "Salvador" has become "The National Drink by a rigorous adherence to every detail of the original process devised by Father Sale in 1651.

Compared with all other brews, "Salvador" beer is worth a dollar a drop, yet it costs no more than just ordinary beer.

Every pint of "Salvador" is matured in wood for at least six months before bottling.

"Salvador" is not only a pure, sparkling and refreshing brew; it also possesses tonic qualities which make it the beer par excellence for family use.

Always order "Salvador" if you want the best beer brewed.

SAVED FROM SERIOUS INJURY

Visiting Delegate Had Close Call at C. P. R. Station

When the delegates to the A.O.F. convention were saying good-bye as the 4.28 C.P.R. train was pulling in yesterday afternoon, one of the visitors narrowly escaped being run over by the incoming train.

One of the delegates in the exhuberance of his joy pushed another, who was standing near the edge of the platform, and Chief Howard just caught him as he was falling against the train.

The prompt action of the Chief undoubtedly saved the life of the visitor.
